

THOUSANDS AT NEW ULM

Tragedy of Forty Years Ago Recalled in Speech and Song.

Three Ex-Governors Upon the Platform—Parades and Sham Battle.

Special to The Journal. New Ulm, Minn., Aug. 23.—The city is handsomely decorated in honor of the anniversary of the Sioux massacre.

Across Minnesota street a magnificent arch has been erected bearing the inscription "Honor to the Defenders."

The large warehouse of F. H. Ritzel has been transformed into a museum of relics, chief among them being the old wagon in which Leavenworth drove on that ill-fated ride from Leavenworth.

Mayor Weschke welcomed the great gathering in words characteristic of the man who has seen New Ulm grow from infancy to its present proportions.

Historical Parade. The celebration began last night at 10 o'clock when three companies of the state militia arrived and were paraded through the city.

Following him, Senator Moses Clapp, orator of the day, delivered an oration that was eloquent in every detail and frequently loudly applauded.

Others Distinguished. Following him, Colonel Paescher spoke in German and then, in brief address, followed ex-Governor Albin Ramsey.

Upon the platform beside these speakers were Congressman John Collins, Governor John Lind, and Senator Somerville.

Forces in Battle Array. This afternoon at 3 o'clock the sham battle took place in the valley between the city and the Hamastin brewery.

To-morrow's Crowds. It is expected that the crowd will be almost doubled by those who come to-morrow on an excursion from the cities and from east and west.

PRISONER ESCAPES. Black Hills Convict Eludes His Guard at Sioux Falls.

Special to The Journal. Sioux Falls, S. D., Aug. 23.—Joseph Grant, sentenced for the Black Hills for grand larceny, has escaped from the Sioux Falls penitentiary.

DOHERTY WON. He Downs the Philadelphia Expert at Tennis.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 23.—But ten players out of the four score who started at the beginning of the National lawn tennis championship at the Casino, last Tuesday, remain to play in the games scheduled for today.

THIRD RAIL SYSTEM. By It the Train Is Electrically Welded to the Track.

New York, Aug. 23.—An electrical company at Lynn, Mass., is building a train which is soon to be used in Illinois and which the engineers estimate will make that the track for the train in Illinois is almost completed.

GOING TO PARIS. The Attorney General's Presence Is Needed There.

Washington, Aug. 23.—Attorney General Knox returned to the city to-day from his vacation and will sail for Paris next Wednesday on the Oceanic.

GOVERNOR LEAVES FOR AN OUTING WITH MR. STEPHENSON. Madison, Wis., Aug. 23.—Governor La Follette left this afternoon for Marinette to join his wife and family at the home of Isaac Stephenson.

PHILIPPINE PROSELYTING

Report of General Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Charges of Proselyting, Etc., Shown to Be Without Foundation.

Washington, Aug. 23.—The bureau of insular affairs of the war department has made public the report of Frank H. Bowen, acting general superintendent of public instruction for the Philippines.

These charges were forwarded to Manila and the reply was made to acting governor Wright. The report of Superintendent Bowen is dated July 7, and is a general and specific denial of the charges.

He says that of twenty persons who have been division superintendents only one has ever been a clergyman. Three division superintendents were appointed from a list submitted by leaders of the Roman Catholic church in the United States.

The question of the religious belief of applicants and appointees was never considered until late in 1901. At that time a special list of applications, gathered by the authorities of the Roman Catholic church in the United States, was sent the civil government of these islands and transmitted to the general superintendents.

From these special lists three division superintendents and twenty-two teachers were appointed. In reporting these appointments to the civil government the general superintendent stated: "I have had much difficulty in finding people in this line of appointment."

The only departure from strict non-sectarianism in the conduct of the schools was a provision of the Philippine commission, which made it lawful for a priest or minister of any established church in the public where a public school is situated to teach religion for one-half hour three times a week in the school building to pupils, whose parents have expressed a wish for such instruction.

Concerning proselyting the report says: "Not only is no proselyting allowed or attempted in any of the public schools, but inquiry of the leader of a principal Protestant denomination here brings out the fact that so far as it is known by these leaders, there is not one native Protestant Sunday school teacher in the entire archipelago."

