THE TOWN TALK

It May Become General Here in Handling Real Estate.

Ordered Can Be Spared.

SCHEME SUCCESSFUL ELSEWHERE

It Enables Dealers to Reach a Basis of Prices—An Expert's Views.

It is probable that as a result of the action of the Walcott committee, a new system of disposing of large tracts of real estate will be introduced in Minneapolis. The auction plan has not been tried extensively in the northwest, though it is the custom in the east and south. The idea has been developed in California, Massachusetts and in Kansas City. It has been in vogue in Hartford, Conn., for three years. Cyrus Campbell, who will have charge of the first sale here, and who has had a wide experience in that line of business, says the plan is in line with the present general business trend of getting the most money with the least expenditure of time and business troubles, he says, should be applied to the handling of real estate.

Mr. Campbell is a great believer in this method of disposing of real estate, and especially under the conditions prevailing in Minneapolis. He says:

During the last seven or eight years values have been so disturbed in Minneapolis and other cities that the public has been led to believe that the market is in a state of depression. It is not so. The market is in a state of depression only in the sense that the price of property is low. The market is in a state of depression only in the sense that the price of property is low. The market is in a state of depression only in the sense that the price of property is low.

A REVENUE CHANGE

MINNEAPOLIS AND ST. PAUL OFFICES MAY BE CONSOLIDATED.

FIGURES FAVOR MINNEAPOLIS

The Change in the Revenue Laws Leaves It the Big Taxpayer.

A report has gone out lately from Washington, D. C., to the effect that the treasury department is planning to consolidate the internal revenue offices of the twin cities. The interest in this matter has been increased by the fact that the department is known to have been in the city very recently, and to have carried on private investigations as to the amount of revenue derived from this district. This agent came into town very quietly and it is doubtful if any of the men in the collector's office either here or in St. Paul knew of his errand. His investigation was conducted very thoroughly. His instructions evidently were to inquire not so much as to the present sources of revenue, since the interest in the matter is not these facts, but rather to report as to which city in his judgment would probably furnish the greater revenue for the future. It is said that figures obtained from the secretary of the Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce will be an important factor in determining the relative importance of this city in the matter.

ON WATERMAINS THIS TIME

Local Millers Not Attracted by Opportunities There.

THEY DIFFER FROM MR. HILL

And Do Not Look for a Large Market in the Orient—Their Reasons.

Minneapolis flour mill men do not regard a mill on the Pacific coast as an especially attractive proposition. The report that the Washburn-Cromwell company of this city has in view a mill of 4,000 barrels capacity to be erected at Tacoma, has been given new life recently. The same report includes the Pillsbury-Washburn company in connection with the project. The truth of this report was emphatically contradicted at the offices of these concerns today. The Pillsbury-Washburn company has never seriously considered the proposition. The Washburn-Cromwell people say that some investigations along that line have been made by them but that the company has no intention of erecting a mill on the coast.

GROWS LIKE A CRESCENDO

Success and Popularity of Banda Rosa at Harriet.

The success of the Banda Rosa at Lake Harriet goes on in a veritable crescendo. Its magnificent playing of the well selected compositions of the great composer, Signor Sorrentino seems to please equally the trained musician and the popular taste. After a hot day of sweltering in the city, the cool evening at Harriet listening to the music is a program that appeals to every one. Last night there was a vast throng at the lake, making the most of the delights at that incomparable resort. The program of the evening was especially pleasing. The afternoon programs are quite as good as those in the evening, and are especially attractive to children, who prefer the quiet of the afternoon to the crowds of the evening. The selections for this evening include three original compositions by Sorrentino, one of which is his new and most popular ready very popular. Signor Bottega's rendition of "The Holy City" will be another taking feature. The programs for this evening and to-morrow afternoon are as follows:

WEDNESDAY EVENING.

March, "Zanetta"..... Alber

Ramsey County Grand Jury Left Court's Hands Tied.

TO LEAVE THE CITY
Prof. J. H. Austin Closes His Engagement at Olson's Saturday Evening.
Prof. J. H. Austin of Chicago, the well-known scalp specialist, who has been engaged at Olson's during the past month, giving instruction on the proper care of the hair and scalp, will close his engagement Saturday evening. During Prof. Austin's visit to our city he has cured over 2,000 people of minor scalp diseases and has not had a single complaint. Over 300 people have called at Olson's in the past week and thanked Prof. Austin for the benefit they have derived from using his famous antiseptic. No person should let a week go by, whether they have any disease of the hair or not, without one or two applications of Austin's Antiseptic Dandruff Destroyer and New Hair Grower, which preserves and beautifies, feeds the roots, grows new hair, cures dandruff and makes the hair soft, luxuriant and glossy, giving it a splendid vigor about an inch a month. To those who have any disease of the scalp, Prof. Austin writes to say: "Do not think because you have tried all the nostrums of the day that your case is hopeless. People who complain that they are not blame for not curing your case, as there never was a specific known to medical science that would destroy the hair root or micro-organism that destroys the roots of the hair until Prof. Austin's antiseptic, which is a new chemical, the basis of which is a powder, dissolves into liquids, and when ready for use is a rich white cream, containing no grease, mineral or any injurious substance. Prof. Austin guarantees to cure any case of falling hair or dandruff and grow new hair where the disease has been so long standing or what remedies may have failed. If your hair is turning prematurely gray from lack of coloring matter or pigment, it can be readily restored to its natural color by the use of Prof. Austin's hair restorer. Do not fail to consult Prof. Austin at his office in his last week, at Olson's. Hours, 10 to 12 and 8 to 10.
