

The World's Sport

TO PICK CHAMPIONS

Golf Clubs Are Trying Out Their Best Players.

GOOD PLAYING AT BRYN MAWR

Course Makes Good Showing at Minnehaha—Scores of Saturday's Work on the Links.

The qualifying trials at the Minnehaha club's grounds on the last two Saturdays have resulted in the designation of twelve of the fourteen players who will represent the club in golf contests this season. The figures of the leaders for thirty-six holes are as follows:

I. L. Corse, 184; C. T. Jaffray, 189; F. C. Hale, 186; Dr. Porteous, 195; L. B. Newell, 188; J. W. See, 200; G. P. Harding, 200; A. F. Pillsbury, 201; C. F. Deaver, 207.

Messrs. Hawkins and Albert, being tied at 207 each, there was no choice for the thirteenth and fourteenth places and the two places are still open to all members of the club.

Dr. C. B. Mercer, 202; Horace Lowry, 203; E. F. Gates, 204; R. E. Hawkins, 207; C. S. Albert, 207.

I. L. Corse walked around the course Saturday in 86 strokes, by all odds the best record for the season, barring the performance of Martin Watson, the instructor, who usually makes the round in the neighborhood of 75. There were close contests between Alf Pillsbury and C. T. Jaffray, who scored 95 and 96, respectively, and between Dr. Porteous, 88, and H. Norris, 88.

The scores turned in at the close of the afternoon's play were: C. S. Albert, 103; H. Lowry, 100; Dr. Porteous, 98; H. Norris, 99; E. C. Shelwin, 104; E. F. Gates, 102; I. L. Corse, 88; Dr. M. Mackcher, 105; L. B. Newell, 93; R. E. Hawkins, 102; F. C. Hale, 100; H. H. Thayer, 107; H. J. Moreton, 107; G. P. Harding, 100; C. T. Jaffray, 95; A. F. Pillsbury, 96; J. K. Belden, 106; John W. See, 96; A. L. Belknap, 104; W. A. Thomas, 107; C. F. Deaver, 98; Dr. T. B. Mercer, 99.

Bryn Mawr's Good Showing.

Bryn Mawr enthusiasts did some excellent practice work Saturday for the approaching Memorial Day game with the Faribault Club. Eight men already hold records at least as good as the eighteen-round course. It is well-nigh certain that every man on the team will score well in the eighties within ten days.

The leaders at Bryn Mawr up to date are: Professor J. N. Greer, 82; W. A. Lawhead, 82; H. E. Lege, 85; G. W. Gardner, 85; C. S. Brackett, 86; E. P. Gates, 86; G. C. Schroeder, 88; A. B. Cutts, 88.

Many members of the Lafayette Club "tried-out" on the north shore links Saturday. The formal season at that club will open June 1.

The Lafayette golfers will find a hardy regeneration at Deephaven. The back bay links have been whittled into good shape and will be ready for business when the formal season opens next Saturday.

Town and Country.

Seventy-five competitors participated in the opening play for the team at the Town and Country Club yesterday. The players have probed by preliminary play and a very good all-around showing—so much so as to put the Minnehaha cup defenders on guard—the result. M. Doran, Jr. came home with the best score, going out in 37 and returning in 43. The first fourteen scores were:

M. Doran, 80; B. F. Schurmeier, 82; H. P. Bend, 82; N. P. Langford, 87; G. W. Gardner, 88; T. W. Griggs, 91; F. J. Shephard, 93; E. W. Durant, 93; W. V. S. Finch, 93; H. E. Thompson, 94; C. W. Gordon, 94; F. T. Pollock, 95.

Mrs. C. L. Green won the first prize in the women's club putting contest; second, Miss M. Livingston.

A MINNEAPOLIS CAR LINE

Chicago Post Discusses the Proposition.

The Journal's story of a proposed golf trolley line to connect the Midlothian's "own and only" golf railroad is likely to have a rival in the field of unique golf affairs. Information from Minneapolis is that the Minnehaha Club members are talking seriously of financing a golf railroad to connect the club grounds with the St. Louis Park trolley line. If this connection is made, it will not afford the novelty that Midlothian's golf railway does, for several reasons, but it will be the only railway of its kind in Minnesota, and that will give the gofers something to talk about. It is proposed to build a trolley line from the end of the present street car tracks to the clubhouse, members of the club to hold the bonds and own the line and all cars. It is understood that one of the street railway magnates has offered to build the line, providing that he be given a half interest, and be permitted to operate it for the gofers. The club has a large membership, and it is urged that the advantage of being able to travel by trolley from almost any part of the city at frequent intervals will more than compensate club members for the expense of the line.