The report closes with the following: "The venomous attack on the Philippine commission and especially the Filipino members thereof, who are termed traitors and rascals, serves to show the degree of bitterness and recklessness of statement which characterize the whole article. The negotiations at present under way in Rome in regard to the church lands in these islands is sufficient refutation of the last wild statement of this extraordinary production, in which not one material statement is true."

POWER AT WORK AGAIN. EXPECTS TO HOLD THAT STOCK. He Thinks It Is Good Worth $14,000 and Is Good Stuff to Tie To.

Special to The Journal. New York, Aug. 23.—Peter Power resumed his duties as clerk in the office of Lawyer Lamb to-day. He said he expected to have the 100 shares of Northern Pacific stock turned over to him in a few days.

INSPECTOR NESTER AT CASS LAKE TO TAKE TESTIMONY. Special to The Journal. Cass Lake, Minn., Aug. 23.—C. F. Nester, a United States Indian inspector of Washington, was here yesterday procuring information desired by the Indian department.

PLAN TO MOVE THE FORMER TO BROOKINGS, THE SEAT OF THE LATTER INSTITUTION. Special to The Journal. Sioux City, Iowa, Aug. 23.—A campaign is being quietly prepared in South Dakota to secure the passage by the next legislature of a law authorizing the consolidation of the University of South Dakota at Vermillion with the state agricultural college at Brookings by moving the university to Brookings.

THE RICH HAVE GROWN RICHER. It is not true that the poor have grown poorer, but some of the rich have grown so very much richer that where multitudes of men are hard together in a limited space, the contrast strikes the onlooker as more violent than formerly.

ROUTES FOR THE FIRST. Congressman Tanney Gets Good News for His District. Special to The Journal. Winona, Minn., Aug. 23.—Congressman Tanney has been advised by Superintendent Machen of the early establishment of twenty-four more rural free delivery routes in the first district, making over a hundred in all.

THE PRESIDENT SPEAKS ON THE DANGER OF WAXING FAT AND KICKING. "When the Weather Is Good for Crops It Is Good for Weeds"—Prosperity and Some of the Dangers Incident to It—"If People Lose Their Heads They Lose Something Which No Legislation Can Supply."

When the weather is good for crops it is also good for weeds. Moreover not only do the wicked flourish when the times are such that most men flourish, but what is worse, the spirit of envy and jealousy and hatred spring up in the breasts of those who, although they may be doing fairly well themselves, yet see others who are no more deserving, doing far better.

Wise laws and fearless and upright administration of the laws can give the opportunity for such prosperity as that we see about us. But this is all they can do. When the conditions have been created which make prosperity possible, then each individual man must achieve it for himself, by his own thrift, intelligence, energy, industry and resourcefulness.

If they go into wild speculation and lose their heads, they have lost that which no legislation can supply and the business world will suffer in consequence. If in a spirit of sullen envy they insist upon pulling down those who have profited most by the years of fatness, they will bury themselves in the crash of the common disaster.

It is difficult to make our mental condition by the best laws, but it is easy enough by bad laws, to throw the whole nation into an abyss of misery. Evils Must Be Cut Out Carefully. Now, the upshot of all this is that it is peculiarly incumbent upon us in a time of such material well being, both collectively and individually, to show that we possess the qualities of prudence, self knowledge and self restraint.

There is every need of striving in possible ways, individually and collectively, by combinations among ourselves in private life and through the recognized organs of government, for the cutting out of these evils. Only let us be sure that we do not use the knife with an ignorant zeal which would make it more dangerous to the patient than to the disease.

DAUGHTER OF A MILLIONAIRE

King Alfonso Said to Be on the Lookout for Such a Prize.

He Startles the Nobility by Wanting to Marry a South American.

Special to The Journal. Madrid, Aug. 23.—King Alfonso continues to startle the nobility of Spain by his eccentric actions. He has disregarded all the proposals of his counselors that he marry a European princess, and has announced his intention of wedding the daughter of some South American capitalist to mend the shattered state finances, reconcile the republican element by taking a plebeian consort and restore Spanish prestige in Latin America.

The king has instructed the representatives of the Spanish crown in South America to forward him full details of the millionaires possessing eligible daughters.

The king has thrown a bombshell into the ranks of the nobility by stating his intention of dissolving the grand order of the Annunciation, the oldest order in Spain, and substituting for it a new order called the Order of Alfonso XIII.

