

Tremendous Garment Purchase.

Now is the time.

Hundreds of new outer garments for women, misses and children, received within the past twenty-four hours. We urge every woman, miss or child to take advantage of this opportunity.

Miss Quinlan has just returned from a two weeks' purchasing trip in the New York market. Over fifteen hundred garments were purchased at prices very much under regular market value.

Ladies' Coats We cannot talk too emphatically of our wonderful assortment of the unusual values. We emphasize especially our values for Saturday at $15.00, $22.50 and $28.50 And our new blouse coats in zibeline and rough cloth at $13.50, $16.50 and $20.00

Misses' New Coats The newest we can secure—the Monte Carlo and the Norfolk—our own copies of the imported models.

New collars, sleeves, capes, backs, lengths, and as at all times the best tailoring and cloths. Saturday you can expect some unusual values at $15.00, $18.50, $25.00

Children's Coats Large shipments for busy Saturday. Some wonderful values Saturday. Come expecting big values. We will not disappoint. Sales are more than doubling. You can find the reason by visiting our children's department. The assortment and values are doing it.

$6.75 Cheviot Coat—full length, sizes 6 to 14 years, storm collar, double breasted, regular price $8.50—but for Saturday our special, $6.75.

$10.00 The New Zibeline Coats, full length, sizes 6 to 12 years, fancy cape, storm collar, nothing to equal them in the city less than $15.00. They won't last long.

$13.50 Sizes 6 to 12 years—imported Kerseys, Navy, Castor, Red, Brown—high storm collar, new Ripple back; regular value $16.50.

TRAINED BY L. T. L. SHOT-GUN PRESCRIPTIONS

National W. C. T. U. Hears Fine Speakers Developed in Its Branch for Children's Work.

Lady Henry Somerset Draws Great Crowds to Hear Her Principal Address.

Special to The Journal. Portland, Me., Oct. 24.—Saturday afternoon Miss Cornelia Dow, daughter of Neal Dow, opened the old home mansion in an informal reception to the delegates and visitors of the W. C. T. U. Hundreds passed through this historic home. The study and the library were probably most interesting.

Saturday evening, Jefferson theater was packed early to listen to the Royal Temperance Legion and a 24-hour song service. Two hundred children's voices were led by Mrs. A. E. Merrill, director of music in the Portland public schools. Miss Anna A. Gordon, secretary of the World's L. T. L. president, The welcome song to the tune of one of the national airs was sung with energy; a pledge song composed by Madam Gordon Gullis and sung to the Spanish national air was unique.

Action songs with bell and handkerchief accompaniment were beautifully sung. The last was the song of the flags, each child waving a small American flag. This song was written by Frances E. Willard and set to music by Lady Somerset. It was most beautifully given. The large American and British flags were tied together with a broad white ribbon as the children sang. This brought a storm of applause as there are large numbers of British visitors from England and Canada.

The senior L. T. L. made a splendid showing in the addresses given by the state L. T. L. presidents. Herbert C. Shattuck, president of New York L. T. L., spoke of the "Power to Do Something." He told of one of New York's presidents, who was a superintendent of a brick yard and through his influence on the men under him had closed the saloons near the entrance of the yards because of lack of patronage.

Miss Bessie Palmer, of Chicago, president of the Illinois L. T. L., gave a pathetic story of her life. Her father in the woman's cruise time was wholesale and retail liquor dealer. He was converted at that time and when Bessie was born, he dedicated her to the temperance cause. She has heard for many a day, made a fine speech, and showed what splendid material is being developed for total abstinence and prohibition through the Royal Temperance Legion.

The Young Women's branch had the latter part of the program in charge, and Mrs. Clara Parrish Wright, secretary of the Y branch, presided. Miss Louise E. Hollister, of Minneapolis, a notable student of the Y branch, made the first address on "Hidings of Power." Miss Hollister made a good impression and won laurels for the W. C. T. U. of the north-west.

Miss Taml Inal of Tokio, Japan, in native costume, made a charming little speech. Miss Christine M. E. of England spoke on a Dutch lesson learned in Amsterdam, which was a unique way of presenting the temperance question.

Lady Henry Somerset was the first speaker of the evening. She spoke of a charming appearance in a white satin gown elaborately trimmed with black velvet and a white feather boa reaching nearly to the floor. The motto of the Duxhurst work among inebriate women. She called the attention to the fact that England had to cope with a much greater problem than the United States, because the drunkenness of the English women Lady Somerset started this work among inebriate women and claims that 800,000 women are in the streets taken into the home remain true to total abstinence and go out to a useful life.

