A COURT REVERSED

Lauder-McCumber Controversy Decided Against the Jurist.

COURT SAYS HE WAS NEGLIGENT

Orders the Calling of Another Judge to Try Long Pending Cases.

Special to The Journal.
St. Paul, D., Nov. 22.—The supreme court has decided in the mandamus cases brought against Judge W. S. Lauder of the fourth judicial district by Attorneys McCumber & Forbes and Froerks & Froerks, for clients for whom they had cases in court which they claimed Judge Lauder would not try or call in another judge to dispose of. The bitterness of the controversy, especially as between Senator McCumber and Judge Lauder, attracted state interest. The upper court holds against Judge Lauder, finding that he has failed and neglected and still fails and neglects to perform his official duty as required by the statutes, and directs Clerk Hoskins of the supreme court to issue a peremptory writ of mandamus to Judge Lauder, ordering him to proceed forthwith to arrange for the trial of the cases in question. Costs in the proceedings are taxed against Judge Lauder, and he is required to make return to the supreme court on or before December, showing what he has done in the matter.

The decision in the case is a long one and goes fully into the matters in controversy. It was written by Justice Wallin and covers twenty pages of closely typewritten matter. The allegations of the plaintiffs in the matter, which were that Judge Lauder had refused either to try their cases or to call in another judge to try them, and that when a writ of mandamus had been issued by the supreme court to compel him to hear the cases he had refused to do so, were sustained. The court before the writ would be served upon him, are related and the court bases its findings upon the facts submitted in evidence and the state law covering the question of the duties of district judges in trying cases where affidavits of prejudice have been filed, as were filed in the case in question.

Winchester's Affidavit

The principal point in controversy in the case was as to the nature of the efforts of Judge Lauder to obtain another judge to try the civil cases in which affidavits of prejudice had been filed. This matter is gone into closely by the court. Judge Lauder in his briefs and affidavits stated that he had communicated with several judges in an effort to get them to come to Wahpeton and try the cases. But an affidavit was presented to the supreme court from Judge Oster of the sixth district, stating that Judge Lauder had not communicated with him regarding the matter. Winchester further stated that if he had had a week or ten days' notice he could have presided at the trial of the cases. The supreme court does not hold with Judge Lauder that the necessities of caring for the grain crop in Richland county was a good excuse for the delay in the matter. It was composed mainly of farmers. The court says: Terms of court are appointed by law, and the legislative assembly, representing the whole people, is presented to have said times of holding court with reference to the interests of all the people. It is to the regular judicial tribunals that the citizen and taxpayer may look, and not elsewhere, for the redress of grievances and for the protection of life, liberty and property. The interests of suitors are especially safeguarded by the law, and every lawyer knows that repeated and vexatious delays in the courts are often tantamount to a denial of justice.

Ends of Justice Defeated

Regarding the adjournment of the term of court at Wahpeton, the day before the writ issued by the supreme court was served, ordering Judge Lauder not to adjourn the term, or to show cause if he did so, the court says: The writ was served the next day after the district court adjourned, and since such service the respondent has had full opportunity to show cause why he has failed to perform his duty laid upon him by the statute. His respondent succeeded in showing cause? We are constrained by the undisputed facts in the record to answer the question in the negative. It is conceded that no outside judge has ever appeared in Richland county to try any of these cases except Judge Flisk alone, who was called after said adjournment to try court cases at the adjourned term in October. No claim was made that any judge in the county was ranged for or procured to try the large majority of the cases, i. e., the jury cases. We have seen that the defendant wholly failed and neglected to act in the premises at any time within the long period which elapsed between the adjournment of his court in January, 1901, and when it reconvened on July 2, 1901. We have further noticed the leisurely way in which the respondent proceeded to have a respondent went about the duty of requesting outside judges, one at a time, to attend for the trial of these cases. Finally, we have seen that after the respondent was duly informed that Judge Cowan would attend and preside in these cases at once on respondent's request therefor, that the respondent then and there promptly adjourned his court, and by such adjournment defeated the very purpose for which the request had been previously made by the respondent. By this adjournment respondent successfully defeated the purpose of the writ, which was to require him to consummate and which, presumably at least, the respondent had attempted to consummate.

Must Call Another Judge

Based their conclusions upon the facts and law set forth in the opinion, the court enters an order adjuring Judge Lauder negligent and orders the calling in of another judge forthwith to try the cases. The action of the court is one of the most coming ever made by the higher court in directing a district judge as to what he should do.

Special to The Journal.
Jamestown, N. D., Nov. 22.—Judge Glasscock holding court in Fargo and Judge Pollock in Fargo has taken the place of Jamestown's judge at Carrington, where a term is being held. The case of the state vs. Harrington, for manslaughter, was dismissed on motion of the state's attorney of Foster county. Harrington was alleged to have brought about the death of Mike Garvey, a machine dealer of Carrington, three years ago. Harrington and Garvey were scuffling, having quarrelled over the payment of a bill, and it was alleged that Harrington threw Garvey so that his knee struck a sharp corner of a plow share. The wound resulted in blood poisoning from which Garvey died. Harrington was tried two years ago on a charge of manslaughter and the jury disagreed.

In the case of the state vs. Kelly, agent for the Northern Pacific at Barlow, a verdict of acquittal was brought in, Judge Pollock having so directed. Sixteen witnesses, including the one who had complained, were examined, but none knew of the defendant having violated the prohibition law.

GERMAN ON TRADE

Planes England First, With Germany and America Following.
New York, Nov. 22.—L. M. Goldberger, member of the imperial German consulate board for commercial measures and royal privy councillor of commerce, who has been in this country studying commercial conditions, has been interviewed concerning the report of United States Consul General Mason at Berlin. Mr. Goldberger said:

There are only two men in our history who fully understood the south—Lincoln and McKinley. If Lincoln had lived, there would have been an end to carping among us, and if McKinley had lived, he would have reunited the discordant sections of the south for more than any other man, he understood them.

LINCOLN AND MCKINLEY

Southern Statesmen Says They Were the South's Best Friends.

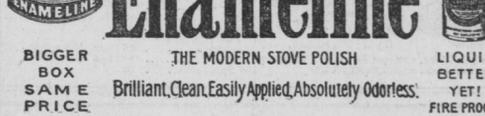

New York, Nov. 22.—Russell Sage and Miss Helen M. Gould were honored guests at the seventh annual banquet of the Society of Mayflower Descendants at the Lincoln's last night. Senator McLaurin of South Carolina, one of the principal speakers, said:

There are only two men in our history who fully understood the south—Lincoln and McKinley. If Lincoln had lived, there would have been an end to carping among us, and if McKinley had lived, he would have reunited the discordant sections of the south for more than any other man, he understood them.

IMMENSE INHERITANCE TAX.

New York, Nov. 22.—Heirs of the late Cornelius Vanderbilt must pay $261,832.42 into the coffers of Uncle Sam. This is the total of the inheritance tax fixed by the federal government against the estate. The decision has just been reached in Washington by Solicitor Wisard of the internal revenue department, and it has been concurred in by Commissioner Yerkes. The heirs have already been compelled to pay a state tax of $20,000. The federal tax just fixed brings the total up to $281,832. The legal expenses of fighting the bill will bring the grand total up to $1,000,000.
