

COLDS

I regard my COLD CURE as more valuable than a life insurance policy. It not only cures colds in the head, colds in the lungs, colds in the bones, but it wards off dangerous diseases such as grippe, diphtheria, pneumonia, and consumption.

Munyon's Rheumatism Cure seldom fails to relieve in one to three hours, and cures in a few days. Munyon's Dyspepsia Cure positively cures all forms of indigestion and stomach trouble. Munyon's Cough Cure stops coughs, night sweats, allays soreness and speedsily heals the lungs. Munyon's Kidney Cure quickly cures pain in the back, loins or groin, and all forms of kidney disease. Munyon's Urinary Restorer restores power to weak men. All the cures are 25 cents, at any drug store.

Munyon's Guide to Health should be in the hands of every mother. It will help them to know the symptoms of every disease and tell them the proper treatment. Sent free to any address. Munyon, New York and Philadelphia.

NOT TO BE REFUSED

So Says Hiram Stevens Regarding U. S. Senatorship.

HE DENIES JUDICIAL CANDIDACY

As to the Senatorship It's Different, but Too Early to State His Position.

Special to The Journal.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 19.—Hiram F. Stevens, of St. Paul, who is attending the general convention of the Episcopal church in this city as a lay delegate, was to-day shown the story which appeared in The Journal of Oct. 4. That story was to the effect that Mr. Stevens had announced to his friends that he would be a candidate for United States senator in 1904 in opposition to Senator Clapp, and that the junior senator from Minnesota had opposed his candidacy for a federal judgeship. Mr. Stevens was much interested in the story and remarked that it was one of the most interesting articles that he had read in a long time. When asked to make a statement in regard to his position, he dictated the following:

"I am not a candidate for the proposed federal judgeship, never was and never expect to be. I have never expressed a desire for the position, and would not take it if offered to me. In fact I could not afford to take it.

"As to the senatorship, that is a position no man would refuse, but as far as my being a candidate is concerned, it is too early now to state what my position will be.

"No ill-feeling exists between Senator Clapp and myself that I know of. If Judge Morris will take the federal judgeship, I know of no man better qualified to discharge the duties of the position.

"In this article every statement attributed to me is utterly without foundation."

Mr. Stevens' statement as to the senatorship confirms the gist of The Journal's story of Oct. 4. In all Mr. Stevens' sweeping denial, he fails to deny that he has designs on the toga, but of course, it is "too early to state his position." The statement quoted in The Journal was made to friends and not intended for general circulation. Its publication has doubtless caused Mr. Stevens much inconvenience, but the story was too good to keep.

Since The Journal's publication the Stevens candidacy has been widely discussed. It has loosened tongues in St. Paul, and it is now a matter of common knowledge that Stevens intends to enter the senatorial contest at the proper time.

The Journal did not state that Mr. Stevens was a candidate for the federal judgeship. That position has not been created yet, but friends of his did sound the congressional delegation for their sentiments, and got the rather blunt statement from Senator Clapp that it was "no use to talk about Stevens."

This remark was construed as a declaration of war. Mr. Stevens had his eye on the senatorship long before, and probably this hostility so frankly expressed by Senator Clapp was enough to rouse his blood to the fighting pitch, and it was then he declared to friends that he would give Clapp a race.

With regard to Judge Morris and the federal judgeship, it is well known that the judge would be ineligible if the office should be created this winter.

BAD MEN ARE THESE

Rare Entertainment in a Kentucky Courtroom.

Hearing the Verdict Would Be Against Them, They Shoot and Calmly Walk Out.

New York Sun Special Service

Reeds Station, Ky., Oct. 19.—In the midst of a trial for disorderly conduct, Enoch Clay and his son James, both prisoners at the bar, killed John Oldham, their accuser, a rich horseman. Then, when the lawyers had gone through the windows, the judge hidden behind the bench and all the jury scattered in all directions, the murderers put the remaining officers before their guns and walked from the courtroom free men leaving John Oldham, their victim, bleeding his life out in that court whose protection he had sought.

The Clays have long been the bad men in the section. Oldham, their victim, was quiet and peaceable except when arrested. For some time there had been bad blood between Oldham and the two men who shot him. All met on the streets of Spotsylvania yesterday and Oldham had to jump behind a hotel bar to save his life. He swore out a warrant and his two assailants were charged to appear before Magistrate Johnson's court to-day. The evidence was a clear case of assault had been proven. The jury, however, asked time to consider. They were consulting in their seats.

"It will be guilty, Jim," said a friend, to James Clay.

"The hell it will be!" said Clay. "Did you hear that, dad?"

Together the men sprang to their feet. They rushed to the courtroom in time where several guns were standing. One seized a shotgun and the other a rifle. Oldham jumped to his feet just as the men turned on him. He turned in time to face their leveled guns, and to hear the older Clay shout "kill the hound!" Then Oldham fell with a rifle bullet and a load of buckshot in his body. Half a dozen lawyers jumped from the windows, the judge hid behind the desk and the jury fled in all directions.

