FAIRS AND BAZAARS

Masonic Fair Closes—Bazaar by Missionary Workers and Others.
Masonic Temple was crowded last evening for the closing night of the great fair which has attracted thousands of people and netted large profits for the Masons. Nearly all of the articles at the different booths were disposed of and the few that remained were sold at auction just before closing. Henry Hauglin discovered that he was the most popular Mason and the picture of President McKinley was given to Plymouth lodge of North Minneapolis, which received the largest number of votes. The affair was one of the most successful ever held in Minneapolis.

The annual bazaar of the women of the Missionary society of Hennepin Avenue M. E. church was held yesterday. The parlors were hung with greens and holly and a variety of fancy and useful articles was shown at the different tables. Dinner was served at noon and a supper at 6 o'clock. Mrs. P. A. Chalmers and Mrs. Henry Strong had charge of the dining-room. The tables were under the supervision of Misses A. W. Armstrong, Ernest Smith, Gilbert Walker and Arthur Stevens. Miss Caroline Joyce was chairman of the committee on the Young Ladies' Missionary society, which had charge of cakes and candies. A musical program was given in the evening under the direction of Mrs. Edgar W. Runyan, by Mrs. Welsboon, Cragg Walston and Arthur Aldritt.

The doll sale recently held by the woman's auxiliary of St. Barnabas hospital for the benefit of the free bed netted $350, which will pay the expenses for the coming year. The auxiliary includes thirty women, who pledge themselves to maintain the free bed.

The North Branch of the Young Women's Christian Association will hold a Christmas bazaar at its room, 222 First Avenue N., beginning this evening and continuing Thursday and Friday. Numerous articles suitable for Christmas gifts have been donated for sale. There will be a candy booth and booths for all sorts of fancy and useful articles. The tables will be in charge of the active workers of the branch and the extension committee which directs the work. Refreshments will assist at the bazaar. The rooms will be given an attractive dressing of Christmas greens.

The women of the Church of the Redeemer will serve their annual New England supper this evening in the church parlors. A Christmas sale will be a feature and it will be conducted on novel lines.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Pilgrim Congregational church, Fourteenth and Lyndale avenues N., will have an apron sale and social Friday evening in the church parlors.

Miss Louise W. Stoddard of 2231 W Twenty-first street, will have her annual sale of decorated china to-morrow from 10 to 6 o'clock at her residence.

Harmony circle will serve a chicken pie supper in A. O. U. hall, 12 Seventh street S., to-morrow evening from 5 to 8 o'clock.

Madame Sarah Grand, who will lecture on Friday evening at Plymouth church, will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lowry during her stay in the city and they have arranged a dinner to be given in her honor which will be given to-morrow evening. This famous English woman is one of the social lions of the season, a congenial role to which she is well suited by her pleasant manners and tastes. She is the chronicler of "smart people" and she speaks from personal knowledge that gives a peculiar piquancy to her observations. Her topics are the most timely, dinner speakers in England and she always says things worth repeating. Her lectures abound in the same kind of pungent remarks and penetrating analysis.

The annual reception for the people of the First Baptist church was held last evening in the church parlors, while were hung with branches of holly. WOMEN OF BRITANNY

Mrs. Mosher's Lecture for Women of Westminster Church.

Mrs. A. M. Mosher gave a delightful talk on "The Women of Brittany" yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. S. A. Harris on Vine place, under the auspices of the women of Westminster church. The ballroom was used as a lecture-room and was decorated with palms, American Beauty roses and carnations. Roses and chrysanthemums were in the parlors. Mrs. Mosher preceded her talk with an account of the conditions in Brittany under the Druids, and then gave character sketches of Heloise, Ermengarde, Constance, St. Ursula, Darenne, Jeanne de Meunford, Anna of Brittany, Yphaine Dagueneau, Mme. de Sevigne and Henrietta Renan. The Breton woman of to-day was sketched as a closing picture. Miss Clara Williams gave several solos. An informal reception followed the talk, and the women were given an opportunity of meeting Mrs. Mosher. Prappé was served by a group of young women.

The fish pond is managed by the Lydia club of the Tabernacle. There are booths for the sale of toys, jam and provisions. Booths for the sale of fancy articles have been arranged in the smaller rooms and main floor and members of the Swedish Workers of Augustana church and the Mission Tabernacle are in charge.

THE ADAMS SCHOOL CONCERT

An expectant audience, composed chiefly of children, gathered at the South high school last evening to listen to a concert given by the Adams school chorus. The chorus consists of about seventy-five well-trained young people from the higher grades. They were assisted by the Masonic choir, Master Eugene Paul, the boy soprano of St. Mark's church, Master Francis Paul, violinist, and Frank H. Forssell, baritone.

The fresh, sweet voices of the children accented well with the spirit of the first selection, "The Reapers," which was given in excellent tone and harmony. "A Norse Lullaby" followed; the wild sweetness of the dreamy measures was well expressed, and showed that the youthful singers appreciate songs of the north. The Masonic quartet was perhaps the most warmly received, and every number was followed by an encore. The mischievous little people were especially pleased with a curious song about a boy and a tack; they greeted the singers with ripples of delighted laughter and strenuously insisted upon an encore. Eugene Paul gave "The Holy City"; later, accompanied by Francis Paul on the violin, he sang the sweetly solemn "Ave Marie." "Nita Gitana" was the number of the baritone, Frank H. Forssell. He responded to the demand for an encore with a quaint bit in "pigeon English," which conveyed the audience and brought forth a perfect storm of approval. The chorus closed the program, repeating the first number by special request.

Mr. Painter announced that the concert was the first of a series of entertainments to be given by the Adams school. The second will be given some time in February; and the third, a cantata by the chorus, in May. The object of the entertainments is the purchase of an encore by the school, two of which have been paid for by previous entertainments and by subscription. The ambitious students have worked hard to succeed in their enormous undertaking, and their perseverance deserves all success.

Draw and slice a small, young turkey. Break the breastbone; cut the legs at the first joint and remove the bone to shorten the legs. Push the legs into the thighs by the opening of the drumsticks. Take an equal quantity of fine bread crumbs and chopped beef suet; season with salt and pepper; stuff and truss the bird; now lard the breast with fat pork or bacon strips. Put the trimmings of bacon or lard, pork in a braising pan with a slice of onion, sliced carrot, sprig of parsley and celery root. Lay the turkey over these, fill the pan half full of boiling water; cover and place in a hot oven. Cook until tender; do not baste, as the steam from the liquor in the pan will do this. When done remove the cover, glaze the breast of the bird, using a small paint brush, such as are used for this purpose; brown the bird well, drain from the pan and place it on a hot dish. Strain the liquor in the pan; reduce it down to half glaze and use for gravy. Serve the chestnut puree in a separate dish.
