Amalgamated Directors Put Forth a Statement. President Desires Personally to Run Every Government Branch.

Rumors of General Cabinet Reorganization Fill the Air.

From The Journal Bureau, Room 45, Post Building, Washington, Dec. 20.—To-day the air is filled with rumors of a general cabinet reorganization. Whether any of them is reliable only the future can tell, but Washington is accepting them as true, and gossiping accordingly. It is pointed out that President Roosevelt's vigorous personality and his manifest intention to minimize the authority of his cabinet officers, himself assuming a larger share of the work of directing the entire affairs of the government than any of his later predecessors, do not please the men now making up his official family. These are men of ripe years and experience and they do not fancy the idea of being reduced to the position of clerks. That is the word their friends are using.

Roosevelt has decided every important question coming up in the several departments since his accession to the presidency. Under McKinley all these questions were referred to the cabinet officers and reported to the president for his formal approval, which was always forthcoming. This increase of the presidential control of department affairs is given as one reason for Secretary Gage's probable retirement. For similar reasons it is believed that Secretaries Long and Hitchcock are to retire. The former has earned the ill will of the country and been out of touch with the White House through his attitude towards Admiral Schley. The latter is not in accord with the president on the question of interior department policy. Roosevelt is said to be vigorous and pushing for Mr. Hitchcock and to be carrying the department forward along advanced lines regardless of the secretary.

Merriam for the Interior. Three members of the present cabinet are westerners—Gage, Hitchcock and Wilson. The last named will remain. The president thoroughly approves his policy. It is understood that Hitchcock's place will be filled by Merriam, who is now where Governor Merriam of Minnesota comes in. No easterner could make an ideal interior official, and of the westerners mentioned Merriam is the only one in to-day's gossip. Should Secretary Hay resign and Secretary Root take his place, there might be an opening for Judge Taft. It is true that the secretary intends to go west for a new secretary of state in the person of Taft and also for a new secretary of the interior. In addition to the fact that the postmaster general has resigned, Henry C. Payne of Wisconsin, he may want to take Gage's successor from the east. This is what the big financiers want. It is persistently rumored to-day that Thomas Lorain Merriam, who has come to Washington by appointment with Governor Merriam, and that to-night at a dinner at Merriam's house, steps will be taken to bring Merriam to the president's notice as a suitable man for the interior or treasury portfolio, provided it is the president's purpose to select Mr. Gage's successor from the western states. Senator Hanna is also strongly in favor of Merriam. Mr. Lowry to-day said he thought Merriam would make an ideal secretary of the interior, and that he would not admit that his visit to Washington had anything to do with cabinet gossip. He will, however, do what he can should Merriam be selected.

In justice to Roosevelt, it should be remembered that Secretaries Hay, Long, Smith, Gage and Hitchcock have been on the books to retire for more than a year, perhaps they all would have resigned if McKinley lived. Surely some of them would. It is therefore not fair to assume that the present revival of talk of cabinet reorganization grows entirely out of Roosevelt's aggressive and assertive personality. The personal equation, however, undoubtedly has had something to do with it, and may be slightly hastening events.

Not Permanent for Rising. It developed to-day that H. G. Rising of Faribault was not reinstated permanently to his old position of special agent in the rural free delivery service. Under his presentation of the case on Wednesday the order of dismissal was dropped without ceremony and was therefore left to pay his own traveling expenses to his home in Minnesota. He was put back to work on December 31, so that he might use his commission for transportation home. The charges against him are still on the records of the department, together with his answer, which was filed early this week. On the strength of his reply the postmaster general modified the order of dismissal and allowed Rising to resign to take effect Dec. 31. The foregoing statement is made on the authority of Superintendent Machen of the rural delivery service. The statement in these dispatches Wednesday that Rising had been permanently reinstated was made on Rising's authority.

Mr. Lowry Pauses to Talk. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lowry arrived in Washington last night and are stopping at Willard's. They will start for home Sunday morning. To-night they will dine with Governor Merriam. "My visit to Washington has no significance," said Mr. Lowry to The Journal to-day. "Mrs. Lowry and I have been in New York for a few days, and having finished my business there, we prepared to start home. The news of the cold snap, however, rather disturbed us and we made up our minds to kill time for a few days here, hoping in the meantime the cold wave would pass. It has not yet passed, but I am not at all sure."