"SECTION SIXTEEN" Inspector Nester at Cass Lake to Take Testimony. Special to The Journal. Cass Lake, Minn., Aug. 23.—C. F. Nester, a United States Indian inspector of Washington, was here yesterday procuring information desired by the Indian department.

PLAN TO MOVE THE FORMER TO BROOKINGS, THE SEAT OF THE LATTER INSTITUTION. Special to The Journal. Sioux City, Iowa, Aug. 23.—A campaign is being quietly prepared in South Dakota to secure the passage by the next legislature of a law authorizing the consolidation of the University of South Dakota at Vermillion with the state agricultural college at Brookings by moving the university to Brookings.

THE RICH HAVE GROWN RICHER. It is not true that the poor have grown poorer, but some of the rich have grown so very much richer that where multitudes of men are hard together in a limited space, the contrast strikes the onlooker as more violent than formerly.

ROUTES FOR THE FIRST. Congressman Tanney Gets Good News for His District. Special to The Journal. Winona, Minn., Aug. 23.—Congressman Tanney has been advised by Superintendent Machen of the early establishment of twenty-four more rural free delivery routes in the first district, making over a hundred in all.

THE PRESIDENT SPEAKS ON THE DANGER OF WAXING FAT AND KICKING. "When the Weather Is Good for Crops It Is Good for Weeds"—Prosperity and Some of the Dangers Incident to It—"If People Lose Their Heads They Lose Something Which No Legislation Can Supply."

When the weather is good for crops it is also good for weeds. Moreover not only do the wicked flourish when the times are such that most men flourish, but what is worse, the spirit of envy and jealousy and hatred spring up in the breasts of those who, although they may be doing fairly well themselves, yet see others who are no more deserving, doing far better.

Wise laws and fearless and upright administration of the laws can give the opportunity for such prosperity as that we see about us. But this is all they can do. When the conditions have been created which make prosperity possible, then each individual man must achieve it for himself, by his own thrift, intelligence, energy, industry and resourcefulness.

If they go into wild speculation and lose their heads, they have lost that which no legislation can supply and the business world will suffer in consequence. If in a spirit of sullen envy they insist upon pulling down those who have profited most by the years of fatness, they will bury themselves in the crash of the common disaster.

It is difficult to make our mental condition by the best laws, but it is easy enough by bad laws, to throw the whole nation into an abyss of misery. Evils Must Be Cut Out Carefully. Now, the upshot of all this is that it is peculiarly incumbent upon us in a time of such material well being, both collectively and individually, to show that we possess the qualities of prudence, self knowledge and self restraint.

There is every need of striving in possible ways, individually and collectively, by combinations among ourselves in private life and through the recognized organs of government, for the cutting out of these evils. Only let us be sure that we do not use the knife with an ignorant zeal which would make it more dangerous to the patient than to the disease.

When the weather is good for crops it is also good for weeds. Moreover not only do the wicked flourish when the times are such that most men flourish, but what is worse, the spirit of envy and jealousy and hatred spring up in the breasts of those who, although they may be doing fairly well themselves, yet see others who are no more deserving, doing far better.

Wise laws and fearless and upright administration of the laws can give the opportunity for such prosperity as that we see about us. But this is all they can do. When the conditions have been created which make prosperity possible, then each individual man must achieve it for himself, by his own thrift, intelligence, energy, industry and resourcefulness.

If they go into wild speculation and lose their heads, they have lost that which no legislation can supply and the business world will suffer in consequence. If in a spirit of sullen envy they insist upon pulling down those who have profited most by the years of fatness, they will bury themselves in the crash of the common disaster.

It is difficult to make our mental condition by the best laws, but it is easy enough by bad laws, to throw the whole nation into an abyss of misery. Evils Must Be Cut Out Carefully. Now, the upshot of all this is that it is peculiarly incumbent upon us in a time of such material well being, both collectively and individually, to show that we possess the qualities of prudence, self knowledge and self restraint.

There is every need of striving in possible ways, individually and collectively, by combinations among ourselves in private life and through the recognized organs of government, for the cutting out of these evils. Only let us be sure that we do not use the knife with an ignorant zeal which would make it more dangerous to the patient than to the disease.