The Flour City cyclists' opening run over the new Shakopee course will be the wheeling feature next Sunday. The string will leave the clubhouse, 601 Second avenue S., at 9 o'clock a. m. The run will be a free-for-all for all Minneapolis cyclists, without regard to "race, color or previous condition of servitude." The arrangements have been made for what promises to be one of the greatest ball games in point of attendance, enthusiasm and fun, ever played at the university.

Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 the Minnesota varsity men are to play a picked nine from the university faculty at Northrop field.

Some weeks ago The Journal reported an enthusiastic baseball meeting of students in the university chapel, and recorded a portion of Professor Burton's speech in which the professor proposed to help the team along by organizing a team from the faculty to play the varsity a match game. He himself, spoke for the position of first base, which he used to hold down in grand style in the Trinity college nine. Professor Jones followed in his speech by bespeaking "second base," and everybody at the time took it as a "joke." But "Dickey" Burton meant it, and the nine has been organized, which will meet the varsity on Wednesday. And a nine it will be, too, that will make the varsity put up a good, stiff game to win. "Doc" Cook, the popular director of the gymnasium, will be in the box for the faculty. The doctor is an old pitcher, with a great record behind him. In his defraying the expenses of sending the team to Chicago to take part in the intercollegiate on June 1.

Meets at Northfield. Carleton, Hamline and St. Olaf's Will Meet Thursday. Special to the Journal.

Northfield, Minn., May 20.—A three-cornered intercollegiate field and track meet will take place at Carleton, Thursday. The competing colleges will be Hamline, St. Olaf and Carleton. The fourteen regular events are scheduled, also a relay race of one mile. St. Olaf has never been in such a contest before, but will doubtless enter a strong team for most of the events. Hamline has always been strong in all outdoor sports, and especially in field and track work. It will be remembered that Hamline won the Carleton-Hamline meet, both last year and the year before. Carleton also has never been very strong in all-around athletic work, but has always maintained an average record, being very strong in a few lines and very weak in others. This year, however, her men are better than ever before. On the track her men are faster than usual, and this, together with excellent work in pole-vaulting and shotputting, ought to make her chances against Hamline and St. Olaf good.

The meet will be held on Carleton's new athletic field on the east bank of the Cannon river and just below the hill upon which the college buildings stand. A quarter-mile track has been made, also a 220-yard straight-away. Within the quarter-mile track is a space for the field events, gold, silver and bronze medals going to the winners of the first, second and third places respectively. A banner will be awarded the winners of the half-mile relay race. A number of the officials will be from outside of the state.

Tigers Won. New York, May 20.—The athletes of Princeton and Columbia universities met Saturday at the annual dual track and field games at Columbia oval and the Tigers won, scoring 64 1/2 points against 39 1/2 points for Columbia.

Maroons Surprise Them. Ann Arbor, Mich., May 20.—Michigan won the dual track meet with Chicago, on Resent's field, Saturday afternoon, by the score of 73 1/2 to 62 1/2. Chicago's strong showings was a surprise, the Maroons getting eight firsts to Michigan's six.

May Meet Canadians First. London, May 20.—According to private cable dispatches from New York, the proposal of the English universities to hold an athletic meeting at Montreal before they meet the Americans in New York is opposed by Harvard and Yale, whose athletes want their meeting with the Oxford-Cambridge team to occur first. The Britishers say they want to avoid the heat of New York in their preliminary training and intimate that they will meet the Canadians first if they so choose.

Winona's Dark Horses. Special to the Journal. Winona, May 20.—The preliminary field day of the Winona high school was held on Saturday, when those who will contest in the field day sports at La Crosse, next Saturday, were selected. For the present, the names of the successful ones will not be published. The track has been beat and mired by rain, and the records were hardly up to the standard. The Winona boys will go down to La Crosse on the steamer Lion.

