E. W. PEET'S FUNERAL

It is Largely Attended by St. Paul Business Men.

Business men of St. Paul paid an eloquent tribute to the memory of the late E. W. Peet this afternoon by attending his funeral practically in a body. The Chamber of Commerce was well represented, and the Church of the Holy Evangelists, from which the services were held, was filled with sorrowing friends of the dead man. Rev. Theodore Sedgwick read the service, assisted by Bishop S. C. Edsall.

Wong Chong Gets an Order A Doubtful Method of Keeping Up Boycott is Suggested.

Wong Chong's Chinese restaurant at 213 Nicollet avenue, known as the Oregon restaurant, is to be protected from interference by the Minneapolis Cooks' Benevolent and Protective association and their pickets. The restaurant proprietor signed a temporary injunction to restrain the members of the union from interfering with Wong Chong's business. It is also ordered that they show cause why the injunction should not be made permanent.

Way to Keep Up Boycott. The members of the cooks' association believe they will still be able to picket the restaurants and thereby render effective their boycott. They say the injunction against the restaurant is a violation of the law, but that there is nothing to prevent pickets from the carpenters' union or any other organization from distributing boycott cards in front of the dining houses. The cooks say they will be careful not to solicit the aid of any other union which might thus act in the capacity of employees. Reinforcements will be purely voluntary. The Trades and Labor assembly will take no part in the program, as it might be enjoined as a body. Under the proposed plan, it is said, the only redress of the restaurant proprietors would be to secure injunctions against every union.

Lawyers' Views. Several lawyers expressed the belief that it would be a decidedly ticklish proposition for any other union to attempt to bring the Chinese restaurants in the same fashion. "Having issued an injunction against any such act," said one attorney, "neither the United States nor district court judges would tolerate any such attempt to force their ruling. It is probable that some one would be jailed if such a course were followed." Harlan P. Roberts, attorney for the proprietors of the restaurant, said: "It will be easy enough to slap on another injunction whenever it is necessary, but I don't believe the courts will allow one to tamper with justice that way, and it would in all probability react upon the cooks' union in any event."

BLAR FINALLY SENT UP

HE MUST SERVE FOR THIRTY DAYS Conviction for Violating Saloon Ordinance Secured Despite His "Pull" at Headquarters.

For the first time during the present administration, under which he has openly defied the authorities, Peter Blar, proprietor of the tough saloon and theater at 5 and 6 1/2 First street S, came fairly within the clutches of the law this morning. Upon complaint of a man robbed in his place Blar was convicted of selling liquor without a license more than a week ago, and was then sentenced to thirty days straight in the workhouse. He secured a five-day stay, and when that term was up Judge Holt granted three more days of grace at the request of the pardoning board to sign finally on Blar's application for a pardon. He had confidently relied upon his ability to bring sufficient influence to bear on the board to avoid a sentence to the workhouse, but the board declined to interfere. A commitment was accordingly issued from the municipal court this morning, and Blar was soon doing time at the workhouse.

THE POTATO SITUATION

S. H. Hall Doubts Rumors of an Impending Corner.

S. H. Hall, one of the prominent commission men of the city and in close touch with the Minneapolis potato market, has small faith in the ability of a beef trust to corner food products, particularly potatoes. As yet there is no proof of any attempt to be made to get together in the tubers, at least in this city. The Minneapolis potato market is the largest in the country and would probably be the first to feel any move looking toward a corner. Mr. Hall admits that almost anything is within the power of the gigantic combination, but is inclined to think that the present rumors are without foundation. The best trust, he says, is not buying potatoes except in very small quantities, and then only for its own use.

'WAY UP FARMERS

Government Agriculturists Will Meet Here with Seedmen.

Northrup, president of the American Seed Trade association, the national organization of seed dealers and seed growers, received word this morning that James Wilson, secretary of agriculture, will attend the annual convention to be held in the ordinary of the West hotel June 24-26. It is expected that Dr. B. T. Galloway, chief of the division of vegetable physiology and pathology, and A. J. Pieters, in charge of pure seed investigations, division of botany, will be present. Each of these representatives of the department of agriculture will make addresses. The association comprises about 175 members and at least 200 persons will attend the meetings.

Turnblad appeared before Judge Harrison this morning by his attorney with a motion to vacate the award of the commissioners fixing the value of his real estate in Lowry park, which is wanted by the park board. Viennese Horrified.

First Testimony in Gallegher Case Will Be Taken Monday Morning.

