DEATH OF MR. FAUDE

The Beloved Rector of Gethsemane Passes Away.

DIED AT 6 O'CLOCK THIS MORNING

Sketch of Career of a Man Who Did His Work Well and Faithfully.

Reverend John Jacob Faude, rector of Gethsemane Episcopal church, died this morning at 6 o'clock at his residence, 1311 Park avenue. Mr. Faude was not conscious for twelve hours preceding his death.

He leaves a wife and four children: Fred M. Faude, employed in the civil engineering department of the Northern Pacific railway at St. Paul; Frank C. Faude, northwestern editor of the Minneapolis Times; Paul Faude, engaged with the Northern Pacific at Spokane, Wash., but about to enter school to study for the ministry; Alice E. Faude, who has been attending school at St. Mary's, Fairbury.

Miss Faude arrived Sunday evening. Paul Faude was telegraphed on Saturday and is on the way home. The other members of the family are in the city.

Dr. Faude was in his twenty-fifth year as a priest, during that time he has served three churches; six years at Flynn-

Rev. John J. Faude, who died to-day, General Funston to Mr. Seymour, evidently from the former's former inquiry from Mr. Seymour. It refers to the charge of a member of the Thirtieth Minnesota to the effect that General Funston never saw a river in the Philippines, and says: "His statement that he heard me say that I never saw a river in the Philippines, and that, in fact, I could not swim, is a lie out of whole cloth. Will you do me the favor to tell him that I said so and show him to whatever persons were with you when he made the statement. I swam the Bagbag with one other officer and four men of the Twentieth Kansas under a hot fire on April 23. The Rio Grande river crossed two days later on a raft, and with forty-five men, after a desperate fight, drove 2,500 of the enemy from an entrenched position. It was for this latter feat that I was made a brigadier general."

Mr. Seymour also has a letter from the Twentieth Kansas, which bears upon the same point. Lieutenant Hall, among other things, says that at the Manila river, April 27, Colonel Funston asked Captain Hardy of his regiment and two others to swim or he would do it himself; that subsequently the entire regiment crossed the river, but that Funston, his adjutant and trumpeter, remained behind.

Funston did cross the Rio Grande river on a raft, but that it was not under fire, as there was not a shot fired at the party as it crossed. Having crossed, says Hall, he lived high and dry, but Funston was not in it, having abandoned the troops that participated. Mr. Hall speaks of the "imaginary achievements" of Frederick Funston and from the tone of his entire letter, one would get the impression that Funston is a knight of the "white feather."

THE BRAVERY OF FUNSTON

A LETTER FROM A LIEUTENANT

It Shows the General in an Unfavorable Light—The General's Reply.

The recent deeds of General Funston in the Philippines and his promotion to the rank of brigadier general in the regular army, have reawakened interest in his former deeds as a soldier. In this connection two letters in the hands of I. Seymour of St. Paul, are attracting considerable attention.

Government Declines Park Board's Water Power Request.

NO HAMPERING PLEDGES FOR IT

Park Board Will Have to Give Up Land Required for Lock and Dam.

Whatever concessions the Minneapolis park board makes to the United States government in the matter of park property wanted in connection with the construction of lock and dam No. 1, will have to be made wholly without conditions on the part of the board.

The park board has insisted that if the government ever sold water power rights at the two dams, the city of Minneapolis, by virtue of the large concessions of flowage rights and land, should be made a preferred party, and it was conditioned in the deed to the property at Minnehaha to be conveyed to the government, that the water power of the two dams should never be sold to any other party than the city of Minneapolis.

Now comes the United States government and says through its officials, Major Lockwood, the engineer in charge of the work, and General Wilson, the chief engineers, that it will not consent to any such arrangement as that if the park board insist upon holding off any longer in the matter the government will proceed to acquire the property through condemnation proceedings.

Major Lockwood's letter came back to him with the following laconic indorsement: "Respectfully returned to Major Lockwood, whose views and recommendations are approved."

By command Brigadier General Wilson.

Lieutenant Colonel, Corps of Engineers.

While the park board went through the motions of sending the communication to the former committee for further consideration, the members present yesterday in their own minds were satisfied that they had received the indorsement of the president of the Commercial Club.

The county treasurer was authorized to purchase fifty-two $1,000 four-coupon bonds for the sinking fund.

The salary of Deputy Sheriff Slocum and Statement Clerk Nichols were increased from $1,400 per year to $133.33 per month and from $1,000 per year to $97.67 per month, respectively. The raise is for the unexpired term of 1901.

UNCLE SAM'S CINCH

A REMARKABLE LIKENESS

MR. REES MEETS FATHER'S DOUBLE

Well Known Attorney Is Asked to Make a Will for Him.

John Rees, the attorney, generally takes a practical view of the affairs of men, and does not, as a rule, worry much over occult matters pertaining to another world, the mysteries of which he is powerless to explain.

He filed a will in the probate court yesterday as a sequel to the strangest coincidence with which he has ever come in contact.

Mr. Rees' father, Evan Rees, died about two years ago in Iowa. Some time after his death, when his son had returned to Minneapolis, a man walked into the office who bore such a striking resemblance to the deceased that the attorney almost fell over backward in his chair. He was about the same age as Mr. Rees' father, with the same snowy hair, and of the same height, considerably over six feet. There was a corresponding resemblance even in the voice.

Same Name.

"My name is Evan Rees," he said, as the attorney had about persuaded himself that the stranger was not his father come to life. Closely examining the man, he had begun to make out the little differences.

When the visitor linked his identity with the man who had gone before, the lawyer was indeed thunderstruck. He pitched himself to see if he was awake, and was about to go out and consult a doctor when the man again broke the silence.

"I am about to make my will," he continued, "and I thought I'd have you draw up the instrument. I don't know any other attorney. Your name is the same as mine and that attracted me."

This reassured Mr. Rees and he directed, and a little investigation showed that his father had been Evan J. Rees of 2111 Fourth avenue S.

Mr. Rees died a week ago, and his last will and testament was placed on record yesterday.

The attorney says his father's double, who was himself greatly surprised at the coincidence, was unable to offer any explanation of the mystery. So far as subsequent inquiry has revealed, the two families bore no relation to each other.

John Rees' father was born in Indiana, and the late Evan Rees of Minneapolis came from New York.

Both families, however, were of Welsh extraction, and the attorney believes the resemblance between his father and the man who has recently died, can trace its origin to old country kinsmen.

READY TO REFORM

Hennepin County Commissioners Will Meet All Comers.

The county commissioners yesterday invited official inquiry into their affairs by passing this resolution:

Owing to the numerous indefinite charges and insinuations as to misconduct and lack of business method in the conduct of the county business, purporting to come from representative bodies of men:

Resolved, That we extend an invitation to the Board of Trade, the Chamber of Commerce, Commercial Club and to all representative bodies of business men, or to any committee representing them, to meet with the board of county commissioners at any time and place the best suits their convenience, for the discussion of any plans that they think will be for the benefit of Hennepin county, and that we pledge ourselves to inaugurate and carry out any plans and reforms that shall receive the indorsement of any representative body of men; that the county auditor be directed to mail a copy of these resolutions to the president of the Board of Trade, the president of the Chamber of Commerce and the president of the Commercial Club.

The county treasurer was authorized to purchase fifty-two $1,000 four-coupon bonds for the sinking fund.

The salary of Deputy Sheriff Slocum and Statement Clerk Nichols were increased from $1,400 per year to $133.33 per month and from $1,000 per year to $97.67 per month, respectively. The raise is for the unexpired term of 1901.
