In Social Circles

Miss Maud K. Marshall gave a charming tea this afternoon at her apartment in the Virginia, entertaining about seventy-five of the younger women. The guests of honor were Miss Jessie Quail, Miss Louise Buntin and Miss Nellie Armstrong, brides of the fall and early winter. The subdued coloring of the handsome furnishings was repeated in the decorations, and the dull reds and greens of the great branches of autumn leaves in the corners and over the doorways and windows were seen again in the oriental rugs and draperies. Red roses in profusion were in the reception-rooms and hall, and a great basket of roses overhung the frappe bowl, which was handed with grapes, red, green and purple, forming a gorgeous mass of color. Autumn leaves also ran over the dining-room walls in a range of brilliant shades, and on the round mahogany table was a cut and glass bowl filled with scarlet salvia which stretched their flame-like blossoms almost to the edge. A mandolin orchestra played a program of music as the guests came and went. After 8 o'clock a number of men joined the group of young women. Assisting through the rooms and alternating at the frappe bowl were Misses Louis K. Myers, Wilbur F. Thayer, A. Woodway, Donald McLean, Jr., J. D. Montgomery of Omaha; Misses Jessica Morgan, Ada Blackwell, Mayme Marshall and Miss Hancock, who is the guest of Mrs. Myers.

Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Quail of Park avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Jessie Margaret Quail, and Henry Gould Foote of Boston, Mass.

An interesting affair of the day was the tea given by Miss Pauline Kruger at her studio for Miss Elizabeth Berry of the Otis Skinner company. Branches of autumn leaves furnished a brilliant decoration through the room and accentuated the quaint furnishings. Odd old lanterns and tapers in strange-shaped candlesticks gave a subdued light. Russian tea was served by Miss Norma Kruger. About forty guests were invited to meet Miss Berry, and among them were Fletcher Norton of the Otis Skinner company, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Musgrave, Miss Amalie Kluge, Mrs. Mabel Cline, Dr. G. K. Tilkson, and Mrs. Kirke of Chicago.

An informal reception was given this afternoon from 4 until 6 o'clock at Mrs. J. C. Crosby's new studio by a class of her pupils. Mrs. Crosby has just moved into her studio, which is a large, airy room, finished in hard wood and with the rough plaster. It is a room for work, not for play, although the young people had decorated it with a holiday air this afternoon. Mrs. Crosby assisted the young people, Misses Florence and Cobb, Pearl and Virginia Paulsgrew, Edna Stahlman and Master Earl Couch, received. Ices and confections were served in the dining-room, where red roses and red tapers in brass candelabra burned brightly. Misses Emily and Adelaide Crosby, Louise Higbee and Blanche Edgerston.

Miss Ariel Burton will entertain at cards to-morrow evening at her home, Deephaven, Lake Minnetonka.

Miss Vera McIntosh, whose marriage to Theodore F. McIntosh took place last evening, will give a dinner at her home on Cofax avenue 8 Monday. Miss Ernestine F. McNevin of Rock Island will arrive to-morrow to be the guest of Miss McIntosh.

The Tuesday Limited Club will give its first dancing party this season Tuesday evening in Johnson hall.

Dr. S. D. Huttenpiller, the new pastor of Hennepin Avenue M. E. church, and Mrs. Huttenpiller were given a welcoming reception last evening in the church parlors by the church and a large number of ladies in farewell to Dr. and Mrs. C. B. Mitchell, and about 500 guests braved the rain and were present. The parlors were attractively decorated with branches of bright leaves and the altar was handsomely decorated with palms, with Meteor roses to furnish color. Receiving with the guests of honor were Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Robinson, Mrs. I. W. Joyce, Mrs. Henry Stone, Mrs. F. A. Chalmers, Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Lutz, Mrs. Wm. H. Farnham, N. McCarthy, H. G. Harrison, W. J. Dean, T. B. Walker and Frank Joyce. A musical program was given under the direction of Professor J. C. Hoffer by Mrs. Florence Mulford, Alvin Davies and Fred S. Wodan. Rev. J. S. Montgomery and J. T. Cody spoke a few words of welcome and expressed their appreciation for what Dr. Mitchell has done for the church. Dr. Huttenpiller and Dr. Mitchell made appropriate responses. Light refreshments were served from a table decked with La France roses and autumn leaves. The affair was a silver candelabra. Mrs. F. O. Holman, assisted by Misses Sloum, Stong, Benton and Quail, had charge of the tea table.

