NEW GOLD DISTRICT

Sturgeon Lake Country Said to Be Fabulously Wealthy.

MILLIONS IN QUARTZ EXPOSED

Accumulated Gold on the Surface Also Ready for the Placer Miner.

Special to The Journal.

Superior, Wis., Feb. 12.—If reports of the gold discoveries in the Sturgeon Lake district, north of the Canadian Pacific railway, have not been exaggerated, that section of the Dominion is going to surpass the Klondike and the gold fields of the African Rand. Explorers, prospectors, miners and mining experts who have been to the new district, which is not far from Port Arthur, report that it is the richest yet discovered in western Ontario. The area, discovered two years ago by Pete King, an adventurous and well known explorer of that locality. Samples of gold quartz from his discoveries were practically one-fourth gold.

These specimens were enough to set the side of prospectors toward that locality, and several hundred have gone to that country, some of them, according to the reports, meeting with success. Several mining companies operating in western Ontario also sent agents into the field and the discoveries of the latter have been rich enough to warrant the companies abandoning their workings in the western Ontario region and removing their plants and capital to the Sturgeon Lake district.

Visible Gold in Rocks.

Up to this time the most important developments have been made on what is known as the Steele property, owned by a company of Saginaw millionaire lumbermen. The ore body of this mine is said to be fully 1,200 feet in width and extends in length a distance of two or three miles. The vein or reef has been opened up by cross cuts on the surface, some of them over 200 feet in length, and so rich in ore that by throwing a bucket of water into the vein anywhere in the cut visible gold can be seen in the rocks for several feet around. It is estimated that several million dollars' worth of gold quartz is now exposed and ready for the stamp mill. The Saginaw people have purchased other claims said to be even richer than the Steele mine.

A Wisconsin company has opened the rich vein discovered by Pete King, and is now taking in a stamp mill. This company is also negotiating for two locations on a remarkably rich vein discovered last fall. The vein is an immense reef, seventy-five to eighty feet in width, extending through a belt of porphyry for an Indian mile distance. Along the foot wall of this vein there is said to be a pay streak four feet in width, two feet of which will run out $7,000 to $8,000 per ton.

An English company is opening up some claims in the northeast bay of the lake, and the ore from the vein is so rich that the management cannot estimate the average value. Dazzling specimens of gold quartz are exhibited.

Near the English company's claim is a ledge where two prospectors put into use an improved stamp mill, consisting of a chain attached to a sapling at one end and a stone at the other, using a flat rock as a mortar bed. The ore from this vein is of such richness that the prospectors in a few days were able with this crude device to obtain a large amount of gold.

Placer Fields Also.

For several months rumors have been afloat that rich gold placer fields have been found in the Sturgeon lake country, but little credit was given to the reports. It now turns out, however, that the reports were well founded. The full extent of the placer fields is not yet known, but owing to the immense richness and great extent of the gold-bearing reefs of the Sturgeon Lake country there is seemingly no doubt that a large portion of the exposed surface of these reefs has decomposed, leaving the accumulated gold lying on the surface ready for placer mining.

Sturgeon Lake is about fifty miles north of the Canadian Pacific railway and is reached by stage from Ignace station, but the Ontario government has purchased a wagon road from Bonheur, which touches the road at a distance of forty-three miles from the railroad.

I. W. S. CONVENTION THE WOMEN MUST GO

Mrs. Catt Submits Two Proposals to Executive Committee.

A WOMAN'S POSTAGE STAMP

WOMEN CLERKS HOLD BACK MEN

THE FORMER ARE NOT SUBJECT TO CONTINUED PROMOTION AND BLOCK THE OTHERS.

Washington, Feb. 12.—The executive committee of the International Woman Suffrage convention held its second session this morning, preliminary to the opening of the convention to further consider a plan of organization and other questions of importance. The committee decided to admit to auxiliary membership the Friends' Equal Rights Association.

