"WOMEN IN BUSINESS"

Interesting Literary Program at Morning Session.

The literary program of the morning on "Women in Business" was delayed on account of the car blockade, and for this reason had only a small audience. The program was provided by the Business Women's Club of Minneapolis. Miss Martha Scott Anderson presided in place of the club president, Miss Jennie Schaffer, and read her review of the recent convention of the National Association of Business Women, showing the salient points of such as both advantages and the reverse. It was pointed out that the cafe feature seemed essential to success, even though the financial management of a cafe offers many difficulties that have not yet been successfully solved by all of the associations.

Miss Elizabeth Liscamb, a charter member of the Minneapolis Club, gave a history of that organization, showing how it had felt its way to comparative success, trying all things that seemed promising and sifting out those not feasible or acceptable. Miss Anderson answered questions on the work of the club and brought out a few of the points of advantage obtained by associations of business women. Two piano solos were furnished by Miss Bessie Godkin of St. Paul.

HEREFORDS SOLD WELL

Miss Wilkinson of Crookston Paid $1,000 for Two Fine Ones.

Hereford cattle seem to be favorites with Minnesota breeders. Two were sold to Miss Mary A. Wilkinson of Crookston, for $500 each this morning. Miss Wilkinson was loudly cheered by the big crowd in the tent when she overtopped the best bids of her men competitors. The animals she secured were Cornelia, 102,536, and Modest Belle, 102,537, both from Emporia, Kan. They outrank all the other animals at the sale, the best previous price being $400.

Colonel Woods had a much easier time today than yesterday, the bidding was more spirited and the offers more liberal. While the average price yesterday was $201, the average price to-day was $225.

Young Bosses Favorites.

Heifers were the favorites, the average being $247.75, the highest for the commodity only $17.50. The prices for the present Hereford sale are about $15 better than last year, making the sale a remarkably successful one.

The total amount realized to-day was $8,320, which with the $6,485 yesterday makes the grand total $14,805. All the animals sold have gone to Minnesota, Iowa, North Dakota and South Dakota. Among the Minnesota breeders who invested to-day were the following:

John Hayton, Hewitt, Miss Mary A. Wilkinson, Crookston; J. R. Hubachek, Minneapolis; two animals, Dan Peterson, Sherburne; W. H. Matthews, Adrian; R. A. Wilkinson, Crookston; J. Lewis, Rileson, Tracy; J. Elsworth, Cannon Falls; E. J. Delana, Edgerton; Adolph Caska, Albany.

In the big cattle tent the judges were judging Herefords and Shorthorns. With many farmers this is the most entertaining feature of the fair, as it brings together the finest specimens on exhibition in such a way that they can be compared. For this reason the big show tent is always crowded.

WANTS THE NEWSBOYS' BAND

An Interstate Fair Representative Here After Attractions.

C. S. Van Auker, secretary of the interstate fair to be held at La Crosse, Wis., Sept. 24-27, was at the fair yesterday secured for his fair the attendance of a number of the best exhibits including prize winning poultry and fat stock. Some of the "midway" attractions were also induced to take in La Crosse. Van Auker announced that he would have The Newsboys' Band there if he had nothing else. He had heard of them at Buffalo and Milwaukee and as a drawing card for the "newsies" and their music would be the big hit of his show.

Wild Man Got Loose.

There was a wild time on Midway this morning when the wild man of Borneo broke loose and tore through the crowds with a bone in his hand. The wild man was taken to the river, took to the woods, and the women and children in amusement row did some tail yelling. The wild man was finally rescued by one of his keepers and towed back to the retreat at the lower end of Midway. The crowd followed and one of the hits of the day had been scored by the manager.

Crookston's Great Band.

The Crookston band gave a delightful serenade in front of the Journal building last evening. The music was inspiring, well played and drew an appreciative audience.

Guests of the Fair Officials.

Inmates of the institution for the feeble minded at Faribault to the number of seven were the guests of the state fair management to-day. They arrived on one of the early trains and were taken to the fair in a viewing the show, in charge of Dr. A. C. Rodgers, superintendent of the school, and Miss Woods, matron.

KING'S THROAT IS BAD

EDWARD FEARS HE HAS CANCER

Doctors Reassure Him, but the Throat is Certainly in Bad Condition.

London, Sept. 5.—Distressing rumors about the king's health have been in the air for many weeks, but it has not been possible to separate the wheat from the chaff. The monarch's throat has been the subject of much speculation, and the court leaves little ground for doubt that the king has been nervous about the condition of his throat and suspicious that his sister's fate might be a warning to him. Specialists have examined his throat while he has been at Homburg and they have confirmed the previous diagnosis that there is no evidence of cancer. There is, however, some disease of the throat which requires constant watching and treatment. Informants state that the king has been warned against any mental excitement and that his mind should be kept as quiet as possible. He has been subjected strongly to his going to his sister's death-bed on the ground that the emotion and intensity of his grief would be dangerous.