When the weather is good for crops it is also good for weeds. Moreover not only do the wicked flourish when the times are such that most men flourish, but what is worse, the spirit of envy and jealousy and hatred spring up in the breasts of those who, although they may be doing fairly well themselves, yet see others who are no more deserving, doing far better.

A CARDINAL MUST FISH OR CUT BAIT

The Ireland Rumor Repeated From Rome—Seat at Chicago.

New York, Aug. 23.—The statement is cabled to the Tribune from Rome that the recommendations and solicitations to the Vatican to have Archbishop Ireland nominated as a cardinal have now assumed vast proportions.

The plan of having Archbishop Ireland a cardinal of the curia residing at Rome is opposed by the other cardinals of the curia, who find him too clever, too progressive and too American.

A project that is whispered, continues the correspondent, is that Bishop Guiley of Buffalo having refused the archbishopric of Chicago, Archbishop Ireland should be appointed there as a fit field for his activities. Being a cardinal, he would then have the west under his jurisdiction while Cardinal Gibbons would have the east.

A COLLEGE COMBINE. South Dakota Story by the Way of Sioux City.

Special to The Journal. Sioux City, Iowa, Aug. 23.—A campaign is being quietly prepared in South Dakota to secure the passage by the next legislature of a law authorizing the consolidation of the University of South Dakota at Vermillion with the state agricultural college at Brookings by moving the university to Brookings.

Those favoring the change urge the decrease in expense that would follow the consolidation, the more convenient geographical location of Brookings and site in disagreeable interference with the board of regents of the university by small towns of southern South Dakota.

The change would involve the moving, or the reconstruction of the university buildings, now valued at $210,000. It is believed here that the circular which President Stickney of the Chicago Great Western railroad will publish next week, relative to plans for terminals in Sioux City for the extension here, will announce the purchase by that railroad of the property of the Union Terminal company, which has almost a monopoly on the terminal facilities here. The consideration could not be less than $2,000,000.

GOING TO PARIS. The Attorney General's Presence Is Needed There.

Washington, Aug. 23.—Attorney General Knox returned to the city to-day from his vacation and will sail for Paris next Wednesday on the Oceanic.

THE RICH HAVE GROWN RICHER. It is not true that the poor have grown poorer, but some of the rich have grown so very much richer that where multitudes of men are hard together in a limited space, the contrast strikes the onlooker as more violent than formerly.

ROUTES FOR THE FIRST. Congressman Tanney Gets Good News for His District. Special to The Journal. Winona, Minn., Aug. 23.—Congressman Tanney has been advised by Superintendent Machen of the early establishment of twenty-four more rural free delivery routes in the first district, making over a hundred in all.

THE PRESIDENT SPEAKS ON THE DANGER OF WAXING FAT AND KICKING. "When the Weather Is Good for Crops It Is Good for Weeds"—Prosperity and Some of the Dangers Incident to It—"If People Lose Their Heads They Lose Something Which No Legislation Can Supply."

When the weather is good for crops it is also good for weeds. Moreover not only do the wicked flourish when the times are such that most men flourish, but what is worse, the spirit of envy and jealousy and hatred spring up in the breasts of those who, although they may be doing fairly well themselves, yet see others who are no more deserving, doing far better.

Wise laws and fearless and upright administration of the laws can give the opportunity for such prosperity as that we see about us. But this is all they can do. When the conditions have been created which make prosperity possible, then each individual man must achieve it for himself, by his own thrift, intelligence, energy, industry and resourcefulness.

If they go into wild speculation and lose their heads, they have lost that which no legislation can supply and the business world will suffer in consequence. If in a spirit of sullen envy they insist upon pulling down those who have profited most by the years of fatness, they will bury themselves in the crash of the common disaster.

It is difficult to make our mental condition by the best laws, but it is easy enough by bad laws, to throw the whole nation into an abyss of misery. Evils Must Be Cut Out Carefully. Now, the upshot of all this is that it is peculiarly incumbent upon us in a time of such material well being, both collectively and individually, to show that we possess the qualities of prudence, self knowledge and self restraint.

There is every need of striving in possible ways, individually and collectively, by combinations among ourselves in private life and through the recognized organs of government, for the cutting out of these evils. Only let us be sure that we do not use the knife with an ignorant zeal which would make it more dangerous to the patient than to the disease.

