TROUBLE FOR AMES

Grand Jury May Take Up New Charges Against the Former Mayor.

Allegation Is Made That Money Was Used to Get Two Variety Theaters Closed.

The grand jury will meet again to-morrow morning, after a short recess, and interesting developments are expected. Witnesses examined a few days ago make it certain that the jury has heeded the suggestion of its predecessor to continue the work of municipal investigation, and the result of its labors will probably be made known shortly.

Mayor A. C. Ames, now a resident of West Baden, Ind., is said to be in more trouble and it is not unlikely that an indictment will be found against him for accepting a bribe in connection with his action in closing two Minneapolis "theaters" some time ago.

Harvey's Case Continued. Former Detective George Harvey, who was indicted for perjury in connection with his testimony as a witness in the first trial, Frederick W. James, was in Judge Brooks' courtroom this morning to await the disposition of his case.

Pleas Guilty Burglary. John Wells appeared in Judge Brooks' courtroom this morning and entered a plea of guilty to an indictment charging him with burglary in the third degree. He will be sentenced later.

George Roe Gets $5,000. George Roe received a verdict of $5,000 against William E. King in his personal injury suit against that firm. Roe was injured while employed as a brakeman on a road operated by the defendant.

John Morstad has begun suit against Charles F. Haglin to recover $1,965 damages for personal injuries. Morstad was ordered to work with a man who did not understand English. The man was clumsy and let a heavy iron beam fall upon his fellow workman.

HE WANTED TO SHOOT

A Display of Temper Costs Willard Lisbon $875.

Willard Lisbon, colored, held at the central police station, was taken to Golden Valley this morning and tried on a charge of an assault with a dangerous weapon. He was fined $5 and costs.

Going to his buggy, Lisbon secured his double-barreled shotgun, turned to the man with whom he was quarreling, placed the muzzle of the gun against the latter's breast and threatened to shoot. The gun was taken from him and he was brought to Minneapolis and locked up in the central police station.

NO SUNDAY FUNERALS

Minneapolis Pastors Appoint a Committee to Work for Abolition of This Practice.

The pastors of the city held their monthly meeting this morning at the Y. M. C. A. building. While the representation of Methodists was small owing to the absence of many pastors, a conference, all other denominations except the Presbyterians made good showings.

The meeting was conducted by William E. Blackstone of Chicago, who also made the opening address on "The Evangelization of the World." A motion was made appointing a committee of three to move against the custom of Sunday funerals.

MONEY FOR THE SCHOOLS

October Apportionment of the State Funds Will Be Sent to County Auditors.

The October apportionment of the state school fund will be forwarded to the county auditors this week. State Superintendent Olsen to-day certified to Auditor Dunn the number of pupils in each county, which forms the basis for the distribution. There were 358,729 pupils who attended forty days or over during the last school year and the school districts will receive $2 for each pupil, a total of $707,458.

Last October $635,449.05 was distributed for 343,463 pupils, on the basis of $1.85 for each pupil. Hennepin county receives this fall $83,356.

DOCKERY HIS MODEL

Young Louis Anderson, the Chimney Climbing Jail Breaker, Is Again in Custody.

He Says He'll Get Out Again, If He Gets Half a Chance.

Louis Anderson, the 18-year-old boy who was arrested last May by Detective Norm King on a charge of burglary, and who later escaped from the central police station by climbing up a chimney, was arrested to-day by Detective Mealy, Sergeant Rivers and Patrolman Erickson. He will be tried on the charge of robbing the sporting goods store of Nelson & Mattson.

Anderson had the freedom of the cell-room at the central station, and securing a plank, climbed to a ventilating hole 15 inches square in the chimney. Through this he climbed to safety. When he was missed from the cell he had been gone several hours and could not be found.

"When I first saw that hole in the chimney, I did not know what it was. I made up my mind to investigate it, and taking a plank which was lying loose in the cell, I climbed to the hole and looked in. By looking up I could see a dark black chasm. I thought I could climb up that hole, and I did so. The opening in the chimney was pretty small and the top was fully fifty feet above where I started. I climbed up slowly, for it was hard work, and after two hours' hard work, reached the top. My knees were skinned and I was pretty tired, but as soon as I came out at the top of the chimney, I made up my mind that I would get out again."

