

M. E. Wallace's Great Millinery Sale

20 Per Cent Discount...

On all Trimmings, Bonnets and all our Millinery in the house will go at the greatest discount ever offered on New High-Class Millinery.

800 Trimmings and Bonnets to select from. You can surely find just what you want.

This Sale is for Cash Only. Tuesday and Wednesday—Two Last Days of the Month.

515 and 517 Nicollet Avenue.

'Nounou'

A Story by Hugues Le Roux. The Famous French Writer Who Will Visit the Twin Cities Next Week.

The physician, who engaged her assured them he had secured the pearl of pearls. She was healthy, strong and good tempered.

Nounou, in truth, was still grieving for her little one, whom she had been obliged to confide to others in order to take this situation.

Their little ménage was a poor one, and the husband, too ambitious to spend his life working for others, would now be able, thanks to his wife, to purchase a grapevine and cultivate it in his own bit of land.

Now, with this other child in her arms and the gentle dressing of his little lips at her breast, she felt less unhappy than at first, and took pleasure in nursing and pressing the crying child to her heart, repeating as she kissed him:

'My little one! My little one!' She was, without question, careful, motherly and discreet, and either by nature or through experience, incapable of taking advantage of her employers or acting with the rapacity common to her class.

She clasped her hands for joy with never a thought of envying the country nurses she encountered in the squares, whose cap ribbons reached to the bottom of their petticoats.

Monsieur and madame secretly congratulated themselves on their acquisition. One thing only was unsatisfactory.

The tardy advent of the bimonthly Saturday letter would throw Nounou into despair, and her nursing into exile.

The letter in question came from the schoolmaster; it was written at the comrade's dictation. He was vain of his penmanship and proud of the opportunity to write the word

'Nounou' on an envelope, so he laboriously complicated the address: 'To Madame Jeane Verrier with Monsieur Monsieur Poirain Rue Salut-Denis Paris.'

His letters were an odd mixture of high-flown phrases and ludicrous expressions, interwoven with the naïf babble of the comrade, telling of the dinners, the washings, the heat and the tending rash—which nothing could be more fortunate, since it had expelled all the impurities from his body.

Ignorant of even the letters of the alphabet, Nounou would carry these mistakes to madame and listen attentively to the reading thereof, her eyes raised in ecstasy while she let fall little exclamations indicative of inward pride in the fact that her son was tending before his foster brother.

And when madame dismissed her with—'You perceive, of course, Nounou, how very foolish you were to get your blood heated—she would show her white teeth in a great coarse laugh, the tears scarcely dry on her cheeks.

One day the country letter failed to make its appearance. This was agony. She proved deaf to expostulation and sobbed inordinately, her head buried in the pillows. In terror lest the milk should go to her head, monsieur telegraphically replied to the schoolmaster of Corbiy.

The reply came the same evening: 'The child died of croup yesterday morning.' Face to face in the salon, the blue paper confronting them on the table, monsieur and madame held council. With one accord they determined to withhold the news, not to divulge it to Nounou, later, and for the time being to reassure her.

'For,' said monsieur, 'she would be capable of leaving us.'

'Just when the baby is doing so well, added madame. And together: 'Those people have so little conscience! The day after the weeping mother, laid the dispatch before her, and with a sang froid that satisfied even himself, monsieur explained:

'The child is quite well. It was the schoolmaster who was ill. The husband repeats with fears of his wife's return and dread lest the grapevine disappear in smoke.

Regularly thereafter, for three months, monsieur posted letters written by himself, to be read by madame to the nurse. He ingeniously varied the details, consulting his own paternal observations as he recorded the probable daily progress of Nounou's ailment.

Paris, on an envelope, so he laboriously complicated the address: 'To Madame Jeane Verrier with Monsieur Monsieur Poirain Rue Salut-Denis Paris.'

His letters were an odd mixture of high-flown phrases and ludicrous expressions, interwoven with the naïf babble of the comrade, telling of the dinners, the washings, the heat and the tending rash—which nothing could be more fortunate, since it had expelled all the impurities from his body.

