

LABOR IN POLITICS

Unions in Connecticut Seek Control of the State.

SUCCESS IN CITY ELECTIONS

This Acts as a Spur to Endeavor Whose Results the Business Interests Dread.

New York Sun Special Service

New Haven, Conn., April 21.—The well developed movement of organized labor to secure political control of the state will have an unfavorable effect upon the movement for constitutional reform.

In this city the power of the unions has been further accentuated by their success in naming ten aldermen last week, who are pledged to promote radical municipal legislation.

The labor men are keenly alive to the gain they would derive from popular representation and are working tooth and nail to bring it about.

The fear that the state government will be controlled by a legislative body so controlled will be likely to produce a mass of hostile legislation that will be serious in its effects on manufacturing business interests.

LIES IN A PAUPER'S GRAVE

MILLER WAS WORTH A MILLION

He Died in a Poorhouse and Government and Church Are Searching for Heirs.

Chicago, April 21.—Johann Miller, who lies in an unmarked grave in the poorhouse in Duluth, Minn., never dreamed that two years after his death agents of the Austrian government and representatives of the Catholic church would be searching for heirs to his estate, which is now estimated to be worth at least $1,000,000.

The estate consists of land obtained by Miller eighteen years ago in the United States homestead laws. It is located in the Lake Superior region, adjoining some of the richest mining property owned by James J. Hill, the railroad magnate.

Father Kosmerl, who is the pastor of a Catholic church at Duluth, loaned Miller $300 at one time, taking as security the papers on a homesteaded property. Miller, who never knew the value of the property, became financially embarrassed, and unable to pay or borrow money from any of his friends, finally went to the poorhouse in Duluth. He died there two years ago and was buried in the potter's field.

A year ago mining experts discovered that Miller's land was very valuable. It was learned that Father Kosmerl held a claim against the property, and Acting Consul General Schwegel is searching for heirs to the estate. He has discovered that Father Kosmerl is trying to get possession of the property.

DE WINDT'S PROGRESS

Expedition Frost Bitten in Siberia, but Undismayed.

London, April 21.—Letters have been received here from Harry De Windt, head of the expedition which is attempting to make its way overland from Paris to New York, dated Verkhoyansk, East Siberia, at the end of February. In spite of the forebodings of the authorities of Yakutsk, who advised Mr. De Windt against the attempt, saying the conditions were worse than ever before, the expedition reached Verkhoyansk, 600 miles north of Yakutsk, Feb. 28.

The expedition had a terrible experience while crossing the Verkhoyansk mountain. The cold was intense and all the travelers were frost-bitten. Otherwise they were well and in good spirits, and were leaving the same day for Sredne Kolymsk, east Siberia, 900 miles farther on, which the party hoped to reach about the middle of March. Then it was their intention to push on 1,500 miles to East Cape on Bering strait. Probably the next news of the expedition will be its arrival in the United States via the Bering strait.

Toledo, Ohio, April 21.—Mayor Jones took his official farewell of the police force, the legislature having taken away his seat on the police board, as well as clipping his power in other directions. He said that the change was made to take the department out of politics is a cheap bit of fraud that it will not fool any one. But good will come out of this assault on the people's rights. Home rule seems to be dethroned, but it is only for a time. Let love rule every action. The spirit of murder is being put out of business.