Two propositions, submitted by Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president, were referred to a subcommittee, who are to report to the full committee on Friday. The first has for its object the promoting of equal suffrage sentiment, which, she said, has been used successfully in France. It embodies the creation of a woman's postage stamp, the same as in France, to be placed alongside the regular stamp. She pointed out that the regulation postage stamp of France represents a young woman resting her hand on a table which bears a motto, "Rights of Woman."

Her other proposition was that each state or territory should appoint a state historian to keep a record of all interesting facts.

Following the meeting of the executive committee, the delegates from foreign countries gathered in conference for the purpose of considering the question of the formation of an international woman's suffrage association. The countries represented were England, Australia, Russia, Turkey, Sweden, Canada, Chile, Norway and Germany. Miss Susan B. Anthony was chosen to preside over the session of this body. Miss Virginia Gould of Australia was selected as recording secretary.

It was agreed that each country should have four representatives at the convention, and that Susan B. Anthony, New York; Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, New York; Miss Anna Shaw and Mrs. Rachel Foster Avery, Philadelphia. A subcommittee of five was appointed to consider and refer a plan for the establishment of such an organization. The subcommittee will report Friday.

MRS. CATT'S ADDRESS

The Feature of the National Woman's Suffrage Convention.

Washington, Feb. 12.—The feature of the public session of the National Woman's Suffrage convention to-day was the address of Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt of New York city, the president of the association. Mrs. Catt said:

"Hard upon the track of the man suffrage movement, the movement for woman suffrage, a logical step onward. It has come as inevitably and as naturally as the flower unfolds from the bud, or as the fruit develops from the seed. Whether he is as right as not? Men throughout the world hold their suffrage by the guarantee of the two principles of liberty, and for these reasons they have not hesitated to grant woman suffrage. It is a natural and unanswerable logic into the mouths of our advocates.

"The future belongs to the book, not to the sword; it belongs to life and not to death; it belongs to the voice of Victor Hugo. The world nodded and exclaimed, 'True, the sword is passing and the rule of the book is coming in.' Then we men, since woman made the book and wrote the book, why should we have no share in the government of which the book is the chief prop and support? And who can answer?"

"The president of Stanford University said: 'The function of democracy is not to make governments good. It is to make men strong. The world approves and adds that the statement is the clearest possible definition of the difference between the old, when men existed for the government, and the new, when governments exist for men. But we may ask if democracy is a means of making men strong, is there any good reason for keeping them weak? That we should deny them the same chance to grow strong?"

"A campaigner in the recent New York municipal election, frequently with the women to lead their aid. Said he: 'It is the proud duty of the women of this city to advise men how to vote, since they have more time than men to intelligently learn to comprehend the situation, and every low fellow echoed: 'True.' If women are competent to teach men how to vote, why may they not vote themselves?"

"These are the arguments the world has put into our mouths. Their logic can no more be disputed than can that of the multiplication table. Surely, the world cannot long withstand the force of it."

A QUEEN'S VISIT

Queen Margherita Will Come to America Incognito.

Rome, Feb. 10.—Dowager Queen Margherita has expressed an intention of visiting America, strictly incognito, as the Countess Sturpington.

She will go to New York, Niagara Falls, Yellowstone Park, and perhaps as far west as California.

Her proposed visit to the United States is recommended by her physicians as a means of relief from her sorrows.

Her route on the trip will include the Marquis Villamarina and her chamberlain, the Marquis Capranice del Grillo, who is a son of the famous actress, Adelaide Ristori.

Queen Margherita is the widow of the late King Humbert. Since the assassination of her royal husband she has lived quietly in her secluded residence on the Pincian hill in Rome. She is highly accomplished, speaking more than a dozen languages, including English. One of the most striking features of her character is mysticism. Nothing in the field of the supernatural seems impossible or absurd to her.

WAR ON THE SWEATSHOPS

WIS. WOMEN BEHIND A MOVEMENT

Merchants Petitioned Not to Buy of Wholesalers Who Encourage the System.

