PREST ELIOT'S REPORT
Harvard in Athletics Occupies Much of His Attention.

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 29.—The report of President Eliot of Harvard, in published to-day. The president tries to show by statistical tables that victory or defeat in the great athletic struggles of Harvard do not exert an immediate effect on the number of candidates who present themselves for admission in the following year. In 1894, 1895 and 1898 Harvard suffered uniform defeat and yet the number of preliminary candidates increased substantially. The year 1899 was a year of victory yet there was no increase in the number of admission applicants. Summing up the entire ten years succeeding 1890 Dr. Eliot concludes that, although Yale has been decidedly more successful in athletic sports than either Harvard or Princeton, she has gained a much smaller percentage than either, as far as college and scientific freshmen are concerned. Football, the most popular sport at Harvard, attracting 790 men while the other sports trail behind with the following figures: rowing, 640; football, 242; baseball, 220; track, 144.

TEAM WORK SCORED

St. Paul Men Gave Hamline Players a Bad Beating.

The St. Paul Y. M. C. A. basketball team defeated the Hamline team by a score of 42 to 5 at the association gymnasium, St. Paul, last night. Better team work gave the association men a big advantage over their opponents. The Hamline men put up a plucky resistance, but apparently showed no show from the start. They said they were handicapped in having practiced in a gymnasium much smaller than the association court. Fifteen-minute halves were played. The line-up: Y. M. C. A.—Hamline, center; Randolph (captain), forward; Sanders, forward; Johnson, guard; Kennedy, guard; Johnson, guard; Stowers, forward; Tucker, forward; Russell, forward; Snyder, forward; Alexander, forward.

ONE MASCOU MISSING

The Rest Defeated by One Score in Extra Play.

The lucky member of the Mascou hockey team must have been missing last evening for the St. Paul hockey club won in practically a "cross-up" after a fierce struggle through two halves, in which neither side scored. It was in the extra time minutes tacked on to the game to force a conclusion that Bagot for St. Paul scored the first and only goal of the game. The first half was lost. In the second half Bergstrom, the Mascou's goal, was given an opportunity to make several pretty stops, his goal work being one of the features of the game.

ABANDON ALL-ROUND WORK

Track Work at "U" May Stop Indoor Meet.

The possible interference of the proposed track at the university primary plans for the usual indoor athletic contest to determine the all-round athletic championship of the institution may lead to the abandonment of the latter event this year. Renewed interest in track work has somewhat dampened the usual enthusiasm over the indoor meet. The athletic managers believe it will be advisable for "U" athletes to concentrate all their energy on the track work this season.

ASHER IN THE LEAD

Head List of "U" Strong Men Up to Date.

Allen Asher, the present leader in the university's strong men's contest, has made an advance of 200 kilos in the last three weeks. His score is 1,317.7 kilos. The loss of Roy W. Allis, last year's national record holder, will not cause Minnesota to lose prestige, but the many inquiries as to the progress of the work at the gymnasium indicate that the eastern schools still look upon Minnesota as a hard proposition.

SECOND MEETING POSSIBLE

National League Owners May Try to Get Together.

Philadelphia, Jan. 29.—There is a possibility of a second meeting of the National League magnates being called in the near future. It is understood that communications have been sent to the various club owners asking their views on the matter as the only means of the league's getting matters into shape for the opening of the league playing season, which is now but a little over two months off.

JEFFRIES WILL RETIRE

Tired of Acting and Disgusted With Status of Fighting.

New York, Jan. 29.—Jim Jeffries will soon announce his retirement from the ring, according to an dispatch from Denver. It is said the champion is tired of acting and disgusted with the status of the fighting game. Jeffries has invested considerable money in mining property near Ward, Col., and intends to take up his residence in Denver and look after his interests.

Chicago "U" Ball Players Scarcely

The University of Chicago is said to be unusually short on good ball players this season. There are few candidates in sight as yet and only a few of them turn out for regular practice. The only promising player yet is Fraumiller, a Harvard graduate, now a sophomore at the Rush medical college, who has been asked to join the squad. He has had some experience as a pitcher and has expressed his willingness to try for the team.