To-morrow Mr. Lowry will call on the president, "but I have nothing to ask him," he said. "I am not after office, and do not know that any of my friends are." Asked about gossip which connects Governor Merriam with the treasury portfolio as a possible successor to Lyman J. Gage, he said: "I have nothing to say in the direction of the cabinet."

Minnesota Rural Routes. Orders were issued at the postoffice department to-day for the establishment of rural free delivery service in Minnesota to commence Feb. 1 as follows, with carriers:

Alden, Freeborn county, Peter C. Larson; Dodge Center, Dodge county, two routes, H. H. Hunt and J. E. Blum; Eagle Lake, Blue Earth county, Elijah M. Pressnell; Hayward, Dodge county, two routes, Sam Erickson and C. J. Hobson; Kasson, Dodge county, Alfred C. Johnson; Leveille, Dakota county, Wm. A. Newcomb; DeKalb, Buchanan county, two routes, Thomas Shafer and R. J. Strong. —W. W. Jernama.

STATE TRAINING SCHOOL. Verdale Offers a Brick Building and Forty Acres. Special to The Journal. Wadena, Minn., Dec. 20.—One of the latest entries in the contest for the state training school is Verdale, in this county. The board of trustees have offered a brick building and forty acres of choice land if the school is located there. The building cost $2,000 when it was built, years ago, under the impression that the county seat would be moved there and the building used for a courthouse. The site is very desirable.

STEVENS' OBJECTION

Vote Against Philippine Tariff Bill Explained. TREATING THE ISLANDS UNFAIRLY

Story Showing That President McKinley Would Rather Be Right Than Popular.

Washington, Dec. 20.—Congressman F. C. Stevens, of St. Paul, announced publicly several days ago that he could not vote for the new Philippine tariff bill, and when the vote was taken he acted accordingly. Mr. Stevens said: "I have a double duty on Philippine goods, an export duty and the Dingley rates besides. The purpose of the bill is not to provide for a higher standard of protection and general training for the officers of the national guard as well as for the officers of the regular army that the secretary of war has announced the scheme of systematic instruction which has just been inaugurated. The system is divided into four grades: 1. There are five so-called special service schools: (a) The Artillery school at Fort Monroe, Va. (b) The engineer school of application, Washington barracks, D. C. (c) The school of submarine defense, Fort Totten, N. Y. (d) School of application for cavalry and field artillery of Fort Riley, Kan. (e) The army medical school, Washington, D. C. 2. A general service and staff college, Leavenworth, Kan. 3. A war college for the most advanced instruction in Washington barracks, D. C. Of these only the first is of general interest to the officers of the militia and national guard regiments. The school at Fort Snelling continues until March. The instruction is given Tuesday and Thursday from 10:45 to 11:15. The school is divided into two classes, known as the senior, including officers of rank of captain, and junior, composed of lieutenants, under the instruction of Major Eltenhead and Captain Frazier respectively. Both are officers of distinguished service and wide experience. The former graduated from West Point in '75 and served both in Cuba and the Philippines, whence he has just returned. Captain Frazier saw as much service in the recent war as any officer in the army. He graduated from West Point in '91. At the outbreak of the war with Spain he was ordered to Cuba, and served through the entire Santiago campaign. In '99 he went to the Philippines and shared the dangers of the northern campaign in Luzon, and in July, 1900, he accompanied the regular army to Manila. He was one of the most prominent officers in the bloody battle of Tientsin. He commanded a battalion in that action and was highly recommended for a medal and brevet for distinguished bravery in bearing the daring Colonel Liscum from the field when that valiant officer was mortally wounded. All officers of the line at the posts are taken to the school, except in the case of such circumstances as would exempt them from other duties. Systematic recitations, however, will be required ordinarily only from officers of the grade of first and second lieutenants. The work for December and January will consist of recitation on drill regulations and tactics, on the manual of guard duty and on the Catechism of Outpost Duty. February will be devoted to military topography and map making. In March each officer will be expected to read an essay on some subject pertaining to his own branch of the service. Every officer will be required to fit himself thoroughly for the responsible duties of his grade, and to that end opportunities will be afforded ample opportunities to each one taking the course to familiarize himself practically with post and company, administering the duties of quartermaster, commissary of subsistence, ordnance officer, etc. In the spring when outdoor maneuvers are more practicable, the officers who have taken the course will be given an opportunity in various capacities to actually handle the troops in the field and apply the principles which have been taught during the winter. Such a marked ability will be sent to the General Service college at Leavenworth, which will be opened Sept. 1, 1902. The permanent garrison of this post will consist of four companies of engineers; four troops of cavalry; three batteries of field artillery; twelve companies of infantry; a band; a signal corps; detachment, hospital corps detachment. These will be given an opportunity for observation of the handling of large bodies of men in the field, such as the smaller posts cannot afford. Those distinguishing themselves at this school and at the higher course of instruction to be given at the War College at Washington Barracks, D. C., will have the consideration of the war department with a view to the utilization of their ability as military attaches, or on special missions abroad and for the higher duties of general staff work.

