'INDORSER' AT FARGO

Eastern Papers So Constitute Grain Growers' Merger Action.

N. D. PEOPLE DON'T SO REGARD IT

Nevertheless the "Expression of Sentiment" is Cited as Argument Against Van Sant.

Eastern partisans of the big railway merger are making use of the resolution which had such a stormy time in the recent growers' convention at Fargo. Several of the eastern papers which have been conspicuous in defense of the big combination have recently quoted the suggestion of the event that the "Expression of Sentiment" in the northwest favors Hill's plan of consolidation. Among these is the Gunton's Magazine which in its issue of the 10th inst. carried the "Deal" goes in to prove that Governor Van Sant is working without the indorsement of the northwestern farmers. This publication after noting that the governor of Idaho and Governor Cummins of Iowa are not against the merger, says:

"There are still other indications that the supposed universal panic in the northwest is at least a long way this side of revolution with blood to the horses' bridles. For example, the Tri-State Association of Grain and Cattle Growers, held at Fargo, N. D., January 10th, at which resolutions were adopted, practically all of the members of the association were from the northwestern states. That section of the resolutions favoring the merger is quoted. The status of the merger resolution supposed to have been passed at Fargo is still discussed by North Dakota visitors to the twin cities. A number of representative farmers and business men from points in the Red River valley who were at Fargo during the convention were at the Nicollet Hotel to-day. The opinion of the entire party was that the merger received no indorsement at Fargo. The resolutions which were passed in a careless manner without reading were recalled and when the members of the association were asked to sign them, they were unenthusiastic. The resolutions were dropped by tacit consent and the promoters of the merger section were left to their own devices. It is now that eastern papers are using the supposed resolution as an argument against the merger, it is easy to see why its friends worked so cunningly to get it through."

THE PHILHARMONIC CONCERT

An audience of magnificent proportions assembled at Wesley church last evening to greet the Philharmonic in their second concert. The program was a most interesting one, the principal assisting artist, soprano, the principal assisting artist. The audience was as enthusiastic and appreciative as it was large and furnished the necessary means and best work in the rendition of the program.

The leading concert numbers were Jensen's "The Feast of Adonis," and the final number, Mendelssohn's opera, "Lorelei." Neither of these numbers is familiar to Minneapolis concert-goers, and both were listened to with interest. The music was well rendered, and the soprano, who was a most interesting and melodious singer, was well supported by the orchestra. The music was well rendered, and the soprano, who was a most interesting and melodious singer, was well supported by the orchestra.

TROUBLE WON'T DOWN

Even now after Rev. M. Falk Gjersten and his friends have left Trinity church and seen satisfied to leave their home and to be left alone, the Gjersten matter is not down. When the Gjersten faction left the Trinity church, it left a sting behind in the form of a bitter charge against the faculty of Augsburg seminary and an attack on the Augsburg spirit. A committee to consider the matter was appointed by the Trinity congregation and last evening it made a report. The Augsburg church was wholly exonerated and in order to show that they were justified in their report against Mr. Gjersten, the evidence on the proceedings against him in Christianity was produced. The report was ordered printed in Folkebladet, the organ of the Norwegian Free church.

COUNTY BOARD SAYS NO

It Wants No Auditorium in New County and City Building.

The proposition to convert the interior of the new county and city building into a big auditorium finds no favor with the members of the present board of county commissioners. The plan would deprive the inner offices on the first and second floors of the courthouse of all light and render them useless. There is of course plenty of room on the fourth floor, but it is an auditorium to fit up new quarters. Even if it were practicable, the commissioners do not believe that it is desirable to have a music hall in the courthouse.

IDEAS ON AUDITORIUMS

St. Paul Junketers Now Know Just What They Want.

Ways and means of raising money were investigated and the St. Paul Commercial Club will proceed to put its ideas in shape. The committee believes that the Kansas City auditorium is too large and costly for St. Paul, but that one like the Omaha auditorium would about meet its needs.

Quarantine Hospital Patients Are Whiling the Time Away.

NEWEST DIVERSION A CAKEWALK

It Was Held Last Night for a Big Cake-Ping Pong Tournament Suggested.

Patients at the quarantine hospital are making the most of their enforced isolation. Two mock trials and one debate have already been held this week and last night the series of social events reached a climax in the shape of a most successful cawekalk. For several days preparations for the event had been in progress. A small assessment was made on each of the guests and the proceeds used in the purchase of an eight-layer cake about the size of the royal Italian bread. The drum. Appropriate decorations were provided for the assembly room where the cawekalk took place and early candle light saw an eagerly expectant gathering.

Music was supplied by Charles Tahoma, mouth organ virtuoso, whose concert tour was interrupted by the stern demands of the quarantine ordinances. There were five judges, with John A. Burton as their chairman, and twenty couples, evenly divided as to gentlemen and ladies, walked for the cake. The cake-walking talent developed on short notice is said to have been brilliant to the verge of the starting line. At the conventional progress and some impromptu but none the less graceful steps were employed by the various workers. In the end the judges had a rather stormy debate to pick the winners but the advantages of heredity finally gave the decision to Pearl Ball. His partner was Miss Elvira Jernigan, chairman. Burton presented the cake with a matheless burst of eloquence and any jealousies engendered by the heat of the competition were soon forgotten in the general consumption of the prize.

To-day the cawekalk is the topic of general and pleasurable reminiscence at the Hotel de Smallpox, as the patients have named the quarantine hospital. They have definitely decided that there is nothing in it to be snuffed out. A movement to pass the time away. It will be a sad day for the crowd when the competition were soon forgotten in the general consumption of the prize.
