

THE JOURNAL

LUCLIAN SWIFT, MANAGER. J. S. McLAINE, EDITOR.

SUBSCRIPTION TERMS Payable to The Journal Printing Co. Delivered by Mail. One copy, one month, $0.35...

THE JOURNAL is published every evening, except Sunday, at 47-49 Fourth Street South, Journal Building, Minneapolis, Minn.

C. J. Billson, Manager Foreign Advertising Department. NEW YORK OFFICE—36, 37, 38 Tribune Building.

CHICAGO OFFICE—307, 308 Stock Exchange Building. WASHINGTON OFFICE—45 Post Building, W. W. Jernome.

CHANGES OF ADDRESS Subscribers ordering addresses of their papers changed must always give their former as well as present address.

COMPLAINTS Subscribers will please notify the office in every case where their papers are not delivered promptly, or when the collections are not promptly made.

THE NATIONAL GUARD The bill for the reorganization of the National Guard was submitted to the National Guard's association in session at Washington yesterday by a special committee.

THE NATIONAL GUARD The bill for the reorganization of the National Guard was submitted to the National Guard's association in session at Washington yesterday by a special committee.

FARMING IN THE RURAL SCHOOLS Superintendent of Public Instruction J. W. Olson is to be commended for his suggestions as to the introduction of instruction in agriculture in the rural schools.

FARMING IN THE RURAL SCHOOLS Superintendent of Public Instruction J. W. Olson is to be commended for his suggestions as to the introduction of instruction in agriculture in the rural schools.

FARMING IN THE RURAL SCHOOLS Superintendent of Public Instruction J. W. Olson is to be commended for his suggestions as to the introduction of instruction in agriculture in the rural schools.

FARMING IN THE RURAL SCHOOLS Superintendent of Public Instruction J. W. Olson is to be commended for his suggestions as to the introduction of instruction in agriculture in the rural schools.

FARMING IN THE RURAL SCHOOLS Superintendent of Public Instruction J. W. Olson is to be commended for his suggestions as to the introduction of instruction in agriculture in the rural schools.

It is impossible so long as a single sale of stock may place the two roads in different hands. In other words, if there were no need of a Northern Securities Consolidating company there would be none.

A WARM WELCOME

The announcement that Prince Henry of Germany is to visit the United States as a sort of ambassador extraordinary in the cause of international good will has been received in this country with great cordiality.

When the news was carried to Germany there was derisive laughter in the foreign office at Berlin. It was plainly a trick to spoil the good effect of the forthcoming visit of Prince Henry to the United States.

Thus it is obvious that, counting the first generation born in America of German parents, there are millions and millions of loyal American citizens who have a sentimental tenderness for the Fatherland.

Senator Teller made a speech in the senate the other day in which he repeated the old and well-worn argument that it is not necessary to keep the militia on a war footing because they are always ready for service and can be depended on for efficiency as well as a regular army.

Such instruction will give him a view point of farm life that he may never have had, especially if his parents are not of the progressive type. He will understand that there is as much opportunity for the use of brains, education and skill in farming as in any of the careers that draw so many boys away from the farm.

There can be no doubt that there is too great a tendency for population to flow from the country to the city. To be sure the city must always be fed from the country, but the latter as well as the former has need and opportunities for the progressive man.

So for two general reasons the idea of giving elementary instruction in agriculture in the rural schools is a good one. First—it will tend to make better farmers of the boys who receive it. Second—it will tend to make them think better of farming and consequently tend to keep them in the country.

As was shown in an article published in The Journal some weeks ago, such instruction is given generally in the state schools of Europe—in Sweden and Norway, in Germany, Austria and France. The latter country has made the most headway in such instruction.

Minnesota is essentially an agricultural state. It will become rather more so in the future than less. The interests of agriculture must always be kept before our people. Any plan to advance its interests and those of the people who follow it is deserving of the most careful consideration.

These lines are shown in the progress map issued by the signal corps, copies of which have been distributed by the Geographic Magazine. The map is the first one of the Philippines that has been prepared by Americans.

Who Did It? One of the most amusing episodes of current history is the frantic rush of the several great powers of Europe to get on the American band wagon.

Mr. Morgan bought a $500,000 painting in Europe, but the tariff on it is so heavy that it is likely to stay there until Mr. Morgan can get a transcontinental road with the government in return for free entry.

Senator Dewey has 120 pairs of trousers, say the society columns of the Washington papers. These probably include his wedding trousers.

The selection of Captain Clark will enable our English friends to get a glimpse of one of the participants in the battle of Santiago.

Mark Twain went to Albany to argue against the antiseptic bill. Mark confessed that he did not know anything about antiseptic, but when he found they were trying to shut him off from osteopathic treatment if he should happen to want it, he hollered like a pig.