Sunday nearly every pupil in Portland was filled by the national officers, state presidents, and the general assembly and lecturers. The president of Minnesota spoke in the Plymouth Free Baptist church and presided over an overflow meeting held in the M. E. church on Sunday evening. Miss Hollister of Minneapolis filled a prominent part. The annual sermon was preached by Miss Elizabeth Greenwood, national superintendent of the Evangelistic department in Jefferson theater, Sunday afternoon at 8 o'clock. All meetings were attended by thousands of people. The interest of the day, however, centered in the great mass meeting held Sunday evening in the city hall, at which Lady Somerset was the speaker of the evening. Long before 6 o'clock the hall was filled and thousands of people turned away. These were sent to the largest churches and the best speakers of the National W. C. T. U. were sent to address them. Lady Somerset made a strong temperance address. Arranging a prominent bishop of her own denomination for his attitude as a Christian toward the temperance question, with her logic she took all his standing from him.

Monday routine work was taken up and the reports of superintendents in the order of the day. Now and then the convention was interrupted by the unexpected. Mrs. Spencer of California presented Mrs. Stevens a beautiful gavel bound in gold and silver and made from the wood of one of California's great trees, which was growing in the time of Moses, according to the estimation of science.

In the afternoon the program was often interrupted by a delegate rising to make some one a life member of the National W. C. T. U. The North Dakota W. C. T. U. sent $25 by Mrs. Elizabeth Preston Anderson, the president, to make Judge Pollock of Fargo, the Neal Dow of North Dakota, a life member. Miss Foster gave $25 to make her mother, the wife of Bishop Foster, a memorial member. Miss Anna Gordon made her beloved father, Rev. James Gordon, a memorial member. Miss Cornelia Dow made her mother a memorial member by giving $25.

Monday evening the superintendents of departments gave a magnificent demonstration of the "do everything" policy of the W. C. T. U., pointing many a moral and showing the people just what we are doing.

The election of officers resulted in the re-election of all the officers by almost a unanimous choice. Mrs. E. M. N. Stevens was honored with great bunches of flowers from the women of Maine, until she was almost snowed under by the white blossoms. Lady Somerset made a neat military congratulatory address, presenting her with English violets, and nominating Anna A. Gordon as vice president, which was confirmed unanimously by the convention.

The weather is delightful and the delegates are in the best of spirits. The Board of Trade has sent souvenirs to all delegates and the Portland people say the convention of the National W. C. T. U. is the most wonderful of all the many conventions held in this convention city. They say we have filled the street cars fuller and brought more money to the city than any other.

We suppose we are not revealing any trade secrets when we say that many medicines are made up on the principle of the so-called "shot-gun prescriptions" which were formerly somewhat in vogue. The idea of the shot-gun prescriptions was to put into a medicine a large number of different drugs, each useful for different purposes, in the hope that some of them might hit the case.

The most successful physicians we know use a more direct method. The medicine we sell over our own name and guarantee does the same. This medicine is called Vinol. It is the best thing we know for a run-down condition, for nerve troubles, for lung troubles, for weak women, pale children and old people—in fact, it is a safe, pleasant, reliable tonic and reconstructer.

It is not a scattering "shot-gun prescription," but it goes straight to the mark, and has cured so many people right here in town that it gives us confidence to sell it on an absolute guarantee, as follows: If you use a bottle and it does not help you, we'll give you your money back without a word of complaint.

We could not afford to guarantee it so boldly if we had not seen it succeed in ninety-eight out of every one hundred cases.

A "COMPOSER" EXPLODED

Trials of a Musical Man on the Witness Stand—Victor Herbert's Libel Suit.

New York Sun Special Service

New York, Oct. 24.—Music composers, music critics and other great men of melody had a field day at the trial of Victor Herbert's libel suit against the Musical Courier company before Justice Traux of the supreme court and a jury. The well-known composer, who is the leader of the Pittsburgh Symphony orchestra, wants $50,000 from the Musical Courier company for publishing an article to the effect that he orbited the themes of his operas and did not have any originality anyway. Yesterday was taken up with the testimony for the defendant, and when court adjourned only three witnesses had been heard. That was because one was a music critic and two were composers. It took each a long time to give his artistic history before he gave any testimony, and the language of each was so phrased that the entire movement was very anticlimactic.

In opening the defense A. H. Hummel in most impressive language told the court and jury that he would show "as an incontrovertible fact that, consciously or unconsciously, Victor Herbert plagiarized." Mark A. Blumenberg, editor of the Musical Courier and the person who wrote the alleged libel, was the first witness, and Platon Brouhoff the second.

August Vlasov, the composer, was the last witness of the day. He said that at the request of Mr. Blumenberg he had taken three of Herbert's operas home, played them over and found that the composer had cribbed from Offenbach and others. That ended the direct examination.

"Did I understand you to say that you once opened the Grand opera-house?" "No, sir." "But, I said so grand opera; but only so strings, never so brass." (After the explosion)—"I now show you one of Mr. Herbert's operas, and I ask you if you can find a line on any page that is not original. If so, where is it, and who first wrote it?"

"On page 1210, a bar that is Offenbach's."

"Can you find more than that one bar anywhere?" (After long scanning)—"Not now; but will you bring in one piano?" (Laughter.)

An adjournment was taken until tomorrow.