"Hands up!" shouted Clay, and the constable obeyed. Then the Clays walked calmly from the room, jumped on their horses and were away before any one could stop them.

STATUS OF THE ARMY

SOME IMPROVEMENTS SUGGESTED

Adj. Gen. Corbin Notes Some Things That Are Wrong and Advises Congress.

Washington, Oct. 19.—The annual report of Major General Henry C. Corbin, adjutant general of the army, comprehensively reviews the work, condition and the military establishments of the army. General Corbin submits a table to show that the army in the Philippines is to be reduced by expired enlistments at the rate of about two thousand a month from now on until June, 1902. The question whether the regiments thus depleted in strength are to remain so, or be recruited to their full roster, he says, is one requiring the very earliest consideration, and if not contemplated, it is already time to begin special recruiting.

The losses from all causes in the regular army and the volunteers from July 1, 1900, to June 30 last totaled 18,924 officers and men in the former and 8,191 in the latter. The casualties to the troops in the Philippines since the date of the first arrival, June 30, 1898, to June 30 last were 115 officers and 2,775 men killed and 182 officers and 2,646 men wounded.

General Corbin invites special attention to the remarks of Colonel Mills, superintendent of the West Point Military academy, upon the improved discipline and general improvement of the cadet corps. It is safe to predict, says General Corbin, that the training of the cadets of the past, and that it will not soon be again a subject for the consideration of the war department.

General Corbin devotes special attention to the question of the instruction of the army. He believes that the system of training for the officer should begin with elementary instruction at each post and terminate in the higher training, which would be provided at a war college, the speedy and complete organization of which he considers most desirable.

Gen. Corbin believes the army transport service on the Pacific is costing the government considerably more than the use of commercial steamship lines, and for the latter would have the advantage, denied to the government, of transporting passengers, freight and mails to the agent, both on outward and homeward voyages, and would meet the needs for increasing American trade in the orient.

He therefore suggests that congress with safety could offer inducements to United States shippers to install a line of steamers under charter that would permit them, in time of necessity, to serve as reserve army and navy transports.

An equally important need of the service, General Corbin says, is a domestic cable from the Pacific coast to the Philippines.

He strongly recommends that congress shall authorize the retirement of not to exceed two major generals on the active and one on the retired list, with the rank of lieutenant general. He points out that the distinguished services of Major General Merritt, Enoch and Otis fully entitle them to this honor.

WRITER AND LAWMAKER

HALL CAINE'S LATEST AMBITION

Running for Parliament on a Platform That Nationalizes Everything.

London, Oct. 19.—Hall Caine has consented to become a candidate for the Manx parliament in behalf of the town of Ramsey. His opponent is a local lawyer. Mr. Caine's address had created consternation even among his own supporters, for his name was a synonym for that must be planks in a national platform of some great reform party. Most of all he wants to nationalize the steamship service connecting the Isle of Man with England, running it without profit. Then he applies himself to the Manx system and street railroads and would furnish the same radical system to them. Land must be treated in a somewhat similar manner, the Manx parliament controlling the drainage, cultivating and tree planting.

The banks of course are included in this nationalizing scheme.

Mr. Caine justifies these apparently unprofitable national undertakings by pointing out that the primary factor in Manx prosperity is the island's popularity as a holiday resort and that it must prosper or decline as it meets the needs of the visitors. With a parting reference to the necessity for a reform of the system of taxation and riding the legal system of its anarchistic superfluities, the author commits himself and his program into the hands of the intelligent citizens of Ramsey.

INDIANS MUST MARRY

Matrimonial Bureau on an Oklahoma Reservation.

New York Sun Special Service

Kansas City, Oct. 19.—Uncle Sam is conducting marriage bureaus on the Ponca and Otoe Indian reservations in Oklahoma. Early in 1901 it was decreed that the bucks and squaws should conduct their love affairs with the utmost propriety, and now, according to John Jensen, Indian agent, wedding bells ring often on the reservation.

"The bucks rebelled at first," said Mr. Jensen to-day, "but I gave them their choice of marrying or going to jail. The sheriff helped me out. When a buck proved very recalcitrant, I had a warrant issued for his arrest, and when he came to jail I caused him to surrender, and as I always had a marriage license in readiness the ceremony was performed. The Indians are shiftless. In many homes costly furniture is found, but when the weather is cold and wood scarce the furniture is readily reduced to kindling and freely burned."

KEEP ON PICKETING

Striking Machinists in Chicago Ignore an Injunction.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—Despite the fact that they were enjoined in the United States court here yesterday from picketing the Allis-Chalmers plant and the Gates Iron works, pickets representing the striking machinists watched the place to-day as usual. When the night pickets, numbering eight, left their stations at 6 a. m. they were replaced by a squad of twelve. Business Agent Ireland of the machinists said:

We shall continue to post our pickets. The people are with us if the law, as interpreted by Judge Koblasz is not. We will continue to use moral suasion in dealing with non-union men and I believe Judge Koblasz will not interfere with us.

