Music

Josef Hofmann, the newest delight of the musical world, will appear at the Metropolitan opera-house Monday afternoon at 2:15. The announcement is brief from the managerial standpoint, but, inasmuch as all who are in touch with matters musical are well informed as to the young virtuoso's phenomenal achievements, no systematic preliminary "working up" should be necessary to awaken general interest in his forthcoming visit. Indeed his present brief tour in America was almost wholly unannounced. Apparently Herr Josef "took the notion" to cross the ocean and revisit those scenes of his boyish triumphs that must ever linger brightly in his memory. The cities are full of people whom he astonished and delighted by his playing when the late impresario, Henry E. Abbey, first exploited him as a prodigy. Then he was a midwife in knickerbockers, hardly 12 years old. Since then he has doubled his years and from an "infant prodigy" has developed into a great artist.

There should be a hearty welcome to young Hofmann, by old admirers and new. It is not a stretch of speech to say that in New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Washington, where he has been playing during the past month, he has had society at his feet. The Washington Post describes his work in the following:

"In technique, of course, Hofmann is faultless. The most difficult trills, arpeggios and octave passages are executed with surpassing ease. The Chopin étude, which he honestly played on the black keys instead of transposing it, as some soloists do, and Mozambique's "Elincel" were especially excellent. His touch is a delight to the ear and a gratification to the musical sense. The sale of seats for the Hofmann recital is now open. The program follows:

Sonata, op. 10, No. 3, Beethoven
Impromptu (G major) ..... Schubert
Scherzo a Capriccio ..... Mendelssohn
Variations ..... Chopin
Two Preludes ..... Chopin
Nocturne ..... Chopin
Valse, A flat major ..... Chopin
Scherzo, B minor ..... Chopin
Gigue ..... Chopin
Gigue, Rhapsodie No. 12 ..... Liszt

The New England Conservatory of Music has disposed of its old building and will build a new conservatory, costing $400,000, to be devoted to the educational department alone. It will contain two fine auditoriums and in one will be one of the finest pipe organs in this country.

It is the intention of the trustees that the conservatory of the future shall be completely equipped for a school of opera, a school of orchestral playing, a school of organ and church music, a school of composition, and conducting, and an artists' piano, and violin school. For the maintenance of the conservatory, already in a very flourishing condition, it is proposed to offer a certain number of scholarships for instruction in the various departments, and to organize a complete orchestra, which may be used in operatic and choral performances as well as in pupils' recitals. The school of composition and conducting will be immediately affected by this, because it will give opportunity for young composers to hear their works performed, as well as experience in conducting.

The home department, which hitherto has been within the conservatory, will be continued, but under a separate management and under conditions which will emphasize the domestic rather than the institutional idea.

The conservatory was founded in 1853 by Ebenezer Tourjee, who introduced the conservatory system into America.

The Rev. W. G. Horder of London, the leading hymnologist of Great Britain, is under engagement to lecture on hymnology in Hartford, Conn., Theological seminary, May, 1902; and the conservatory is negotiating for the reputation of his lectures in Boston, in the interests not only of its students, but of ministers and churches of all denominations.

The first convention of chapters of a new Greek letter musical fraternity has been called by the Sigma chi chapter of the conservatory for April 15-20 in Boston. Until one of these conventions shall elect a supreme governing council, the association will be in the hands of the officers elected by the members of the parent chapter in the conservatory.

The program for the fifty-eighth piano recital of Hermann Zoch, to be given in the First Unitarian church Tuesday evening, is as follows:

Sonata, C minor, op. 111, (a) Maestoso; Allegro con brio ed appassionato. (b) Andante. Adagio molto espressivo e cantabile. (c) Von Beethoven. (Composers January, 1825.)
Capriccio, op. 37, B minor—F. Mendelssohn.
Nocturne, op. 25, No. 2, D flat. Andante.
Sonata and Polonaise, op. 22, Valse, op. 34, No. 2, A minor—F. Chopin.
Legend, St. Francis preaching to the birds. F. Liszt.
Isolde's Liebestod. (Last scene from "Tristan and Isolde.")—Wagner-Liszt.
(a) Abendfrieden (Peace of evening). (b) Von Sandtzen (The little shepherd). (c) Aus tauesend und einer nacht (From the Arabian Nights). (d) Landier (Country dance). Ballade, op. 20, A flat. From Neue Notenbuch, op. 107—Carl Reinecke.