Beel Throws "Little Demon"

Special to The Journal. Marshfield, Wis., Jan. 29.—One of the swiftest wrestlers here for some time took place last night between Harvey Parker of Indiana and Fred Beel. Beel was the victor, but in a style of wrestling has gained for him the title of "Little Demon," will now have to try other tactics. Beel was pinned twice during the contest did he throw Parker clear of the stage, breaking the footlights and causing wild cheering. Parker came smiling. Beel secured two straight falls in less than twenty-one minutes, winning 100 per cent of the gate receipts and a $50 side bet.

Chicago Team Complete.

Chicago, Jan. 29.—The Chicago team of the American Baseball League has been completed by the signing of Sammy Strang, who will probably play third base for Comiskey. His home is in Chattanooga and he is well known in southern baseball circles by his proper name, Sammy Nicklin.

Eats Once in Ten Weeks.

Some time ago the story was told of how the great 27-foot python in the Bronx zoological gardens was fed, but the article failed to mention that the monster snake eats but once in ten weeks. Naturally, as his meals are so far apart, they must be exceedingly hearty—it takes a Montauk dog or a number of chickens, rabbits and guinea pigs to satisfy him. Men sometimes get the idea that they can live the same way and don't take time enough from their work to eat a square meal. The plan won't work with men, they need regular meals, with plenty of "Golden Grain Belt" beer to keep them healthy and fit for work. Every glass of this delicious beverage contains the strength of bread and meat, for it is brewed from the purest barley malt and hops. If out, telephone 485 Main and get a case to-day.

For Way to Treat CATARRH

No one would be so foolish as to kindle the fire on top of a pot to make it boil, yet the treatment of Catarrh is often just as senseless and illogical. Douches, sprays, ointments, so-called tobacco cures, and various other applications, are diligently used, but the little good accomplished is swept away by the first breath of winter. When you attempt to cure a constitutional disease—one affecting the entire system—with purely local remedies, you are applying the fire to the top of the pot, you are doctoring symptoms, and, like thousands of others, get disappointing results. In Chronic Catarrh, the whole system becomes involved; the entire mucous membrane, or inner covering of the body, is in a state of high inflammation. The pressure of blood upon the glands and cells produce excessive secretion of mucus, much of which is absorbed into the blood and distributed to all parts of the body. In this way the stomach, kidneys and intestines are often seriously affected.

The nose, throat and ears are most frequently attacked by this foul disease, because the mucous lining is exposed to the cold, damp air, which attracts the vitiated blood to the surface, causing congestion of the little blood vessels and glands, making breathing difficult and labored; the throat becomes parched and dry; the hot, watery discharge from the nose gradually changes to a yellowish color and becoming more profuse and tenacious, drops back into the throat, causing gagging and almost constant coughing to dislodge it. This offensive discharge, in spite of all precautions, finds its way into the stomach, and extreme nausea and an obstinate form of dyspepsia follow.

Blinding headaches, neuralgia of the eyes and dizziness are also symptoms of this disease, and when the inflammation reaches the delicate mechanism of the ear, hearing is lost, and, as the blood becomes more deeply poisoned, the tissues and soft bones in the head are eaten out, greatly disfiguring the face. At this stage of Catarrh the breath becomes insufferably offensive. S. S. S. is the simplest and most effective treatment for Catarrh, and when taken into the circulation reaches all parts of the system and cleanses the blood of all Catarrhal matter and restores it to a normal condition. When rich, new blood begins to flow through the veins, the obstructed glands and broken down cells resume their natural functions, and the hot and inflamed membranes are lubricated and moistened with a soothing, healing fluid that quickly brings relief to the congested parts. S. S. S. puts the blood in such perfect condition and so strengthens and invigorates the general health that the local manifestations of the disease gradually disappear, the discharge from the nose ceases, the head clears, breathing becomes easy and natural, the appetite improves, and a perfect and permanent cure is effected.

S. S. S. is the only guaranteed purely vegetable blood purifier. It contains no minerals to further poison the blood and derange the digestion, but can be taken with perfect safety in all stages and forms of Catarrh. Our physicians will gladly advise, without charge, all who write them about their case. Book on Blood and Skin Diseases free.

OTHER PEOPLE'S NOTIONS. Objections to Marriage. To the Editor of The Journal. I notice from time to time your refer in one way and another to the subject of marriage, and to the present tendency for bachelorhood, and seem to be at sea to a considerable extent as to the cause or causes. There are, to my mind, several good reasons in favor of a man not taking upon himself the responsibilities of the married state; and foremost is the one of money. Nowadays a girl is not content to begin life with the man of her choice at the bottom of the ladder, but wants to commence half way up, or about where her father and mother left off. This may be very nice for the girls, but it puts a vast number of men in untimely graves. Some by the process of overwork and worry in order to maintain their wives and families in as good shape or better than their associates, and some by the shorter process of suicide.