Ignorant of even the letters of the alphabet, Nounou would carry these mistakes to madame and listen attentively to the reading thereof, her eyes raised in ecstasy while she let fall little exclamations indicative of inward pride in the fact that her son was tending before his foster brother.

And when madame dismissed her with—'You perceive, of course, Nounou, how very foolish you were to get your blood heated—she would show her white teeth in a great coarse laugh, the tears scarcely dry on her cheeks.

One day the country letter failed to make its appearance. This was agony. She proved deaf to expostulation and sobbed inordinately, her head buried in the pillows. In terror lest the milk should go to her head, monsieur telegraphically replied to the schoolmaster of Corbiy.

The reply came the same evening: 'The child died of croup yesterday morning.' Face to face in the salon, the blue paper confronting them on the table, monsieur and madame held council. With one accord they determined to withhold the news, not to divulge it to Nounou, later, and for the time being to reassure her.

'For,' said monsieur, 'she would be capable of leaving us.'

'Just when the baby is doing so well, added madame. And together: 'Those people have so little conscience! The day after the weeping mother, laid the dispatch before her, and with a sang froid that satisfied even himself, monsieur explained:

'The child is quite well. It was the schoolmaster who was ill. The husband repeats with fears of his wife's return and dread lest the grapevine disappear in smoke.

Regularly thereafter, for three months, monsieur posted letters written by himself, to be read by madame to the nurse. He ingeniously varied the details, consulting his own paternal observations as he recorded the probable daily progress of Nounou's ailment.

The time never came for confessing the truth. How tranquilly she babbled. 'My Jean talks, my Jean does so and so, madame, write the comrade to give him no sweets, if you please. They destroy the roots of the teeth.'

They let her talk, delaying now to the last moment, at sight of her mingled grief and happiness, cowardice won the day. Fearing her reproaches, and deciding that after all a handsome present would go far toward appeasing this rustic sorrow, he took 200 francs from a drawer and said as he handed it to her:

'Nounou, you have been faithful to our child. We shall ever remember you.' They then returned to the station, with her to the station. I have put her in a good humor. Tell her at the last moment. You can do it better than I can.'

The same evening, when they met again in the dining-room, their baby before them seated like a man in a high chair, beating the table with his ivory spoon, monsieur inquired smilingly:

'Well, my dear?' 'Slightly embarrassed, madame replied, looking at her white, blue-veined, ring-laden hands: 'She took me to a linen shop, where she made a lot of foolish purchases for her baby. She appeared so happy. What would you have, my dear? I am not to be blamed for being so sensitive. I told her nothing.'

Planning Mill Burned. West Superior, Wis., April 28.—Fire completely destroyed the planning mill of the American lumber company and its entire contents. The loss will amount to about $12,000, covered by insurance. The company intends to rebuild.

Paint That Will Last. We are Northwestern Agents for the Stearns Best Tinted Lead. Cost when thinned with pure Linseed Oil, a gal. $1.10. Guaranteed 5 years.

Gamble & Ludwig, Wholesale and Retail. 301-303 Hennepin Ave.

SPORTS BASEBALL

NEW ATHLETIC CLUB FIVE STRAIGHT NOW

For Business and Professional Men Down Town. Wilmot's Men Can Neither Bat, Field, Nor Run Bases.

UNDER PROF. P. A. CARCIOFINI TOLEDO HAS AN EASY VICTORY

Chapeliski Gets an Awful Bumping in the Seventh and Eighth Innings.

After losing the fourth of the Columbia series by the lop sided score of 12 to 2, Wilmot's reformers floated over to where Strobel's team cavorts around Toledo turned out to give ancient Perry Verden a good whipping for the king once over a Toledo uniform.

There was no comparison between the two teams from a baseball standpoint. The millers could neither bat, field nor run bases. Quillin, with his one lone hit put the millers ahead in the fifth inning, making a triple when the bases were full.

The advantage was of the briefest duration, for the Toledo went after Chapeliski and drove him to the dark forests, while the millers filled the error column with figures.

