DRAMATIC CLUB'S TRIUMPH

Its Spring Performance a Splendid Success Artistically—The Audience a Brilliant One.

The Dramatic club scored a brilliant triumph at its spring performance last night at the Lyceum theater. One of the stormiest nights of the year had no perceptible effect on the attendance nor the costuming of the crush of well known society people.

the love of one whom both loved. It is also a duel between the older woman, Countess d'Auterval, represented by Miss Lucy Hart, and Baron de Montclair, prefect of police, represented by George Buisis, for the life of the beloved youth.

frocks of white and pink. The comedy was supplied almost wholly by George H. Willard in the part of Gustave de Grignon who greatly amused herodism and wants to be a hero but whose heart falls him at critical junctures.

CAPT. CHEELY NOT CAST AWAY. Excelsior Was Wrought Up by Rumors of the Act's Wreck.

'Twas a wild night along shore and Captain Cheely of the good ship Acte thought best to scrub up for the night rather than to brave the perils of the raging reef.

Excelsior there were grave fears entertained for the safety of the Acte and her crew. As the darkness fell upon a seething waste of riotous whitecaps and no Acte had been at the propellers.

An Appreciation.

Rear Admiral Evans, in the May issue of McClure's Magazine, says: "For comfort and luxury the special train on which he traveled made a lasting impression upon the prince and his suite. Prince Henry said: 'I have seen the best equipment on Russian railroads, and they are the best in Europe; but I have never seen or imagined that a train like this could be put together.'"

THREE BILLS BEFORE CONGRESS

Alaska and the Forest Reserves Teeming With Interest to Sportsmen.

Washington, April 26.—Three bills are now before congress of special interest to sportsmen and to persons desirous of conserving the wild animals and birds within our domain.

The trouble heretofore in making this transfer has been a vagueness concerning the boundary lines of the reserves, and their settlement is a matter of land office regulation. The proposed bill provides for transfer only after the boundaries are definitely fixed; then, if the governor of the state in which the reserve is situated recommends that it be also made a game preserve the secretary of agriculture will be empowered, acting on his discretion, to do this.

A third bill proposes to give the secretary of agriculture authority to permit the importation of the eggs of game birds intended for propagation. Now, there is an absolute prohibition of such importations, and since many persons cannot afford to import live birds for propagation purposes, it is believed that permission to bring in the eggs would have a beneficial effect. This would put eggs on the same basis as the birds themselves, which are now admitted at the discretion of the secretary of agriculture.

This bill passed the house Saturday, and will probably receive early consideration in the senate. The prohibition measure which it would displace is believed to have been mistaken legislation, and to have been passed under a misapprehension as to its effects.

Water Lily Beds.

When city people are thinking of how to beautify their summer homes at the lake they should study into the question of water lily culture. This is rather a fad in gardening in the East. Lilies of almost every color of the rainbow can be grown, and for beauty and freshness the lily bed is unsurpassed.

THE COMING OF THE BIRDS

MINNEAPOLIS.—DATE OF ARRIVAL STUDY OF BIRD LIFE IN AND ABOUT OF THE DIFFERENT VARIETIES.

May is pre-eminently the month of bird travel, but in April while the loaf-birds are still unspread, the bird student finds it a comparatively easy task to follow the bird through all his motions.

scratched a moment in the dirt, looked at us frankly, ran about the tree trunk, and up again to the fence, or to a low branch near to sing that gay song over again. The pewee was mournfully calling from nearly every tree—you cannot mistake his call, and by that and his large head you readily distinguish him from similar birds.

Just as you decide it cannot be the kinglet he will look at you mischievously, and vanish! In a low damp thicket a veery was running about on the ground, watching us solemnly. He moved away capriciously at each approach, rarely giving a good sight of his distinguishing marks.

The first of this week in a willow thicket on the east shore of Lake of the Isles some half dozen birds were seen together. A great flock of purple grackles lit for a moment on the treetops with squeak and whirr, and then off across the lake.

The hermit thrushes came back this week, and flocks of little thrush blackbirds, while the redwings are uttering their trilling notes from high perches by the water and on the wing.

darted and fluttered in and out of the thread-like pendant branches of a cultivated birch, fairly turning somersaults and occasionally disclosing his crown, a small, indistinguishable spot of red except when in certain rapid motion, it seemed to rise and dance like flames over his head. But you may follow him from limb to limb, from tree to tree for half an hour without catching sight of it.

glasses, a reference book, sharp eyes, a good memory and infinite patience. The way of birds is not merely good, individual portraits but effective ensemble work, a much more difficult task. The voices were all agreeably pitched and the enunciation clear, points in which many good professionals fall. Thanks to the assistance of several Minneapolis firms and in individual friends of the club the stage settings were very handsome.

Inter-Collegiate State Contest. The Intercollegiate strength contest in which the university has fifty strong men entered closes next week and Minnesota's athletes are straining every effort to make a creditable showing.

Hatch was made managing editor, Dana McMillan and Walter Aubrey, business managers; S. H. Humphreys, editor-in-chief, Earl Mallory and Ray H. Knight, associate editors.
