

ASTROLOGY'S GLAM

Believes He Could Save the President's Life.

EPISODE OF THE SECRET SERVICE

Counterfeiter Who Said No Cell Could Hold Him and Straightway Proved It.

From The Journal Bureau, Room 45, Post Building, Washington, Oct. 23.—The discussion of the secret service by the press of the country since the McKinley assassination has caused some funny applications for appointment in that bureau, but none more quaint than that of a professional astrologer.

He reasoned, with forceful logic, that if a practical practitioner of his art had cast a horoscope of President McKinley, the police and public would have been warned of what was to happen in Buffalo. When asked what good it would have done if it had been decreed by fate that the assassination should occur, he gave as his opinion that, at any rate, every one in interest would have been apprised of the shock of surprise. He was then asked whether he could cast the horoscope of President Roosevelt, and did so, with what results it would be inexpedient to publish here or to put through several more tests, to which he responded in a manner equally practical, but it was decided not to take advantage of this opportunity to enjoy him.

Perhaps the most picturesque offer of assistance ever made to the secret service was received by Colonel Whitley when he was first called to the "Pete" McCartney, one of the most dangerous and troublesome members of the counterfeiting fraternity in the United States, had just been put behind the bars at Springfield, Ill., and Whitley went through the prison before leaving town. As he passed McCartney's cell the counterfeiter engaged him in a cheerful conversation of a minute or so, ending with the inquiry where the colonel was staying. Whitley mentioned the name of his hotel, bade McCartney good-by and went his way.

Made Good His Boast.

That evening Whitley was seated in his hotel room working over some papers in a case which had been given him a good deal of trouble. He was seated at a table where he could see the light of a lamp, the rest of the room being dark, and his back toward the door. He had reached a point in his case where it was necessary that he should quit the room, and a man of unwavering nerve and remarkable ingenuity, who could enter and leave without discovery a building supposed to be kept securely locked. Almost unconsciously he had begun talking aloud to himself, and as he finally brought his flat down upon the table with the exclamation, "Where can I get hold of such a man?" he was startled to find a familiar face behind him, saying, "Maybe I can help you out."

He sprang up, turning as he did so, and looked into the face of McCartney. It seems that "Pete" had boasted to the chief that there was no use of locking him up, as the dungeon had not yet been built, and this unexpected appearance was simply by way of an ocular demonstration of his point. The chief reached for his pistol, which lay in an open grip on his side, but McCartney reached for his, saying that having proved his statement, he was ready now to go back and be locked up again. Whitley did not put his pistol away, but the two men walked calmly up to the prison, and the counterfeiter called upon the keeper and gave himself up.

Stories of McCartney are abundant in secret service circles. His most conspicuous trait appears to have been his enterprising, and this doubtless will account for a part of the success he achieved in his disreputable but profitable career. He had just acquired the notoriety incident to a release from a considerable term of imprisonment for counterfeiting, and took advantage of the public interest in him by going upon the lecture platform and regaling large audiences at 50 cents a head, with the "Confessions of a Crook." Naturally he naturally he made with some rapidity so that it was some time before the police discovered that he had made use of his box office to get rid of a certain amount of his own counterfeit money. Every spectator who handed in a dollar for a ticket received a counterfeit half dollar in change. The scheme worked magnificently for a while, but like all McCartney's enterprises it ended at last to disaster and the penitentiary. His wit and daring would have equipped an honest man for gaining a fortune.

Maximum Telephone Charges.

Telephone users and companies all over the country will be interested in a decision which the national supreme court is due to hand down some day. It will be the final word on the right of the national legislative authorities of cities and towns to establish a maximum charge. Congress passed a law many months ago and the court of appeals of the District of Columbia upheld it, making $50 a year the highest possible charge for an unlimited service instrument. The telephone company naturally fought it, the ground taken being a claim that their property was being taken from them for an unlimited service, which was forbidden by the constitution. An association of telephone users has pressed the suit against the company. If the supreme court upholds the municipalities under the police up was all the telephone service at once begin to get cheap telephone service. There will also be a precedent establishing the right of municipalities under the police up was all the telephone service at once begin to get cheap telephone service. There will also be a precedent establishing the right of municipalities under the police up was all the telephone service at once begin to get cheap telephone service.

COFFEE DID IT.

Would Have Been Fatal if Kept Up.

"Coffee! Oh, how I did want it after the nervous strain of public work. Something warm to brace me up was all the breakfast I craved, but every time I drank it, I suffered the dying sensation that follows it with heart fluttering and throbbing of the throat and ears. "I had no strength to throw away in that way, so decided that hot water must do for me.

"One morning I came to breakfast in the home of some friends in Pueblo, Colo. just in time to see the mother pouring some rich deep yellow coffee into mugs for the two little boys. One little chap had thrust his finger in his nose and was licking them with such approving smacks. This opened the way for me to say, 'Are you not afraid of the effects of coffee on the little folks?' The mother explained that it was Postum Food Coffee made at Battle Creek, Mich., and remarked, 'We think there is nothing like it.' Then she explained how the new coffee had weaned them away from the use of the old-fashioned coffee and tea because 'it is so wholesome.' I drank it there for the first time, and was delighted, not only with the delicious flavor, but with the fact that it gave me satisfaction. One day I was speaking with our family physician's wife about Postum, when her daughter remarked, 'Yes, mama, we are out of Postum, and I have used coffee the last two mornings and it always brings the tired feeling and troubles my stomach and bowels, but Postum makes me feel all right.'