Mrs. Thomas Baker of Mount Grove avenue entertained at cards Wednesday afternoon. The rooms were darkened and the lights were shaded in red. Autumn Beauty roses were in the hall and through the rooms. Mrs. George Stricker assisted. Baker. A light luncheon was served after the games. There were thirty-five guests.

The Seventeenth Street Euchre Club was delightfully entertained Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. H. H. Barber at her home on Seventh street. Roses and softly shaded lights made the rooms attractive. Six tables of euchre were played and the games were freshments were served, and Mrs. George Rose and Mr. Charles Cirkler poured coffee.

Miss Hanna Harkins of Hoop avenue gave a parcel shower Wednesday evening for Margaret Coskan, a bride of next week. Autumn leaves were used in the decoration and clusters of roses and carnations were on the mantel and table. A program of music and recitations was given and Miss Coskan was showered with thirty gifts.

The Misses Louise and Fannie Troke gave a dinner Wednesday evening at the Spencer Paul for Miss Carrie Stratton of Minneapolis. The guests from Minneapolis were Misses Jennie Fuller, O. S. King, Leslie Fuller, Fred Bell, James Schwing, Will Kirk and Ella Donaldson. The rooms were decked with roses, carnations and ferns. The affair was in honor of Miss Stratton's birthday.

Tuesday evening C. E. Spring entertained at his apartments, 210 W. Grant street, in honor of the fortieth birthday of Benjamin Waller. Cards were played, and the prizes were won by Mrs. E. C. Brown, Miss Harriet Brown, Miss Grace Adams and A. J. Johnson. Supper was served from the small tables.

The wedding of Miss Louise Mueller and N. Edward Nelson took place last evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mueller, 2023 First avenue N. Rev. Herman Kaas of St. Paul read the service in the presence of 100 guests. Charles Mueller was best man and Miss Lena Faulkland was maid of honor. Mr. and Mrs. Nelson will make their home at 326 Ninth avenue S.

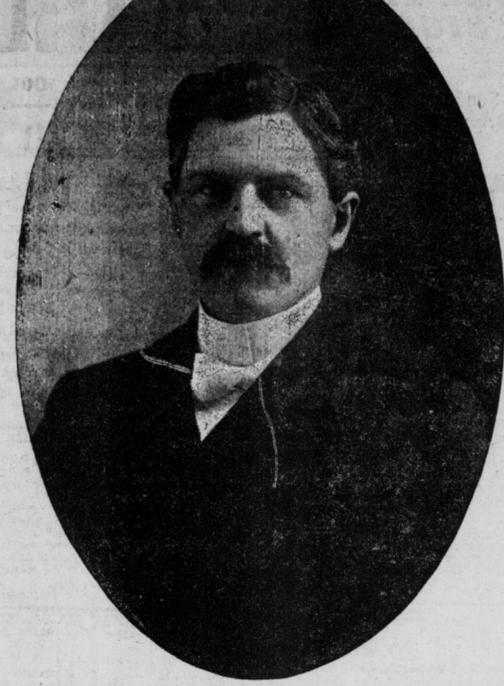

Miss Emma Beatrice Turner, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Charles Turner, and Edward A. Magione were married last week in Medina, N. Y.