That it is costly to raise a family and easy to avoid bearing a just proportion of the burden of propagating the species is not entirely a matter that can be adjusted by popular sentiment. It could be helped along to a wonderful extent by a little judicious legislation, just as a number of other matters have been—vestibules on street cars for instance. As for liberality, it is not to be expected of selfish mortals who will not get married because they would have to "divvy" what they earn with wife and family—and we are all "tarr'd with the same brush." I have no pet scheme to suggest, only that in a general way I would make it as expensive financially and otherwise to remain single as to get married. Of course it is

The Boer and the Philippine. To the Editor of The Journal: May I commend the study of the articles in which you defend the policy of the government in the Philippines to those who are signing, or have signed, petitions in behalf of the Boers? Mind, I do not say you are wrong. When a tooth has to be pulled, it is better to do it quickly than prolong the agony. But, right or wrong, it would be well for these people to remember the text which says, remove the beam from your own eye before the mote from your neighbor's.

The Object of Public Education. To the Editor of The Journal. Dear Sir: Dr. Kiehl's letter, your editorial and Mr. Edgar's letter suggest an additional argument favoring the view taken. The state provides education of an elementary and academic nature. Why does it do so? Not for charity, nor to benefit individuals. The underlying principle is preservation—the preservation of the state and the welfare of its citizens. There is no more potent factor in the preservation of the individual and of the state than education. It is the principal foundation stone of our institutions and of civilization itself. The question as to how far the state should educate is a much discussed one, but the majority of thinkers agree that it should not be beyond the point of necessity for preservation. Where is this point? It used to be placed in the vague region just beyond reading, writing and arithmetic. But it is there no longer. State

A Huge Church on a Wicked Hill

Correspondence of The Journal. London, Jan. 11.—Is the Church of the Sacred Heart too heavy for the hill of Montmartre to hold? The question is one that is being discussed in Paris at present with much interest and some heat. Montmartre is the highest as well as, perhaps, the wickedest part of Paris, and the great church stands exactly on its summit. M. Gustave Tery, a prominent professor of philosophy has just sent a letter to the Parisian newspapers in which he says that the weight of the edifice is weakening the hill and precipices that unless the church is demolished, sooner or later a terrific landslide will occur, which will destroy utterly the greater part of the celebrated Parisian district, which includes the Moulin Rouge and its neighboring gay but wicked resorts, and cause an appalling loss of life. This is not the first time that the church of the "Sacred Coeur" and its reputedly shaky foundations have been the subject of animated, and occasionally bitter argument. The Nationalists always have abominated the church, which was built as a sort of expiation for the horrors of the commune, and especially for the murder of a number of priests on this very spot. They have accordingly welcomed any excuse for urging its destruction, and it is suspected that there may be an undercurrent of anti-clericalism in M. Gustave Tery's warning letter. M. Rauline, the architect who designed the famous church, has replied to the criticism by calling attention to the infinite precautions that were taken against the dangers of a landslide when first the church was built and which have made the cost of the majestic pile nearly double what it otherwise would have been. It was known that the hill of Montmartre contained a large number of active wells, and these, to the number of ninety-one, were drilled and filled with lime and other materials. Then eighty-five immense pillars were sunk to the level of the bottom of the hill and it is upon these that the hill at all. The architect maintains that if the hill suddenly crumbled, the great edifice would remain perched upon its stone supports. Not long after the church was built an outcry was raised similar to that started by M. Tery, who, by the way, lives on Montmartre, and at that time M. Rauline went before a commission appointed by M. Alphonse, the Baron Haussmann of the Third Empire, and thoroughly convinced its members that the Martyr's mountain was in no danger whatever. It has been planned recently to crown the Church of the Sacred Heart with an immense new tower, and the alarm is said that after that the church will be a public danger anyway. The architect, however, says that the additional weight of the tower will be counteracted by the sinking of two more stone pillars and that the crowds at the Moulin Rouge, the Cafe of Death, and other fantastically named cafes, by which it is surrounded, may dance and disport themselves as of yore with no fear of being swept down into the boulevards on top of a landslide.
