The University Dramatic club gave a pretty dancing party last evening in Johnson hall for Dr. Richard Burton and Clayton Gilbert. Dr. Burton has been the faculty advisor of the club and Mr. Gilbert the dramatic director, and as both are to leave the city this year the affair was given by the club. The hall was attractively decorated with palms and ferns and the lights were shaded in pink and yellow to represent flowers. Red and white carnations, that were used later in the cotillion, banked the platform. The guests were received by Messrs. Northrop, Thomas Swen and Don Campbell and Misses Burton, Preston King and Frances Potter were the patronesses. The cotillion was preceded by a program of twelve numbers played by a mandolin orchestra. Thomas Swen led the cotillion, dancing with Miss Clara Wheeler. Among the figures were a Maypole, spider, triangle, revolving wheel and a Burton figure in which Dr. Burton acted as the hub of a wheel and the Miss King ribbons that served as spokes and which were caught by the young people who circled around him. The frappe table was arranged in the small reception room and light refreshments were served. The club presented Dr. Burton, through Mr. Campbell, with a handsome leather traveling bag. About thirty guests were present. Mr. and Mrs. Heller received many beautiful crystal gifts.

A "down east" supper was served by Mrs. Wallis, assisted by Mrs. F. L. Batchelder and Miss Batchelder. Nearly sixty guests were present at the party. Mrs. Gray was a guest at the party, and it was a gathering of Maine people.

Child of Chicago, and seven grandchildren. Herbert Child was united in matrimony yesterday, but his wife joined the family group.

The decorations were almost entirely in yellow, in honor of the occasion, and clusters of goldfish and goldfish in the parlors and dining-room. LEWIS PARLIAMENTARY ASS'N

Organization of Trained Students for Expert Practice.

The Lewis Parliamentary Law Association held its annual meeting Saturday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. C. C. Crane and elected the following officers: President, Mrs. M. B. Lewis; first vice president, Mrs. A. T. Bigelow; second vice president, Mrs. J. C. Buchanan; recording secretary, Mrs. E. J. Scriber; corresponding secretary, Mrs. V. P. Martin; treasurer, Mrs. G. G. Crane; auditor, Mrs. Luther Ford; members of executive committee in addition to general officers, Mrs. M. B. Lewis, F. C. Bassell and L. D. Williams.

The club membership consists of students who have taken courses in law with Mrs. Lewis or Mrs. Buchanan; others who come well recommended by members and have taken a course of lectures under well recognized instructors are admitted by unanimous vote of the members. The leader, Mrs. Lewis, has given the club a post-parliamentary course this season, consisting of The Passage of Bills in the National Congress, Conduct of Power of the Executive of the National Congress, The Conduct and Power of an Executive Board, How to Conduct an Election by Ballot, demonstrated by practical Students presented The Duties of the Controller of the Currency, The Origin of the Term "Speaker" and "Chairman," The Difference Between the National Congress and Constitutional Law, The Difference Between Legislation and Carrying out the Acts of an Assembly. TO ENLARGE G. A. R. HOME

Women Want Funds to Build Cottage for Four Families.

The special work of the Minnesota department of the Ladies of the G. A. R. is the maintenance at Anoka of a home where veterans of the civil war, with their wives or widows, are to be cared for and permanent home. This work was taken up because no provision is made at soldiers' homes for relieving women, and when the men go to them they are separated from their families. The Anoka home is now providing for two families in separate cottages. It was the intention of the department to enlarge the section of the department to include the section of the National G. A. R. As several applications from worthy parties are on file, the department through its home board is asking for funds to put up a large cottage with four three-room flats arranged for housekeeping.

Each circle has been requested to raise at least $25, either by subscription or by giving entertainments. The department, under the direction of Mrs. M. B. Lewis, in her order accompanying the appeal of the board, suggests that dinners be served on Memorial Day and that patriotic entertainments be given by the children on Flag Day to raise funds.

As all of the applicants for a home are dependent and entitled to pensions, these and other aids are practically secured by the expenses of the families, after a home and fuel has been supplied by the society.

Reception for Rawlins Post.

The women of Rawlins post completed arrangements yesterday for the reception which they will give Friday evening, May 23, in the post hall. The men have been hosts at a similar affair on the same date. The post has a membership of 150, which, with the wives and daughters, will make quite a gathering. Rawlins post includes a group of representative G. A. R. men and the reception committee will be formed of prominent society women, wives of the members. The general committee is composed of the wives of the officers—Mrs. A. D. B. E. G. Paulsen, Mrs. E. E. Dennis and H. A. Norton. The twenty young women in the dining-room will be the daughters of the post. The decorations and appointments will be elaborate and the affair will be one of the prettiest of the season.

Ramblers in Fairbank.

The Ramblers will be entertained in Fairbank, Minn., by the Boston wife of the superintendent of the school for the feeble-minded. The club will go down on the morning train, and drives and visits to the different institutions will be among the features planned for the day.

NEW YORK FLOWER SHOW

Common Wild Flowers Are a Revelation to Tenement Dwellers.

A flower show for the children and parents of the east side was held in New York three days of the week under the auspices of the Public Educational association and the Normal College Alumnae association. Mrs. John J. Northrop of Yorkers on the scientific committee of the Normal College Alumnae association was the director of the affair, which had for its object the practical instruction of the foreign population of New York, in the chief centers in the east side, in the wild flowers of this country.

Although the show excited little comment, except in the immediate neighborhood, those who gave it were satisfied with the results, for no merely fashionable assemblage was held, so enthralled by wonderment as the vast number of children who thronged the street by this simple exhibit of wild flowers.

For two days and a half the show was open only to the children, and they simply thronged the place, fairly tumbling over each other in their eagerness to gaze through at the delicate blossoms which most of them beheld for the first time.

It was estimated that fully 18,000 children saw the flowers on the first two days, and among them there were very few who knew even the commonest plant by sight. Some of them recognized the names which were plainly written and fastened to each specimen, from having studied about them at school, but their ideas as to their appearance and previously had been simply the result of their imagination.

The eagerness of the children over the flowers was almost pitiful. There was one little girl who, her teacher was free to go to school, who had been at the door long before the opening time each day that the flower show had been going on, though she could not get in, as the door was closed, but she had a chance to see the flowers.

The parents, when their turn came, seemed to know little more than the children about the flowers. Many women failed to recognize even apple and cherry blossoms, which, it seemed, they must have seen, and then, when they were in their native land, a few of the children came back with their parents, so eager were they that "mamma" or "papa" should not miss any of the lovely things that were there. Few of the parents could speak any but the most broken English, while many of them did not know any at all.

But whatever their nationality, their trade, or their lack of knowledge, they were absolutely enchanted with what they saw, and when, on leaving, sprays of flowers were presented to each and all of them, large or small, their delight knew no bounds.