Minneapolis people will be interested in the marriage of Miss Agnes Shaw Armitage, formerly of this city, and George Hubbard of Fargo, N. D., which took place at the home of Dr. D. L. Armitage in Princeton Wednesday. Miss Anna Armitage, Minneapolis, was maid of honor, and John Armitage of Minneapolis was best man. The service was read by Rev. Stuart B. Purvis of this city. The bride wore her traveling gown of dark gray and carried bride roses. Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard went to Fargo on the evening train. H. B. Cillely of Minneapolis was among the guests.

Miss Emma Oberaker and Albert O. Martin, both of Young America, were married yesterday at the home of the bridegroom's mother, 635 Summer street. Rev. Ernest E. Day read the service.

Miss Clara Louise Holmdale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Holmdale, and Arthur Taber Brown were married Wednesday at the White House, Excelsior. The service was read by Rev. J. E. Dallam.

THEY'RE AWFUL PRETTY

THE RIBBONS OF 100 TEACHERS

Lincoln, Neb., Sends Its Learned Maecots to Undo the Minnesota Eleven.

One hundred young women of the twentieth century, out of the west and decked in red and white ribbons, swooped down upon Minneapolis this morning. They are school teachers and Lincoln, Neb., in their homes.

To Professor C. H. Gordon, superintendent of schools, the enviable task of looking after this interesting "bevy of Howevers" has been assigned, and Friday, Oct. 11, is Dr. Gordon's busy day. He arose early and wrought hard, but at noon it was apparent that he would have no voice for the football game to-morrow.

To begin with, he found it no idle pastime to secure hotel accommodations for 100 schoolma'ams, but he did the best he could at the National, where the majority of the teachers will remain until after the game.

"The Nebraska teachers are a fine, intellectual lot of women, and it must be admitted, exceptionally good looking. They are bubbling over with confidence in the "Braska leaven," and each and several have their pocketbooks conveniently bestowed.

They came up ostensibly to study the curriculum in the Minneapolis public schools, and a few studious spirits, who arrived early, went up to the central high school this morning and "rubbered" the Nebraska particular business of the teachers in Minneapolis at this time is due to the presence of the eleven strong boys from the University of Nebraska, "the Nebraska teachers and their cousins and their aunts."

The teachers will put in to-day in a quiet, educational way. They will look in at the schools, talk with the local teachers and principals and hear what Dr. Jordan has to say. They will also avail themselves of the opportunity to see as much of the city as possible.

The Nebraska young women expect to make some noise at the game to-morrow, and, like the stump speaker, they "are here for that purpose."

"We came to see how the differential calculus works in Minneapolis," said a demure young creature, with great blue eyes and a serious scholastic face, to a Journal man. But her Raglan was festooned with a bunch of red and white gowgaws as large as a cabbage, and her umbrella was gay with the varietal colors of Colonel Bryan's town.

Tuesday evening George Brackett was pleasantly surprised at his home on Fourteenth avenue S in honor of his birthday. Cards were played and refreshments served.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar M. Hoover of Little Falls, Minn., who have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Redfield, left last evening for home at 11 o'clock.

Mr. Hoover's brother, which takes place next week.

Minneapolis people at New York hotels are Grand Union, Ludlow, Holland, and Mrs. J. R. Vanderlip, Miss M. S. Hubbard; Victoria, V. Harrington, I. E. Nesbitt; Pabst, W. M. Resan; Gerard, Mrs. Wm. Harris; Broadway, H. G. Neale. St. Paul: C. W. Williams.

On Monday evening, a jolly party from Palestine Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, surprised J. L. Brown at his home on the East Side, the occasion being his birthday. Cards and other games were played and refreshments were served. Mrs. Mary C. Taylor presented Mr. Brown, in behalf of the guests, with a handsome gift.