Special to The Journal.

Janesville, Wis., Feb. 12.—Women prominent in society circles in southern Wisconsin have started a strong movement to deal with the sweatshop system as it has put new life into the city of Chicago.

In this city the work has been taken up by the Wisconsin Women's Club, which is a joy, as well as by hundreds of ladies who are wives of members of local labor unions.

Petitions are being circulated appealing to the merchants of southern Wisconsin not to purchase of Chicago wholesale dealers any class of goods that come from the sweatshop. It is being taken up in all the western states, and that in time it will have the effect of closing these places of horror in all the large cities.

OUR DAILY BREAD

Valuable Suggestions for the Kitchen and Dining-Room.

By KATHERINE KURTZ

HOW TO MAKE GOOD THINGS TO EAT

The Truest Thing About Us is Our Appetite.

There is an inclination in many families, and especially with those who consider the little things that add so alarmingly to the total of household expenses, to keep down these expenses by restricting the family menu to a limited number of homely and not over-savory dishes. Some of the advantages of occasional guest with some particular dainties, that you cannot reconcile your conscience to at any other time. This is all very well as it is, but the question arises, how can you need not be visited upon the helpless family victims by a course of unpalatable and uninviting meals?

Remember that the real skill of the "home cook" as well as the trained expert lies in making the most homely and apparently homely dishes into something that is not only palatable with your every-day, close-at-hand available until you are able to depend on them alone in the making of dishes that are fit to eat before a king. Whether he is, as rightfully he should be, the head of your particular domestic kingdom, or even a great orator, the man who is able to make the most of his granddaddy's table so famous and inviting were not those served at the feasts on some grand and families were most accustomed to. As a proof of this, one never fails to please when, from some forgotten corner she produces some old-time family favorite recipe. It is always just what some one has been looking for for years.

Baked Soup.

Take a pound and a half of meat; any trimmings from joints, one onion; two carrots, two ounces and a half of rice, one pint of split peas and two quarts of water. Cut the meat and vegetables into pieces; season them with salt and pepper and put into a stone jar with the peas and rice. Cover with the water and cover the jar closely and set in the oven to bake for four hours. When done, strain through a sieve and serve.

Creamed Oysters in Bread Boxes.

Allow two large oysters for each box or case. For a dozen oysters allow half a pint of cream sauce and yolks of two eggs. Prepare the boxes before cooking the oysters in the following manner: The bread should be stale and the grated; trim off the crust and cut into three two and one-half inches thick, two and a half inches wide and three and a half inches long. Then, with a sharp pointed knife, cut out the center of these bread boxes, leaving a clean-cut wall at bottom and sides half an inch thick. Fry them a dainty brown in deep hot fat, like croquettes or brush them over with melted butter, inside and out, and set in the oven to toast. Cook the oysters in their own liquor until they plump up; then drain and cut into four pieces. Mix the butter with the cream sauce, stir smooth; then add the half pint of milk; season with salt and pepper and a little ground nutmeg, and just before removing from the fire add the beaten egg yolks.

Macaroni Timbales.

Have a large quantity of boiling, salted water; into this put a quart of a package of fine macaroni or spaghetti without breaking and cook until tender. When done, take out of the water carefully and lay the pieces straight on a soft cloth to cool. Have your timbale molds buttered; wind the pieces of macaroni around the bottom and sides of these, to the top, keeping it in place by filling in with a cream mixture of chopped macaroni.

A ten-cent package makes

2 large OR 3 small pies

With a good crust and a quick oven your mince pies will be like those made to make, for

HIS GENTLE HINT.

Chicago Post.

"How much of a salary do you get?" asked the inquisitive diner.

"Oh, I don't get any salary," replied the obscure waiter. "The gentleman that dines here are such perfect gentlemen that I don't need any regular salary or wages."

As the diner reached down into his pocket for a tip he was heard to mutter something about courtesy always being costly.
