William Eisenpeter, 25 years of age, residing at Maple Lake, Minn., is in St. Mary's hospital suffering from an electrical shock received while working as a lineman. The base of his brain is thought to be affected and he is badly bruised as a result of a fall at the time of the accident.

An excursion party of school teachers, delegates to the National Educational Association convention, who went to the Yellowstone following the convention's close, returned to Minneapolis this morning. Most of them will spend several days here and at neighboring lakes before leaving for their homes. They report a very pleasant trip in the park.

John Stratman, an employe of the Boston Ice company, had a narrow escape from drowning in Lake Calhoun yesterday. Put for the timely assistance of friends on the shore he would undoubtedly have been lost. He, although having an excellent swimming ability, was unable to swim and was rescued by one of his fellow laborers.

At about 3:15 p. m. yesterday the big bell in the courthouse declared its independence by beginning a prolonged strike. Two seconds it gave out a big boom which reverberated over the whole city. When it had struck 30 times the people in the immediate vicinity began to take to the outdoors. With unvarying regularity the big bell struck once every two seconds for two hours.

George H. Williams, a carpenter, at work on a new building at Chicago avenue and Lake street, was struck by a brick yesterday which was hanging near him Saturday. He notified Captain Genschel of the fifth precinct, who detailed Detective Brundage on the case. Detective Brundage spent a day in search of some boys who were suspected of the crime, and when they learned that an arrest was looking for them they returned the watch to its owner. No arrests were made.

PREST. BEARDSHEAR BETTER

Left Minneapolis for His Home This Morning.

President W. M. Beardshear of the National Educational Association, who became ill shortly after his arrival in Minneapolis, and who was unable to attend the meetings in consequence, has recovered sufficiently to travel, and left for his home at Ames, Iowa, this morning by special car attached to the North-Western train. President Beardshear's trouble was nervous prostration, brought on by overwork. He is now, however, on the highway to recovery. The trustees of Iowa state college, of which he is president, have given him indefinite leave of absence.

SAY TEST IS UNFAIR

Holland Lined Oil Company Attacks the State Law.

The Holland Lined Oil company of Chicago will attempt to beat the state law requiring the sale of lined oil. The law requires that the oil sold in the state shall not evaporate more than 2 per cent at a temperature of 80 degrees. The Holland company will defend a case at Austin where the samples tested evaporated from 3 to 12 per cent. The company will defend the position that the test is not a fair one and the law invalid if the state wins in Xewer county.

RYALRY IN TRADE

It Is Hotter Than Ever in Southern Minnesota.

ARMY OF TRAVELING SALESMEN

Some Merchants See Twenty Grip Men Every Week—Meeting Chicago Competition.

At no time in its history has the battle for a place in the trade between Southern Minnesota been as fierce between the various markets of the west as now. Prospects of a good crop, added to the fact that the Chicago market has been given by the St. Cloud reformatory and by the state's liberal parole system, but the prison population still mounts up from month to month, and the antiquated cellhouse is now full almost to overflowing.

The great difficulty with the institution is that it has no farm. There are just eleven acres, covered with buildings except for narrow streets and the little "park" where a few flowers are grown. There is no outdoor employment for the men.

Warden Wolfier is heartily in favor of the new prison. His idea is to buy a farm of 200 acres of rich soil, and make the new prison a branch of the old one. Prisoners who need the outdoor exercise could be kept at the new prison, and now they are sent to the city round. On this farm could be raised all the vegetables for the year's supply of both prisons.

A NEW STATE PRISON

Next Legislature Will Be Asked to Provide for It.

A PENAL FARM COLONY PLANNED

It Would Supplement and Relieve the Present Overcrowded Institution at Stillwater.

A bill will be introduced at the next session of the legislature providing for an additional state prison.

The institution under the bluff at Stillwater is notoriously inadequate and out of date. The relief of the cellhouse has been given by the St. Cloud reformatory and by the state's liberal parole system, but the prison population still mounts up from month to month, and the antiquated cellhouse is now full almost to overflowing.

HENRY L. MOSS DEAD

First United States Attorney for Minnesota Passes Away.

DEATH CAME VERY SUDDENLY

At Excelsior, Minn., Where Mr. Moss and Wife Planned to Spend the Summer.

Henry L. Moss, a pioneer resident of St. Paul, who was the first United States attorney for Minnesota when the state was still a territory, dropped dead in his room at the White House, Minneapolis, early yesterday morning, from heart failure. He was 82 years old and had lived in St. Paul fifty-two years. His first Minnesota residence was at Stillwater, then the metropolis of the territory.

Mr. Moss' death was wholly unexpected. He had been troubled with valvular heart disease, but was apparently in good health when he retired Saturday night. A few minutes before 7 o'clock yesterday morning, however, his wife was awakened by the sound of some one falling. She arose hurriedly and discovered her husband stretched out upon the floor. Assistance was summoned immediately, but the veteran attorney passed away before it arrived and without speaking.

Mr. Moss was the oldest member of the Minnesota bar in point of service. He was born in 1820 in New York, March 23. He graduated from Hamilton college in 1840, and three years later was admitted to the bar at Sandusky, Ohio, where his practice consisted of real estate. He took up his residence in Stillwater and a year later was appointed district attorney by President Franklin Pierce. In June 1851 he removed to St. Paul; and in 1852 he was again appointed district attorney by President Lincoln and held the office until 1868. His home, on Exchange street, was built in 1852.

