Woman Thought to Have Been Murdered in Ohio. BODY APPARENTLY DRAGGED OFF

The Victim, Whose Remains Cannot Be Found, Thought to Have Been an Actress. New York Sun Special Service. Toledo, Ohio, Aug. 16.—The town of Cynnet is aroused over what appears to be a murder mystery. The scene of the supposed crime is on the Jones Moyer farm, about a half mile north of town. Through the farm runs a small creek, and at the present time is dry, but for a few pools here and there. At one place in the mud has been found the perfect imprint of the body of a woman about five feet four inches in length, and about 100 pounds in weight. The indications are that the body of the woman was placed here for the purpose of burial and then taken up and dragged about the mud. Small bits of rope were found around the spot supposed to be used to either strangle the victim or tie her. The finger marks of persons who removed the body from the hole in the mud are plainly visible at the spot where the woman's head and neck were pressed down. The mold made indicates that the woman must have been stripped before being placed there. Those early upon the scene found blood and hair on a rail fence close by. From the supposed grave, across from the little island in the creek is to be seen a distinct trail where the body had been dragged. The tracks of the men are plainly discernible through a corn field. The men, as they dragged the body along, broke down some of the corn and scattered it with mud which they had got on their clothing about the creek bed and the hole from which the body was taken. The trail, which leads through the corn field, strikes the railroad about thirty rods from the hole in the mire and then is lost. The mysterious grave was discovered Tuesday evening by some boys who were playing about the site of the hole in the creek, and ever since nearly the whole town of Cynnet has been searching the neighborhood and with shovels digging for the body, which they believe must be buried somewhere. It is extremely dry, and it is thought that if any body has been buried here, it will be found. Several places along the creek, which appeared to have been a close character and will, it is said, in a very unexplainable manner. The search was kept up all night by men with lanterns.

LAKE MINNETONKA

Mrs. William L. Bigelow gave a Needlework Guild thimble party yesterday morning, entertaining a group of women at the beach. The guests passed a merry morning sewing, and over 100 garments were finished for the members of the guild. OCEAN LINE ALLIANCE

PART OF J. P. MORGAN'S PLAN The Leyland, Atlantic Transport and American Lines Get Together. New York, Aug. 16.—According to the Journal of Commerce, the tentative advice received here from Liverpool indicates the definite statement that an alliance is contemplated between the Leyland, the Atlantic Transport and the American lines. The Leyland line, which is recalled, was recently purchased by J. P. Morgan, as the head of a syndicate. The fact that the Atlantic Transport and Leyland lines were to be operated in harmony has been known for some time. There have been at various times and in various forms reports that the American line will be a close character and will, it is said, be fully indicated when the new directors of the Leyland line become known.