"I quietly dropped to the roof, fifteen feet below, and went to the fire escape. I climbed down this until I reached a level with the second floor of the station. The fire shutters were open, and grasping one of these I dropped safely to the ground and made my way home. Shortly afterward I left the city and started away until about two weeks ago, when I returned, supposing that since King was off the force, I was not wanted."

"No, never had any particular training in climbing," Anderson replied. In answer to a query, "but I think I can do a pretty good job at it. I guess I am something like Dockery, and if they'll give me half a chance I'll get out of here in a short time."

Anderson is kept confined in a cell and the officers do not intend to give him the chance to escape again.

CONFERENCE OF REPUBLICANS

Chairman Martin will meet Committee-men in St. Paul.

Chairman James Martin of the executive committee of the republicans in St. Paul this week with the republican committee-men of three congressional districts. The first district will meet Wednesday, the second Thursday, and the third Friday.

The meetings will be held at state headquarters, and the chairman of each county committee is invited, as well as the members of the state committee, from the district. The object is to discuss the situation by districts, and bring the local committee-men in closer touch with the state organization.

Veterans Indorse Van Sant

The German-American veterans, at their meeting in St. Paul yesterday, indorsed Governor Van Sant as a candidate for re-election by a rising vote. Congressman McCleary was made an honorary member in recognition of his services in the monument to the German-American soldiers who lost their lives in the civil war.

CANDY COMBINE DETAILS

Plans for Minneapolis Arranged at a Conference To-day.

Details of the deal whereby the Paris-Murton Candy company of this city, was incorporated into the confectionery trust known as the National Candy company, were arranged this afternoon at a meeting of "combine" officers with A. W. Paris at the West Hotel.

Those present were Edwin Corbin, the New York capitalist; Harry Semple Ames, of St. Louis, assistant trust officer of the Mississippi Valley Trust company; Frank E. Reed, of Chicago, a German-American lawyer; and Al. W. Paris.

UP ON BOARD NOW

Not Fact nor Fair Let Gov't Take Hold

There Are Divergent Opinions in the Board as to What Should Be Done.

When the Midway, that way of wickedness is traversed oratorically to-night by members of the park board, they will not agree as to the rights of the students upon the avenue so-called within the university campus.

Harry W. Jones of the park board was found in grave conference this morning with Superintendent of Parks Berry. Mr. Jones said that he was going to ascertain from Mr. Berry the exact facts of the constabulary Waterloo. But meantime the commissioner was convinced that the park board should do something towards maintaining its authority upon the Midway. What that something should be, time and to-night will answer.

"But there isn't the least doubt," insisted Mr. Jones, "that the policemen, when cruelly overcome, were in performance of their official duty, and were entitled to shoot and kill any person who applies to many other portions of the city as well as to the Midway. It made no difference whom the property belonged to, it was the jurisdiction of the park board and the surveillance of the park police."

"Neither was it important whether the orders of the board against bicycling upon the Midway were wise or were not; it was a criminal offense to defy them."

"So it's most unfortunate that the authorities of the city made so light of the students' conduct. This attitude of the authorities to whom the students look for guidance is not calculated to increase the respect for the park police or of the regular police force."

Very different will be the argument of Professor William W. Folwell, president of the park board and prominent in the university faculty. His cry will be, "Let us remember!"

"The best course to pursue," declared Professor Folwell, "would be to forget the whole thing and say nothing about it. But the next best thing will be to have the park board bring in accord heretofore with the regulations of the university as bicycling upon the campus sidewalks. Some of the sidewalks there are under the supervision of the university, and there is no dispute that the Midway is under the supervision of the park board."

DR. WARD IS EXONERATED

Former Pastor of Fowler Church is Cleared of the Charges Against Him.

Rev. J. A. Ward, formerly pastor of Fowler M. E. church in this city, who was charged with the murder of the Marshalltown, Iowa, of the charges preferred against him. It was alleged that Dr. Ward had done wrong in some financial transaction with the department of the magnetic healer in New York, and that he gave a note for a small sum to a prominent member of a Cedar Rapids church, and an unclean refusal to pay the same.

Walter N. Carroll of this city, commenting upon the exoneration of Dr. Ward, says that the clergyman is a Christian gentleman, of pure motives and a clear conscience. The work he has been doing in New York is perfectly legitimate and honorable. Mr. Carroll declares that Dr. Ward entered upon this work with the best of intentions, and that he was a little money to provide for his old age.

