

CITY NEWS

Block Sold—E. J. O'Brien has sold for the Washburn home the two-story brick and stone building at 423 Tenth street S. The purchaser was N. R. Frost of St. Paul and the price $12,000.

Sports at the Y. M. C. A.—The handball contest at the Y. M. C. A. building this morning resulted in favor of R. Hodge and A. Wilcox. The basketball match between the Rams Horns and the central high was won by the Rams Horns. The basketball game between the first and the second teams of the senior league went to the first.

W. H. Grimshaw in Oil—A life-size oil portrait of United States Marshal W. H. Grimshaw was presented to Mrs. Grimshaw yesterday afternoon at the marshal's home, 2616 Park avenue, by Mr. Grimshaw's staff of deputies. When tendering the gift, Deputy Stephen L. Picha of St. Paul expressed the deputies' esteem for the marshal. After an exchange of compliments refreshments were served.

A Close Estimate—Secretary J. A. Ridgway of the park board has established a reputation as a financial prophet, but this year he surprised even himself. Over a year ago in estimating the probable revenue of the park board for the year from taxes he fixed the amount at $101,625. The other day in casting up his accounts he found that the park board had received $108,883 from the taxes, or $68.84 less than the secretary had guessed.

NUMBER 124

M. P. HOBART, 302 Phoenix Block, WESTERN LANDS BOUGHT AND SOLD, W. W. Long Distance, Main 2444-32, Twin City, 711.

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 31, 1902. The Journal Printing Company, City: Gentlemen—I have used the columns of the Minneapolis Journal in advertising my lands very extensively and have found it the best daily advertising medium in the northwest. Sales have been numerous, and oftentimes a 50c ad sells a section of land. I heartily endorse The Journal. Very truly yours, MARCUS P. HOBART.

7th St. S. E. 10 Residences, 18 Journals, 8 E. Tribs. 6th St. S. E. 6 Residences, 21 Journals, 4 E. Tribs.

NECROLOGICAL

ZMERY BROWN, aged 17, son of Dr. R. S. Brown, died at his parents' home, 608 E. Fourteenth street, to-day. Funeral notice later.

AGNES H. ROWE—Funeral services for Agnes H. Rowe will be held from the family residence, 1705 Western avenue, Friday at 2:30 p. m. Friends invited.

A COLLEAGUE'S TRIBUTE

A. T. Ankeny Speaks in Praise of the Late J. C. Norby.

A. T. Ankeny, president of the state normal school board, pays a fine tribute to J. C. Norby, a colleague on the normal board, whose death was announced this morning. Mr. Ankeny says: "The sudden death of J. C. Norby, member of the normal board of the state of Minnesota, fills me with grief. During our connection with the board for the past four years I found Mr. Norby to be a man of high intelligence, clear judgment and devoted to the interests committed to his charge. The state never had a more conscientious or painstaking official. He was a sturdy farmer of the northwest, and at the same time an editor of a weekly paper, and he both worked and wrote understandingly and with discretion. Not one of the members of our board gave promise of a longer life, for he was physically robust and in his prime. Such a man is a loss not only to his immediate friends and community, but to the entire state."

RESISTED VACCINATION

Colored Man Cuts an Officer and Is Knocked Down.

Lewis Neely, colored, is locked up at the central police station charged with disorderly conduct. Officer Peter McLaughlin is nursing a sore head, the result of a scuffle which occurred when Neely was arrested. The officer was stabbed in the wrist with a knife, but his injuries are not serious.

Neely was at a colored club near Second street and Hennepin avenue last night when a health officer called and ordered the boarders to get ready to be vaccinated. Neely refused and drew a knife. Officer McLaughlin and Lieutenant Neely were thereupon called to the club. When they arrived Neely again drew his knife. Officer McLaughlin seized him and was cut. Lieutenant Neely dealt Neely a blow which sent him to the floor and took all the fight out of him.

