THE HIGH SCHOOLS
JACK LOOMIS TO LEAVE

Central High Loses Valuable Coach—Gets "Babe" Loomis Instead.

The Central High football team has lost its coach, Jack Loomis, who left this morning for Detroit, Mich., where he will look after interests of the Washburn-Crosby Milling company. Mr. Loomis has coached the Central team for three seasons, and has succeeded in placing a team on the gridiron that has not lost a game for three years.

"Babe" Loomis, who will succeed his brother, will continue the same system of coaching and if anything will work the boys harder. The Messrs. Loomis both graduated from the South High school when that institution led in athletics. Central is fortunate in securing the services of "Babe" Loomis, who is not only one of the headiest football players but also has the faculty of imparting his knowledge to others.

Medics Were Easy

They Failed to Score Against the Varsity Team.

GOPHERS MADE SOME STAR PLAYS

However, the Work Was Individual Rather Than by the Team.

How much credit the Minnesota football team is entitled to for winning a game from the Chicago College of Physicians and Surgeons by the almost ludicrous score of 27 to 0, is not an easy thing to determine. The medical students had not lined up before this season and aside from their lack of training they had not even learned the signals. They did not elect their captain until they arrived in Minneapolis, Saturday morning, and Captain Bothne's first work was to take the players out to the site of the old baseball park in South Minneapolis.

Tickets for the Minnesota-Nebraska game of next Saturday will be on sale tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock at S. E. Olson's, Vogel's, the Andrus building cigar store and the University book and cigar stores; also at Lennon & Gibbons' store in St. Paul.

PROGRESS THE RULE

Big Nine Teams Show Improvement Over Earlier Games.

A GREAT GAME 'TILL BE

The Nebraskans a Team of Giants Determined to Win or Die Very Hard.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 7.—Nebraska university's football victory over Doane college of Crete, Neb., at Lincoln, Saturday, was not so decisive as it was expected to be, in the light of all that had been reported of the strength of the Nebraskans. The score at the end of thirty-five minutes' play stood 29 to 0 in favor of the "great cornhuskers." The Doane eleven that played Saturday was about as eleven as Crete could get. The Nebraska field was a week ago a little heavier on the average, but possessed of less knowledge of the points of the game. Individually the men played a spirited game but as a team, they could do nothing to stop the charges of the heavy Nebraskans or to make gains against them. On the other hand, the Nebraskans hardly came up to the expectations based on the highly colored reports which have been allowed to flow like water from the pens of the Lincoln critics, possibly in the hope that they could aid their home team by scaring coming opponents into a "blue funk" by such reports.

Two Stars Not in Game.

Still, the Nebraskans were apparently possessed of the feeling that it was not necessary to do their best against so weak a foe and did not play as fast a game as they were capable of. Ringer, the big left guard, and Koehler, the star center, were not in the game. Both of these men are very heavy and skilful players and the substitution of other men in their places materially weakened the team. Ringer and Koehler are being saved for the great game with Minnesota Saturday. With these two men Nebraska has a powerful aggregation—a team of great size and with a good deal of skill than was shown in the game with the Doane boys Saturday.

The game with Minnesota, therefore, will be a battle of giants, to accept the term applied to the game with Nebraska by the Minnesota men. The Nebraskans will measure up well with them man for man. Right across the line, with C. Shedd at left end, Stringer left tackle, Ringer left guard, Koehler center, Westover right guard, Captain Westover right tackle, Cortelyou right end, the Minnesota men will have their hands full. Further, Nebraska has a tremendous line. The big men, Kingsbury left half, G. Shedd right half and Pillsbury fullback. Drain at quarter is a little man, but as agile as a cat and a clever dodger.

Man for Man.

C. Shedd at left end can scarcely be regarded as a match for Aune, who will oppose him. Aune is a big man, who will man his man, however he is to be, work as hard as he ever did on a gridiron. Ringer will tax Mueller's strength, but the advantage, it seems, will be with Mueller. There will be an opportunity, therefore, for Mueller to distinguish himself. Koehler at center is a strong man, but is not Page's equal, so far as can be learned. Dwyer, right guard, will not have things his own way against Flynn, but Flynn will have no snap in taking care of Brew. Westover and Fee are pretty evenly matched in point of strength, but Westover is the better man will be gladiatorial and in itself will be worth going to the game to see. Cortelyou will be the strongest man Rogers will have been called upon to meet up to Saturday.