He Pre-empted a Woodsman's Cabin and It Was Kill or Be Stepped On. I would very much like to know whether a man being attacked by a wild animal which is under the safeguard of the time being of the game law, is under obligation to seek safety in flight, or can resist the assault even to the extent of slaying the assailant, without incurring the pains and penalties made and provided by the legislature of Minnesota in its wisdom as the reward of killing such wild animals during the close season. I've propounded the question to many legal luminaries and been rewarded by being assured in substance, though at unmerciful length, that:

You can and you can't, You will and you won't, You'll be d-d if you do, You'll be d-d if you don't.

And so I really do not know how to answer the anxious inquiry of a friend of mine, a gentleman, like myself, of the lumberjack persuasion, who cherishes an erroneous opinion as to the law of the state. What he wants to know is whether he has broken the law, or not, and, being a man of tender conscience, he means to "fess up" if he has—before it is too late. I am a fountain of himself by "squealing" if in the performance of what came to pass he was within his legal rights as a man and citizen of Minnesota. I think that he was, but the little shanty in his dying struggles, so he was very careful to attain a position from which he could be sure to plant the first bullet right behind one of the great ears that were flapping in luxury without molestation, but he was wrong in both suppositions.

A Futile Attempt. His first attempt to re-enter the shack was met by the animal's rising to his feet, stamping angrily, and sounding his war note through the ridiculous nose-trumpet that disfigures his face. There was plainly no passing there, as was made more manifest by a desperate, though luckily not determined-enough-to-be-fatal charge made by the beast when the now half-frozen man made a second attempt to re-gain his shelter.

A futile effort to scare the bull out by tossing fire brands at him followed, and then my friend realized, he says, "that he was up against the real thing, and it was the little gun, or freeze to death." So the little gun it was. The good man respects the law in its relation to the game of the state as much as do the "hots" of the men who manufacture that very complex article—be that more or less—but he felt that he had some rights in the case himself and there was nobody but himself there to see that he got them. So he helped himself to them. He did not want to put the moose to unnecessary pain, and besides did not want him to kick from him, and in his dying struggles, so he was very careful to attain a position from which he could be sure to plant the first bullet right behind one of the great ears that were flapping in luxury without molestation, but he was wrong in both suppositions.

Case Stated. The case as stated by my friend is this—and understand it is his own story, not mine—he was out in the northern portion of the state "looking up a piece of timber" at the time our past beautiful "squirrel" winter ended in very late fashion in a storm that deposited two feet of snow on the ground in about thirty-six hours. Now this good lumberjack was "all by his lonesome" and having a week's work in one section had made himself a nice little "lean-to" to live in, was getting along nicely, and had nearly completed his work when the storm set in. Seeing that it was a genuine old-time blizzard that was coming, he dropped everything and went to work fixing things to weather it in comfort like the experienced woodsman he is. He strengthened the walls of his little habitation with fir boughs; he piled up wood galore; and by the time night set in he was prepared to stand a siege of a week's duration if need were. Anyway he had enough bacon, flour, and tinned food for three days, and he well knew the Indian trick of making a tightened bed a substitute for "grub" when it had to be done. Also he had a little 30-30 carbine and a couple of "pencil-point" cases of wolves or rabbits—and fearing nothing, wrapped himself up in his blankets, and dropped off to sleep soothed by the warm and cozy atmosphere of the storm-king's rush through the lofty pine tops around his lonely dwelling.

Impression of Dire Danger. Beyond all doubt he would have slept the sleep of the just till morning had not the long-noise showed up and attacked him. At any rate he avers that he suddenly started broad awake and under the impression that some dire danger was at hand, which impression was fully confirmed in short order. His fire had died down to a mere handful of embers, and there was almost perfect darkness in the little lean-to, and a woodsman's eyes often are as those of a cat, or owl, and he was able to make out the presence of a gigantic animal of some kind which had drifted in with all the easy freedom of the frontier, and was making itself at home with the assurance of an old acquaintance. It was, or so he says, busily engaged in gnawing at the end of his baked for his next day's provision, and being engaged in that pleasing occupation had as yet found no time to devote to packing his acquaintance.

