NORMALS WIN OUT

Legislature Agrees Upon Buildings for Madison, Spearfish and Springfield Schools.

Bill for Last Named Was Defeated Twice, but Lieut. Gov. Snow Saved It.

Special to The Journal.

Pierre, S. D., March 4.—After an angry fight led in opposition to such action by Representative Longstaff, chairman of the appropriations committee, the house reversed its action of Monday and passed the special appropriations for the Madison, Spearfish and Springfield normal schools.

For the late, former Springfield is indebted almost wholly to the personal popularity of Lieutenant Governor Snow. The bill was defeated twice, but reconsidered and passed finally by the action of the Lincoln county delegation, which came to its support, giving it exactly the required two-thirds.

Both house spent the greater portion of the session in considering and passing the "specials" and in the passage of their own bills to-day, being the last day in which either house can pass its own bills. Both house will consider the general appropriation bills to-day.

Senator Niell made an ineffectual attempt last night to bring up the sale of the Siasoon camp grounds, which was defeated on Monday. It cannot be revived.

Senator Royhl made a splendid fight for his bill to prohibit the sale of liquor by pharmacists in local option counties and passed it.

All of the "specials" have now passed both house, though there are some concurrences yet to be made. The business is well in hand with every prospect that both calendars will be cleared up by Friday, though there will be some delay in waiting for the enrolling of bills which may require a late session.

North Dakota editors have been having the time of their lives at Long Beach on the Pacific. The trip was taken from Los Angeles through the courtesy of the Pacific Electric railway, and the Dakotans were met by the Long Beach brass band and a reception committee of citizens, led by the Long Beach Board of Trade. A Los Angeles Herald artist caught several of the editors in characteristic poses and tells this good one on Ed Smith: "One of the sights of the trip was Jolly Ed Smith, editor of the Devils Lake Free Press, standing on the edge of the water with a big clam in each hand asking for instructions on how to make a clam live out of water, and whether it would bite. No one being able to answer his questions, he nudged his bivouac back to Los Angeles and rushed up to Frank Wiggins immediately on his returns, asking to be instructed on the habits of the clam. Frank Wiggins knows about most things from the frogless belt to why irrigation is superior to a dependence on feeding storms, but he had urgent business in another part of the building when the clam question was passed to him. Mr. Smith was asked how it happened he was defeated recently when he ran for county auditor. As he pushed his 42-degree-below cap down over his head a little farther, he remarked with a grin that he guessed he didn't get all the votes he sought.

"E. M. Crary of the Edmore Herald of Edmore is the wit of the party and makes the most telling remarks when there is any danger of their becoming dull.

"Frank A. Willson of Bathgate is the only democrat in the party, but says he rather enjoys the novelty, as he is in good company. Mr. Willson is editor of the Pink Paper. This paper, says Mr. Willson, is the only one in the country besides the Police Gazette that is published on pink paper. I started it just for a novelty, but it took so well that I kept it up. This climate is so warm that Mr. Willson forgets that he will ever again need an overcoat and he insists on leaving it behind him. Some member of the party is usually seen bringing up the rear with Willson's coat. He nearly lost it yesterday, but acknowledged that he had lost a charter boy once in Francisco of which he was real proud.

WISCONSIN

HE HAD SEVEN WIVES

The Extraordinary Case of Thomas House, Indian, in a Wisconsin Circuit Court.

Heirs Present Claims to Land, One Coming All the Way from Canada.

Special to The Journal. Appleton, Wis., March 4.—A peculiar case of mixed martial relations among the Indians of the Oneida Indian reservation in the counties of Brown and Outagamie, has been aired in the circuit court of Brown county, Green Bay, the past week, and is adjourned to March 12 for further hearing.

Thomas House, an Oneida Indian owning a large tract of land on the reservation allotted to him by the government, died recently, and children of six Indian women other than his legal wife, with whom he had lived at different times, are trying to establish claims as his legitimate heirs and to secure a share of his estate.