According to the Columbia papers the millers are weak at second base, left field and in the box, while there have been no particular bouquets for Wilmot, Worden and McFarland, these veterans ought to hold their own in any team in the American association.

Phyle, Quillan and Zalusky were the only players on an account of their rapid and intelligent work. Quillan has been a little unsteady at times, and Zalusky has not batted as well as he might have done, but the lads will certainly do. The Columbus writers have unquestionably sized up the situation correctly with regard to the places that need improvement.

Mpls.—h p a e. Toledo—h p a e. Phyle 3b. 1 0 0. Shiebeck, ss. 2 4 3 0. Quillin, lf. 1 0 0. Miller, rf. 1 0 0 0. Wilmot, cf. 1 0 0 0. Myers, 2b. 2 1 0 0. Verden, 1b. 0 1 1 0. Turner, 1b. 1 3 0 0. McFarland, cf. 1 2 0 0. Morris, 2b. 1 1 2 0. Burns, lf. 1 1 0 0. Byers, c. 1 2 1 0. Grunwald, c. 0 0 1 0. Chapeliski, p. 2 2 0 0. Totals 15 27 16 4.

Columbus, Ohio, April 28.—The senators lost their first game yesterday when the Kellys sainted over their series. The score: Columbus—h p a e. St. Paul—h p a e. Hart, c. 3 0 0 0. Geler, 2b. 3 5 2 0. Miller, 1b. 1 0 0 0. Kelly, 3b. 1 0 0 0. Lally, lf. 2 1 0 0. Shay, ss. 0 1 3 0. Grim, 1b. 0 1 1 0. Pierce, cf. 1 0 0 0. Turner, 3b. 1 2 1 0. Shaan'n cf. 2 0 2 1. Nuttress, ss. 1 2 0 0. Lummey, rf. 2 0 0 0. Toledo, 1b. 2 2 0 0. O'Connell, 2b. 1 1 1 1. Dunham, p. 0 0 0 0. Grzech, p. 1 0 3 0. Totals 10 21 15 8.

Professor Carciofini was instructor in boxing, fencing and other athletics at West Point, Princeton university, Columbia university, Columbia athletic club, Washington, D. C., the University of Minnesota, and later, at the Savage Institute, New York city.

Among the organizers who have signified their intention of joining the new club are F. G. James, Willis Walker, John Donaldson, W. D. Washburn, J. F. W. Kelly, C. E. Blackwell, C. J. Minor, F. E. Penney and C. C. Wagner.

THROUGH MUD AND WATER CYCLISTS' STRENUOUS TRIP Cover 134 Miles to Faribault and Return, but They Say, 'Never Again.'

Five cyclists tried the run to Faribault and return yesterday, and their experiences read like a chapter in the life of the notorious Longfellow.

A. A. Hansen, C. R. Weiden, W. L. McMullen and A. N. Anderson finished the trip, James B. Harper of Enderlin, N. D., started with the party but fell by the roadside just beyond Rosemount.

The other four cyclists pushed on through the mud and water to Faribault, where they had lunch. Five miles they had to return, but they were compelled to push the 128-pound machine.

Left on bases, Louisville 2, Milwaukee 7; two-base hits, Clingman, Hallman, O'Connell; singles, McGee, double plays, Parrott to Dunham; error, McGee; bases on balls, Gannon 2, Flournoy 2; struck out, by Altrock 1, by Kerwin 1; hit by pitched ball, Flournoy; time of game, 1:50; umpire, Haskell.

Kansas City and Indianapolis were prevented from playing on account of the Indiana Sunday laws.

How They Stand. Played. Won. Lost. Pct. Columbus 5 4 1 .800. St. Paul 5 3 2 .600. Indianapolis 3 2 1 .667. Louisville 3 2 1 .667. Milwaukee 4 2 2 .500. Kansas City 4 1 3 .250. Minneapolis 5 0 5 .000.

Games To-day. Minneapolis at Toledo. Philadelphia at St. Louis. Kansas City at Indianapolis. Milwaukee at Louisville.