McKinley Asked for Prayers. A little story which is illustrative of President McKinley's integrity of purpose in matters of high concern was told at the capitol the other day. During the days when the country was bringing great pressure to bear on the president for a declaration of war against Spain, a well known senator called on McKinley to urge him to declare war at once. "Nothing you can do will make you more popular," said the senator, "if I can find out a policy, to say nothing of the merits of the case, you ought to act at once." Instantly the president replied: "If you can find out in the premises, I shall be glad. I am more interested in knowing what is best for the United States, for Cuba and for all the rest of the world than I am in finding out what will for the moment be popular. If I can find out my duty I shall do it, even if it would make me the most unpopular man in the world. A few days after the conversation just quoted, Secretary Gage was calling at the White House in the cabinet room, alone, and it was easy to see that he was worried. Turning to Gage, after a lull in the conversation, the president said: "Mr. Secretary, I want you to pray for me; if ever a man in this country needed the prayers of all good people, I need them now. Pray that I may do the right thing, in the right way, at the right time; the right thing, not for this country alone, but for mankind and the future."

Fort Snelling. Nothing will be done by the Minnesota delegation regarding the proposed enlargement of Fort Snelling until after the holidays. Before any further steps are taken in the matter, the committee will do something at the home end of the line. The commander of the department of the Dakotas, stationed at Fort Snelling, must be seen and induced to accept the enlargement of the proposed improvements. His aid secured, the rest will be comparatively easy. It is probable that Congressmen Stevens and Fletcher will take this matter up while they are home for the holidays.

Taxing Real Estate Men. Attempts that are being made to force Minneapolis real estate men to pay a special tax of $50 a year as brokers under the new act of 1900, and a penalty of $300 for failure to pay such tax within the time prescribed in that law are not likely to succeed. The collector of internal revenue was based on the fact that the real estate men occasionally sold notes covering deeds of trust and mortgages and were therefore liable to the broker's tax. In a ruling by the deputy collector of internal revenue on Nov. 6, last, in just such a case as is presented by Minneapolis, it was held that when the sale notes covering a deed of trust or mortgage was "merely an incident to the vendor's regular business of buying and selling real estate, such vendor was not liable to a special tax as a broker." It was held, further, however, that when a real estate man advertises as a part of his regular business the buying or selling of real estate notes such person is liable to the special tax and the penalties accruing for failure to pay such tax within the time prescribed in the law. In cases where the notes are referred to the commissioner from Minneapolis every person concerned must make a separate showing, as each case will be judged on its merits and no general ruling will apply.

Judicial Circuits. Senator Teller, who is a member of the judiciary committee, has introduced a bill restricting the United States for federal judicial purposes into nine circuits, as follows: First—Vermont, New Hampshire, Maine, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut; second, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware; third, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, Indiana, Ohio and Michigan; fourth, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana; fifth, Texas, Arkansas, Kansas and Nebraska; sixth, Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana and North Dakota; seventh, Missouri, Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas; eighth, Montana, South Dakota, Wyoming, Colorado, Utah and Idaho; ninth, Washington, Oregon, Nevada and California. It is quite likely that during this congress a bill restricting the country will become a law, and as a part of it there will probably be some provision as to Minnesota, giving it two judges, either as one district, or dividing it into two districts, with a federal judge in each. The bill will pass one house during the present session and the other house at the short session a year hence, after Morris ceases to be a congressman. —W. W. Jernama.

WADENA'S FIRST SETTLER. Death at Three Score and Ten of Deacon H. W. Fuller. Special to The Journal. Wadena, Minn., Dec. 20.—Deacon H. W. Fuller, aged 70 years, is dead. He was a prominent citizen of this city, and enjoyed the distinction of being the first settler in what is now Wadena. He took a homestead in 1872. He leaves a wife and two children, Mrs. David E. Jones, of this city and Professor T. T. Fuller of the Minnesota school. He was a brother of Mrs. W. M. Stanley, of Minneapolis.