INJURED BY A RUNAWAY

Horse Dashes Into Crowd Coming From Lyceum Matinee.

Mrs. H. G. Childs, 36 Eleventh street N. was knocked down by a runaway horse near the Lyceum theater yesterday afternoon and seriously injured. Miss Katherine Branham, 112 W. Twenty-ninth street; Mrs. Elmer Kerr, wife of Patrolman Kerr, and Miss Sadie Norton of Stillwater were slightly injured. The horse, owned by the Union Transfer company, attempted to cross the sidewalk near the Lyceum theater just as the crowd was coming from the matinee, and several people were knocked down and the above-named persons were injured. Mrs. Childs was knocked unconscious, and when she recovered it was found that she was severely bruised about the face and body.

California Is the Place to go and the way to go is over the Rock Island railway. Illustrated literature and information at the office, 322 Nicollet avenue.

St. Anthony Institute 603 South 10th St., Minneapolis. Liquor and Drug Habits POSITIVELY CURED. No Hypodermics, No Nauseating Drugs, No Painfuls, No Publicity. Beautiful Home and First Class Attendance. WRITE FOR BOOK.

A GROWING CHURCH

The United Brethren in Christ Who Seek to Establish Church in This City.

It Has a Membership of 250,000, Thirteen Colleges and a Theological Seminary.

The application made to the school board by Rev. Samuel E. Shull on behalf of the United Brethren, who desire to buy the old Pierce school property, was the initial step toward establishing a new denomination in Minneapolis. Mr. Shull will submit the proposition to the board next Monday. If the board's reply is satisfactory, an old school building in Fillmore street, between Spring and Summer streets, on the west side of the city, will be transferred into the first local church of the United Brethren in Christ. These Brethren in Christ are to be distinguished from the Moravian church, which is known simply as the United Brethren. The United Brethren in Christ are an offshoot of the Reformed church of Germany and resemble the Methodists in many respects. In government the Brethren occupy a middle ground between the Methodists and the Congregationalists. There are four bishops elected by their pastors; yet, strictly speaking, the denomination recognizes but one clerical officer. The doctrine of the Brethren is closely related to that of Wesley's followers.

Although no church of the United Brethren now exists in other Minneapolis or St. Paul, the organization is both large and prosperous. It includes no less than 250,000 members. Their chief strongholds are in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Maryland and Virginia, but churches of the Brethren are found in several states west of the Rocky mountains and in all other sections of the country. Even Minnesota had, two years ago, forty-three churches and fifty-one Sunday schools belonging to the United Brethren in Christ.

The founder of this denomination was William Otterbein, a missionary of the German Reformed church, who was sent to Pennsylvania about 1750, under the auspices of the Dutch Reformed church. Otterbein labored long among the Pennsylvania Germans. He did not approve all the tenets of the Reformed church, but he sought, like many founders of new sects, to alter an existing institution rather than to build up a new one. It was after he had taken charge of a church at Frederick, Md., that his influence became most effective, but when he died, in 1812, he was still accounted a son of the Reformed church.

As early as 1800, however, his adherents began to associate themselves in a separate body, formed largely by Pennsylvania Germans. These United Brethren, as they came to be known, were not only Germans with the conservative spirit of their race, but they used the German language in their worship and deliberations. When, some years later, the English language was adopted and other nationalities joined in the faith, the new church began to grow with rapidity. The first enrollment, in 1835, showed a total of 10,000 members. The church now has thirteen colleges and a theological seminary.

Rev. Samuel E. Shull, who is now uniting the local Brethren, came last October from Dayton, Ohio, where he had been graduated by the church seminary. He had also been active in pastoral work at Dayton. In 1888 he completed his studies at Otterbein college, Columbus, Ohio. He and his family are now living at 3333 Pleasant avenue.

CANADIAN WHEAT RULES

A Report That Government Regulations on Grinding in Bond Will Be Modified.