Now my friend was, of course, as the manner of the woods is, fully dressed and "organized for anything that might turn up," and in less than two seconds he had made a noiseless sneak from his little shanty and was out in the howling blizzard. But the 30-30 was along also, and he was ready to make things interesting for his unbidden guest if it could be induced to vacate by means of persuasion. Which it could not by any means, for, as he goes on to say, when once out in the storm and he had "blazed-up" his fire with birch-bark and dry pine, he found he was in exactly the fix of the Arab who allowed the camel to put his head into the tent under pretense of warming his ears—the camel's not the Arab's. As everybody knows the camel soon crowded the son of the desert out and held possession of the tent—but the Arab had no gun. My friend did, which makes this a different story. When the blaze shot up he found his visitor was a gigantic bull moose, and he solemnly proceeds to narrate the animal not only finished devouring his precious bread before his eyes, but calmly proceeded to drop down in the glow of his fire while the leaf was consumed and chew the cud of satisfaction, without paying the least heed to the evicted owner of bread,

VARSITY VERSUS FACULTY

THE B. H. GAME OF THE SEASON

Something About the Veterans Fans in the Faculty—Great Game Promised.

Arrangements have been made for what promises to be one of the greatest ball games in point of attendance, enthusiasm and fun, ever played at the university.

Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 the Minnesota varsity men are to play a picked nine from the university faculty at Northrop field.

Some weeks ago The Journal reported an enthusiastic baseball meeting of students in the university chapel, and recorded a portion of Professor Burton's speech in which the professor proposed to help the team along by organizing a team from the faculty to play the varsity a match game. He himself, spoke for the position of first base, which he used to hold down in grand style in the Trinity college nine. Professor Jones followed in his speech by bespeaking "second base," and everybody at the time took it as a "joke." But "Dickey" Burton meant it, and the nine has been organized, which will meet the varsity on Wednesday. And a nine it will be, too, that will make the varsity put up a good, stiff game to win. "Doc" Cook, the popular director of the gymnasium, will be in the box for the faculty. The doctor is an old pitcher, with a great record behind him. In his defraying the expenses of sending the team to Chicago to take part in the intercollegiate on June 1.

Meets at Northfield. Carleton, Hamline and St. Olaf's Will Meet Thursday. Special to the Journal.

Northfield, Minn., May 20.—A three-cornered intercollegiate field and track meet will take place at Carleton, Thursday. The competing colleges will be Hamline, St. Olaf and Carleton. The fourteen regular events are scheduled, also a relay race of one mile. St. Olaf has never been in such a contest before, but will doubtless enter a strong team for most of the events. Hamline has always been strong in all outdoor sports, and especially in field and track work. It will be remembered that Hamline won the Carleton-Hamline meet, both last year and the year before. Carleton also has never been very strong in all-around athletic work, but has always maintained an average record, being very strong in a few lines and very weak in others. This year, however, her men are better than ever before. On the track her men are faster than usual, and this, together with excellent work in pole-vaulting and shotputting, ought to make her chances against Hamline and St. Olaf good.

The meet will be held on Carleton's new athletic field on the east bank of the Cannon river and just below the hill upon which the college buildings stand. A quarter-mile track has been made, also a 220-yard straight-away. Within the quarter-mile track is a space for the field events, gold, silver and bronze medals going to the winners of the first, second and third places respectively. A banner will be awarded the winners of the half-mile relay race. A number of the officials will be from outside of the state.

Tigers Won. New York, May 20.—The athletes of Princeton and Columbia universities met Saturday at the annual dual track and field games at Columbia oval and the Tigers won, scoring 64 1/2 points against 39 1/2 points for Columbia.

Maroons Surprise Them. Ann Arbor, Mich., May 20.—Michigan won the dual track meet with Chicago, on Resent's field, Saturday afternoon, by the score of 73 1/2 to 62 1/2. Chicago's strong showings was a surprise, the Maroons getting eight firsts to Michigan's six.

May Meet Canadians First. London, May 20.—According to private cable dispatches from New York, the proposal of the English universities to hold an athletic meeting at Montreal before they meet the Americans in New York is opposed by Harvard and Yale, whose athletes want their meeting with the Oxford-Cambridge team to occur first. The Britishers say they want to avoid the heat of New York in their preliminary training and intimate that they will meet the Canadians first if they so choose.

Winona's Dark Horses. Special to the Journal. Winona, May 20.—The preliminary field day of the Winona high school was held on Saturday, when those who will contest in the field day sports at La Crosse, next Saturday, were selected. For the present, the names of the successful ones will not be published. The track has been beat and mired by rain, and the records were hardly up to the standard. The Winona boys will go down to La Crosse on the steamer Lion.