NATIONAL LEAGUE Chicago, Ill., April 28.—Chicago was shut out by Philadelphia yesterday in a pitchers' battle. St. Vrain lost control in the eighth, hitting two batsmen. An error and two singles led the rest.

Henderson Indorsed Hardin County Republicans Loyal to the Speaker. Iowa Falls, Iowa, April 28.—The republicans of Hardin county strongly indorsed Speaker Henderson. John C. Crockett of Eldora, who is a candidate for supreme court reporter, was permitted to select the delegates to the state convention.

Held by the Courts Lajoie, Bernhard and Frazer Must Stay With Philadelphia. Philadelphia, April 28.—The court of common pleas to-day granted a perpetual injunction against Second Baseman Lajoie and Pitchers Bernhard and Frazer, restraining them from playing with any baseball club other than the Philadelphia National League club.

The Plymouth Fine Clothing. Men and Boys. A word in confidence—that double breasted suit that you saw in the street and supposed made by a high priced tailor came from our store.

SAILOR SUITS—A very pretty suit of dark blue chevot with 5 rows of white soutache on collar, also white braid round edge, black silk bow, sizes 3 to 10 years, regular $3.95 suit, $2.50 Tuesday at.

NEBRASKA WINS FIRST GOPHERS DEFEATED BY ONE RUN The Cornhuskers Secure a Lead by Bunching Their Hits in the First Inning.

National Standings. Pittsburgh 9 7 2 778. Philadelphia 9 5 4 556. Boston 9 5 5 500. New York 9 4 5 444. Cincinnati 8 4 4 450. St. Louis 8 2 6 250.

Games To-day. Boston at Philadelphia. New York at Brooklyn. AMERICAN LEAGUE Chicago, April 28.—Chicago won yesterday's game by bunching hits with bases on balls.

Saturday's Games. St. Louis 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1 2. Cleveland 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1 2. Batteries—Sudhoff and Donahue; Joss and Bemis.

Games To-day. Boston at Baltimore. Cleveland at Chicago. Athletic at Washington. Detroit at St. Louis.

Western League. Kansas City, 6; Denver, 4. Peoria, 2; Omaha, 1. Colorado Springs, 2; St. Joseph, 5. Des Moines, 1; Milwaukee, 6.

INSTITUTION FARMS Iowa Board of Control Pays Fancy Prices for Lands. Des Moines, Iowa, April 28.—The board of control of state institutions is availing itself of the appropriations to buy land for the institution, farms made by the general assembly.

Henderson Indorsed Hardin County Republicans Loyal to the Speaker. Iowa Falls, Iowa, April 28.—The republicans of Hardin county strongly indorsed Speaker Henderson.

Held by the Courts Lajoie, Bernhard and Frazer Must Stay With Philadelphia. Philadelphia, April 28.—The court of common pleas to-day granted a perpetual injunction against Second Baseman Lajoie and Pitchers Bernhard and Frazer, restraining them from playing with any baseball club other than the Philadelphia National League club.

Another Shipment of the well-known OVER JOHNSON BICYCLES. Just arrived. Come in and select your wheel—none better in the world.

We are local agents for the celebrated NICHOLS GOLF CLUBS. A stock of Base Ball, Tennis, Croquet and Golf Goods in very extensive and our prices will suit you.

NELSON & MATTSON, 325 Nicollet Ave.

Good enough for anybody! ALL HAVANA FILLER. FLORODORA BANDS are of same value as tags from 'STAR' HORSE SHOE.

Baseball Schedules Free. The official schedule of the American association baseball games for 1902 has been issued in convenient vest-pocket form by the North-Western Line.

The Little Tigers have changed their name to the Javes, and challenge any 12-year-old team in the city.

The Little Tigers have changed their name to the Javes, and challenge any 12-year-old team in the city.

The Little Tigers have changed their name to the Javes, and challenge any 12-year-old team in the city.

The Little Tigers have changed their name to the Javes, and challenge any 12-year-old team in the city.