In the past week there has been rumors in circulation that the treasury department was about to modify regulations as to the requirements applying to the grinding of Manitoba wheat on this side of the line, says the Northwestern Miller. They appear to have arisen from a visit made by Charles C. Bovey of the Washburn-Crosby company and Herbert Bradley, traffic manager for the Millers' Federation, to treasury officials of New York city. The treasury regulations as to milling Canadian wheat are no different than those which apply to the wheat of this country. One condition applying to this imported wheat, not generally understood, however, is that it can be blended with home wheat, and by proper accounting and certification, be ground in bond as though it were milled alone. For instance, half Manitoba and half Minnesota wheat could be milled and ground together, and the exportation of one-half the products from the miller getting back the duty he has paid in importing the foreign grain.

BASKET-BALL

Company C basketball team of Hudson will meet the Y. M. C. A. five at the association building to-morrow evening. The Y. M. C. A. team is practically the same as last year's aggregation, which won ten out of twelve games. Hudson is held to have a strong team. The lineup: Y. M. C. A.—Hudson: Best, Sidel, Ryan, Kyles, R. F., Kissel, Captain, Chase, Edwards, L. G., Crogan.

MONEY REPORTS

LONDON, Jan. 1.—Bar silver steady, 22 5/16 per ounce. Money, 5 1/2 per cent. The rate of discount in the open market for both short and three months' bills is 3 1/2 per cent. Gold premiums are quoted at Buenos Aires at 12 1/2-20; Madrid, 35-37; Lisbon, 25. Gold to be amounting to $20,000 was withdrawn from the Bank of England to-day for shipment to South America.

LONDON, Jan. 1.—The Bank of England's rate of discount was unchanged to-day at 4 per cent. Boston, Jan. 1.—Exchanges, $26,516,545; balance, $1,975,209.

Three Women Educators Prominent at the Meetings of the Minnesota Teachers' Association

Professor Maria Sanford, University of Minnesota. Miss K. Maud Clum, St. Paul Grade Teachers' Association. Miss Margaret Evans, Carleton College, Northfield.

MINNESOTA AND MANITOBA CLUBS OPEN PLAYED GESS BY WIRE

The Subject Discussed Before the Minn. Educational Ass'n by Prof. E. E. McDermott.

The Charge of "Unhealthy Rivalry" Answered—"Do-or-Die" Spirit Not Desired.

Minnesota and Manitoba chess players celebrated the new year to-day with a telegraphic chess match, each side having fourteen players. The Western Union company gave the contestants an exclusive wire gratis, the St. Paul and Winnipeg clubs each employing an operator for the day. Play began at 10 o'clock this forenoon. Eight moves a side were played between 10 o'clock and noon, there being no decisive gains for either side at that hour.

The players are grouped in two sections, seven in each section. In section 1 Manitoba had the opening move; in section 2, Minnesota had the move. A. N. Frazer acted as referee and scorekeeper at the Minnesota end for Manitoba. Vice Consul William Hall, American representative at Winnipeg, acted in the same capacity for Minnesota. The names of the players are as follows: Section 1—Manitoba having the opening moves with white pieces, and Minnesota defending with the blacks. Board: Manitoba, Minnesota. No. 1... N. H. Greenway... G. B. Spencer. No. 2... Magnus Smith... P. A. Hill. No. 3... Paul Johnson... C. C. Peterson. No. 4... Fred McDaniel... H. H. Burgess. No. 5... J. M. Cameron... W. J. Tierney. No. 6... M. O. Smith... P. H. Tierney. Section 2—Minnesota playing attack with white pieces and Manitoba defending. Board: Minnesota, Manitoba. No. 1... J. L. Gillett... R. J. Spencer. No. 2... J. W. Elliott... George Benson. No. 3... E. G. Johnson... H. H. Burgess. No. 4... W. L. Caplin... George Adams. No. 5... H. W. Davis... George Patterson. No. 6... H. W. Davis... George Patterson. No. 7... H. W. Davis... George Patterson.