When the weather is good for crops it is also good for weeds. Moreover not only do the wicked flourish when the times are such that most men flourish, but what is worse, the spirit of envy and jealousy and hatred spring up in the breasts of those who, although they may be doing fairly well themselves, yet see others who are no more deserving, doing far better.

Wise laws and fearless and upright administration of the laws can give the opportunity for such prosperity as that we see about us. But this is all they can do. When the conditions have been created which make prosperity possible, then each individual man must achieve it for himself, by his own thrift, intelligence, energy, industry and resourcefulness.

If they go into wild speculation and lose their heads, they have lost that which no legislation can supply and the business world will suffer in consequence. If in a spirit of sullen envy they insist upon pulling down those who have profited most by the years of fatness, they will bury themselves in the crash of the common disaster.

It is difficult to make our mental condition by the best laws, but it is easy enough by bad laws, to throw the whole nation into an abyss of misery. Evils Must Be Cut Out Carefully. Now, the upshot of all this is that it is peculiarly incumbent upon us in a time of such material well being, both collectively and individually, to show that we possess the qualities of prudence, self knowledge and self restraint.

THE PRESIDENT SPEAKS ON THE DANGER OF WAXING FAT AND KICKING

"When the Weather Is Good for Crops It Is Good for Weeds"—Prosperity and Some of the Dangers Incident to It—"If People Lose Their Heads They Lose Something Which No Legislation Can Supply."

When the weather is good for crops it is also good for weeds. Moreover not only do the wicked flourish when the times are such that most men flourish, but what is worse, the spirit of envy and jealousy and hatred spring up in the breasts of those who, although they may be doing fairly well themselves, yet see others who are no more deserving, doing far better.

Wise laws and fearless and upright administration of the laws can give the opportunity for such prosperity as that we see about us. But this is all they can do. When the conditions have been created which make prosperity possible, then each individual man must achieve it for himself, by his own thrift, intelligence, energy, industry and resourcefulness.

If they go into wild speculation and lose their heads, they have lost that which no legislation can supply and the business world will suffer in consequence. If in a spirit of sullen envy they insist upon pulling down those who have profited most by the years of fatness, they will bury themselves in the crash of the common disaster.

It is difficult to make our mental condition by the best laws, but it is easy enough by bad laws, to throw the whole nation into an abyss of misery. Evils Must Be Cut Out Carefully. Now, the upshot of all this is that it is peculiarly incumbent upon us in a time of such material well being, both collectively and individually, to show that we possess the qualities of prudence, self knowledge and self restraint.

There is every need of striving in possible ways, individually and collectively, by combinations among ourselves in private life and through the recognized organs of government, for the cutting out of these evils. Only let us be sure that we do not use the knife with an ignorant zeal which would make it more dangerous to the patient than to the disease.

When the weather is good for crops it is also good for weeds. Moreover not only do the wicked flourish when the times are such that most men flourish, but what is worse, the spirit of envy and jealousy and hatred spring up in the breasts of those who, although they may be doing fairly well themselves, yet see others who are no more deserving, doing far better.

Wise laws and fearless and upright administration of the laws can give the opportunity for such prosperity as that we see about us. But this is all they can do. When the conditions have been created which make prosperity possible, then each individual man must achieve it for himself, by his own thrift, intelligence, energy, industry and resourcefulness.

If they go into wild speculation and lose their heads, they have lost that which no legislation can supply and the business world will suffer in consequence. If in a spirit of sullen envy they insist upon pulling down those who have profited most by the years of fatness, they will bury themselves in the crash of the common disaster.

It is difficult to make our mental condition by the best laws, but it is easy enough by bad laws, to throw the whole nation into an abyss of misery. Evils Must Be Cut Out Carefully. Now, the upshot of all this is that it is peculiarly incumbent upon us in a time of such material well being, both collectively and individually, to show that we possess the qualities of prudence, self knowledge and self restraint.

There is every need of striving in possible ways, individually and collectively, by combinations among ourselves in private life and through the recognized organs of government, for the cutting out of these evils. Only let us be sure that we do not use the knife with an ignorant zeal which would make it more dangerous to the patient than to the disease.