At the half back positions the Nebraskans will have some advantage in weight and experience, at least on one side. Doble and Knowlton at their best are more than matches, all things considered, for Drain and Pillsbury respectively.

The Nebraskans can vary the program behind the line by substituting Bender and Crandall, two light but tremendous swift men, for Shedd and Kingsbury at halves and Bell for Pillsbury at fullback. The heavier men will doubtless be played first and depending on the tactics of the plunging, for they are all men of courage when it comes to plunging into the line. If they fail to gain ground, however, the more agile men will be tried.

The Way One Feels.

Despite the strength of the men and their individual prowess as players there is the feeling that as a team the Nebraskans are not quite the equals of the gophers. The reasons for this feeling are rather elusive; it is hard to tell just what to base one's opinion on. The fact that teams at the foot of the feeling "is there" and sticks fast, assuming always that the Minnesota men will do their best—play the game that such men ought to be able to play, the old players trying away, and the temptation to over-confidence and the new men rivaling the old in their efforts to play a perfect game.

Minnesota has no defeat to wipe out, but last year's victory was not enough for their admirers—that is the victory against Nebraska. It was expected that the Nebraskans would be shut out; they scored twelve points; Minnesota's admirers, therefore, look for that shut-out to be made good this year. To do it, the Minnesota men will have to do some terrific work. Yet that should be their objective so far as defensive work goes, and about three touchdowns should be the aim of the offensive—not less than that. The question is, can they and will they make such a score? Despite the fact that the Nebraskans may have felt some slight taint of overconfidence, they are strong men, as has been pointed out, they are determined men, and that if a player goes from one school to another he must wait a full year before entering himself as a candidate for football honors.

It is stated very positively by those in direct authority at the "U" that Rogers will play next Saturday, it is denied, further, that his playing will be in violation of any rule of the "big nine," in view of the fact that Carlisle is regarded as a preparatory school, to which the rules cited do not apply. Little fear is expressed that the Nebraska team "will not enter the field," therefore, it is well known that Carlisle's curriculum is only preparatory. Indeed, it scarcely carries its students to a point at which they may enter freshmen in most colleges. The grounds for Nebraska's progress would, therefore, seem to be very slight.

Carlisle as Trainer.

Professor P. A. Carlisle, who has been trainer of the West Point football squad for a number of years and gave the Minnesota boys lessons in boxing last year, will serve as trainer for the team this fall. He was on the grounds Friday, and when Saturday comes, play the game they are capable of.

The Game in Brief.

By a succession of line plunges, Nebraska carried the ball over Doane's goal line in less than five minutes from the start, Pillsbury carrying the ball over. Stringer kicked a goal, making the score 6 to 0. G. Shedd went over for a second touchdown a few minutes later after a succession of easy carries, making the score 11 to 0, the try at goal failing. The play was almost entirely in Doane territory, as on the kick-offs the Nebraskans were able to get the ball well back down the field, largely through the clever dodging and running of Drain, who is a variable goat at the art. The Nebraska interference formed only fairly, but such there was as effective. There was some fumbling, too, on Nebraska's part, but was usually a Nebraska man who fell on the ball. Only once were the Nebraskans held for downs, a third touchdown and a second failure at goal left the score at the end of the first half of twenty minutes 17 to 0.

ROGERS IS ELIGIBLE

THOUGH NEBRASKA MAY PROTEST

It is said the Cornhuskers Will Refuse to Play if Rogers Does.

Reports from Omaha says that Nebraska will refuse to enter the field if Minnesota persists in playing Rogers, left end, who won glory as captain of the Carlisle team last year. The reports add that Coach Booth and Captain Westover of the Nebraska team have formulated a protest to be submitted to the athletic board of the University of Minnesota, asserting that Rogers is barred by the rules of the big nine conference, which hold that no player shall be allowed to represent a college more than four years, and that if a player goes from one school to another he must wait a full year before entering himself as a candidate for football honors.