The Canadian government made a mistake and printed on its new four-dollar bills the picture of the American look-alike "So" instead of the great redoubtable and we do not think that the dirty fight that is now being made upon Van Sant will help any other candidate at the polls next fall.

The Rocky Mountain News of Denver says that a trust will soon own the Atlantic ocean because of the steamship line combine now predicted. Dave travelers can get around the other way, via Frisco, the Pacific and the Siberian road.

It was a day of gladsome joy in these northwestern states when Mr. Hill got out his ax to cut the railroad rates.

Long live J. P. also J. P. For it has cut the merger rates to 100 on stations near the Soo.

Some person or persons unknown recently sent a pamphlet describing the Minnesota state poultry exhibition to be held in St. Paul Jan. 29 to Feb. 4 inclusive.

The executive committee tells me that the avowed object of the State Poultry Association is to advance the poultry industry and bringing poultry men more closely in touch with each other personally and socially.

No, this office has nothing in the way of live stock to exhibit except possibly the office roach, and a tramp rat who has been sleeping in the desks by night and moving around in the walls by day with a sound like a small insect.

Both these animals, the roach and the rat, would be so audacious as to attempt, in face of the law, to come from stock whose pedigree extends away back into the misty past.

It is in use as reported by the Northern Securities company proposes to attempt to manipulate the republican convention of Minnesota and defeat Governor Van Sant for re-election.

Here are a people, red in color, who have, for a century past, been kept out of what your philippine philanthropist calls the "rights of man."

Horace Plunkett, an Englishman now in this country, is only a candidate for parliament in search of a seat, a minister seeking access to a treasury bench, and the head of a department of Public Health, but he is also a Dakota ranchman.

ply the people of this city at all times with water that they can drink. That is a lot more important than whether private or public ownership is cheaper, but it is a proposition upon which the authorities seem disposed to do very little figuring.

The Nonpareil Man

Casualty Observed. The Chicago Daily News says there are 130,000,000 people on the earth who do not know what soap is.

A Boer field cornet, with no sense of humor, was once asked to describe a British soldier who was able to catch a horse with an ox wagon.

Senator Dewey has 120 pairs of trousers, say the society columns of the Washington papers. These probably include his wedding trousers.

The selection of Captain Clark will enable our English friends to get a glimpse of one of the participants in the battle of Santiago.

Mark Twain went to Albany to argue against the antiseptic bill. Mark confessed that he did not know anything about antiseptic, but when he found they were trying to shut him off from osteopathic treatment if he should happen to want it, he hollered like a pig.

The Canadian government made a mistake and printed on its new four-dollar bills the picture of the American look-alike "So" instead of the great redoubtable and we do not think that the dirty fight that is now being made upon Van Sant will help any other candidate at the polls next fall.

It was a day of gladsome joy in these northwestern states when Mr. Hill got out his ax to cut the railroad rates.

Long live J. P. also J. P. For it has cut the merger rates to 100 on stations near the Soo.

Some person or persons unknown recently sent a pamphlet describing the Minnesota state poultry exhibition to be held in St. Paul Jan. 29 to Feb. 4 inclusive.

The executive committee tells me that the avowed object of the State Poultry Association is to advance the poultry industry and bringing poultry men more closely in touch with each other personally and socially.

No, this office has nothing in the way of live stock to exhibit except possibly the office roach, and a tramp rat who has been sleeping in the desks by night and moving around in the walls by day with a sound like a small insect.

Both these animals, the roach and the rat, would be so audacious as to attempt, in face of the law, to come from stock whose pedigree extends away back into the misty past.

It is in use as reported by the Northern Securities company proposes to attempt to manipulate the republican convention of Minnesota and defeat Governor Van Sant for re-election.

Here are a people, red in color, who have, for a century past, been kept out of what your philippine philanthropist calls the "rights of man."

Horace Plunkett, an Englishman now in this country, is only a candidate for parliament in search of a seat, a minister seeking access to a treasury bench, and the head of a department of Public Health, but he is also a Dakota ranchman.

MINNESOTA POLITICS Friends of the state administration take State Auditor Dunn at his word, and do not credit him with any designs on the governorship this year.

The Makato Free Press puts it in this fashion: There is no doubt but that the opponents of Governor Van Sant would like to secure the nomination of Dunn to the governorship.

The Wadena Pioneer Journal thinks: There is probably more smoke than fire in the reported opposition to Governor Van Sant within the ranks of the republican party.

The Brainerd Tribune says: While the politicians are sitting up 'nights summing up the merits of their friends, for a second time, the sturdy governor is attending strictly to business and is fighting the question of the merger with the respect and confidence of the people for the hold state has taken upon their behalf on the merger question.

The Sleepy Eye Dispatch, a consistent opponent of the governor, says: "The Minnesota Journal's position is a little more than late with his story of the merger-Hawtelle-Dunn-Van Sant deal."

