NEW LOG TERRITORY

Rainy Lake Timber Will Be Sawn in Minneapolis.

The Scanlon-Brooks Company Mill Will Soon Receive 5,000,000 Feet by Rail.

Shipments of logs by railway will greatly increase the output of the Scanlon-Brooks company's sawmill at Minneapolis this season, and will at the same time make a new field of the lumber industry accessible to the Minneapolis market.

The Scanlon-Brooks company will be the first company to transport logs to Minneapolis by rail this season, when the construction of the Virginia & Rainy Lake district commences March 1. The logs are now on the railway landings twelve miles north of Virginia. All logs in this section of the Rainy Lake district have heretofore gone to Rainy Lake and have there found their way to Canadian markets by waters flowing north.

The entire distance of the haul will be 300 miles. There will be from forty to forty-five cars per train. Each train will have a carrying capacity of from 250,000 to 300,000 feet, and it will take twenty trains three weeks to execute the contract.

The 5,000,000 feet will be brought to Virginia over twelve miles of the new road, and from that point will be shipped direct to this city over the Eastern Minnesota, the contracts for shipment having been made with the officials of both companies Saturday.

The Backus-Brooks company is also counting on large rail shipments this season. The lumbermen say that the continuance of the present warm spell for a few days will force the suspension of logging operations in the woods.

A Parisian thought he had discovered the secret; and he went to Monte Carlo to try it on. Now he is back in London again; and the cry of the crowd, "Pat has lost his money," is still heard; while the little ball still rolls merrily on.