There is a court theory that while the king's throat is not now in a cancerous state, it may become so under the influence of mental depression and excitement. This foreboding reflects the pessimism prevailing in England in all matters. No alarmist at the court suggests that the coronation will be interrupted by a decline in the king's health.

HEALTHY SCHOOLMA'AM.

Found Out How to Feed Himself.

Many school teachers, at the end of their year's work, feel thoroughly exhausted and worn out, physically and mentally. The demand upon the nerves and brain of a teacher is unusual and unless they are well fed and fed upon properly selected food, it is natural that they should run down.

A little woman teacher at Gobleville, Mich., who has been teaching regularly for a number of years, has always found herself thoroughly exhausted at the end of the season, until within the last year she has made use of Grape-Nuts Food with the result that she closed the school year closed, whereas since using Grape-Nuts, this change has been brought about; evidence prima facie of the value of Grape-Nuts Food for rebuilding the brain and nerve centers.

The name of the teacher can be given by the Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich.

WISE WORDS FROM THE PRESIDENT

years of toil and struggle, in which every part of the country has its stake, which will not permit of either neglect or of undue selfishness.

Reciprocity Favored.

No narrow, selfish policy will subvert it. The greatest skill and wisdom on the part of the manufacturers and producers will be required to hold and increase it. Our industrial enterprises, which have grown to such great proportions, affect the homes and occupations of the people and the welfare of the country. Our capacity to produce has developed so enormously and our products have so multiplied, that the problem of more markets requires our urgent and immediate attention. Only a broad and enlightened policy will keep what we have. No other policy will get more. In these times of marvelous business energy and gain we ought to be looking to the future, strengthening the weak places in our industrial and commercial system, that we may be ready for any storm or strain.

By sensible trade arrangements which will not interrupt our home production we shall extend the outlets for our increasing surplus. A system which provides a mutual exchange of commodities is manifestly essential to the continued healthful growth of our export trade. We must not repose in fancied security that we can forever sell everything we buy without restriction. If such a thing as a free trade is possible it would be best for us for those with whom we deal. We should take from our customers such of their products as we can use without harm to our industries and labor. Reciprocity is the natural outgrowth of our wonderful industrial development under the domestic policy now firmly established. What we produce beyond our domestic consumption must have a vent abroad. The excess must be relieved through a foreign outlet and we should sell every article we can and wherever the buying will enlarge our sales and production, and thereby make a greater demand for home labor.

The period of exclusiveness is past. The expansion of our trade and commerce is the pressing problem. Commercial policy of good will and friendly trade relations will prevent reprisals. Reciprocity treaties are in harmony with the spirit of the times; measures of retaliation are not. If, perchance, some of our tariffs are no longer needed for revenue or to encourage and protect our industries at home, why should they not be employed to extend and promote our markets abroad?

Then, too, we have inadequate steamship service. New lines of steamers already have been chartered by the United States and the western coasts of Mexico and Central and South America. These should be followed by the United States and the eastern coast of the United States and South American ports. One of the needs of the times is direct commercial lines from the United States to the fields of consumption that we have to be reached. Next in advantage to having the thing to sell is to have the convenience to carry it to the buyer.

We must encourage our merchant marine. We must have more ships. They must be under the American flag, built and manned and owned by Americans. These will not only be profitable in a commercial sense; they will be messengers of peace and amity wherever they go. We must build the isthmian canal, which will unite the two oceans and give a straight line of communication between the western coasts of Central and South America and Mexico. The construction of a Pacific cable cannot be longer postponed.

In the furtherance of these objects of national policy, we have been performing an important part. This exposition would have touched the heart of that American statesman whose mind was ever alert and whose heart was ever open to the larger commerce and a truer fraternity of the peoples of the New World. His broad American spirit is felt and manifested here. He needs no identification to an assemblage of Americans everywhere, for the name of McKinley is inseparable with the Pan-American movement, which finds this practical and substantial expression, and which we all hope will be firmly established in the Pan-American congress that assembles this autumn in the capital of Mexico. The good work will go on. It cannot be stopped. These buildings will be monuments of art and beauty and industry will persist from sight, but their influence will remain to—

Make it live beyond its too short living. With praises and thanksgiving. We have awakened the ambitions of the high achievements that will be wrought through this exposition? Gentlemen, let us ever remember that our interest is in concord, not conflict, and that our real rests in the victories of peace, not those of war. We hope that all who are represented here may be moved to higher and nobler effort for their own and the world's good, and out of this city may come not only greater commerce and trade for us all, but more essential than these, relations of mutual respect, confidence and friendship, which will deepen and endure.

