RETAILERS' VICTORY

They Win in Fight Against Retailing Lumber Manufacturers.
The retailers have won out in their fight against lumber manufacturers who sell direct to the trade. The matter came up for discussion at the semi-annual meeting of the Mississippi Valley Lumbermen's association late yesterday afternoon, and an agreement was made whereby manufacturers are not to sell to the consumer where such a sale could be made by local yards. There are, of course, limitations to this agreement, but the manufacturers agree to sell lumber to other than dealers only at a ten per cent advance over the regular retail charges, the excess to be turned over to the secretary of the Mississippi Valley association to be by him distributed among the yards in the neighborhood to which the lumber is sent. This is looked upon as important, and will probably curtail direct sales in a very large measure.

The association's credit bureau was formally authorized, and from now on the secretary will furnish information as to the standing of retailers whenever requested by an association member. Reports of officers showed the condition of the organization to be most prosperous, and sales of lumber were reported to have increased fully twenty-five per cent.

HERE'S A NEW IDEA

The State University Classified as a "Charitable" Institution.

BOARD OF CONTROL SO ADVISED
It Will Stand on This Ground in the Case to Define Its Powers.

Is the state university a charitable institution? This is a question the Minnesota courts may be called upon to settle within the next year.

As stated in The Journal last Saturday, the board of control has been furnished with legal advice at variance with the opinion of the attorney general. A St. Paul attorney asserts that the state university and the normal schools are under the board of control act, in spite of the omission of the word "educational" from its title. Acting on this advice, the board may conclude to make a test case and settle the scope of its authority.

The St. Paul man's opinion is based wholly on the fact that the university and normal schools are charitable institutions. The title of the board of control bill limits its operations to the "charitable, penal and correctional" institutions of the state. The legal luminary of St. Paul classifies the schools receiving state aid under the first head.

Decisions cited are mainly for old English will cases, in which descendants left property to educational institutions, and the wills were contested. They were held valid under a set of normal schools, a Kentucky case is also cited, in which the court held a school receiving private aid and giving more or less tuition to be charitable in its scope.

The state university has received private aid, and gives free tuition, and the St. Paul attorney thinks it would come under the same decision. As to the normal schools, which receive only state aid, the question is somewhat different.

The weight of legal opinion is on the side of Attorney General Lydiard. The bill as originally drawn did not include the university, or the normal schools, nor did it exempt them. The legislature did not consider them charitable institutions when it passed the bill. The bill was amended to include the schools for higher education, the title was not amended, and the title is now "charitable, penal and correctional" institutions. The board of control has never held a written opinion from the attorney general, whose views are on record in an opinion furnished to the regents of the university.

A VERY VALIANT PAIR

They Fail to Stop a Runaway
Two Mounted Officers Who Explain That They Didn't Know It Was a Runaway.

Two mounted policemen aroused the ire of pedestrians on Nicollet avenue Monday evening at 6 o'clock by sitting calmly on their horses and allowing a runaway to pass effectively at the reins and calling to people to get out of the way.

The officers wheeled their horses toward the curb yesterday morning in the Dakotas, when they were passed by a wide berth. As the wagon passed they turned and gazed after it in interested fashion, but made no attempt to go to the driver's assistance. Their mastery inactivity was seen by A. A. Johnson, captain of the Fire Proof Door company, Twelfth avenue S and Fourth street, who was passing on the police and assigned to the detectives, entered properly on a large set of books purchased to-day for this specific purpose.

This Colonel Ames says, will enable him to know just where his men are, and what progress is being made on all cases. Mr. Wheelock's new title will be superintendent of the bureau of identification.

Colonel Ames, captain of the mounted squad of police, and John Stavio, dog license inspector, who formerly occupied the outer office of the chief, have been promoted to the large room at the north end of the city building, in which the bicycle, license and pawnbroker inspectors now have their offices.

EQUINE RECRUITS

An Army Officer Inspecting Cavalry Horses at Midway.

Captain Williams, a veterinary, and assistant from Fort Meade have established a recruiting station at Midway for cavalry horses. The captain is now at the station of Barrett & Zimmerman inspecting the offerings which have been made to the United States government. It is very difficult to secure nags which come up to the government specifications, and the officers have representatives all over the country picking up likely candidates for the severe inspection which Captain Williams makes.

In addition to a physical examination the would-be cavalry horses are put through their paces. They are ridden about the inclosure and must show an ability to pick up a few bits of knowledge readily. In other words the captain wants no dunces.

The horse which the government accepts, in addition to being sound of wind and teeth, must be a gelding of any hardy, solid color, roan being preferred. Grays are not wanted. The horse must be from four to eight years old, 15 1/2 to 16 hands high and from 950 to 1150 in weight.

Captain Williams began the inspection of the herd yesterday and will continue until 280 head are found which will be suitable for Uncle Sam's men with the orange plumes. The horses to be seen in the parade ground or in a bloody gray or some San Juan hill.

HIS INJURIES FATAL

Fred Osborne Dies as the Result of His Fall Yesterday.