It is stated very positively by those in direct authority at the "U" that Rogers will play next Saturday, it is denied, further, that his playing will be in violation of any rule of the "big nine," in view of the fact that Carlisle is regarded as a preparatory school, to which the rules cited do not apply. PROGRESS THE RULE

Big Nine Teams Show Improvement Over Earlier Games.

New York Sun Special Service

Chicago, Oct. 7.—All members of the "Big Nine" met worthy opponents in early season football games Saturday. But three of the nine failed to score more than 25 points—Chicago, Northwestern and Iowa. None of the smaller aggregations

The general play on Saturday was much in advance of that of a week ago. The teams had become sufficiently "hardened" to allow faster play, and nearly all the eleven worked up to their early season limit. The only real surprises of the day were the low scores. Iowa and Chicago are both dealing with green material, and Northwestern played a crippled team—Lake Forest—but the scores were expected to be higher, notwithstanding.

The Chicago situation remains about the same as it was a week ago. The Maroons have not the material for a first-class team, and are not trying to conceal the fact. Knox gave them an even game. There was little to choose between the teams at any stage of the contest. But in justice to Stage it must be said that Knox was far better rounded out than Chicago. The Chicago ends were both new at the position and were next to useless when Chicago was on the offensive. Nevertheless Chicago is in for a hard uphill fight all through the campaign, and victories will be appreciated on the Midway as they never have been before.

Northwestern loafed with Hollister away, and made a miserable showing against Lake Forest. The purple gathered in but 11 points in twenty minutes. Yost's men walked away from Case in the most decisive manner registered in several years. Case was outplayed in every conceivable manner by the Wolverines.

was punted over to the Hyde Park side. The badgers worked equally well on defense, and not once during the game did the high school lads succeed in making their five yards, always being compelled to punt. Wisconsin, on the other hand, never failed to make her distance, and the only times the visitors got the ball was after the kickoffs and punts, and once on a fumble.

During the second half six or seven of the substitutes were put in, and while there was a noticeable difference in the game, the badgers were still too strong for their opponents. Fog played quarterback until the middle of the second half, handled the ball well and got into the interference in fine shape. Larson and Cochems at halfback carried the ball for the greater part of the game, though Driver was sent through the line for ten or twelve yards on several occasions. Cochems got in two seventy-yard runs around the end, one of them for a touchdown on the second play after the kick-off.

The defeated team was the same, with the exception of one man, that defeated Chicago 5 to 0 a week previously, and the Hyde Park players and coaches agreed that Chicago, at the present stage at least, is not in Wisconsin's class at all.

In the kicking contest held before the game, Schreiber won the drop kick at goal, and Abercrombie in the punts for distance, sending the oval 63 yards. Their names will be the first inscribed on the Gill cup.

ALMOST A RIOT

At Electric Light Game at Des Moines Saturday Evening.

Special to The Journal.

Des Moines, Iowa, Oct. 7.—In a well-attended game of football played under electric lights at the ball park Saturday night, Grinnell defeated Drake university team by a score of 6 to 5. The game was marked by a sensational incident. In the course of the playing Drake was frequently penalized by Referee Lane, a Yale alumnus and coach of the Highland Park normal football team. A touchdown made by Bacon of Drake just as the game was closing would have given Drake the game, but Lane refused to allow it. Graesser, an old Drake man, temporarily out of the game, walked up to the referee and struck him a hard blow in the neck, felling him to the ground. A general melee was barely avoided, the police interceded, taking Lane off the field in a dazed condition and clearing the crowd out of the park as quickly as possible.

IOWANS DISAPPOINTED

Game Against State Normal Gives Them Low Score.

Iowa City, Iowa, Oct. 7.—"Well, I guess Iowa will have to get some if she beats Minnesota in three weeks from now. She can never do it with that team." That is a sample of the talk heard among Iowa rooters, at the close of the game with the state normal team of Cedar Falls, Saturday, in which the teachers held the Hawkeyes down to sixteen points. The score was 16 to 0, while the game with the same team last year, much earlier in the season, was 68 to 0.