COUNTIES AS CORPORATIONS

Statute Revision Commission Interprets the Laws Affecting Suits by Counties.

Counties must sue and be sued as corporations, instead of suits being brought for and against the county commissioners, if the draft made by the commission in revising the statutes is adopted by the legislature. The commission has decided that under the constitution and laws of the state counties are quasi-municipal corporations, and therefore the county commissioners should be a party to actions. The courts have ruled in the past that it was proper to make the board of county commissioners parties to all county actions.

ROBBED BY A WOMAN

Laborer Stops to Talk With a Woman and Loses a Roll of $12.00.

Andrew Gustafson, a laborer who is staying at a hotel near Twelfth avenue S. and Washington, reported to police headquarters that a colored woman had robbed him of his roll containing $12.00 while the two were standing in a doorway near Third avenue S. and Third street.

SOLDIER GIVES HIMSELF UP

Escaped From Snelling Several Months Ago—Companion in Escape Is Arrested.

James McLain, one of the soldiers who escaped from the guardhouse at Fort Snelling several months ago, gave himself up yesterday and was again returned to the fort. Jim Smith, who escaped at the same time, was arrested at Anoka about two weeks ago and was also returned to the guardhouse at the fort. McLain and Smith were at work lighting the lamps the day they escaped. They were serving two years sentences for desertion.

TAGS AND DOG LICENSES

The Record of the City Clerk's Office for the Year, Which Closed Yesterday.

In the year 1902 there were issued from the office of City Clerk L. A. Lydland 3,171 dog licenses and 24,329 bicycle tags. These figures show a decrease of 1,221 dogs licensed, and about 6,000 of bicycles tagged. In the matter of chattel mortgages filed, and liquor licenses there have been increases. There are now in force 287 saloon licenses as compared with 363 in 1901.

THE CASE OF McNALLY

Was He a "Conspirator" Who Tried to Murder Godfrey Hunter, Jr.?

New York Sun Special Service. Louisville, Ky., Jan. 1.—According to telegrams received here James McNally, United States consul to Guatemala, has arrived in San Francisco and will start at once for Washington to answer charges preferred against him at the state department by the retiring minister, W. Godfrey Hunter.

A Louisville citizen says that the retiring minister has formally charged Consul McNally with being "one of the conspirators to murder Godfrey Hunter, Jr.," and that the consul was given his passports from Guatemala by President Cabrera of the republic of Guatemala.

A Good Road to St. Louis Hot Springs and the South is the Rock Island railway, the Shortest Line. Office, 322 Nicollet avenue.

HIGHSCHOOLDEBATE

The Subject Discussed Before the Minn. Educational Ass'n by Prof. E. E. McDermott.

The Charge of "Unhealthy Rivalry" Answered—"Do-or-Die" Spirit Not Desired.

(Yesterday's late proceedings of Minnesota Educational association on page seven.) The meeting of the high school council of the Minnesota Educational association this morning opened with an address by Professor E. E. McDermott of the University of Minnesota on "High School Debate," of which the following is the syllabus: First—Debate is desirable under proper conditions because: it develops fluency in the use of English; it develops ability to think before an audience; it develops skill to sift material for argument; it develops skill to condense material for argument; it develops skill in original research; it develops self-reliance and courage of conviction; it develops courtesy to opponents; it develops the habit of studying both sides of a question; it acts as a check on cribbing in composition; it develops capacity to accept victory or defeat in the light spirit; it is the best, because the most practical form of vocal rhetorical.

Second—The high schools offer proper conditions for the successful study of debate because: The students are old enough to pursue it profitably; the high school course, although crowded, is not so badly crowded that it can afford to omit so important an exercise.