Fred Osborne, the young man who fell yesterday from a steel elevator now building in Southeast Minneapolis, died from his injuries at the city hospital last night. Little could be learned of the man. He was apparently about twenty-five years of age, and his father lives in California. He related to telephone authorities more about himself or his family.

WHAT DETROIT DID

A SOUND REASON FOR WORK

THE COST OF LIGHT OUT IN TWO LITTLE ONES HAVE BEEN BUSY

The Clay School Exhibit Will Take Place To-morrow—Evidences of Industry.

The experience of the city of Detroit in doing its own lighting will be brought into prominence when the time comes for Aldermen Leighton and Powers to vote to put their scheme for a municipal lighting plant for Minneapolis. Detroit invested in a municipal lighting plant about six years ago and the experience has been eminently successful from every point of view.

Detroit claims the distinction of being the best lighted city in the country and the cost is not much in excess of one-half that of Minneapolis for the same service.

The cost per arc lamp in Minneapolis the past two years was $108 on the all night schedule. The same service cost in Detroit for the year ending June 30, 1900, $66.45 per lamp of 2,000 candle power. This charge included everything entering into the cost of operation, with 4 per cent interest on the investment added, also 3 per cent on depreciation of the plant and due allowance for lost taxes. Deducting from the cost per lamp certain amounts received from rentals of poles and other things, the actual net cost to the city is reduced to $61.76.

There were operated that year 1,963 arc lights, against a total of 842 in Minneapolis last year, and the various public buildings were lit with incandescent lights. The total cost of operation was $80,087, and including interest on the investment, depreciation and lost taxes, $148,582.

The total cost of the plant, including poles, conduits, etc., was $328,085, and the lighting commission reported in the above year that after five years' service the plant was good as new.

But low price and good service is not the most important advantage that has resulted to the citizens of Detroit from municipal ownership of the electric light plant. The commission reports in its report: "The political health of the city has been improved by placing one branch of the public service beyond the reach of franchise-seeking corporations and the attention of the city fathers has not been distracted by the bickering and bargaining of such corporations eager to obtain the privileges and the profits that may be secured through contracts for public lights."

Minneapolis paid last year for electric lighting $70,050, and the total cost for expenses of the department were $147,399. The same service for year was $108 for the all night schedule, and $90 in use in Detroit, and about $90 by the moon-light schedule.

CLAY SCHOOL EXHIBIT

The exhibition at the Clay school will be held to-morrow afternoon from 2 until 6 o'clock. There has been no manual training at the Clay vacation school, but the girls have been as industrious as those at the Franklin school, and they will have some interesting work to show.

Mrs. Henry Brown has been invited to show the work of the vacation schools in the women's building at the state fair grounds, and it will form one of the interesting features in the building.

CHANGES BY THE CHIEF

COL AMES SYSTEMATIZES THINGS
Close Record to Be Kept of Detective Cases—Mr. Wheelock's New Title.

Superintendent of Police Fred Ames this morning commenced to systematize the work of his department. He will necessitate wholesale changes in and about headquarters. The detectives, over whom the mayor yesterday made the colonel in rank, will be assigned to the outer office of the chief. The chief secretary, Mr. Wheelock, will be assigned to the work of keeping close records of the cases, and the mounted squad of police, and John Stavio, dog license inspector, who formerly occupied the outer office of the chief, have been promoted to the large room at the north end of the city building, in which the bicycle, license and pawnbroker inspectors now have their offices.

NO EFFECT HERE

The U. S. Flour Milling Co. Decree Doesn't Cover Local Mills.

There will be no change in the management of the Consolidated Milling company. The United States Flour Milling company neither owns nor operates the mills operated by the Consolidated company, and Judge Thomas' decree will have no effect locally.

That was the comment of A. C. Loring, when seen this morning, regarding the decree handed down in the United States court yesterday afternoon in the case of the Central Trust company of New York, as trustee of the United States Flour Milling company, against the United States Flour Milling company, and Samuel Thomas, A. C. Loring and Charles Kimball, trustees. The decree provides that the property formerly owned by the Hecker-Jones-Jewell Milling company, a member of the so-called milling trust, shall be divided into two portions and that the Trust company shall have a bid for each of the two portions. After these bids have been received, bids shall be requested for the property as a whole and the property shall then be sold to the highest bidder. The decree also provides for the sale of all properties of the United States Flour Milling company wherever situated. The trustees are awarded $25,800 for their expenses and compensation. The mortgage liability of the company is found to be $2,750,158.

Big Crowds to See Roosevelt.

An attendance of 25,000 people from outside points is expected at the state fair on the day Vice President Roosevelt and his family are making preparation to handle the big crowds that will arrive here during the fair. Double trains will be run and a one fare rate made.

Railroad Notes.

The Diamond J packet line, between the twin cities and St. Louis, is doing a heavy business this season, both freight and passenger.

Great Western earnings for the second week in August were $196,312, an increase of $23,115; for July 1, $95,072, an increase of $14,550.

The Great Northern loaded over 200 cars of new wheat on the Breckenridge division of the Northern Pacific at St. Paul, Minn., on a record for so early in the season.

