WITH AX AND CLUB

Judge Lewis and Wife, Aged Residents of Almira, Wash., Beaten to Death.

Double Murder Planned and Executed for the Money in Possession of the Judge.

Special to The Journal.

Butte, Mont., Dec. 22.—Advice received here last night from Almira, Wash., tell of the worst tragedy in the west of recent years. Judge W. A. Lewis, a pioneer 75 years old, and his aged wife were murdered in cold blood by unknown robbers, who, after a struggle, beheaded the old man with an ax and then murdered the wife by beating her to death with a club.

The double murder was as coldly planned as it could possibly be and the object was doubtless robbery as the judge was worth $30,000 or $35,000 and was supposed to have money in a safe. The theory that the terrible crime was committed by some visitor who came in the guise of doing business, as the safe was found open and had evidently been unlocked by Mrs. Lewis, as she alone was able to turn the tumblers.

The crime was discovered by O. J. Williams, a tenant of the judge, who found the body yesterday morning. Heaped up in the corral was a little mound covered with snow, but Williams paid no attention to it. Yesterday morning he went to the house on business, but the door was closed all down. Finding a broken pane of glass he pushed the blind up and was horrified to see the body of Judge Lewis lying face down with his head in a ring the floor beheaded with blood.

He rushed to town and gave the alarm and a party went to the ranch. They found all the doors locked and blinds pulled tightly down. Breaking into the place they saw the body of the dead judge, and evidences of a fearful struggle. The table was upset and the rear of the whole place had been ransacked. Even the bed was searched.

The job was evidently planned with the utmost care, for the back door had been barricaded by a table and two chairs piled against it. Lying on the floor was a bloody ax. The judge had been pounded to death with the blunt side of it.

Exactly after completing the search the robbers went out the front door, locked it behind them and disappeared. Before leaving, however, the robbers went to the corral and herded the cows and milked the cows and waylaid her with a club. There was evidence of a fearful struggle, but at last the poor old woman was beaten senseless and her body buried under a heap of hay and snow in the center of the corral. Her body formed the little mound which Williams saw.

Judge Williams was a pioneer of Big Bend and well known. He was formerly probate judge.

TOLD IN A LINE

New York.—Cornelius Vanderbilt is improving.

Chicago.—Mayor "Golden Rule" Jones of Toledo declared in a speech here that war was tender.

Syracuse, N. Y.—A carload of Christmas mail for Chicago and the west was burned near here yesterday.

Mexico City.—There is much alarm on the west coast over the reported appearance of bubonic plague at Mazatlan.

New York.—Dr. Lorch had to stop during an operation and restore a child which was almost dead from an anesthetic improperly administered.

San Francisco.—Work on the Pacific cable is progressing rapidly. With no accidents Hawaii may communicate with the United States on Christmas.

Chicago.—With the aid of a hat pin Stella Mayhew drove off a negro who was trying to steal her snuffbox. The assistant did secure her purse, containing $40.

Chicago.—W. Byron Coakley claims to have discovered that to administer local treatment to the heart is not impossible. He uses a long hollow needle to inject fluids into the organ.

Chicago.—Just as a Russian had decided to annul a divorce recognized in Russia had no force in the United States, that Max Graber had two wives and was therefore bigamist.

Lincoln, Neb.—Reports from the Black Hills division of the Burlington say the storm is over and the blockade is lifted. The fall of snow was heavy, and there will be some suffering by stock.

Chicago.—Turned from the door after an unavailing plea for reconciliation with his wife, Leslie Penney swallowed carbolic acid and fell dead on the spot.

Washington.—The young man who was eating preserved food under the direction of Dr. Wiley had a dinner in which was food containing botulic acid and he died yesterday, but experienced no bad effects yet.

Pittsburg.—An explosion of natural gas in the dwelling house of Mrs. Laura Rickards resulted in the probably fatal burning of E. G. Walters, a telegraph operator of Marietta, Ohio, and serious injuries to E. W. Barrett and Burt Piper.

Louisville, Ky.—The coroner's jury decided that the death of R. C. Whayne was accidental. Much interest was manifested in the case, as Mr. Whayne carried life insurance policies aggregating $300,000 and had applied for $50,000 more.

New York.—In the Tompkins, N. J. hospital is an old woman who was thought to be penniless, but who turns out to be worth $40,000. She is Mary Gallagher, 80 years old. She was taken from an old, dilapidated tenement structure on the outskirts of Fort Litch on which she had made her home for the last eight years.

Glocester, Mass.—It is believed that either a tank steamer with oil or a steam craft loaded with a chest containing inflammable material, was burned in Massachusetts bay, about twenty miles outside of Boston harbor. Life-saving crew made a strong effort to reach her, but a stiff southeast gale drove them back.

Aledo, Ill.—For the defense in the Dunlap murder trial the brother of the defendant testified that his sister had used all of the steel and aluminum her cousin, Margaret Miller said that Miss Pool, the dead woman, had taken the candy allowed to have been poisoned, from the sack offered by Miss Dunlap, and that she (Miss Miller) had also eaten of the candy.

Mexico City.—Socor Ovarrita, director of the Las Vicerayas college, reports the discovery under a flagstone in the chapel of that institution of a chest containing valuable goods. A solid silver image of the Virgin, inlaid with gold and encased with gems, 102 diamonds, 242 emeralds, 25 rubies, 4 jacinths and 1,947 pearls were in the box.

New York.—Rev. George K. Macdonald, formerly pastor of the East Avenue Baptist church, Long Island City, has bought a saloon in the Bronx, has fitted it up elaborately and is doing a large retail business. "In the one week I have been running this saloon," he said, "I have learned more of mankind as it really is than I had previously learned during all my years in the Christiana ministry."

A Double Handful of Chaff

Look at a kernel of coffee as it comes from the roaster and before it is ground. Note that the chaff (to be found in the little groove and on the inside of the coffee berry) is a part of the parchment envelope in which the coffee grows. This envelope has none of the quality that gives coffee its flavor in the cup, but instead, has the unpleasant, bitter taste which, as described by the medical authorities, is the basis for the objections which some people find to coffee drinking.

Apparently this chaff is light in weight and of little consequence, but, when removed from the bean, five pounds of coffee will yield a double handful; and the flavor of the infusion of this chaff when boiled alone closely resembles that of oak leaves. It is certainly reasonable to believe that a piece of tan-bark dropped into the coffee pot would add nothing desirable or pleasant to the flavor of the coffee, so the removal of the chaff clearly makes a corresponding improvement.

Barrington Hall Steel-Cut Coffee

Is a superior blend of coffee with the tannin-bearing chaff and dust removed, so that a pound of "Barrington Hall" is equal in strength and flavor to a pound and a half of the same coffee ground in the ordinary way.

GROCERS SELL IT IN ONE AND TWO-POUND CANISTERS. They are air-tight and the blend improves with the keeping.