Third—The interscholastic debate—such as is contemplated by the Minnesota High School Debating League—is preferable to the purely local debate because: It makes the schools better acquainted with each other and brings them into healthy rivalry; by comparing standards it unifies the work throughout the state and tends to bring all the schools up to the same high plane; it can be made to serve as a valuable aid to the discipline of the school; when proper methods are used it is not a dangerous or excessive nervous strain; it does not demand excessive time of the teachers; it does not demand excessive time of the students; it unifies the period of other studies; the winning school is required to enter too many contests to secure state championship; it is difficult but not impossible to secure competent and unbiased judges and fair decisions.

enough to pursue it profitably; the high school course, although crowded, is not so badly crowded that it can afford to omit so important an exercise.

Third—The interscholastic debate—such as is contemplated by the Minnesota High School Debating League—is preferable to the purely local debate because: It makes the schools better acquainted with each other and brings them into healthy rivalry; by comparing standards it unifies the work throughout the state and tends to bring all the schools up to the same high plane; it can be made to serve as a valuable aid to the discipline of the school; when proper methods are used it is not a dangerous or excessive nervous strain; it does not demand excessive time of the teachers; it does not demand excessive time of the students; it unifies the period of other studies; the winning school is required to enter too many contests to secure state championship; it is difficult but not impossible to secure competent and unbiased judges and fair decisions.

PROFESSOR E. E. McDERMOTT

Who Led To-day's Discussion of Scholastic Debates.

enough to pursue it profitably; the high school course, although crowded, is not so badly crowded that it can afford to omit so important an exercise.

Third—The interscholastic debate—such as is contemplated by the Minnesota High School Debating League—is preferable to the purely local debate because: It makes the schools better acquainted with each other and brings them into healthy rivalry; by comparing standards it unifies the work throughout the state and tends to bring all the schools up to the same high plane; it can be made to serve as a valuable aid to the discipline of the school; when proper methods are used it is not a dangerous or excessive nervous strain; it does not demand excessive time of the teachers; it does not demand excessive time of the students; it unifies the period of other studies; the winning school is required to enter too many contests to secure state championship; it is difficult but not impossible to secure competent and unbiased judges and fair decisions.

enough to pursue it profitably; the high school course, although crowded, is not so badly crowded that it can afford to omit so important an exercise.

Third—The interscholastic debate—such as is contemplated by the Minnesota High School Debating League—is preferable to the purely local debate because: It makes the schools better acquainted with each other and brings them into healthy rivalry; by comparing standards it unifies the work throughout the state and tends to bring all the schools up to the same high plane; it can be made to serve as a valuable aid to the discipline of the school; when proper methods are used it is not a dangerous or excessive nervous strain; it does not demand excessive time of the teachers; it does not demand excessive time of the students; it unifies the period of other studies; the winning school is required to enter too many contests to secure state championship; it is difficult but not impossible to secure competent and unbiased judges and fair decisions.

DAVID STARR JORDAN

President of Leland Stanford University and Distinguished Speaker Before the State Teachers.

the expense of the contests does not stand in the way of the success of the state league; the small school stands a fair show with the large one.

Unhealthy Rivalry. In answer to the argument that the rivalry brought about by the league is at least occasionally unhealthy, Mr. McDermott answered that such experience was an inevitable incident of beginning that could and doubtless would wear away in the high schools, as it is doing in the universities. He continued:

One of the most serious menaces to the life and usefulness of the league is the attitude assumed towards it by some superintendents and as a result by their schools. It is the victory-or-death attitude. "Enter the league if you have a winning team; stay out if you have not. It is unbounded honor if you win, overwhelming disgrace if you lose." Under this impression the whole school will become keyed up to an unhealthy pitch and when defeat comes, as it is almost sure to come soon or late, down go the hopes and ambitions of the whole school with a heavy thud. This attitude is not a healthy one; it is a law of the physical world equal.

