

MRS. DAVIS STATES

Tells Why She Removed the Body of the Senator.

MINNESOTA PROVED NEGLECTFUL

The Lady Denies That She Will Spend No More of Her Time in St. Paul.

New York Sun Special Service.

Washington, Oct. 23.—The removal of Senator Davis' remains from St. Paul is the latest chapter of the Davis-Merriam social feud, which dates back many years.

It is the purpose of Mrs. Davis to make her present home in Washington. After the death of the senator she gave up the residence which had been leased by him on H street, near Seventeenth, and she has taken a residence at 1624 S street northwest, where she will reside this winter.

I regret to see that my exaggerated reports concerning the removal of Senator Davis' body are now current. I have had the very best of motives in making this removal.

I notice also that it is said that I shall never again live in Minnesota. This is a mistake. I intend to go there every summer, and my interest in gliding pay for the site and for an appropriate mausoleum.

Last winter, when the legislature met, the project was discussed, but only in a half-hearted way, and the body adjourned without taking any decided action.

Very Bad Management At the Buffalo Exposition

Correspondence of The Journal.

Buffalo, Oct. 21.—Buffalo Day at the Pan-American broke all records of attendance. It was not much of a trick to get a greater crowd than has yet visited the grounds, but it was a great feat to manage things worse than has been done on all of the previous big days.

Last winter, when the legislature met, the project was discussed, but only in a half-hearted way, and the body adjourned without taking any decided action.