"In one home they served Postum in such a way that it was tasteless. I have found that Postum boiled sometimes five minutes, and sometimes ten, is nothing more than spoiled water, but when it is made with two heaping teaspoons of each cup, and boiled fifteen or twenty minutes it becomes a tried and proven breakfast favorite, and for refreshment and wholesome nourishment, has no equal."—M. MASONS OF NORTHWEST

HONORARY DEGREE CONFERRED

List of Men Honored by the Supreme Council of Scottish Rite Masons.

From The Journal Bureau, Room 45, Post Building, Washington, Oct. 23.—The Supreme Council of Scottish Rite Masons, now holding its biennial session here, has selected 100 Masons of high standing in the states of the southern jurisdiction for advancement to the honorary thirty-third degree. There are very few active thirty-third degree Masons, less than a dozen all told, but honorary thirty-thirds are awarded quite liberally. In Minnesota, for instance, it is said there are perhaps fifty men who have already received that degree, which was yesterday given the following persons in the northwestern states:

Minnesota—Harry Edward Whitney, Fairbault; William Hayes Laird, Winona; William Chester White, William Albert McGowan, Duluth; Edwin James Foster, George Henry Duggett, John Sylvester Dodge, Minneapolis. Iowa—William Peters Heppner, Clarinda; Almer Stern, Logan; William M. WOMEN'S CLUB TRUST

Mrs. Lyon Would Unite All Athletic Clubs.

Philadelphia, Oct. 23.—Mrs. Harriet Pauline Lyon, secretary and manager of the woman's athletic club of Chicago, is here to find out what are the prospects of controlling the Philadelphia Society and enrolling it in her proposed society trust, or International Organization of Athletic clubs for women. After visiting New York, Boston and Washington, Mrs. Lyon will go to London and Paris in the interest of the organization, and upon her return in February will make a western trip, extending as far as San Francisco.

ALLEGED DIAMOND THIEF CAUGHT.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—After wandering across practically all of the states between Illinois and the Pacific coast, escaping from the police of a dozen or more cities by means of various forms of trumped-up technicalities, and eluding Chicago detectives who were constantly on his trail for four years, Burt A. Spaulding, alleged leader of the old gang of burglars who stole diamonds valued at $3,000 from the residence of Maurice Epstein in this city, Nov. 29, 1897, has been captured in Kansas City. A policeman has been sent there to bring Spaulding here for trial.

DEMOCRATS WERE SLOW

NOMINATIONS NOT FILED IN TIME

Signature of the Chairman of the Convention Said to Have Been Forged.

Special to The Journal. Webster City, Iowa, Oct. 23.—The furor created in this county by the failure of the democrats to file their certificates of nomination of county officers with the auditor within the twenty-day limit is not abating, but instead is increasing day by day. The papers were filed just one day too late. The democrats asserted that strenuous efforts were made to file the papers the evening before the limit expired, but the auditor could not be found. Hence they claim that the papers should be dated one day back, thus bringing them within the time. The chairman of the republican committee filed objections to this procedure.

It now develops that forgery has entered into the matter.

The signature of W. A. Wharton, chairman of the convention, was affixed to the nomination certificates by some one other than himself. Wharton resides in Stratford. When the democrats found that the papers had not been filed, it was too late to send them to Stratford and get them back in time. A prominent democrat of this city forged the signature. As to whether the democrats will withdraw the nomination papers and let the ticket go by default, or continue the fight before the election committee, has not yet been determined. The committee will hear the case Thursday unless the ticket be withdrawn before then.

BIBLE CONFERENCE

Large Attendance Upon a Series of Meetings at Winona.

Special to The Journal. Winona, Minn., Oct. 23.—To-day, the closing day of the northern Minnesota Bible conference, was marked by a large attendance. A pleasing feature of the conference is the vocal music rendered by Professor E. P. Bilhorn, the well-known singer of Chicago, who led the song and prayer services at each of the three sessions to-day. This morning Rev. Dr. Riley of Minneapolis delivered an interesting address on the topic, "Christ's Epistle to the Church at Pergamos." In the afternoon Rev. George R. Fisher of Northfield conducted Bible study, followed by Mr. Kollig on the subject, "Sharing the Glory of Christ." This evening Rev. H. W. Kollig of Milwaukee will speak on the topic, "Strengthened with Christ." Presiding Elder J. F. Stout will also speak, his subject being "Summing Up." The attendance of Bible workers from out of the city was large during the entire conference, the auditorium of the First Baptist church, crowded to its utmost seating capacity.

COFFIN MAY BE INNOCENT

Minneapolis People Would Help Him Out of His Trouble.

Special to The Journal. Red Wing, Minn., Oct. 23.—Several Minneapolis people have interested themselves in William Coffin, the young constable from Crow Wing county, who was indicted here for criminal conduct towards a girl whom he was taking to the training school. These Minneapolis men, among them Judge Harvey, believe that Coffin is innocent. The residence owned by the late Anthony Hendel at Wacouta, a short distance below this city, was partly destroyed by fire, supposed to be of incendiary origin. The house was temporarily unoccupied. The clerks of the city have opened a vigorous campaign to enforce the 6 o'clock closing of stores.