He Pre-empted a Woodsman's Cabin and It Was Kill or Be Stepped On. I would very much like to know whether a man being attacked by a wild animal which is under the safeguard of the time being of the game law, is under obligation to seek safety in flight, or can resist the assault even to the extent of slaying the assailant, without incurring the pains and penalties made and provided by the legislature of Minnesota in its wisdom as the reward of killing such wild animals during the close season. I've propounded the question to many legal luminaries and been rewarded by being assured in substance, though at unmerciful length, that:

You can and you can't, You will and you won't, You'll be d-d if you do, You'll be d-d if you don't.

And so I really do not know how to answer the anxious inquiry of a friend of mine, a gentleman, like myself, of the lumberjack persuasion, who cherishes an erroneous opinion as to the law of the state. What he wants to know is whether he has broken the law, or not, and, being a man of tender conscience, he means to "fess up" if he has—before it is too late. I am a fountain of himself by "squealing" if in the performance of what came to pass he was within his legal rights as a man and citizen of Minnesota. I think that he was, but the little shanty in his dying struggles, so he was very careful to attain a position from which he could be sure to plant the first bullet right behind one of the great ears that were flapping in luxury without molestation, but he was wrong in both suppositions.

A Futile Attempt. His first attempt to re-enter the shack was met by the animal's rising to his feet, stamping angrily, and sounding his war note through the ridiculous nose-trumpet that disfigures his face. There was plainly no passing there, as was made more manifest by a desperate, though luckily not determined-enough-to-be-fatal charge made by the beast when the now half-frozen man made a second attempt to re-gain his shelter.

A futile effort to scare the bull out by tossing fire brands at him followed, and then my friend realized, he says, "that he was up against the real thing, and it was the little gun, or freeze to death." So the little gun it was. The good man respects the law in its relation to the game of the state as much as do the "hots" of the men who manufacture that very complex article—be that more or less—but he felt that he had some rights in the case himself and there was nobody but himself there to see that he got them. So he helped himself to them. He did not want to put the moose to unnecessary pain, and besides did not want him to kick from him, and in his dying struggles, so he was very careful to attain a position from which he could be sure to plant the first bullet right behind one of the great ears that were flapping in luxury without molestation, but he was wrong in both suppositions.

Case Stated. The case as stated by my friend is this—and understand it is his own story, not mine—he was out in the northern portion of the state "looking up a piece of timber" at the time our past beautiful "squirrel" winter ended in very late fashion in a storm that deposited two feet of snow on the ground in about thirty-six hours. Now this good lumberjack was "all by his lonesome" and having a week's work in one section had made himself a nice little "lean-to" to live in, was getting along nicely, and had nearly completed his work when the storm set in. Seeing that it was a genuine old-time blizzard that was coming, he dropped everything and went to work fixing things to weather it in comfort like the experienced woodsman he is. He strengthened the walls of his little habitation with fir boughs; he piled up wood galore; and by the time night set in he was prepared to stand a siege of a week's duration if need were. Anyway he had enough bacon, flour, and tinned food for three days, and he well knew the Indian trick of making a tightened bed a substitute for "grub" when it had to be done. Also he had a little 30-30 carbine and a couple of "pencil-point" cases of wolves or rabbits—and fearing nothing, wrapped himself up in his blankets, and dropped off to sleep soothed by the warm and cozy atmosphere of the storm-king's rush through the lofty pine tops around his lonely dwelling.

Impression of Dire Danger. Beyond all doubt he would have slept the sleep of the just till morning had not the long-noise showed up and attacked him. At any rate he avers that he suddenly started broad awake and under the impression that some dire danger was at hand, which impression was fully confirmed in short order. His fire had died down to a mere handful of embers, and there was almost perfect darkness in the little lean-to, and a woodsman's eyes often are as those of a cat, or owl, and he was able to make out the presence of a gigantic animal of some kind which had drifted in with all the easy freedom of the frontier, and was making itself at home with the assurance of an old acquaintance. It was, or so he says, busily engaged in gnawing at the end of his baked for his next day's provision, and being engaged in that pleasing occupation had as yet found no time to devote to packing his acquaintance.

