However, a great many farmers were protected with hall insurance. was immediately emulated by some twentyfour other females in the car, and there wasn't anything high enough for them to get up on. The men fled through the doors to the open cars, leaving their feminine co-passengers treed on the backs of seats.

A man ran as far as the diner crying that a snake a mile long was in the forward coach. The cook found a poker and invaded the car, and found the snake had crawled under a steam pipe. After numerous jabbings, the cook succeeded in killing the reptile and it

SHERBROOK, N. D.

The republican county convention, for the purpose of selecting fifteen delegates to represent Steele county at the state convention at Fargo July 22, was held here to-day. After the delegates had been chosen, an effort was made to instruct them to vote as a unit on all candidates at the state convention. This move was made in the interest of E. Y. Sarles' candidacy for governor, and the vote upon it, to a large extent, was a test of the Hillsboro candidate's strength in this county. The motion was voted down by a big majority, and the delegation will go to Fargo uninstructed. The governorship is the only one of the state offices that seems to awaken interest, and if the sentiment expressed by many present from every section of the county represents the feelings of the republican voters, the candidacy of the Hillsboro banker receives but scant encouragement. It is an easy guess that, as between Sarles and White, two-thirds of the Steele county delegation will favor the governor. Steele county is pretty close to the home of the governor's only opponent at the present time. The delegates from this county are: M. B. Cassell, chairman: W. J. Skinner, Charles Ellingson, O. H. Stay, J. J. Wamberg, G. H. Stavens, George Slingsby, C. S. Shippy, G. T. Ward, B. K. Kraabel, T. G. Anderson, W. E. Elliott, George A. Monteith, O. H. Olson and Ole Paulson. SHERBROOK, N. D.

Arguments were heard by Judge Bunn in the federal court to-day on the application for a rehearing in the case of Henry Chosa, convicted two years ago of the murder of Chief Charley on the Lac du Flambeau reservation, and now serving a life sentence in the state prison at Stillwater, Minn., where Wisconsin prisoners convicted in the federal courts are sent when the setnence exceeds eighteen months. The application is based on the interesting question as to whether the should have been tried in the state or federal courts. His father was a Frenchman, while his mother was an Indian squaw, supposedly of the Chippewa tribe. This question was raised at his trial, but was decided adversely to him, and he was convicted as an Indian. Ex-Attorney General James L. O'Connor, who will argue the motion for a rehearing, is confident he has sufficient grounds on which to secure the annullment of Chosa's conviction. Assistant United States Attorney General Henry T. Sheldon will argue the case for the government. MADISON, WIS.