SOLDIER AND JURIST. Death in Iowa's Capital of Judge W. F. Conrad. Des Moines, Iowa, Dec. 20.—Judge W. F. Conrad of the ninth judicial district died here this morning as the result of a paralytic stroke. He was distinguished for having very few reversals by the supreme court. He served as captain in the Twenty-fifth Iowa infantry during the civil war and figured in a thrilling escape from Libby prison.

COLONY OF NEBRITIATES. Bill Will Be Introduced in the Next Iowa Legislature. Sioux City, Iowa, Dec. 20.—Rev. H. C. Marshall, superintendent of the State Antislavery League, says a bill will be introduced in the coming legislature for a colony of nebritiates. Rev. H. H. Abrams of Des Moines will be sponsor for the bill. It is planned to have the colony attached to one of the state asylums and operated by the board of control.

WAR'S FINE POINTS

Military Science Taught at the Ft. Snelling Officers' School.

Up to Date, However, There Has Been None of Them in Attendance.

On Dec. 1 of this year a school for officers of the army was opened at Fort Snelling. This course of instruction is also open to the officers of the volunteer and militia regiments who care to attend. Up to the present time none of the national guardsmen have accepted the exceptional advantage thus extended to them. It was with the view to the maintenance of a higher standard of instruction and general training for the officers of the national guard as well as for the officers of the regular army that the secretary of war has announced the scheme of systematic instruction which has just been inaugurated. The system is divided into four grades: 1. There are five so-called special service schools: (a) The Artillery school at Fort Monroe, Va. FOUR BOILERS BLOW UP. UNKNOWN NUMBER OF MEN KILLED. Two Steel Plants at Pittsburg Are Wrecked by an Explosion of Tremendous Force. Pittsburg, Dec. 20.—Four boilers in the Black Diamond Steel Works of Park Bros. exploded this morning and at least five workmen were killed and twelve injured. There are reports that from ten to thirty men lost their lives, but the exact loss of life cannot be told until the wreckage is cleared away. Five dead bodies have been removed and they are so badly mangled they cannot be identified. Twelve injured have been taken to West Penn hospital. The four boilers exploded at one time reducing the mill to a heap of burned and charred timbers and twisted iron. Even the bolts in the beams and stringers are twisted like screw nails. The mill, known as No. 3, 10-inch, had sixty men on each turn and it is thought almost 120 men—both crew—were in the plant at the time of the explosion. The injured and known dead were found under wreckage and in the mill yard where they had fallen in their race for life. In the rear of the plant is the big boiler works of James McNeil. One of the boilers tore its way through the Park Bros. mill and crashed into the McNeil plant, almost completely demolishing it. Another boiler went through the roof of the bar mill, soared through the air across Thirtieth street and wrecked the house of Robert Price. The other two boilers were blown to pieces and it was these that caused the complete destruction of the mill.

FOUR BOILERS BLOW UP. UNKNOWN NUMBER OF MEN KILLED. Two Steel Plants at Pittsburg Are Wrecked by an Explosion of Tremendous Force. Pittsburg, Dec. 20.—Four boilers in the Black Diamond Steel Works of Park Bros. exploded this morning and at least five workmen were killed and twelve injured. There are reports that from ten to thirty men lost their lives, but the exact loss of life cannot be told until the wreckage is cleared away. Five dead bodies have been removed and they are so badly mangled they cannot be identified. Twelve injured have been taken to West Penn hospital. The four boilers exploded at one time reducing the mill to a heap of burned and charred timbers and twisted iron. Even the bolts in the beams and stringers are twisted like screw nails. The mill, known as No. 3, 10-inch, had sixty men on each turn and it is thought almost 120 men—both crew—were in the plant at the time of the explosion. The injured and known dead were found under wreckage and in the mill yard where they had fallen in their race for life. In the rear of the plant is the big boiler works of James McNeil. One of the boilers tore its way through the Park Bros. mill and crashed into the McNeil plant, almost completely demolishing it. Another boiler went through the roof of the bar mill, soared through the air across Thirtieth street and wrecked the house of Robert Price. The other two boilers were blown to pieces and it was these that caused the complete destruction of the mill.