Now my friend was, of course, as the manner of the woods is, fully dressed and "organized for anything that might turn up," and in less than two seconds he had made a noiseless sneak from his little shanty and was out in the howling blizzard. But the 30-30 was along also, and he was ready to make things interesting for his unbidden guest if it could be induced to vacate by means of persuasion. Which it could not by any means, for, as he goes on to say, when once out in the storm and he had "blazed-up" his fire with birch-bark and dry pine, he found he was in exactly the fix of the Arab who allowed the camel to put his head into the tent under pretense of warming his ears—the camel's not the Arab's. As everybody knows the camel soon crowded the son of the desert out and held possession of the tent—but the Arab had no gun. My friend did, which makes this a different story. When the blaze shot up he found his visitor was a gigantic bull moose, and he solemnly proceeds to narrate the animal not only finished devouring his precious bread before his eyes, but calmly proceeded to drop down in the glow of his fire while the leaf was consumed and chew the cud of satisfaction, without paying the least heed to the evicted owner of bread,

SMITH TAKING POLE VAULT AT 9 FEET 3 INCHES IN FRIDAY'S TRACK MEET WITH IOWA—MINNESOTA'S RECORD MADE BY PIERCE IS 9 FEET 10 INCHES.

Minneapolis end of the path on Lyndale avenue was completed a week ago. A sandy stretch near Richfield will be well rolled before the run. The Shakopee Cycle Path association promises that their end of the path will be in shape in season.

The Flour City cyclists will give a social next Friday. A select vaudeville program is being arranged. The club are thinking of taking a whirl at records at the Duluth Memorial Day road race over London course. Others may take a hand in approaching races at Cleveland, Ohio.

The club has the nucleus of a gymnasium, which will prove a popular feature of an already popular organization.

The Minnesota Division of the Century Road Club of America will give its first century ride of the season Memorial Day, S. J. E. Daley and C. F. Johnson, local centrions of Minneapolis and St. Paul, will be over the Minnetonka course. Minnetonka riders will leave the Flour City clubhouse at 6 o'clock a. m., and join the St. Paul crowd at Rice park, St. Paul, from which point the ride to Tonka will commence. The start on the second trip will be at 2:30 p. m. It will be a slow, easy ride.

IN DISREPUTE Searchers Who Took Part in Anoka Run Yesterday.

Seventy-five riders from Minneapolis and St. Paul joined in the run to Anoka and return yesterday. The only disagreeable feature of the excursion was the searching tactics of the two tandem lightweights and a string of hair-brained riders who tackled on when the former boasted they could beat anything in these parts. They hit up a furious pace on the Crystal Lake road and everything got out of the way for them. When they got safely by every one expressed the fervent hope that the forwards would ride themselves to death and have done with it. The conservative riders kept an even position with the women and had an enjoyable ride, reaching Anoka in time for dinner, and pursuing their way leisurely homeward in the afternoon.

MEILRATH'S RECORD He Takes the Lead for Triple Century Northfield Course.

James Meilrath of St. Paul yesterday succeeded in establishing the triple century record for the Northfield course, making it in 34:58, his actual riding time being 27:47. His wife accompanied him on the last century. In making the record Meilrath won a handsome gold medal offered by A. L. Mace of St. Paul, to the first man to set the pace on that course.

Flour City Cyclists Meet. The Flour City cyclists will hold a regular meeting this evening at the clubhouse, 601 Second avenue S. The board of directors will also meet.

TRAGEDY IN IOWA Elmer Lane Cuts His Wife's Throat and Attempts Suicide.

Oscella, Iowa, May 20.—Elmer Lane today cut the throat of his wife, who had sued for divorce. He then attempted to commit suicide. Mrs. Lane is in a critical condition, while Lane may recover.

If you need a servant use Journal wants.

Imperial Council, Nobles of Mystic Shrine

Kansas City, Mo., June 11-12, 1901. For this annual meeting of the Shrine the Chicago Great Western Railway will on June 10 and 11 sell excursion tickets to Kansas City, good to return June 14, at one fare for the round trip. For further information apply to J. A. Aichey, city ticket agent, corner Nicollet avenue and Fifth street, Minneapolis.

If you need a servant use Journal wants.

WILL PLAY PHYSICIANS

THE GAME WITH AMES IS OFF

An Important Change in the Football Schedule for This Fall.

An important change has been made in the football schedule for this fall. The game with Ames, Oct. 5, has been dropped and in its place will be played a game with the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Chicago.

It is felt that the schedule will not suffer any by the change. On the contrary, it may be benefited. The "P. & S." boys play snappy football. Last fall they gave the Wisconsin team a lively fight and coming from Chicago, 15, had a center of the west, may be looked to to draw a big crowd.