When the weather is good for crops it is also good for weeds. Moreover not only do the wicked flourish when the times are such that most men flourish, but what is worse, the spirit of envy and jealousy and hatred spring up in the breasts of those who, although they may be doing fairly well themselves, yet see others who are no more deserving, doing far better.

Wise laws and fearless and upright administration of the laws can give the opportunity for such prosperity as that we see about us. But this is all they can do. When the conditions have been created which make prosperity possible, then each individual man must achieve it for himself, by his own thrift, intelligence, energy, industry and resourcefulness.

If they go into wild speculation and lose their heads, they have lost that which no legislation can supply and the business world will suffer in consequence. If in a spirit of sullen envy they insist upon pulling down those who have profited most by the years of fatness, they will bury themselves in the crash of the common disaster.

It is difficult to make our mental condition by the best laws, but it is easy enough by bad laws, to throw the whole nation into an abyss of misery. Evils Must Be Cut Out Carefully. Now, the upshot of all this is that it is peculiarly incumbent upon us in a time of such material well being, both collectively and individually, to show that we possess the qualities of prudence, self knowledge and self restraint.

There is every need of striving in possible ways, individually and collectively, by combinations among ourselves in private life and through the recognized organs of government, for the cutting out of these evils. Only let us be sure that we do not use the knife with an ignorant zeal which would make it more dangerous to the patient than to the disease.

When the weather is good for crops it is also good for weeds. Moreover not only do the wicked flourish when the times are such that most men flourish, but what is worse, the spirit of envy and jealousy and hatred spring up in the breasts of those who, although they may be doing fairly well themselves, yet see others who are no more deserving, doing far better.

Wise laws and fearless and upright administration of the laws can give the opportunity for such prosperity as that we see about us. But this is all they can do. When the conditions have been created which make prosperity possible, then each individual man must achieve it for himself, by his own thrift, intelligence, energy, industry and resourcefulness.

If they go into wild speculation and lose their heads, they have lost that which no legislation can supply and the business world will suffer in consequence. If in a spirit of sullen envy they insist upon pulling down those who have profited most by the years of fatness, they will bury themselves in the crash of the common disaster.

It is difficult to make our mental condition by the best laws, but it is easy enough by bad laws, to throw the whole nation into an abyss of misery. Evils Must Be Cut Out Carefully. Now, the upshot of all this is that it is peculiarly incumbent upon us in a time of such material well being, both collectively and individually, to show that we possess the qualities of prudence, self knowledge and self restraint.

There is every need of striving in possible ways, individually and collectively, by combinations among ourselves in private life and through the recognized organs of government, for the cutting out of these evils. Only let us be sure that we do not use the knife with an ignorant zeal which would make it more dangerous to the patient than to the disease.

When the weather is good for crops it is also good for weeds. Moreover not only do the wicked flourish when the times are such that most men flourish, but what is worse, the spirit of envy and jealousy and hatred spring up in the breasts of those who, although they may be doing fairly well themselves, yet see others who are no more deserving, doing far better.

Wise laws and fearless and upright administration of the laws can give the opportunity for such prosperity as that we see about us. But this is all they can do. When the conditions have been created which make prosperity possible, then each individual man must achieve it for himself, by his own thrift, intelligence, energy, industry and resourcefulness.

THE PRESIDENT SPEAKS ON THE DANGER OF WAXING FAT AND KICKING

"When the Weather Is Good for Crops It Is Good for Weeds"—Prosperity and Some of the Dangers Incident to It—"If People Lose Their Heads They Lose Something Which No Legislation Can Supply."

When the weather is good for crops it is also good for weeds. Moreover not only do the wicked flourish when the times are such that most men flourish, but what is worse, the spirit of envy and jealousy and hatred spring up in the breasts of those who, although they may be doing fairly well themselves, yet see others who are no more deserving, doing far better.

Wise laws and fearless and upright administration of the laws can give the opportunity for such prosperity as that we see about us. But this is all they can do. When the conditions have been created which make prosperity possible, then each individual man must achieve it for himself, by his own thrift, intelligence, energy, industry and resourcefulness.

If they go into wild speculation and lose their heads, they have lost that which no legislation can supply and the business world will suffer in consequence. If in a spirit of sullen envy they insist upon pulling down those who have profited most by the years of fatness, they will bury themselves in the crash of the common disaster.