The Iowans feel bad, not so much because of the poor showing, but because the Minnesota normal, but because the Minnesota game is so near. It is this game that the students are much concerned about. The normal has her last year's team almost intact, but the men were nearly fifteen pounds lighter, hence the way they held the old Iowa, was heart-breaking.

When the normal team came upon the ground thoughts of last year's score of 68 to 0 caused them fear and trembling, and as a result Iowa scored a touchdown in the first three minutes' play, and went two more in the next six minutes. Then the visitors made a stand and the scoring was all over. The teachers had the ball a greater share of the time than C. Edson, the famous halfback of the Iowa teams of '99 and '00 has been coaching the normal team and the manner in which Wallace and Wolfe went around and through the Iowa line showed that Edson had been doing some wonderful work with them. But where the men made their gains was through the line and especially through center where Iowa to-day is lamentably weak. Coach Knipe has been practicing the squad on the old Harvard defense, putting Briggs, the center, back in to fill the space. Perhaps it was because of the newness of the play to Selberts and Smith, the guards, but somehow the normal found this to be a soft place and they walked through it. They also went through Herbert and Hollenbeck for repeated gains with the tandem play. Briggs and Buckley did not get into the defense and the normal's runners made good gains. The strongest feature of the Iowan's play was the flying interference, which aided Williams in making long runs with the ball.

Century for Iowa consists in having the guards, ends and center run back to the man who catches the kick-off and form a solid, fast moving mass behind which the man carrying the ball runs with safety. This feature was very successful.

The individual work of the members of the team was much better than the team work. The speed is not up to last year's standard. Welland at halfback is considered a find. When his 175 pounds strike the line it means a gain. Buckley is playing an excellent fullback. Herbert and Terrill the new men from the West Des Moines high school, is distinguishing himself as a punter.

Runs Made From Winnebago City and Mankato.

The roads in southern Minnesota must be in good shape. John W. Knutson and G. E. Eggabrog of Winnebago City, A. C. Bennett and B. A. Wheelock of Mankato, reached Minneapolis last evening in two gasolene automobiles after a day's run from a six day trip. Mr. Knutson said that they covered the 150 miles in about five hours, and for most of the distance averaged 35 miles an hour.

The return trip will be over 200 miles, but the chauffeurs expected to make the distance easily between sunrise and sunset. The two autos were the first ever seen in the ancient village of Belle Blaine, and there was a stampede of farmers' wagons in the wild scramble to get a look at the machines.

EGIL BOECKMAN

was able to cross a goal line. Indiana, Wisconsin, and Michigan led the vanguard in big scores. Rose Polytechnic fell before the heavy Indians, 64 to 0, while Hyde Park lost to Wisconsin by one point less. Michigan defeated Case, 57 to 0, and Chicago had the hardest proposition of all with Knox, winning by one touchdown and goal.

The most spectacular play of the day was the seventy-five yard run of Fee, after breaking through the center and evading the backs. Boeckman also made a brilliant run of sixty-five yards, but it was not allowed, as several players on both teams were off side.

It was hoped that the game would determine who would play at right tackle and left half, but it can not hardly be said to have done so. Allen and Boeckman did some good things at left half, but could not know more of the game. Neither Wait nor Thorpe distinguished themselves, but either might prove fairly safe, even if they could not become as strong in the position as Tweet.

The line-up and scores are as follows:

Lipton Will Challenge Again

New York, Oct. 7.—Sir Thomas Lipton has given his first intimation that he will challenge again for the America's cup.

"You may say for me," he said, "that if the cup is to leave this country, I am determined to have it."

From saying more than this Sir Thomas wished to be excused.

George Watson, designer of Shamrock II, had left the Erin only a few minutes before Sir Thomas made this announcement.

If Sir Thomas does not issue a challenge for a race next year, it is not unlikely that there may be a race. It is reported that the Emperor of Germany is considering the matter of challenging for the America's cup.

There is talk of others also issuing challenges.