BANQUET TO SOLDIERS

Plans Are Completed for Dinner to Army Officers at the Commercial Club.

Plans were completed this afternoon for the banquet to be given the officers of Fort Snelling and the department of the Dakotas at the Commercial club dining room of Oct. 8. The Commercial club dinner room will accommodate a hundred guests and the plates have all been spoken for. Those of the party probably will reside.

The toasts will be as follows: "Address of welcome," President A. C. Paul, of the Commercial club; "The City of Minneapolis," Mayor D. E. Jones; "The State of Minnesota," Governor S. R. Van Sant; "The Fifth Congressional District," Congressman Loren Fletcher; "The Business Men," George W. Partridge; "At Large," John H. Baxter; "At Large," Henry Deutch; "Fort Snelling and the Department of the Dakotas," Colonel Jacob Kline; "The Troops," Colonel William Quinton; "The Commissary," Major Pond.

TOO YOUNG FOR THE JAIL

Two Boys, 7 and 6 Years Old, Confess Stealing a Velocipede and Other Articles.

Tommy Ryan, a 7-year-old brother of Peter Ryan, who was sentenced to the state training school a few weeks ago, and John Rolfe, 6 years of age, were picked up by an officer yesterday. They were charged with the theft of a velocipede, a toy wagon and a lot of cigars. They told the whole story, but as they are too young to be taken into court, nothing can be done with the case.

It is thought that the boys were members of the gang of youngsters who did so much mischief in the neighborhood of Twelfth street and Nicollet avenue a few weeks ago. An effort will be made to get the boys committed to the state school at Owatonna.

NOT FACT NOR FAIR

Let Gov't Take Hold

There Are Divergent Opinions in the Board as to What Should Be Done.

Why the school board of education should be made the object of continued attacks by the Tribune, we are unable to explain," said President T. F. Quinby of the board of education this morning in discussing a particularly misleading article in the Tribune's utterance.

"The people of Minneapolis are proud of their schools and they have been praised by the most prominent educators in the country and hence we are the more surprised and indignant that one of our daily papers should be so disloyal to the schools and to the city."

"In an editorial this morning on 'The Clever School Board,' the members are charged with being 'cunning,' with having 'foiled' the Commercial club and with attempting to deceive the board of tax levy which attempt was frustrated by the watchfulness of Controller Rogers—in the matter of estimates for the coming year. We, the school board, are accused of having asked for three or four times as much money as it needed and it may still get two or three times as much as it needs, if the people should vote the bonds asked for."

"It has been no deception whatever. It is simply a lie when it is stated that we asked for three or four times as much money as we needed, a lie on the face of it."

"One week ago to-day when the board of tax levy assembled the following report was submitted, one copy being given to each member of the board of tax levy. Statement showing expenditure of the board of education for the school year ending July 1, 1902. Also statement showing estimated expenses for the school year ending July 1, 1903.

Table with 2 columns: Item and Amount. Teachers' salaries, Fuel and lights, Insurance, Supplies, printing and stationery, Office salaries and incidentals, Text books for grades, Repairs, Interest on bonds, Furniture, New buildings, Deficit paid off, Increase salaries, New buildings.

"This item of expenditure was paid out of funds levied and received during the school year ending July 1, 1901. 'In plain black and white, this statement shows that the school board paid a deficit amounting to $67,568. So much for the charge that we tried to conceal this item.'"

"From the foregoing statement, it will be seen that the school board estimates that it ought to have $985,200 for new schools and the board has received a revenue of $248,000, which leaves $747,200 to be raised by taxation."

"A levy of 6 mills, which the school board asked for, would yield on a basis of an assessed valuation of $121,600,000 the sum of $729,000. As a representative of the school board I insisted on this amount, but the board of tax levy did not grant it. The board set itself against the proposal to increase the teachers' salaries and against other estimates and was willing to allow a levy of only 5.6 mills. This would give a revenue of $688,250 from taxes in addition to the $248,000 we receive from other sources. We will, of course, run the schools with the means at our disposal in the best way we can, and are free to admit that with all funds allowed us we can do something towards building new school houses. A raise in the salaries of the teachers is, of course, impossible."

"Do these figures show that the school board asked for three or four times as much money as it needed? Why should we ask for anything more, unless we did not think the insinuation is plain, but in justice to the taxpayers of the city, the Tribune should be more explicit."