"Viewing the work of last year kindly but critically this mistake was made a few cases. It seems to the writer that those who assumed this attitude have entirely misconceived the purpose of the state league. Its purpose is not to determine the period of disciplinary study on a special occasion, not to concentrate the whole nervous force of the school upon one grand event once a year. This has been stated so often within the past year that it would seem unnecessary to repeat it. Spasmodic effort accomplishes but little in any line. It is the systematic, steady work that counts. But it is hoped, the scholarly attitude is one of admiration.

"The interscholastic contest brings school work, not debate alone, but all school work, into public notice and it is believed that publicity is as good for schools as it is for trusts. "By comparing standards the interscholastic debates unify the work throughout the state and tend to bring all the schools up to the same high plane. It is probably true that the schools which are most anxious to enter the league are least in need of its assistance. They already have good practical courses in English and it is little or no extra work for them to get ready to enter the league. It is hoped that their good work will stimulate the schools that are giving little or no attention to English of a practical kind."

The Paper Discussed. The paper was discussed by O. T. Denny of the St. Paul high school, Superintendent E. E. Ulline, Manitoba, and Superintendent F. L. Bauer, Le Sueur. The other papers of the morning were by Superintendent J. A. Van Dyke, Fergus Falls, on the question "Should the course of secondary education be extended to include the work of the last two years of the college?" and by Superintendent W. E. Stewart, Bemidji, on "Educational Value of School Influences."

TALKED OF SEGREGATION New Idea in College Education Causes Interesting Discussion.

With the annual meeting half over, the enrollment of the Minnesota Educational Association has reached but a little over 1,000, and will not be greatly increased. This is a marked falling off from last year, chiefly among the twin city teachers, most of whom have only a spasmodic interest in the association. Of the actual, permanent working strength of the association there has been no loss, nor of real pedagogical interest.

In spite of the shrunken enrollment the attendance of the several of the section meetings this morning was unusually large, and the audience gave flattering attention to the papers and discussion. Interest centered this morning in the discussion before the college section of "Separate Education for Men and Women During the Freshman and Sophomore Years."

SECOND WEEK

The Subject Discussed Before the Minn. Educational Ass'n by Prof. E. E. McDermott.

The Charge of "Unhealthy Rivalry" Answered—"Do-or-Die" Spirit Not Desired.

(Yesterday's late proceedings of Minnesota Educational association on page seven.) The meeting of the high school council of the Minnesota Educational association this morning opened with an address by Professor E. E. McDermott of the University of Minnesota on "High School Debate," of which the following is the syllabus: First—Debate is desirable under proper conditions because: it develops fluency in the use of English; it develops ability to think before an audience; it develops skill to sift material for argument; it develops skill to condense material for argument; it develops skill in original research; it develops self-reliance and courage of conviction; it develops courtesy to opponents; it develops the habit of studying both sides of a question; it acts as a check on cribbing in composition; it develops capacity to accept victory or defeat in the light spirit; it is the best, because the most practical form of vocal rhetorical.

Second—The high schools offer proper conditions for the successful study of debate because: The students are old enough to pursue it profitably; the high school course, although crowded, is not so badly crowded that it can afford to omit so important an exercise.

Third—The interscholastic debate—such as is contemplated by the Minnesota High School Debating League—is preferable to the purely local debate because: It makes the schools better acquainted with each other and brings them into healthy rivalry; by comparing standards it unifies the work throughout the state and tends to bring all the schools up to the same high plane; it can be made to serve as a valuable aid to the discipline of the school; when proper methods are used it is not a dangerous or excessive nervous strain; it does not demand excessive time of the teachers; it does not demand excessive time of the students; it unifies the period of other studies; the winning school is required to enter too many contests to secure state championship; it is difficult but not impossible to secure competent and unbiased judges and fair decisions.

enough to pursue it profitably; the high school course, although crowded, is not so badly crowded that it can afford to omit so important an exercise.