The Wadena Pioneer Journal explains its position in a lengthy editorial. It is opposed to the merger, not because of any harm it might do, but because it is "essentially and in spirit a violation of the principle of democracy."

John O'Donnell, state labor commissioner, has been talked of as a labor candidate for mayor. Without question he could command support for the republican nomination.

Attorney general, the New Era probably will combine the two offices. This looks like a move to combine the two offices and Steenerson interests in the ninth, to the confusion of Senator Grindeland and Attorney General Douglas.

The Red Wing Argus says of the new tax bill: Men who have minds of their own and a regard for civic justice should support the recommendations of the commission in all their essentials.

There is a big sale of seats for Jefferson De Angeli and his company in "A Royal Rogue," and he will be welcomed by a large and fashionable audience to-morrow night at the Metropolitan.

Frank L. Perley's new musical comedy success, "The Chaparons," will be produced here under the stage management of the Lederer, whose genius for entertaining ensembles has had full swing in giving the new production the beauty of movement and color that characterize his most successful New York City successes.

Owen Davis' thrilling story of adventures in the great Desert of Sahara, entitled "Lost in the Desert," is pleasing good-sized audiences at the Bijou this week.

There is a big sale of seats for Jefferson De Angeli and his company in "A Royal Rogue," and he will be welcomed by a large and fashionable audience to-morrow night at the Metropolitan.

Frank L. Perley's new musical comedy success, "The Chaparons," will be produced here under the stage management of the Lederer, whose genius for entertaining ensembles has had full swing in giving the new production the beauty of movement and color that characterize his most successful New York City successes.

Owen Davis' thrilling story of adventures in the great Desert of Sahara, entitled "Lost in the Desert," is pleasing good-sized audiences at the Bijou this week.

There is a big sale of seats for Jefferson De Angeli and his company in "A Royal Rogue," and he will be welcomed by a large and fashionable audience to-morrow night at the Metropolitan.

Frank L. Perley's new musical comedy success, "The Chaparons," will be produced here under the stage management of the Lederer, whose genius for entertaining ensembles has had full swing in giving the new production the beauty of movement and color that characterize his most successful New York City successes.

Owen Davis' thrilling story of adventures in the great Desert of Sahara, entitled "Lost in the Desert," is pleasing good-sized audiences at the Bijou this week.

KALKI OF HAWAII

By MARY WOOD. Copyright, 1902, by S. S. McClure Company. The applause had not yet died away.

Again he must sing. As he began the Hawaiian turned in surprise. Listlessness and hesitancy were forgotten with the audience. He sang for her, and his eyes never left her face.

She had risen and was speaking softly, impetuously. "Father, don't you recognize him?" "Who is Kalki, the young Hawaiian who was so good to us at Hilo. And years ago he taught me that very song. He was so kind to us there when we were strangers in his land, and when he knew no one, and he is ill."

When at last he opened his eyes and looked at her, she smiled broadly, while her finger motioned him not to speak. Her voice was low but steady as she said: "This is my friend, my friend, after many days, and we have both changed. I have learned many things since we parted. I am married."

"After much effort to learn what time it is command and what form of entertainment on the part of the city would be most acceptable in the welcome of Prince Henry, I am pleased to announce that on the day of the launching of the Empress yacht, on the 25th, the mayor will give a dinner to the president and the prince at the Metropolitan club."

Richard Mansfield was rewarded yesterday for two weeks of work as a solicitor and an afternoon of acting by being the donor of $2,000 to the fund for an actor's home, supported by the Actor's Fund of America. This extraordinary sum was paid to see him in four of his parts at the Herald Square.

Richard Mansfield was rewarded yesterday for two weeks of work as a solicitor and an afternoon of acting by being the donor of $2,000 to the fund for an actor's home, supported by the Actor's Fund of America. This extraordinary sum was paid to see him in four of his parts at the Herald Square.

Richard Mansfield was rewarded yesterday for two weeks of work as a solicitor and an afternoon of acting by being the donor of $2,000 to the fund for an actor's home, supported by the Actor's Fund of America. This extraordinary sum was paid to see him in four of his parts at the Herald Square.

Richard Mansfield was rewarded yesterday for two weeks of work as a solicitor and an afternoon of acting by being the donor of $2,000 to the fund for an actor's home, supported by the Actor's Fund of America. This extraordinary sum was paid to see him in four of his parts at the Herald Square.

Richard Mansfield was rewarded yesterday for two weeks of work as a solicitor and an afternoon of acting by being the donor of $2,000 to the fund for an actor's home, supported by the Actor's Fund of America. This extraordinary sum was paid to see him in four of his parts at the Herald Square.

One of My Sons

By Anna Katharine Green. It is rare to find a novel reader that does not keenly enjoy a mystery story of the quality of "The Leavenworth Case."

G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York and London