It is difficult to make our mental condition by the best laws, but it is easy enough by bad laws, to throw the whole nation into an abyss of misery. Evils Must Be Cut Out Carefully. Now, the upshot of all this is that it is peculiarly incumbent upon us in a time of such material well being, both collectively and individually, to show that we possess the qualities of prudence, self knowledge and self restraint.

There is every need of striving in possible ways, individually and collectively, by combinations among ourselves in private life and through the recognized organs of government, for the cutting out of these evils. Only let us be sure that we do not use the knife with an ignorant zeal which would make it more dangerous to the patient than to the disease.

When the weather is good for crops it is also good for weeds. Moreover not only do the wicked flourish when the times are such that most men flourish, but what is worse, the spirit of envy and jealousy and hatred spring up in the breasts of those who, although they may be doing fairly well themselves, yet see others who are no more deserving, doing far better.

Wise laws and fearless and upright administration of the laws can give the opportunity for such prosperity as that we see about us. But this is all they can do. When the conditions have been created which make prosperity possible, then each individual man must achieve it for himself, by his own thrift, intelligence, energy, industry and resourcefulness.

If they go into wild speculation and lose their heads, they have lost that which no legislation can supply and the business world will suffer in consequence. If in a spirit of sullen envy they insist upon pulling down those who have profited most by the years of fatness, they will bury themselves in the crash of the common disaster.

It is difficult to make our mental condition by the best laws, but it is easy enough by bad laws, to throw the whole nation into an abyss of misery. Evils Must Be Cut Out Carefully. Now, the upshot of all this is that it is peculiarly incumbent upon us in a time of such material well being, both collectively and individually, to show that we possess the qualities of prudence, self knowledge and self restraint.

There is every need of striving in possible ways, individually and collectively, by combinations among ourselves in private life and through the recognized organs of government, for the cutting out of these evils. Only let us be sure that we do not use the knife with an ignorant zeal which would make it more dangerous to the patient than to the disease.

When the weather is good for crops it is also good for weeds. Moreover not only do the wicked flourish when the times are such that most men flourish, but what is worse, the spirit of envy and jealousy and hatred spring up in the breasts of those who, although they may be doing fairly well themselves, yet see others who are no more deserving, doing far better.

Wise laws and fearless and upright administration of the laws can give the opportunity for such prosperity as that we see about us. But this is all they can do. When the conditions have been created which make prosperity possible, then each individual man must achieve it for himself, by his own thrift, intelligence, energy, industry and resourcefulness.

If they go into wild speculation and lose their heads, they have lost that which no legislation can supply and the business world will suffer in consequence. If in a spirit of sullen envy they insist upon pulling down those who have profited most by the years of fatness, they will bury themselves in the crash of the common disaster.

It is difficult to make our mental condition by the best laws, but it is easy enough by bad laws, to throw the whole nation into an abyss of misery. Evils Must Be Cut Out Carefully. Now, the upshot of all this is that it is peculiarly incumbent upon us in a time of such material well being, both collectively and individually, to show that we possess the qualities of prudence, self knowledge and self restraint.

There is every need of striving in possible ways, individually and collectively, by combinations among ourselves in private life and through the recognized organs of government, for the cutting out of these evils. Only let us be sure that we do not use the knife with an ignorant zeal which would make it more dangerous to the patient than to the disease.

When the weather is good for crops it is also good for weeds. Moreover not only do the wicked flourish when the times are such that most men flourish, but what is worse, the spirit of envy and jealousy and hatred spring up in the breasts of those who, although they may be doing fairly well themselves, yet see others who are no more deserving, doing far better.

Wise laws and fearless and upright administration of the laws can give the opportunity for such prosperity as that we see about us. But this is all they can do. When the conditions have been created which make prosperity possible, then each individual man must achieve it for himself, by his own thrift, intelligence, energy, industry and resourcefulness.

If they go into wild speculation and lose their heads, they have lost that which no legislation can supply and the business world will suffer in consequence. If in a spirit of sullen envy they insist upon pulling down those who have profited most by the years of fatness, they will bury themselves in the crash of the common disaster.

It is difficult to make our mental condition by the best laws, but it is easy enough by bad laws, to throw the whole nation into an abyss of misery. Evils Must Be Cut Out Carefully. Now, the upshot of all