A dispatch from Sioux City states that the building of the Centerville line of the Northern Pacific has been advanced indefinitely owing to the reduction in the crop yield caused by drought.

The Northern Pacific, Great Northern and Soo roads have decided upon a $9 rate from the twin cities or from Chicago for the special congress at St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 2. They rejected the $50 rate proposition which they were considering on account of the $9 arbitrarily demanded by the Southern Pacific on all business between Portland, Oregon, and San Francisco.

The St. Paul Union Depot company in its semi-annual report just submitted to the Interstate commerce commission states that for the six months ending June 30, 1901, passenger revenue was $1,000,000, an increase of 4,500; number of trains, 24,149, an increase of 110; transferred to other roads, 135,500 freight cars and engines, an increase of 24,212; and the ticket sales increased $19,000.

Construction work on the Algona Central railway between Minneapolis and the Canadian Soo is being energetically pushed at both ends and mid way. At the Soo end five miles have been graded and the trains are running thirty miles. At the upper lake end about thirty miles have been graded and track-laying is progressing rapidly. The line is working both ways from Algona on the middle section.

PREDICTS A RIVER REVIVAL

Commander U. R. Harris in charge of the government expedition to examine and repair the signal lights and beacons along the Mississippi, arrived in St. Paul yesterday on the lightship tender Lily. He believes that the Mississippi is again to become a great commercial highway.

WILDWOOD IS POPULAR

Many Minneapolis People Go There to Dance—The Divers.

A large number of Minneapolis people are nightly visiting Wildwood. Many are attracted by the dancing, some fine parties having been given during the season. A very nice class of people are also noticeable and many enjoyable entertainments are the outcome. This week the Wolf and Barrett orchestra is giving special dancing programs each evening. This evening they will give a dance music of local composers; to-morrow is "popular swing" night.

The Meier family are attracting large crowds to Wildwood this week. They give a variety of entertainments, and Tom and Bessie Meier are on the marvelous order with their high diving, trick swimming and other feats. There is also a lot, scarcely 5 years old, that gives from a 10-foot board, and does it as clean and skillfully as the most expert swimmer.

THE STAGE UPSET

Mrs. L. H. Hallock Recovering From Injuries Received at Laggan.

Rev. and Mrs. Leavitt H. Hallock, who have returned to Minneapolis after a trip through the northern Rockies, had an exciting adventure in which Mrs. Hallock was quite seriously injured. The pleasure seekers spent two weeks at Banff and Glacier and at Lake Louise, near Laggan. The trip from Lake Louise back to Laggan was commenced by stage about midnight. While driving down the mountain the stage overturned and all the occupants were thrown out. Mrs. Hallock was the only one of the party injured. She sustained a severe cut in the back of the head, but has now recovered. The other members of the party, Mrs. C. G. Benton and Mrs. C. H. Wood,

TEXAS OIL NEWS.

Mainly about the Men in the Saratoga Co.

A perfectly legitimate and proper question is often asked as to the men who are in control of the affairs of the Saratoga Oil & Pipeline company. All inquiries upon this point have been answered personally but it may not be amiss to give a few facts here.

The president of the Saratoga company is W. E. Brice, of Mason City, Iowa. He is a director in 12 banks in the state of Iowa, a projector and builder of the Iowa, Minnesota & Northwestern railway, a line 200 miles long, running from Belle Plaine, Iowa, to Blue Earth City, Minnesota, recently sold to the Chicago & North-Western system; president of the I. M. and N. W. Townsite company, owning all the new townsites along the line of railway; president of the Mason City & Clear Lake railway (being the street railway system of Mason City, and an interurban line to Cedar Lake, Iowa); president of the Brice & Ong Land Co., and a director in the Mason City Town Lot and Improvement company; president of the Beaman Gas & Electric company (being the gas, electric and hot water supply company of Mason City, Iowa); director in the Beaman Trust company, of Beaman, Texas. Mr. Brice is the founder of the Saratoga company, as well as its president and largest stockholder. He was in the Beaman oil field within three days after the discovery of the Lucas well. He was struck, and he has given practically his entire time to the oil business ever since. In an article published in the August number of the National Magazine on the building of the West, by Charles Sumner Nichols, further facts are given regarding the president of the Saratoga company.

The vice president is L. A. Lydiard, city clerk of the city of Minneapolis, who represents a syndicate of Minneapolis capitalists in the management of this company.

The secretary, W. J. McAllister, and treasurer, A. Kline, both of Mason City, Iowa, were the founders and builders of the independent telephone system which operates in Mason City, Minnesota, and northern Iowa from Minneapolis to Fort Dodge, Mason City and other Iowa points.

The active officers of the company have all been on the ground at Beaman and understand the situation. They are giving their entire time and attention to the oil business, insuring a careful and intelligent management. This fact, together with the splendid showing made on Spindle Top (on all four sides of the Saratoga well) practically guaranteeing a gusher makes Saratoga stock at 30 cents a share per value $1, the best investment that any man or woman can make. Write for the latest bulletin to stockholders, Saratoga Oil & Pipeline Co., 728 Andrus Building, Minneapolis.