Third—The interscholastic debate—such as is contemplated by the Minnesota High School Debating League—is preferable to the purely local debate because: It makes the schools better acquainted with each other and brings them into healthy rivalry; by comparing standards it unifies the work throughout the state and tends to bring all the schools up to the same high plane; it can be made to serve as a valuable aid to the discipline of the school; when proper methods are used it is not a dangerous or excessive nervous strain; it does not demand excessive time of the teachers; it does not demand excessive time of the students; it unifies the period of other studies; the winning school is required to enter too many contests to secure state championship; it is difficult but not impossible to secure competent and unbiased judges and fair decisions.

PROFESSOR E. E. McDERMOTT

Who Led To-day's Discussion of Scholastic Debates.

enough to pursue it profitably; the high school course, although crowded, is not so badly crowded that it can afford to omit so important an exercise.

Third—The interscholastic debate—such as is contemplated by the Minnesota High School Debating League—is preferable to the purely local debate because: It makes the schools better acquainted with each other and brings them into healthy rivalry; by comparing standards it unifies the work throughout the state and tends to bring all the schools up to the same high plane; it can be made to serve as a valuable aid to the discipline of the school; when proper methods are used it is not a dangerous or excessive nervous strain; it does not demand excessive time of the teachers; it does not demand excessive time of the students; it unifies the period of other studies; the winning school is required to enter too many contests to secure state championship; it is difficult but not impossible to secure competent and unbiased judges and fair decisions.

enough to pursue it profitably; the high school course, although crowded, is not so badly crowded that it can afford to omit so important an exercise.

Third—The interscholastic debate—such as is contemplated by the Minnesota High School Debating League—is preferable to the purely local debate because: It makes the schools better acquainted with each other and brings them into healthy rivalry; by comparing standards it unifies the work throughout the state and tends to bring all the schools up to the same high plane; it can be made to serve as a valuable aid to the discipline of the school; when proper methods are used it is not a dangerous or excessive nervous strain; it does not demand excessive time of the teachers; it does not demand excessive time of the students; it unifies the period of other studies; the winning school is required to enter too many contests to secure state championship; it is difficult but not impossible to secure competent and unbiased judges and fair decisions.

DAVID STARR JORDAN

President of Leland Stanford University and Distinguished Speaker Before the State Teachers.

the expense of the contests does not stand in the way of the success of the state league; the small school stands a fair show with the large one.

Unhealthy Rivalry. In answer to the argument that the rivalry brought about by the league is at least occasionally unhealthy, Mr. McDermott answered that such experience was an inevitable incident of beginning that could and doubtless would wear away in the high schools, as it is doing in the universities. He continued:

One of the most serious menaces to the life and usefulness of the league is the attitude assumed towards it by some superintendents and as a result by their schools. It is the victory-or-death attitude. "Enter the league if you have a winning team; stay out if you have not. It is unbounded honor if you win, overwhelming disgrace if you lose." Under this impression the whole school will become keyed up to an unhealthy pitch and when defeat comes, as it is almost sure to come soon or late, down go the hopes and ambitions of the whole school with a heavy thud. This attitude is not a healthy one; it is a law of the physical world equal.

"Viewing the work of last year kindly but critically this mistake was made a few cases. It seems to the writer that those who assumed this attitude have entirely misconceived the purpose of the state league. Its purpose is not to determine the period of disciplinary study on a special occasion, not to concentrate the whole nervous force of the school upon one grand event once a year. This has been stated so often within the past year that it would seem unnecessary to repeat it. Spasmodic effort accomplishes but little in any line. It is the systematic, steady work that counts. But it is hoped, the scholarly attitude is one of admiration.

"The interscholastic contest brings school work, not debate alone, but all school work, into public notice and it is believed that publicity is as good for schools as it is for trusts. "By comparing standards the interscholastic debates unify the work throughout the state and tend to bring all the schools up to the same high plane. It is probably true that the schools which are most anxious to enter the league are least in need of its assistance. They already have good practical courses in English and it is little or no extra work for them to get ready to enter the league. It is hoped that their good work will stimulate the schools that are giving little or no attention to English of a practical kind."