The Gallegher jury was completed this afternoon. Three jurors were added in the course of the day. They were: William S. Beard, cashier for the McClure-Paper company; Americus Vespucius Hoyt, a carpenter, aged 72; Marshall J. Haney, insurance man, employed by Modern Woodmen. The completed jury is as follows:

Andrew P. Johnson, Fred H. Armstrong, Jens Moon, Carl Otto, Erick M. Johnson, John Easthagen, Harley H. Andrews, George W. Tibbetts, Charles E. Krueger, William S. Beard, Americus V. Hoyt, Marshall J. Haney.

The state used one peremptory challenge, refusing Edward Toy. The defense retailed by rejecting Arthur F. Daggett, grain dealer. The state has used four peremptory challenges, which has three left while the defense has ten.

One of the venire "men" drawn was a woman, Marion Taugtes, was captured last evening by Deputy Sheriff Daniel O'Connell, but she was excused by Judge Simpson.

At the close of the morning session the records showed that 171 men had been examined by the jury duty. Four special juries of 235 members have been drawn, in addition to the regular panel of 100 names.

The taking of testimony will begin Monday morning.

WONG CHONG GETS AN ORDER

Loring of this city, by the seventh and eighth grades. Fifteen-minute exercises of songs and recitations accompanied the plantings. All of the rooms had special programs. A plan has been started by the principal of the school, Professor D. H. Painter, by which the scholars report each day upon the progress made in improving their home lawns.

Tom Watson's "place" on First avenue S, which came under the displeasure of the police a few weeks ago, came for a further official visit last night. Two or three inspectors found half a dozen women there and ordered Watson to send them away. After some protests, Watson did as directed. The visit of the inspectors last night, he declares that they visited four other down town resorts and found them running as usual. And this was after midnight, too.

C. S. A. VETS GREET MR. TORRANCE

He Attends Southern Encampments of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Atlanta papers which arrived this morning contain glowing descriptions of the enthusiastic reception of Judge Eli Torrance of Minneapolis, commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, in the south. In Atlanta, union and confederate veterans fairly outdid themselves. Wednesday morning Judge and Mrs. Torrance were driven about the city, accompanied by Judge Calhoun, president of the Confederate Veterans' Home, and by other prominent citizens. One of the most interesting places visited was the home, filled with disabled confederate veterans. Mrs. Torrance accompanied a reception committee of women to the federal prison. Judge Torrance reviewed the fourteenth annual session of the Georgia department, G. A. R., and instructed the members of the evening Judge and Mrs. Torrance were the guests of honor at a reception at the Kimball hotel, in which confederate veterans, some of veterans and daughters of the Confederacy participated.

Writing to S. H. Towler, his adjutant general, Judge Torrance says particular significance has been given to the trip because Mrs. Torrance is the first wife of a commander-in-chief of the grand army to visit the south with her husband. He finds that many southern women are devoted members of the Daughters of the American Revolution. As Mrs. Torrance occupies a prominent position in that order in Minnesota, she has been much sought after by southern women.

The visitors left for Montgomery, Ala., Wednesday for Montgomery, where Judge Torrance attended another encampment. He was to visit New Orleans and Beaumont, Texas, to attend other appointments before his return about April 25.

At Montgomery they were met by Col. Wickersham and comrades, including Lieutenant Smith, of the First Alabama Cavalry, who knew Mortimer Flint, of Minneapolis.

At Cincinnati the southern train was held fifteen minutes for Judge Torrance and party to make connections.

PRATT IS EXONERATED

A Clean Bill Given to Attorney of Itasca.

Charges filed with the governor against County Attorney Pratt of Itasca county, have vanished in thin air. The county commissioner charged malfeasance in office, for his refusal to prosecute certain criminal cases, and for not only compelling them to employ outside counsel to prosecute a murder case, but for having tampered with the jury with the aid of a witness, had secured a new trial at great expense to the county. The governor appointed a commission to take evidence. The commission has reported stating that after repeated attempts it has failed to secure a scintilla of evidence against Mr. Pratt. This ends the prosecution and Mr. Pratt will retain his office.

Elmendorf, manager of the Kimball Piano company's branch in this city, has been selected to read a paper before the annual convention of the National Piano Dealers' association which meets in Baltimore May 13-15. Mr. Elmendorf will address the restaurant proprietors. "The Most Advisable Way for the Dealer to handle commercial pianos; carry Stencil or irregular pianos without the Maker's name; or have a piano made With His Own Name on it." The conservative Musical Courier in speaking of the coming convention calls special attention to Mr. Elmendorf and his paper. "Which is one of the brightest and most successful piano men in the entire country."