"The remainder of the editorial is devoted to more conduct language because the school board proposition. The school board does not ask for any bond issue this year. The bond proposition was suggested only as a contingency, and the board of tax levy did not provide some funds for the construction of new schools. This was expressly stated to the council and to the board of tax levy and it is understood by everybody except the Tribune that no bonds are now required."

"This paper has had a great deal to say about facts in the public schools and this morning says that with all the money the board will have it can 'plant a whole lot of new fads all over the city system.' It will enable the members of the board to intelligently if the paper will name the fads and show how much they are costing the city."

"Personally, I am of the opinion that the paper is most disloyal and unjust. I think that the people of the city are in the main satisfied with the manner in which the school board has conducted its business, and that the school board, although not backed by anything more substantial than abuse, may lead the people to suspect that we are a set of rascals who are robbing the school system and hoodwinking the taxpayers in every possible way."

MR. HOLT WANTS AN OFFICE

Probation Officer Would Turn Park Board's Old Quarters Into Detention Rooms for Youths.

Probation Officer George D. Holt applied before the board of county commissioners this morning and asked that the rooms in the courthouse, formerly occupied by the park board be set aside for his use. He asked the board to divide them into detention rooms for boys and girl offenders and an office for himself. The matter was referred to a committee.

A communication was received from the Minnesota Title Insurance and Trust company asking the board to rent them rooms in the county building for the conduct of their abstract business. This, too, was referred.

The resignation of G. R. Scott, electrician in the county building, was accepted. Mr. Scott will become electrician in the new County Courthouse, while his assistant, John Haley, will succeed in his old position.

DR. HALL WILL PROTEST

Health Commissioner Says New Quarters of His Department Are Not Adequate.

Health Commissioner Hall has decided to send to the city council a formal protest against the quarters provided for the health department in the new city hall. Not only are the rooms entirely too small, but they are in the department, but their arrangement is faulty and they are so dark that artificial light must be used all day long.

No counters, desks or tables have as yet been provided and the health officials could not move next Saturday, even if the space allotted were sufficient.

That Solution of the Coal Strike

Seems to Be Popular in Minneapolis.

Nearly Every Man Interviewed Proposed Government Control as the Best Way Out.

Interest in the coal strike is keen in Minneapolis not only on account of the fuel shortage but as an economic problem. Following the presidential conference and the refusal of the coal road officials to do anything, indignation was intense on the streets of Minneapolis. One prominent citizen stated that he would give a sum toward a fund for the miners. He believed President Roosevelt, and through him each individual American would be insulted. To avenge this he would form a fund to enable the miners to continue their fight.

Government ownership seems to be the generally favored remedy for such conditions as now exist. Here are some opinions gathered at random to-day: William C. Gregg—I have no sympathy with either side. If we are ever going to try government ownership of anything I am in favor of trying it right now, just as this thing can be accomplished legally. A. W. Hopcock—I think the strike will be settled this week. The president did all that he could do and he did it at the right time. I think his action will hurry the end although he was turned down by one side. I think the government ought to own the coal mines and I think, too, that it will come eventually. Thomas Shelvlin—What can the president do? He has done all that he can do. It is up to the governor of Pennsylvania. If the governor can't preserve order, then it is for the president to intervene. This is one of the most serious propositions the American people has had to consider. They will feel it more when the cold weather begins.

Eugene M. Stevens—It's a question what can be done. It is clearly a case for federal intervention. If this country is to have the law, in case there is no law covering the point, and the president's influence has no effect in a matter that is so vital to the entire country, the condition ought to be remedied by legislation. L. K. Thompson—First, it is up to Pennsylvania to afford the operators and the men who wish to work, all the protection necessary for the peaceful conduct of the business; second, if Pennsylvania is unable to furnish necessary protection, the president should unhesitatingly use the power vested in him; third, congress should pass laws requiring the operators to protect the lives and health of their men as far as possible in their difficult and dangerous work, and making arbitration compulsory between the parties directly involved, where there is failure to reach a satisfactory agreement otherwise. If the government owned ownership and control of the coal mines. H. E. Ladd—I am willing to abide by what the president will do. I think he has good judgment. I favor government ownership of the mines. We never hear of strikes in anything that the government owns.
