MILLS HOTEL SITE

The New Structure May Replace the St. James Hotel.

ESTIMATED TO COST $250,000

The Location Will Bring the Institution Into Close Touch With Transients.

The new Mills hotel for Minneapolis will probably be located on the present site of the St. James hotel, Washington and Second avenues S.

The hotel will be operated along the lines followed by similar institutions elsewhere. Room and board will be provided as cheaply as possible, and yet everything has been studied for the benefit of the east the mission board will visit similar hotels to get pointers.

Plans for the new building have already been submitted by the architect, but may be modified slightly before final acceptance. They call for a brick structure, several stories in height and with an attached front, a building that will be a credit to the city.

C. M. Stocking, who has managed the Union Mission for several years, and who will accompany the board on its eastern trip and give its members the benefit of his experience in the undertaking.

Unless some unforeseen obstacle arises, the Minneapolis Mills hotel probably will be under construction by next fall. In all probability active work will begin in the spring.

SCARE ON 'CHANGE

A GENERAL RUSH FOR VACCINE Persons Suspected of Carrying Infection Are Hastened Out Sans Ceremony.

There was a panic on 'change yesterday. Several hundred excited brokers danced around in the pit.

When things quieted down a bit, it became known that a man said to be suffering from smallpox had been taken out of the pit. Edward Gunderson was ordered to remove that man from the exchange-room. Every one asked every one else the same question: "Who is it?" "When was it?" "Are you sure it's that?" "What will they do about it?"

MONEY FOR CAR MEN

Street Railway Co. Will Rebate $25,000 to Employees.

DEPOSIT PLAN TO BE ABOLISHED

In the Past, Each Man Has Had to Deposit Twenty-Five Dollars as a Guaranty.

Each conductor and motorman in the employ of the street railway company will to-morrow receive the $25 deposited by him at the beginning of his service as a guaranty against shortage of funds or loss of property entrusted to his care.

The company has decided that this deposit is not necessary and will refund the money to-morrow if all arrangements can be made. It is probable that some form of bond will be required from the employees mentioned, but what it will be has not yet been determined.

NEW PROCESS IN OIL

A Minneapolis Chemist Discovers New Methods of Refining

CAN REMOVE ALL THE SULPHUR Even From the Best Product of Other Methods He Can Extract Impurities.

F. G. Russell, an analytical chemist who has lived in Minneapolis for three years, has discovered a process for refining illuminating oils which, he believes, will revolutionize the business.

Mr. Russell claims that his process produces an oil that is both odorless and smokeless. A recent experiment conducted under the direction of the city light inspector also proves that it is a better oil than "ecoline," a superior grade of kerosene considered the best illuminating oil known to science.

"Ecoline" is the best oil produced by the Standard Oil company. It is of high grade and so expensive that it is not to be purchased anywhere in Minneapolis except of the company; and yet Mr. Russell, subjecting a gallon of this oil to his process, took from it 265 grains of refuse matter, the value of which, he says, is more than sufficient to pay for the slight loss of weight.

The Russell process removes from the oil every trace of sulphur, thus making it wholly combustible, and obviating the possibility of its smoking. The process works well with oils of asphaltum base as well as those which have a base of paraffin.

Heretofore the quantity of sulphur in the Texas oil has lessened its value for illuminating purposes, as the oil process used to remove that element. With the Russell process, however, the Texas oil becomes the best that can be put upon the market and for this reason the discovery is expected to prove of great benefit to owners of oil properties in the southern field.

Mr. Russell got the idea some three years ago when he was in the Texas oil business. He has since been working on the process ever since, until now he feels that it is perfect.

ASTOUNDING DEVELOPMENTS IN LATE MANAGEMENT OF S. D. REFORM SCHOOL.

W. H. Tompkins, Former Superintendent, Involved in Sensational Scandal.

Special to The Journal. Aberdeen, S. D., Jan. 10.—The state board of charities and corrections in session at Sioux Falls to-day, expunged from the records a resolution commending the administration of W. H. Tompkins which was adopted at the time Tompkins was superceded as superintendent of the reform school.

The stories told by the girls in the form of affidavits are unprintable and are of such a character as to appal the reader. The scandal promises to become the worst in the history of the northwest, and it is doubtful if such disgraceful charges have ever before been made against the head of a public reformatory.

MERGER SUIT

Outline of the Course That Will Probably Be Pursued.

Washington, Jan. 10.—On the authority of one of the best known members of the Minnesota delegation The Journal is able to announce positively that no member of the delegation is planning any bill intended to affect the railway merger. The matter was fully discussed during the holidays with Governor Van Sant and Attorney General Douglas, and has been taken up this morning by Douglas, Munson and Wilson.

Members of the board refuse to be interviewed further than to admit that testimony, such as described, had been given by the girl inmates, and that it was on this testimony that the board of directors expunged the commendatory resolution. The resolution was presented by G. W. Kingsbury, member from Yankton, while the board of directors was in session.

Lumberjack Slays a Chum in Cold Blood—He May Be Insane.

Special to The Journal. Duluth, Minn., Jan. 10.—A frightful murder was committed at noon to-day when Daniel Carbo slashed David Myllymaki with a pocketknife several times, almost cutting his head off.

The injured man got up and started to run, but Carbo followed, caught him half way up the saloon, pushed him against the bar and cut into his neck, severing the windpipe and cutting to the backbone.

Mylymaki, mortally wounded, staggered a few steps and fell dead. Carbo then jumped on his body again and again, and made several horrible gashes in his face and neck. Then an officer entered and Carbo gave himself up without a struggle.