WARRANTED IN SHOOTING

COMMENT ON JIMMERSON CASE

Prosecuting Attorney Waite Says the Odells Were Outrageously Used-Defendants Fined.

J. M. and T. N. Jimmerson, father and son, who jumped into notoriety recently by demolishing the apartment house on Hennepin avenue occupied by the family of Clinton Odell, under the heads of the inmates, were fined $25 with the alternative of thirty days in jail, by Judge Holt in the municipal court this morning. The Jimmersons claimed ownership of the cottage, and when the Odells refused to vacate the premises, they invaded the premises and tore the house to pieces in spite of the protestations of Mrs. Odell and her mother-in-law, Mrs. R. R. Odell. E. F. Waite, assistant city attorney, stated language in summing up the case for the state. "Your honor," he said, "will bear me out in the assertion that I seldom take occasion to express my personal views on cases which come into this court. But I wish now to denounce the action of these defendants in tearing that house down on the heads of the defenseless women who were in the premises. These ladies exercised wonderful self-control in calmly permitting the outrage. The circumstances were such that had there been a shot gun or a revolver, the result might have been justified in the use of either weapon." "Conceding that the Jimmersons actually owned the house, Judge Holt declared that the prosecution of the Odells demanded stern punishment in such cases."

HE LOST MILLIONS

A Minneapolis Railroad Man With a Unique Career.

Henry V. Lucas, who recently went through bankruptcy court at Chicago, is employed in the Great Northern ticket office in this city. The case attracted attention as Mr. Lucas is well known all over the country. He was once manager of the St. Louis ball club, at another time was engaged in the steamboat business on the Mississippi, and has been in the employ of railroads all over the country. In his petition, Mr. Lucas admitted liabilities of $40,000, with no assets. The petition also related that just twenty years ago he had fallen heir to $2,000,000, but for three years had been in speculation. The money was left to him by his father, Judge Lucas, of St. Louis. Mr. Lucas then secured employment as conductor on a Pullman car. Later he secured his present position.

Lieut. C. R. Elliot Has Army Commission Fast Now.

Varied Little in 10 Years According to L. G. Powers.

PER CAPITA CONSUMPTION 5.25 BU.

The Figure Reached by Several Methods, Each Affording Check on Others.

In the current issue of the Cincinnati Price Current, Rev. L. G. Powers of Minneapolis, now chief agricultural statistician for the census bureau, has an article dealing with the per capita consumption of wheat in the United States. The average annual consumption of wheat by the American people is placed at 5.25 bushels per capita. In the United States, there were exported 12,231,711 barrels, or 15 per cent. The division of manufactures reported that in the census year 355,749,798 bushels of wheat were converted to flour. Deducting from this 15 per cent, as the amount exported as flour, we have as the quantity of wheat consumed by the people in the year ending June 1, 1890, 327,857,000 bushels, which was 5.23 bushels per capita. The total production of flour reported by the mills, as shown by the preliminary tabulation of the division of manufactures for the twelfth census, was 102,554,004 barrels. There were exported in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1900, 18,699,194 barrels, which is 18 per cent of the product reported by the mills from ground wheat, or 83,854,806 bushels of wheat, less 18 per cent exported, gives substantially 68,410,000 bushels as the quantity for home consumption. This is the equivalent of 5.25 bushels per capita, or the same substantially as is indicated by the report of manufactures of ten years before.

"The figures for 1890 are not as perfect as those for the last ten censuses, but they indicate a probable consumption of wheat by the people of the United States at that time of 5.5 bushels per annum. An analysis of the figures of the division of agriculture of the census, giving the production in 1890 as 688,534,252 bushels, will reach the same result as that given above for that of manufactures or substantially 5.25 bushels per capita consumption.

Ten years ago, when the analysis of the figures of wheat production, as given by the division of agriculture, and wheat ground, as given by the division of manufactures, showed more wheat ground than was possible for the wheat reported by the other division as grown, the trade generally assumed that there was some error in the figures of the division of manufactures; but with the report of the two divisions of the twelfth census agreeing with that average consumption of wheat, it seems to be that the statistics of 1890 of the division of manufactures in the census, so far as they differ from those of the division of agriculture at that time, must be accepted, and that we may safely assume that now, ten years ago, the average consumption of wheat by the American people is 5.25 bushels per capita."

The appointment was recommended on Feb. 1, and went to the senate to-day for confirmation.

Frank Hoover, the Minneapolis compositor who attempted suicide last Sunday and again yesterday upon his release from the hospital, will be examined to-day to determine whether he is insane or not.
