Lake Minnetonka

The backwaters of the spring had not had much influence with the cottagers at the lake, for the number of early arrivals has equalled, if not exceeded other seasons, while the travel to the lake has been much heavier than usual. The very satisfactory train schedule on the Great Northern, which gives three trains daily each way, is in part responsible for this condition on the north shore.

The Saturday night and Sunday trains carried out crowds of over Sunday letters to all points. The day was a very windy one and not especially pleasant, but the baskets and bouquets of flowers seen on the incoming trains showed that many spent a part of the day in the woods.

Hotel del Otero is a busy place nowadays, for several important parties are being made in the hotel, which was already the most attractive on the lake. Last year the dining-room space could only accommodate comfortably the guests of the house and, as Spring Park is a popular and convenient point for transients, it proved quite inadequate for the business. Manager Hopkins has enclosed and thrown into the dining-room the wide veranda that runs across the north side of the room. This not only gives much more space but it adds to the attractiveness of the room, for the windows of the addition look out upon the Wabasha islands, points and vistas, as the front windows do upon the main lake.

A long one story extension has been built along the front of the dining room, which is to be the big living room of the house. It has a big fireplace of freibrick at the end, flanked by two wide windows set high in the wall. Under these windows are comfortable lounge seats. The room is embellished with Navajo blankets and Indian treasures that have been brought from California for the purpose.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Hopkins arrived from California early in April to superintend the building and to get the house ready for opening. George Cox, the other member of the firm, arrived on Saturday. The hotel will be opened informally May 17 and several parties who will remain all summer will go out at that time.

So much of the hotel as is not already taken by permanent guests will be turned over to the United Commercial Travelers of America for nearly a week about the middle of May. The business meeting of Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Manitoba will hold its ninth grand council session at the hotel. The big dancing pavilion will be used for the business meeting and as many of the visitors as possible will be taken care of at the hotel.

The committee of location for the meeting of the business meeting of the United Commercial Travelers of America for nearly a week about the middle of May. The business meeting of Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Manitoba will hold its ninth grand council session at the hotel. The big dancing pavilion will be used for the business meeting and as many of the visitors as possible will be taken care of at the hotel.

The Lafayette Club informal opening on Saturday will be without any demonstration, and the festivities will be reserved for the formal opening in June. The house was considerably damaged by the heavy rain storm Thursday and Friday, which was more violent at the lake than elsewhere. The club is to be managed by Harry Mellette, who has been there ever since the club opened and is thoroughly familiar with the requirements of such an organization and some of the cottagers have been using it for a week or two.

SCHOOL ENTERTAINMENTS

The eighth grade of the Holmes school gave an entertainment in All Soul's church Saturday evening. The program was given by boys and girls from 12 to 15 years of age and was exceedingly interesting. The opening number, a girls' chorus, was followed by the trial scene from "The Merchant of Venice," in which parts were taken by Abbot Sheldon, Frederick Ware, Frank Walker, John Broderick, Thomas Kennedy, Paul Barnard, Charles Schacht, Elizabeth Ware and Ruby Carris. The young actors were in costume and impersonated the characters with dignity and rare dramatic instinct. David Henking gave a trumpet solo, Charlotte Thiel and the Metron Quartet sang "The Song of the Lark." The minuet was danced by Elizabeth Moore, Ruby Riggs, Wilhelmina Schurmer, Mildred Thomas, Willis Saleberry, George Hyser, John Snyder and Hugh Pyle, under the direction of Miss Fidelity L. Martin. The boys gave a physical culture drill and the school sang a chorus.

The Sidney Pratt school held a benefit entertainment for the piano fund in Prospect Park hall Friday evening. Wilbur F. Decker gave an account of a recent trip to Cuba, Porto Rico and Venezuela and showed stereoscopic illustrations from photographs he had taken of various items of interest relating to the people, customs and scenes. In spite of the inclement night a goodly audience attended and the entertainment netted nearly $40 for the piano fund.