Uncanny Old Habitation

St. Louis, Oct. 19.—A pile of human bones was found buried in the cellar of the old mansion at 1014 Broadway street by the police. Detectives are looking for Dr. A. C. H. Baurchter, who was recently evicted from the house for non-payment of mortgages on it.

Neighbors tell the police remarkable stories of queer doings in the house during the last two years. Dr. Baurchter, it is said, lived the life of a recluse, never going out and denying himself to all his neighbors. No man was ever seen to go into the old mansion, but many women were admitted, always at night. On more than a hundred occasions the people next door were startled by screams of a feminine voice emanating from the old house. Lights were frequently seen moving about the house at night, but the blinds of the lower floor were kept closed day and night for the past two years and curious neighbors finally give up in despair trying to ascertain the secret of the old mansion. A letter picked up in the house is addressed "From M. D. to Madame Annoton." It refers to the old doctor and also criminal operations.

Overworked Women.

Fatigue is the natural result of hard work, but exhaustion results from weakness. Hard work for a weak woman is traffic in flesh and blood. It makes little difference what the field of work is, whether at home or elsewhere, if there is weakness, work brings exhaustion. Ability to stand the strain of hard work is the privilege of the healthy and robust. How our hearts ache for the sickly women that work for daily bread at some ill-paid factory employment! How distressing also to see a woman struggling with her daily round of household duties, when her back and head are aching, and every new movement brings out a new pain!

If the mere looking on at these suffering women touches our hearts, how hopeless must life be to the women themselves!

Their devotion to duty is a heroism which a well person cannot understand. Can these ailing, weak women, who are called upon to do work which would tire a strong man, be made to see that they can easily and surely better their condition?

Will not the volumes of letters from women made strong by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, convince them of the virtues of this medicine?

How shall the FACT that it WILL HELP THEM be made plain?

When a medicine has been successful in more than a million cases, is it justice to yourself to say, without trying it, "I do not believe it would help me?"

Surely you cannot wish to remain weak and sick and discouraged, exhausted with each day's work. You have some derangement of the feminine organism, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you just as surely as it has others.

Read the letters from women in the opposite column of this paper, and when you go to your drug store to buy this sterling medicine, do not let yourself be persuaded to accept the druggist's own valueless preparation because it is a few cents cheaper than

Evidence of Mrs. Pinkham's Cures.

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—One year ago I read a letter in a paper telling how much good one woman had derived from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I had been sick all winter and was nearly discouraged, as the medicine the doctor gave me did me no good. I had kidney complaint, leucorrhoea, itching, bearing-down feeling, and painful menstruation. I wrote to you describing my trouble and soon received an answer telling me what to do. I followed your instructions, and have taken nine bottles of Vegetable Compound and used one package of Sanative Wash and one box of Liver Pills. I am well now, do not have those sick spells at the monthly period, but can work all day, and that I never could do until I began taking the Compound. I cannot praise the Compound too highly. I do hope every suffering woman will learn of your remedies and be cured as I have been. I wish all success to the Compound; it has done wonders for me and I am so thankful. —MRS. GENIE KELLOGG, Berlin Heights, Ohio.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I wish to let you know that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured me of painful menstruation from which I suffered terribly. I really believe that I would be insane to-day if it had not been for your medicine. I cannot praise your Compound enough, and feel that if all who suffer from female troubles would put themselves under your care and follow your advice they will find relief.—MISS K. E. SCHOLTES, Mt. Oliver, Pittsburg, Pa.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—For eight years I have suffered with inflammation of the womb and bladder, profuse and painful menstruation, and at times it seemed as though I should die. I doctored most of the time, but seemed to fail every year. A short time ago I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and, thanks to your wonderful medicine, I am to-day a well woman. Your medicine is woman's best friend.—MRS. L. L. TOWNE, Littleton, N. H.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I suffered for six years, sometimes being unable to get about at all. It seemed to me as though I could not live, and I did not care to. I had womb trouble, kidney trouble, leucorrhoea, backache, was nervous, and had no ambition. Was obliged to give up my trade. I tried three doctors, but they did me no good, so I thought I would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so, and I felt better after the first bottle, and by the time I had taken six I was able to resume my work again. I shall always praise your Vegetable Compound.—MRS. MARY A. RUSSELL, Chinoteague Island, Va.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I was sick for seven years without any relief, although treated by two of the very best doctors in this city. A few years ago I was nothing but a living skeleton. The doctor said my heart was the cause of all my sickness and that I could only be relieved, but never get well. Sometimes I would get so exhausted and short of breath that I would not know what to do. My nerves were very weak, blood impure. Was troubled with hands and feet swelling; also had leucorrhoea. I have taken six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and feel well once more. I have gained twenty-seven pounds and am able to work all day in the store and do not feel tired when I get home at night. Words cannot express my gratitude to Mrs. Pinkham for what her medicine has done for me.—PETRA M. LOYA, care of L. Wolfson, San Antonio, Texas.