It has been established that House was lawfully married in 1834, on the Oneida reservation in New York, to an Indian woman. She lived with him about two years and then went to live with Abram Skenadore, removing with the latter to the Wisconsin reservation. She had a lawful husband. In the meantime House lived with six different Indian women and had children by each of them. The rightful Mrs. House continued to live with Abraham Skenadore forty years and bore him seven children. Upon his death she returned to her rightful husband, Thomas House, then temporarily without a helpmate, and lived with him two years before her death.

About a year ago Thomas House died, and the history of some of the persons claiming him as their son, Aaron House, is set forth in the evidence. Margaret Mohawk, who came all the way from Canada to present her claim, is a daughter of Margaret Lottridge, the second woman who lived with Thomas House as his wife after his desertion by his lawful wife. Aaron House attempts to show that Thomas House, by a paper now lost, recognized him as his son. Aaron House is the son of Hannah Swamp, the fifth of the seven women who called House husband, and the only one of the seven now surviving.

Thomas House Ninham is attempting to establish the fact that he was adopted by Thomas House according to an ancient custom among the Oneidas, and that his mother, who was a daughter of Kate Moten, third on the list of women who lived with Thomas House, was recognized by the latter as his daughter. A peculiar feature of the matter is that Henry House, son of Kate Baird who was the fourth woman who lived with House, and who started the whole investigation by taking the matter up with the Indian Bureau of the interior department, is not represented in the present action before the Brown county circuit court, and makes no claim to heirship. Other claimants of the estate are children of brothers and sisters of House, and they assert that all the children born at the home of Thomas House during the six- or six years he lived with six different women in New York and Wisconsin, other than his original lawful wife, are illegitimate, and the property should go to them, the children of House's brothers and sisters and his only legal heirs.

HUDSON, WIS.—The town of Hudson has brought suit against the Messer-Simmons Hudson company to collect nearly forty-three electors. There are but 155 electors in the town of Commonwealth. Mr. Braun related that in order to go to Cook, he must travel over thirty-five miles of road that are bad in the best seasons and execrable in the worst seasons; roads well nigh impassable in the spring time when there is much snow on the ground. He and occasionally two or three of his neighbors made the journey to the polls at election time. They started the day before and got back the day after. He had resided in the community for fourteen years and except himself and two or three others, the rest of the electors never went near the polls. There is objection to the division of the town. Some of the residents of the northeast corner say that the town of Fence is seeking to take all of the "cream" of the town to itself.

MONTANA

THANKED THE JURY

Mott of Missoula Will Be Hanged for Killing His Wife in Cold Blood.

He Declares He Would Rather Be Executed Than Serve Even Ten Years.

Special to The Journal. Missoula, Mont., March 4.—L. H. Mott must hang for the killing of his wife, the jury late yesterday afternoon returning a verdict of murder in the first degree, after having deliberated twenty-four hours. Mott never betrayed the slightest emotion as his fate was being announced, though later he thanked the jurymen as follows: "I thank you, gentlemen, for your verdict and believe that you have returned a verdict which you thought just, when taken into consideration with the law and evidence, and I assure you that I hold no personal animosity in my heart against any of you."

Mott is rather expected such a verdict, and had told a deputy that he would much prefer to be hanged than to serve even ten years in the state penitentiary, and that the past two weeks in the courtroom had been the hardest work he had ever had in his life. He will be sentenced to death to-morrow.

Mott killed his wife on Jan. 4, last, firing four shots from a revolver, the body and one into her arm. The murder was practically cold blooded.

Mott took their two little children away from their mother, telling them of a job I had to do, and when Mott had placed the children beyond the range of the bullets he returned and emptied his revolver at the woman. He had been on a protracted spree at a local saloon, because his wife had disposed of their laundry. His defense was that of insanity.

Armed Charles Payne Robs a Gambling Den and Attacks Officers.

BUTTE, MONT.—The most sensational and novel hold-up known in the west was perpetrated when Charles Payne, an armless man, entered the California Club and with a 44-caliber revolver held between the toes of his right foot compelled a far dealer, Richards, to return him $5 which he had lost during the night.

