Strong Note of Discontent Sounded in Jamaica and Trinidad.

British Colonial Policy Sadly Contrasted With the Rule in Porto Rico.

Kingston, Jamaica, Aug. 29.—The past two or three months have witnessed a remarkable recrudescence of the American annexation idea in the island of the largest and most important British West Indies possessions—Trinidad and Jamaica.

Such is the view of the planters and business men; and both together form a very influential class—perhaps the most influential class of the community.

Between those two factions comes another class, influential enough, though in a hopeless minority, holding that federation with Canada is the only remedy for the ills from which the islands are unceasingly suffering.

The truth of the matter is that intelligent people here are becoming altogether sick of the British colonial policy—a policy that has resulted in the almost total destruction of the sugar industry of the islands.

The depression over the country is as acute as it is real. Government department reports teem with references to it. It is becoming hard to collect debts, people are daily getting out of work in consequence of the failure of the sugar industry.

It is the opinion of a good many intelligent men that if the expensive system of government which obtains here were superseded by a system of the kind being introduced in Porto Rico, the island would be in a position to recover itself.

What is the actual situation? Depression on every side, sugar and coffee estates going out of cultivation, the people without money and with only sufficient to eat, large numbers of persons leaving the country for America and elsewhere, and everywhere and among all classes the gloomest anticipations regarding the future.

CHARLES L. BROCKWAY, of Aberdeen, S. D., late captain in the South Dakota regiment which went to the Philippines, has been appointed a $300 clerkship in the treasury.

Secretary Shaw has ruled that customs officers are expected to protect the revenues of the country, but they are not expected to administer the laws with captious and vexatious discriminations.

President Roosevelt has informed the commission that, according to his interpretation of the matter, just cause for removal of a government employe consists of any cause calculated to promote the public service.

The Indian Rights Association is mixing up in some school and agency matters in the north-west, although the officials decline to indicate specific cases.

Where the three states of Virginia, West Virginia and Maryland come together; where the Potomac and Shenandoah rivers unite; where the towering steps of the Blue Ridge end abruptly, frowning upon the heights of Maryland and Bolivar Heights in West Virginia, lies the quaint historic town of Harper's Ferry.

Harper's Ferry, the Gate to the Shenandoah Valley

From Harper's Ferry the Shenandoah division of the Baltimore & Ohio R. R. extends southward to Charlottesville, Winchester, Harrisonburg and Lexington. Battlesfield surround the village in all directions.

Look at that man, if he may be called such. He may not be sick, yet he is unfit for work, study, business or marriage.

That is what he talks about, and he has troubles of a different nature.

If by your own acts, through the folly of youth, you have violated a single law of nature, against body or mind, especially through any habit by constantly repeating same, then there is no escaping the punishment made and provided for every transgression, which is sickness, decay or death.

PERKINS SAYS IT'S EASY

All a Young Man Has to Do to Get Rich Is to Work Like a Horse.

Chicago, Aug. 29.—"Too many young men in this country don't want to work hard. They prefer to take things easy—stay up late at night and lie abed too long in the morning. They never can get ahead in that way. Times and conditions may change, but the old rule remains that there is no success without everlastingly keeping at it."

This was the word George W. Perkins, optimist, had for young America last night. Mr. Perkins formerly was a Chicago insurance agent. He still is a young man and he is one who has succeeded. He has become the right hand man of J. P. Morgan in that financier's world-wide enterprises.

After the whirl of a day's activities in Chicago, in Colorado Fuel & Iron, in the harvest combine, in steel trust affairs and other business interests, he emerged from his apartment at the Annex, long enough to declare that this was the era of the young man—at least of the young man who will work.

"I am interested in young America, and I like to see our boys push ahead and come to the front," said Mr. Perkins. "These are days full of opportunities. All that a young man needs is more and more health has to do is to take advantage of the chances offered."

"Nor are the opportunities limited to one line or occupation. They are found in every direction. It is more and more true, however, that a boy must fit himself for some specialty. Therefore, he must find out as soon as he can what he is especially adapted for and pitch into it."

Mr. Perkins declared a permanent affection for Chicago, which his residence in New York has not lessened. His faith in this city and the whole central west as well.

"The people in the east," he continued, "do not fully realize how rich this western country is. They have no adequate idea of the wealth centered in Chicago, St. Louis, Milwaukee, Minneapolis and other western cities. When one comes out here and sees the conditions he must believe that the present prosperity of the country will continue for some time. It has a substantial backing that is bound to support it. For that matter, there are more or less evidences everywhere of continued prosperity. We see it in all lines of business."