The cancellation of the game with Ames was due to the Ames management team entirely. Minnesota offered the same terms granted last year and they were accepted by the Ames representatives. But the management has turned this action down, saying that there is not enough money in it.

GREAT DAY FOR YACHTS

MANY WERE OUT AT MINNETONKA

The Eventful Cruise of the Charlotte—Steering with a Jib Instead of a Rudder.

Judging from the big fleet of "white wings" that fringed Minnetonka's blue expanse yesterday, yachting is by no means a "dead one" at that resort. A nice stiff breeze in the afternoon gave just the right amount of zest to the sport, and the owners of all the trim craft on the lake were fighting the breeze at all angles.

George Belden and Fred Hubbard had their hands full getting safely into port with the Charlotte. They were standing up the lake from Wayzata against the wind when the rudder suddenly slipped its connections and slid out of reach on the crest of a wave. The boat immediately swung about and drifted helplessly before the wind.

With a party of frightened women on board, it was a trying moment for the skippers, but Fred and "Juddie" are little cool ones, and they didn't let a little thing like the loss of a rudder bother them for long.

Instead, with all of a sailor's resourcefulness when danger threatens, they let the Charlotte run free and had no difficulty steering by clever manipulation of the jib.

Nevertheless, it was hard work making Moore's dock before the wind, and when they did so, the boat struck the platform such a resounding upper-cut as almost put the boat builder's structure out of business.

Every one got ashore safely, however, without even wetting their feet, and then they thanked the boys.

It was a dramatic moment.

Shanrook vs. Shanrook.

Ryde, late of Wight, May 20.—The two Shanrooks started this morning for a race over an open sea course, the first leg of which is a beat from Calisot castle to a mark outside the Nab Light. The wind was steady from the east and was blowing a club topsail breeze.

Carey Roofing better than metal, pitch and gravel. W. S. Nott Co. Telephone 376.

Cascarine at All Druggists.

Cures biliousness, constipation and dyspepsia or money refunded, 50c. Sample and book on diet and cure sent free for 10c postage. Rea Bros. & Co., Minneapolis.

You cannot guess the age of ladies using Satin-Skin Cream and Powder, for these give all "sweet 16" complexion. 25c. Glass Block. Olson's, Voegel's.

Geno Schmierer, a university student from Meno, S. D. He is showing wonderful speed, and will be held at the state fair grounds in Des Moines Friday. Athletes from the state university at Iowa City, from Grinnell college, Drake University at Des Moines, the Iowa college of agriculture at Ames, Simpson college at Indianola, the state normal school at Cedar Falls and Cornell college at Mount Vernon will participate. The unusual interest in this sport is due to the fact the outcome is entirely in doubt. The teams of the larger institutions are closely matched and any of them may be the winner, though the chances seem to be between the state university, Grinnell, Drake and Ames. There will be seventeen

IOWA STATE FIELD MEET

Leading Schools of the State Will Send Teams.

Special to the Journal. Des Moines, Iowa, May 20.—Unprecedented interest has been aroused in the state field meet of the Iowa Intercollegiate Athletic association which is to be held at the state fair grounds in Des Moines Friday. Athletes from the state university at Iowa City, from Grinnell college, Drake University at Des Moines, the Iowa college of agriculture at Ames, Simpson college at Indianola, the state normal school at Cedar Falls and Cornell college at Mount Vernon will participate. The unusual interest in this sport is due to the fact the outcome is entirely in doubt. The teams of the larger institutions are closely matched and any of them may be the winner, though the chances seem to be between the state university, Grinnell, Drake and Ames. There will be seventeen and bacteriology in the medical department, will be in the center field. The doctor is an all-round athlete and in his university days at Cambridge was equally famous on the football field, cricket crease and in the tennis court. The professor's fondness for sport has not decreased in the slightest, while he has waxed wise in the knowledge of microbes, and he will hold his own with the best.

Professors Bliss at short stop, and Freeman at third base, are getting ready for hot liners and will not be found wanting when the time comes. Professors Kierchner, Lyon and Nicholson are also down on the lists. Dr. Williams is booked for right field and is expecting to gather in that come his way though Tweet has made the prediction that he will miff two fies out of every three. The doctor used to be quite a hitter at the bat, but Captain Freeman has sworn a mighty oath that he will make him fan out every time he comes to the plate.

Altogether a good game with an unusual amount of fun is expected. The proceeds of the game will be turned over to the track