A four-page supplement of notes has been prepared with the program and will give an analysis of the Beethoven sonata, some historical matter and suggestive poetical quotations from Mrs. Browning's "Prometheus," Wagner, Matthew Arnold and Richard Burton.

The next regular program of the Ladies' Thursday Musical will be given Thursday morning. In response to numerous requests for the repetition of the Johnson piano quintet, given at the first chamber concert, the club has arranged with the Riedelberger quintet to play the number on this program. Other interesting numbers will be:

Mrs. Frank Snyder. Handel. "Faust's Waltz." Gounod—Last. Duet, "Hail to the Virgin." Shelley. Mrs. R. I. Pratt, Mrs. E. W. French. Song, "Le Rêve du Jéu."—Viadot. Miss Edna Hall.

Local musicians are looking forward with much interest to the violin recital to be given Thursday evening. This is the third in the series of chamber concerts given by the Ladies' Thursday Musical. Mr. Riedelberger has been in the city long enough to prove himself a thorough musician and a master of his instrument. The program has been carefully chosen and contains many delightful and interesting numbers. Mrs. Rodney N. Parks, one of the club soloists, will assist in groups of songs. Mrs. Vienna Neel Connor and Miss Dorcas Emmel will be accompanied. The program will be as follows:

Suite in G minor, Op. 45, Franz Ries. Allemande, Intermezzo, Andante, Minuetto, Introduction et Gavotte. Schumann. (a) Mondnacht ..... Schumann. (b) Widmung ..... Schumann. Romance ..... Tonnang. (c) Hungarian Dances, Op. 14, No. 2. (d) Spanish Zapateado ..... Sarasate. (e) Polish Dances ..... Wieniawski. (f) Overture, Op. 16 ..... Saint-Saens. (g) "In Summer Time." ..... German. (h) "Song of the Seasons." ..... Hawley. Mrs. Rodney N. Parks.

H. A. Stuart will substitute in the Church of the Redeemer choir in the absence of W. Turner, tenor. The special Easter music will be Dudley Buck's "Story of the Cross," which will be given at a vesper service from 6 to 8 o'clock. Op. 45, Franz Ries. Allemande, Intermezzo, Andante, Minuetto, Introduction et Gavotte. Schumann. (a) Mondnacht ..... Schumann. (b) Widmung ..... Schumann. Romance ..... Tonnang. (c) Hungarian Dances, Op. 14, No. 2. (d) Spanish Zapateado ..... Sarasate. (e) Polish Dances ..... Wieniawski. (f) Overture, Op. 16 ..... Saint-Saens. (g) "In Summer Time." ..... German. (h) "Song of the Seasons." ..... Hawley. Mrs. Rodney N. Parks.

The Leipzig Philharmonic orchestra will appear in Minneapolis during Easter week, Tuesday and Wednesday, April 9 and 10, being the days reserved for its three Minneapolis appearances. It comes under the auspices of the Institute of Arts and Letters, which is exceptionally fortunate in securing this famous organization for three concerts here, not only because of their fine interpretation of orchestra music but because it is indeed a rare privilege to hear so large and so perfectly trained an organization from across the Atlantic.

Another feature of the coming concerts is the opportunity which will be afforded of hearing Silivski, the famous Polish pianist, and the orchestra in concertos, which have been rarely and imperfectly heard here. Silivski has been winning salutes of applause wherever he has appeared with the orchestra in the east, and has been dividing with Herr Hans Winderstein, the conductor of the orchestra, the honors of their performances. Winderstein, too, is a musical prodigy. Of fine executive ability, splendid musical talents and the finest of technical training, he has succeeded in building the Leipzig organization into one of the finest of philharmonic orchestras in existence. His prodigious musical memory also assists him in the interpretation of the most difficult works of Beethoven and Wagner, to which he is devotedly attached, without thought as to the score. There are also a number of other soloists with the orchestra, prominent among whom is Fri. Anna Engel, one of the best known harpists of Europe.

ARGYLE BUSINESS DEALS. Special to The Journal.

Argyle, Minn., March 30.—W. F. Powell & Co. have purchased a 50-foot lot from J. J.