Our earnest prayer is that God will graciously vouchsafe prosperity, happiness and peace to all our neighbors and like blessings to all the peoples and powers of the earth.

"Know a Good Thing."

President McKinley's speech was frequently interrupted with applause by those referring to the establishment of reciprocal treaties with other countries, the necessity of the American people building an isthmian canal and a Pacific cable and his reference to the work of Blaine in developing the Pan-American idea bringing forth especially enthusiastic cheers. Upon the conclusion of his address a large number broke through the lines and the president held an impromptu reception for fifteen minutes, shaking hands with thousands.

The ladies were then brought to the steps of the stand and the president, accompanied by the diplomatic corps and specially invited guests, was taken to the stadium. When the president arrived at 11:45 that structure was crowded. The troops stood at attention while the president reviewed them. Cheer after cheer from the vast assemblage greeted the chief executive as he walked from one end of the tribune to the other and back to the reviewing stand. The troops then marched past the stand and performed intricate maneuvers for fifteen minutes.

Mrs. McKinley left the stand at the conclusion of the speechmaking and was taken to the women's building where she was entertained by the woman managers. A committee representing the states having exhibits in the horticulture building presented Mrs. McKinley two baskets of fruit, the choicest of the fine exhibits in that fine structure.

Makes a Tour of Buildings.

From the Stadium the president proceeded to the Canadian building, where he was met by the Canadian commissioners and viewed the Canadian exhibits. He next visited the agricultural building, where he was met by such foreign commissioners as have no buildings of their own but have exhibits. He visited in order the buildings of Honduras, Cuba, Chile, Mexico, Dominican republics, Porto Rico and Ecuador where he was received by the commissioners of the respective countries.

At 2 p. m. the president was entertained at luncheon by the New York state commission in the New York state building. There were 200 guests, including the members of the diplomatic corps, members of the cabinet, judges, officers and other distinguished men. The remainder of the afternoon's program included an inspection of the government buildings and exhibits, after which the president returned to the residence of Mr. Milburn for dinner. The president and Mrs. McKinley will visit the grounds this evening to view the illumination and fireworks.

Ecuador Hitting Colombia

Washington, Sept. 5.—A cablegram was received here to-day from an authoritative source in Cali, Colombia, near the Ecuadorian border, stating that Ecuador had intervened against Colombia with an army well equipped and with vessels of war. Under these circumstances the cablegram states that it will be necessary to meet the move of Ecuador by having Colombia war vessels in Pacific waters near the Colombian-Ecuador frontier.

That Ecuador is considering Ecuador is considered clear evidence of Ecuador's intention to join forces with the rebellious element on the isthmus of Panama. Until an army well equipped and with vessels of war, but the cablegram received to-day indicates that the first overt movement against Colombia has been made.

CONG. McCLEARY RETURNS

HE VISITS THE PAN-AMERICAN

The Second District Man Much Interested in Mike Dowling's Latest Move.

Special to The Journal.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 5.—James T. McCleary, second district congressman from Minnesota, paid the Pan-American Exposition a brief visit this week, arriving Monday. Mr. McCleary has just returned from an extended visit to Europe, having left home in June and traveled in ten foreign countries. On the Pan-American Exposition McCleary had nothing but praise to bestow, and as to Minnesota's share in it, he was enthusiastic. With the congressman were his family, and all seemed delighted with the exposition. Mr. McCleary's stay will be of but a few days; duration, when he expects to return home. Personally he has not looked better in years and seems a little stouter than when he left for the European trip. All of the party enjoyed the best of health while away.

Much has transpired in Minnesota since Mr. McCleary left, and he seemed greatly shocked over R. G. Evans' sudden death and somewhat interested in the announcement that Mike Dowling had filed a declaration of his intention to run for congress, with the secretary of state. The point which particularly interested him was whether the earliest filer of a declaration was to have his name appear first on the primary ticket or not.

FORSYTH O. K.

Anti-Schley Interview Made Up from Private Conversation.

Washington, Sept. 5.—A reply has been received at the navy department from Captain Forsyth to the letter calling his attention to an alleged interview published on the subject of the Schley court of inquiry. An earlier letter of the department to Captain Forsyth, it appears, did not reach him. The following statement of the character of the reply was made at the department:

Captain Forsyth, while coming east, was detained over Saturday at Kansas City, Mo. He declined to talk with a reporter. It seems, however, that he felt into private conversation with a person in the hotel, with no idea that what he said would be used in any form. His remarks were distorted and were used to form the substance of the alleged interview. Captain Forsyth has made such disclaimer and has so frankly avowed his deep regret at any indiscretion in the premises that the department is satisfied there was no intention on his part of violating the order of the department to refrain from public statement. No action will be taken by the department further than to inform Captain Forsyth that his explanation is satisfactory and that the incident will not be treated as affecting his excellent record.