The Paper Discussed. The paper was discussed by O. T. Denny of the St. Paul high school, Superintendent E. E. Ulline, Manitoba, and Superintendent F. L. Bauer, Le Sueur. The other papers of the morning were by Superintendent J. A. Van Dyke, Fergus Falls, on the question "Should the course of secondary education be extended to include the work of the last two years of the college?" and by Superintendent W. E. Stewart, Bemidji, on "Educational Value of School Influences."

TALKED OF SEGREGATION New Idea in College Education Causes Interesting Discussion.

With the annual meeting half over, the enrollment of the Minnesota Educational Association has reached but a little over 1,000, and will not be greatly increased. This is a marked falling off from last year, chiefly among the twin city teachers, most of whom have only a spasmodic interest in the association. Of the actual, permanent working strength of the association there has been no loss, nor of real pedagogical interest.

In spite of the shrunken enrollment the attendance of the several of the section meetings this morning was unusually large, and the audience gave flattering attention to the papers and discussion. Interest centered this morning in the discussion before the college section of "Separate Education for Men and Women During the Freshman and Sophomore Years."

SEVENTH ANNUAL CLEARANCE SALE.

The Subject Discussed Before the Minn. Educational Ass'n by Prof. E. E. McDermott.

The Charge of "Unhealthy Rivalry" Answered—"Do-or-Die" Spirit Not Desired.

(Yesterday's late proceedings of Minnesota Educational association on page seven.) The meeting of the high school council of the Minnesota Educational association this morning opened with an address by Professor E. E. McDermott of the University of Minnesota on "High School Debate," of which the following is the syllabus: First—Debate is desirable under proper conditions because: it develops fluency in the use of English; it develops ability to think before an audience; it develops skill to sift material for argument; it develops skill to condense material for argument; it develops skill in original research; it develops self-reliance and courage of conviction; it develops courtesy to opponents; it develops the habit of studying both sides of a question; it acts as a check on cribbing in composition; it develops capacity to accept victory or defeat in the light spirit; it is the best, because the most practical form of vocal rhetorical.

Second—The high schools offer proper conditions for the successful study of debate because: The students are old enough to pursue it profitably; the high school course, although crowded, is not so badly crowded that it can afford to omit so important an exercise.

Third—The interscholastic debate—such as is contemplated by the Minnesota High School Debating League—is preferable to the purely local debate because: It makes the schools better acquainted with each other and brings them into healthy rivalry; by comparing standards it unifies the work throughout the state and tends to bring all the schools up to the same high plane; it can be made to serve as a valuable aid to the discipline of the school; when proper methods are used it is not a dangerous or excessive nervous strain; it does not demand excessive time of the teachers; it does not demand excessive time of the students; it unifies the period of other studies; the winning school is required to enter too many contests to secure state championship; it is difficult but not impossible to secure competent and unbiased judges and fair decisions.

enough to pursue it profitably; the high school course, although crowded, is not so badly crowded that it can afford to omit so important an exercise.

Third—The interscholastic debate—such as is contemplated by the Minnesota High School Debating League—is preferable to the purely local debate because: It makes the schools better acquainted with each other and brings them into healthy rivalry; by comparing standards it unifies the work throughout the state and tends to bring all the schools up to the same high plane; it can be made to serve as a valuable aid to the discipline of the school; when proper methods are used it is not a dangerous or excessive nervous strain; it does not demand excessive time of the teachers; it does not demand excessive time of the students; it unifies the period of other studies; the winning school is required to enter too many contests to secure state championship; it is difficult but not impossible to secure competent and unbiased judges and fair decisions.

PROFESSOR E. E. McDERMOTT

Who Led To-day's Discussion of Scholastic Debates.