FEED GRAINS GAIN

Corn Pushing for Larger Acreage in Southern Minnesota.

WHEAT RESISTS THE ADVANCE

Flax Acreage Gives Way, However—Tow Mills Move to North Dakota.

Corn, Iowa's great product, has crossed the southern boundary line of Minnesota and is invading the territory of the state in full force. If the predictions are true that Minnesota will ultimately become a great corn state, some of the southern farmers will have to give up their wheat and raise a reasonably good start. These counties have been taking more kindly to corn and hogs in the past three years, but in some of them the change to corn has been more remarkable this year than ever before. Eighty-acre fields of corn are common, 100-acre fields are frequent and now then a farmer can be found who has devoted a full quarter section to the crop.

The year will improve Minnesota's status as a corn-shipping state. Shipments of corn of any consequence out of southern Minnesota may be said to have begun last year. Many railroads along the southern Minnesota line of the Milwaukee road shipped from ten to twenty-five cars. Others report shipments of corn and fifty cars, and there is one station, Jackson, which made its first shipment of corn last year amounting to about sixty cars. It is estimated that this year the total quantity of corn shipped will double and possibly treble their shipments of last season.

All Feed Grains Grown.

Not only corn but all feed grains are growing in favor with the farmer of the state. The district of the state where she gets a reasonable portion of the shipments in these grains, will feel the effects of it this year. It is more profitable in the present year than in former years, depending to some extent upon the experience of the farmer in wheat culture in the past few years. In fact, in the present year, the wheat and corn counties many of the farmers insist that the soil will no longer furnish the yield nor the grades wheat, necessitating many of the farmers have had to quit wheat and plant corn. BOOKS OF SUMMER

Thirty-one Thousand Circulated From Library in June.

OVER HALF OF THEM FICTION

Biography Came Next—The Summer Athletic Girl Doesn't Read Poetry.

Thirty-one thousand books is the June record for the circulating department of the public library. This when compared with the annual circulation of 50,000 seems small, but for the month which, next to August, is supposed to give the month's share of time to outdoor sports, it makes a record. Considerably over half of the books taken come under the head of fiction.

Naturally the demand for lighter reading has increased with the advent of the hot weather, yet Miss Cloud, who has charge of the circulating department, says the difference in the reading matter of the month between one season and another is not so marked as most people believe. Fiction stands first in the regard of the public, and will continue to do so whether the weather be hot or cold. Besides the public and the patrons of the public library are largely women, but the fiction is not the only thing that is read. Biography ranks next to fiction in the popular fancy, while religious works are treated with an indifference only exceeded by that shown scientific and especially the public dealing with biological questions. Poetry is also taboed by the people who draw books. The maid romantic seems to have been wholly displaced by the athletic girl, for on school teachers' lists the men whose verses are most in demand.

Where the Line is Drawn.

It is under the head of "juvenile" that the difference in the literary tastes of the sexes displays itself most. Boys scorn the mental and the literary, and prefer the mental of the feminine portion of Young America while Kirk Munroe's thrilling Indian story by far outstrips the approval of the modern boy. Some of his admirers might be interested in knowing that Mr. Munroe, like Stanley Weyman, goes to his desk with a book and never at least an hour. Mr. Munroe lives most of the year in Coconut Grove, a little watering place in the southern part of Florida. He has an immense orange grove there which he delights to work in, but, as he says, the expense of raising oranges keeps him busy writing books. He writes in a little summer house some distance from his cottage and woe to the rash or ignorant person who intrudes upon him there.

The cessation of club meetings and of school work has cut off more than half of the students who visit the reference library. In fact, the library states that there will be practically no organized reading going on there until autumn. Just at present nature work is receiving most attention. People who run in from the lake resorts by car to look upon a new flower or bird, but the attendance, compared with the winter months, is indeed small.

FORCED TO TAKE POISON

Story of Lillian Anderson—Man Accused of Crime.

Miss Lillian Anderson, also known as Lillian St. Germaine, is lying at the city hospital in a dangerous condition, the result of poison supposed to have been administered to her by a man with whom she was seen Saturday night. The physicians think she will recover.

The girl was found in the entrance of the city building late Saturday night in an almost unconscious condition, caused presumably by poison. When the central patrol wagon arrived, she gave the name of the man with whom she had spent the evening, and said that he had compelled her to take the poison. She was hurried to the hospital, where restoratives were administered and an effort made to remove the poison from her stomach. Officers went in search of the man whom the accused of attempting to take her life.

The Anderson woman is well known to the police. It is only a few weeks since she and the man she accused of giving her poison were sentenced to the workhouse for quarreling on the street. She says they have been living together for some time, that she has been compelled to support him, and that when she did not earn enough to satisfy him he would abuse and mistreat her.

THE SYMPATHETIC STRIKE

Opposed by L. E. Shepard of Railway Conductors' Order.

L. E. Shepard, grand junior conductor of the International Order of Railway Conductors, is in St. Paul this week making the annual inspection of Division 40, which has headquarters in that city. Mr. Shepard takes emphatic ground against the sympathetic strike. His own organization never joins in such strikes and it has never violated an agreement with its employers, he says. The order has not had a strike for nine years, and in his opinion, there will never be another strike in its ranks.
