THRESHERS BY TRAIN LOAD

Minneapolis Company Sends Load Into Southern Minnesota.

A trainload of threshing outfits was sent out to-day by the Minneapolis Threshing Machine company to be distributed along the Winona & St. Peter road between Mankato and Watertown. This is a small territory for trainload business, but it is well settled and its prosperity is attested by the fact that each of the rigs in today's shipment goes to an actual purchaser. The train will run by daylight to Mankato and thence, also by daylight, to Tracy, where distribution will begin. Before its departure this morning the train was run into the Omaha yards at Third avenue N. near the river and the whistle of the locomotive started to attract attention. This gave rise to a rumor that there was a fire in the lumber district and offices in that vicinity were kept busy answering telephone inquiries.

MAHOMETI HOTEL THREATENED.

Fire threatened to destroy the Mahometi hotel at White Bear lake yesterday afternoon. The flames started in a pile of cordwood and then quickly spread to a shed adjoining the hotel. The volunteer fire department fought the fire until aid came from Stillwater. The laundry was considerably damaged, but the main building was unharmed.

ST. PAUL GETS AUTO PARADE PRIZE

Members Say Companies Will Not Merge Into One Big Concern.
The Minnesota Independent Telephone association is the name agreed upon by the fifty representatives of the 150 independent companies of the state who met at St. Paul at 2 o'clock, and after reception at the Elk's room was escorted to the grounds and given reserved seats on a platform, above which hung the sign: "Trained Wild Animal Arena," a legend which gave rise to many humorous remarks. The governor was so delighted with what he saw that he decided to stay through the evening.
At 8 o'clock the governor delivered a brief address from the platform. He was enthusiastically greeted by the vast crowd, which packed the Midway to the limit of its capacity. He said in part: "I am glad to have the further honor of being a member of the Order of Elks. I want to thank the Minneapolis members of this great fraternity for the pleasure I have had here to-day. I have been especially impressed with your industrial equipment. We have a great industrial country; Minnesota is one of the state's greatest industrial centers. I do not refer solely to the show. The people who listen to these words of mine represent many of the nations of the world, and I am proud to be here with you, my hearers, success in every undertaking."
The auto parade in the evening was a big success. Thirty machines, many of them handsomely decorated, were in the line. The parade was held on the splendid results of the work, which was held on the Fourth street at 7 o'clock. The run was down Tenth street to First avenue, to Washington, to Nicollet, to Sixth street, to the fair grounds, and back to the Elk's room at 8 o'clock. He was dressed as St. Paul, wearing a white coat and a white hat, and his little daughter posed as Minneapolis.
Mrs. L. H. Hawkes of Minneapolis took second prize. Her carriage was decked with roses and the fair grounds. She was accompanied by Mrs. Lillian Lippincott, and drove the only steam vehicle in the procession.
George Dorr, whose machine flaunted bright white colors of the Elks, took third place. The autos driven by Mrs. Fred Kees and J. Dudley were also handsomely decorated.

THE KANSAS WHEAT
H. V. Jones Estimates a Yield of Only 39,500,000 Bushels AGAINST 90,000,000 BU. LAST YEAR

Nearly 2,000,000 Acres Abandoned—Yield 0.6 Bu. Per Acre Against 18 Bu. in 1901.
H. V. Jones, who has been traveling through Kansas for some time investigating crop conditions, has sent back to the west a report on Kansas wheat. Mr. Jones estimates a yield for that state of 39,500,000 bushels, against 50,000,000 bushels last year. This loss is due to the large acreage abandoned, nearly 2,000,000 acres of the original seeding having been subsequently plowed up.
The report says the average yield promises to be 0.6 bushel per acre this year, a strong one-half the yield per acre of last year. The estimated acreage on which this statement of prospective yield is based is 4,112,000, against an average of 10,000,000 in 1901, and 6,000,000 in 1902. The acreage of the latter total about 1,900,000 acres was abandoned for wheat on account of drought and frost damage following the fall seeding and over the winter.
Kansas had no rainfall for one year ending last April. Since then the rainfall has been heavy, resulting in floods in several parts of the state and some water damage in most parts.
As the spring advanced into April it became apparent that there would be a considerable loss of the seeded wheat, owing to the moisture conditions. A shortage of food in western counties resulting from the drought last year, led to the pasturing in April of a large number of cattle on the wheat land, so that it did not revive under the early May rains, and it was listed with corn, thus saving a large part of it to production.
The wheat harvest in the west is now in the counties in the "wheat belt." The state bureau of agriculture estimates the wheat acreage abandoned in principal counties as follows:

County	Wheat Acres	Corn Acres	Abandoned Acres
Barton	2,083	1,238	3,321
Cole	10,897	36,239	47,136
Cowley	117,985	1,179,850	1,297,835
Dickinson	10,287	70,779	81,066
Ellsworth	132,744	82,938	215,682
Harper	151,428	29,338	180,766
Kansas	1,232,812	1,848,718	3,081,530
Lincoln	107,632	80,781	188,413
McPherson	190,720	96,806	287,526
Mitchell	151,229	103,228	254,457
Osborne	156,511	106,224	262,735
Ottawa	154,073	103,228	257,301
Sumner	120,281	74,914	195,195
Seward	120,281	74,914	195,195

These approximate estimates will suggest the far-reaching effect of the drought.
The central west counties will show the smallest acreage of wheat, and the counties will show the heaviest average yields. The floods last week destroyed a considerable acreage.
In the western counties there is a limited area running from the Union Pacific down to Oklahoma that will yield a larger acreage than the central district.
Some of the counties suffered more than others. Mitchell county—Beloit—in the north-central part, two-thirds of the seeded wheat acreage was abandoned. In the district running from Deloit south into Ottawa county about Minneapolis a considerable acreage left standing will not be cut, or if cut will yield a small acreage. Salina expects a half crop; it is likely to run a little stronger.
In general, the wheat is past climatic danger, but extremely hot weather would check filling in some late fields in central counties, and a continuation of heavy rains, such as have fallen for several days, would materially reduce yields on bottom lands, changing in these proportions figures given above.
The crop conditions will run more evenly over the state than usual. There are no extended sections where the wheat will run notably heavy or notably light.
The railroad haul will be satisfactory. There is considerable wheat this season through the country. Corn is promising for the season, the cattle supply has reached low water mark, and is increasing, the potato yield will be the heaviest apparently ever grown in the state, and the alfalfa crop is good.
The Santa Fe, the Missouri Pacific, the Union Pacific and the Burlington will share well in the returns from wheat, as is expected from Minneapolis a considerable acreage left standing will not be cut, or if cut will yield a small acreage.
Corn in Kansas is on the whole doing well. It is spotted, however, and ranges to a showing just out of the ground in the state. The average height is under twelve inches. Considerable has been flooded out, some of the late planting being soaked out by the rains, such as have fallen for several days over Nebraska.
These observations are not over Nebraska, but in general the reports for that state are better for wheat than in Kansas.