It was cheerfully restored to him, and he happily returned to the dealer, who the dealer covered with his gun. The robbery was not reported to the police until after Payne had been arrested for taking a shot at another man in a boarding-house later in the day.

He resisted arrest, and tried to cut the officers with a razor which he held between his toes. He was overpowered, disarmed and his right foot compelled a far dealer, Richards, to return him $5 which he had lost during the night.

TABLE TALK OVER THE COFFEE.

The talk that evening began with the fact of the "vegetarian" and their beliefs. It soon developed that the beautiful Miss Schuyler thought herself a "Vegetarian." "But," said Dr. Smith, "what do you eat?" "All kinds of vegetables and fruit," said she, "then I drink milk, have eggs for breakfast, besides at other meals I eat butter, pudding, cheese and cake, and tell every one they ought to do as I do, I feel so much better."

The doctor looked astonished. "And you call that vegetarian? My dear young woman don't you know that butter, eggs and milk are animal foods? Then, too, it is a mistake to urge others to follow you. What is good for you may not be good for others. The Eskimo of the Arctic regions couldn't support life on a vegetable diet. Some animal food is necessary to keep heat in his body. On the other hand, besides the individual peculiarities and the climate, the conditions under which each person lives would make it a mistake for you to recommend to everybody to follow your example." "At the same time," continued the doctor, "I have come to the conclusion that fully one-half of the chronic complaints which embitter life are due to stomach disorders which could just as well be avoided." "Now, Dr. Smith," interrupted Miss Schuyler, "I know you're going to tell us all just what to do, and I'm delighted to be troubled by you and we have dyspepsia or what not, we are all to march in line, one after the other, into your office and have our stomach pumped out. Do thank you, I tried that when I had dyspepsia, heart palpitations, and dizzy spells, so bad I thought I'd go mad, and then when I struck the pump treatment I thought I'd go madder! But fortunately just about that time I saw something in the paper which made me stop and think. I said, if hundreds of others can be cured by such simple treatment as taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery three times a day, I think I'll try. I did try, and in two months I was sound and well again—without those horrid stomach pumps, and then best of all, I wrote to Dr. R. V. Pierce, at Buffalo, N. Y., and asked his advice in my case, and he told me how to cure myself; how to exercise, diet, etc., and that didn't cost me a cent. Then I bought his book, the 'Common Sense Medical Adviser,' and now I know just exactly how to live to be a hundred in the shade."

"I can't dispute your statement for it is undoubtedly true," said the doctor. "I have seen many cases in my practice of dyspepsia and other diseases of the stomach cured by that 'Discovery' of Dr. Pierce. It seems to assist in the digestion and assimilation of the food in the stomach and not one punishment at imprisonment for life.—Mrs. Lena M. Little, well to do, educated and member of a prominent family, was accused of the murder of her husband.

"Words cannot express what I suffered for three years from the effects of a torpid liver," writes Jas. E. Hawkins, Esq., President Order of Golden Circle, No. 41, of American, Box 107, St. Louis, Mo. "I had been told of your 'Golden Medical Discovery' sooner what misery I might have been spared. I was bilious, tongue was coated, appetite poor, and I had constant distressing pains in the side and under shoulder-blades, but within a week after I commenced Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery there was a marked change for the better, so I kept on using it, three times a day, for over a month, with an occasional dose of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets to regulate the bowels, and the result was more than I could wish. My appetite is splendid—I feel ten years younger, and an entirely free from pain of any kind. I am so glad to hear that you are certainly all that its name implies, and I fully endorse it."

Mrs. Alice Eversly, of Creedville, Ohio, says: "Some time ago I wrote you in regard my case, asking your advice, also what I needed in the medicine line. The advice came promptly and after following your directions, I am now free from all the distressing symptoms of my old troubles, and feel I am entirely cured. I had liver complaint and indigestion of the bowels. Took eight bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, also three vials of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. Your remedies have proven very satisfactory in my case, and I am delighted to be my old self once more. I thank you for your good and valuable advice, which was so promptly given. My husband is taking the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and also feels that it is doing him good. One thing we are very positive of, is that it will give a wholesome appetite when all else fails."
