CAVALRY AGAINST STUDENTS

Fighting Rages All of Sunday Afternoon, With Many Killed and Wounded.

New York Sun Special Service

St. Petersburg, March 18.—The narrow escape of the czarina from serious injury or probable death, the killing of half-a-dozen persons, the serious wounding of others and 500 arrests constitute the belated report which the censor permits to be sent out of Sunday's big students' demonstration here.

What the Czarina Saw.

The most severe encounter of the day was in front of the Hotel d'Europe between a multitude of students and workmen and the cavalry. It was only a few moments after the riot had been quelled that the czarina was driven past the hotel.

The whole police reserve was called out and the entire military force was kept busy throughout the day.

The Principal Battle.

The crowds increased in the main thoroughfares until noon, when the cavalry officer in command of a squad in front of the Hotel d'Europe begged the crowd to disperse.

From The Journal Bureau, Room 45, Post Building, Washington.

Washington, March 18.—Should the present retire Pension Commissioner Evans and give his "something fully as good," which is now believed to be his intention, he will be carrying out McKinley's policy.

Mr. Evans had the entire confidence of Mr. McKinley, and he has President Roosevelt's in a large way.

From The Journal Bureau, Room 45, Post Building, Washington.

A suggestion has been made that the change will not take place until fall, and that in connection there is a whisper that possibly Judge Eli Torrance, commander-in-chief of the G. A. R., and ex-officio chairman of the pension committee, may be found available as a candidate for Evans' place.

Hold All the Intervening Passes and Prevent Desired Junction of Government Forces.

Hongkong, March 18.—General Ma has been defeated by the Kwang-Si rebels, who have taken possession of Fang-Cheng.

They have killed or captured all the mandarins and have looted the town.

General Ma attacked the rebel strongholds, but after an engagement lasting two days, was forced to retreat.

The rebellion is spreading rapidly in the provinces of Kwang-Si, Kwang-Tung and Hunan.

A letter received here from Tien-Pai, fifty miles from Kwang-Chou, says all business is suspended there owing to fear of the rebels.

Marah Su is at Lien-Chou and General Ma is at Kao-Chou (both in Kwang-Tung province). Both of these commanders are awaiting reinforcements.

Many of the imperial soldiers are joining the rebels owing to the superior pay offered them and the opportunity for looting.

The rebel leader is Hung-Ming, a relative of the celebrated Hung-Sou-Chuen, leader of the Tai-Hung rebellion.

Lee Smith Believes 'Twould Have Been His Mother's Wish.

Because it was his mother's fondest wish to see him happily married, Lee Smith will wed Miss Grace A. Howell to-morrow morning in front of a casket containing his mother's body.

The step was decided upon last evening, both Mr. Smith and Miss Howell believing that they could thus best carry out the wishes of her who had loved them both so fondly.

The ceremony will be performed by Rev. James S. Montgomery, pastor of Wesley Methodist church, and a prominent member of the Pythian lodge of which Mr. Smith is chancellor commander.

Lee Smith and Miss Howell have been engaged to be married for some time, although no announcement of the prospective wedding was ever made.

Had Mrs. Smith lived, the ceremony would probably have been performed some time in April, but her sudden death compelled a change of plan.

The friendship existing between Mrs. Smith and her prospective daughter-in-law was far stronger than is usually the case. Together the two women planned the details of the younger's trousseau.

Together they did the necessary shopping, and laughingly declined to reveal the nature of their purchases. They could not have enjoyed it more had they really been mother and daughter.

Then Mrs. Smith died. Her death came suddenly, with no warning, and the two families were overwhelmed with grief. The blow was no less severe to Miss Howell than to Mr. Smith himself, for she had loved the dead woman with a tenderness and sympathy that made her loss almost unbearable.

Last night the two young people sat in a room in the family home, grieving for her who had gone. With them was A. F. Smith, Lee Smith's father. Finally Mr. Smith suggested to his son that the wedding take place before his mother was buried.

"She would have wished it," he said. "The mother's wish had always been paramount, and the young people knew their elder was right. They did not demur. Miss Howell realized that her sympathy and tender care were needed in the stricken household and she consented to the plan proposed.

Then there was another reason. Some years ago Mr. and Mrs. Smith adopted a little girl. The child is now 12 years old, and her father felt that she should not be deprived of a mother's care. Miss Howell bravely promised to shoulder the responsibility.

The young people will be married to-morrow morning. The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon. The wedding, of course, will be strictly private, the ceremony being performed only before the immediate members of the two families and before that silent form of her who had loved both bride and groom so well and who was herself so well beloved.

Growsome Grounds for Divorce

New York Sun Special Service

Pittsburg, Pa., March 18.—Ida B. Hunter yesterday gave remarkable testimony against her husband, Thomas F. Hunter, in a plea for divorce. She married him June 21, 1894, and he lived with her parents until he was put out of the house for abusing her.

He worked as an apprentice for an undertaker.

She alleges he frequently took bodies from coffins, hid them, placed stones and bricks in the coffins and buried the corpses, selling the corpses to medical clinics and students.

He went to Detroit in July, 1896, and engaged with an undertaker named Patterson. He had two rooms over the shop and many corpses were hidden in their closet while the boxes were interred laden with stones.

The bodies were sold and Hunter spent the money with his brother. He took all the clothes from the dead and demanded that she and her child should wear them.

When she refused he abused her and forced her to do so. She has suggested herself and child since 1898.