"MOON-FACED" WIVES

Like the Turks and many other dwellers in oriental lands, the Moors prefer "moon-faced" wives rather than lean ones, and are more solicitous as to the number of pounds which their brides weigh than about the stock of accomplishments they possess. A girl is put under the process of fattening when she is about 12 years of age. Her hands are tied behind her, and she is seated on a carpet during so many hours every day, while her "papa" stands over her with a mace, or big stick, and her mother at times paws into her mouth a ball of couscous, or stiff maize porridge (kneaded up with grease, and just large enough to be swallowed without the patient choking). If the unfortunate victim declines to be stuffed she is compelled, so that are long the poor girl resigns herself to the torture and gulps down the boluses to avoid being beaten.

TO WASH DISHES

The first step is well-scrubbed. I find a dainty help in the use of cheap tissue paper for wiping out greasy dishes. Into a small dishpan half full of boiling hot water put a piece of common kitchen soap and allow it to remain only long enough to make the water slightly soapy. A regular order of dish-washing should be observed: First, the glasses, next the silver, then the cups and saucers, followed by the sticky and greasy dishes, and last the pots and pans and kettles. One should have three dish-mops, a small one for the glasses and after-dinner coffee cups, another for the other dishes, and a third for the cooking utensils. If the left-hand mops are properly scraped before being put into the water they can be cleaned perfectly without the use of that abominable dishcloth. The mops should be carefully washed after use and be hung in a bright, warm place to dry thoroughly. Take one dish in the hand at a time and wash carefully. When dishes are handled in this way, only the tips of the fingers of the left hand need come in contact with the dish-water. As soon as the dishwater in the pan gets cool or becomes at all dirty, it should be emptied out and the pan be refilled half full of boiling water. The dishwater should never be allowed to become like "boarding-house soup." Dishes can, of course, be dried more easily when scalded.

AN ATTRACTIVE TABLE

A charming dinner table, arranged for a party of twelve, was spread with a cloth of the finest white linen elaborately open-worked, lace-edged and inserted with Hungarian hand-made lace. This cloth was laid over a slip of pale-green satin. The flowers chosen were sweet peas of all colors, mingled with green and white ribbon, ribbon glass, revers arranged in delicate Greece glasses, with gold rims and gold monogram. The blue glasses matched the lower glass and the linen napkins were lace-trimmed and drawn to match the tablecloth.

AT THE HOTELS

John Miller, former governor of North Dakota, now a prominent Duluth grain man, says that the unfavorable weather in North Dakota this fall will have the effect of delaying the shipment of the flax crop of that state. The farmers in some sections of the state have been able to do but a small part of their fall work, which includes plowing and some of the general preparations for the next crop. He says that the wet weather of the past few weeks will probably affect the grade of the wheat as the nature of the wheat kernel this year is such as to make it very susceptible to adverse conditions.

Frank S. Lyman of Grand Forks is here. Mr. Lyman is prominently identified with a new company recently formed to develop lignite coal properties along the Soo line in northwestern North Dakota. He says that the general business conditions in the state are very good. The hope of the pioneer Dakotan to see the western part of the state settled with thrifty farmers is being realized. There is every prospect that the rush of homeseekers into North Dakota will continue with its present force. Business men generally express satisfaction over the present conditions.

Colonel John D. Benton of Fargo, who came within one vote of being elected United States senator in '93, is at the Nicollet. Mr. Benton is here on a business mission. He says that the next few years will see many changes in the newer sections of the state. Lands are selling rapidly and money is seeking investment in the newer counties. Mr. Benton has taken no part in North Dakota politics since '98.

Joseph Goodman, the pioneer merchant of Dakota, N. D., arrived in Minneapolis today on a business trip. He is registered at the Nicollet. The boom in farm lands in his section of the country, he states, is quite phenomenal and within the last three years values have increased 50 per cent. The immigration this year, from Iowa, Illinois, Wisconsin and other middle-western states, has been greater than ever known in the history of the country.

Land is now selling from $10 to $25 per acre, and a healthy sign of the times is, that the newcomers are going into diversified farming, their efforts being directed to the growing of corn and raising of cattle, hogs and sheep.
