AMES TO BE THERE

Court Has Ordered Him to Appear at Habeas Corpus Hearing To-morrow.

Trip From Hancock to Manchester Will Be Necessary in Order to Comply.

More than ordinary interest centers in Manchester, N. H., because of what may be the result of a hearing to-morrow. Outcome of proceedings there depends the return of former Mayor A. A. Ames to Minneapolis. If the superior court holds that the grand juror cannot be brought back, the question will be settled for a time at least. If, on the other hand, the court holds in favor of the Minnesota authorities, Sheriff J. W. Drager will start west with his charge at the earliest possible moment.

By order of the court Dr. Ames must appear at the hearing to-morrow. To do this he must leave his quiet retreat in Hancock and Journey to Manchester, the county seat. It is understood that he will do this and if he does it will be argued that he is able to make the trip to Minneapolis.

There is a feeling in the sheriff's office here that the New Hampshire court will permit Sheriff Drager to bring the former mayor back to Minneapolis. In a recent letter to William Baxter of this city, the doctor takes occasion to say that he has written a report to the effect that he has said County Attorney F. H. Boardman wired him to stay at Louisville as long as he wished and that the Boardman would send for him when he wanted him. In the letter Ames states that while he is personally satisfied that Boardman has a kindly feeling for him, he has never said that the Boardman would wire him anything to that effect.

GRAIN CO. INVOLVED

Karrick, Williams & Gray of Chicago Transfers Open Trades to Peavey Company.

Henry Karrick Says Local Company Will Continue With Business as Usual.

The Henry Karrick company, a prominent house in the Minneapolis grain trade, is involved in financial difficulties that came to light this morning, when the Chicago end of the company transferred its open trades to the H. Peavey company. The Chicago firm was unable to stand against heavy calls for margins caused by the recent severe declines in wheat. For the interests of all concerned, it put all the open accounts over to the Peavey company that customers might be protected.

Karrick, Williams & Gray of Chicago were carrying over to 2,000,000 bushels of wheat. Inability to obtain more money promptly, and a heavy call for margins, precipitated the trouble. The first intimation that there was anything wrong came on 'change here in the form of a private telegram to the effect that the Chicago Board of Trade firm of Williams & Gray was transferring open trades to another firm. This at once started inquiry regarding the Henry Karrick company of Minneapolis, as there is close connection between the two. Prompt assurance was forthcoming here that there would be no loss, and that no customer doing business with the Minneapolis house need have any fear of loss.

The Chicago firm did a large business in grain, and was often mentioned as a prominent buyer or seller of grain activity in the grain markets. Henry Karrick is well known to the grain trade of the northwest, having been vice president of the National Association of Grain Dealers of this city. About two years ago the firm was dissolved, and the Chicago firm organized with Henry Karrick, H. S. Williams, A. R. Gardner, R. J. Healy, J. L. Winters, and C. S. Gray as incorporators. Messrs. Williams and Gray manage the Chicago house.

Henry Karrick, head of the firm, was seen at the Chamber of Commerce building. "The embarrassment," Mr. Karrick said, "is on the part of the firm of Karrick, Williams & Gray of Chicago, and while it affects me personally as a member of that firm, it will not affect the local company of which I am the head. The Henry Karrick company was not a part of this business. We were confronted with a sudden and unexpected call for margins which we were unable to meet at the time, and we threw our trades to the Peavey people to protect our customers and prevent the selling out of our accounts."

A WIFE SWINDLER

The Charge Made by Two Women Against F. H. Sauer, Now in Chicago.

Mrs. Huld Kern, 267 Thomas street, St. Paul, thinks that F. H. Sauer, who is now serving a sentence in Chicago for attempting to defraud a widow out of $15,000, promised her marriage to her husband, who swindled her out of $3,200 last spring. "The police are investigating pictures of Sauer here have been sent for."

Mrs. Kern met the man in St. Paul and the two were married after a short acquaintance. Her husband then induced her to sell her property and turn the money over to him upon pretext that they would make a trip to Germany. As soon as he gained possession of the money he disappeared.

Mrs. A. J. Anderson of Buffalo, N. Y., has identified Sauer as C. J. Anderson, who, after marrying her, swindled her out of $5,000.

PRIZES FOR LAWNS

The Commercial Club Makes Up Its Schedule for the Summer.

Prizes Offered for Best Kept Yards in Each of Five Districts.

Action was taken to-day by the public affairs committee of the Commercial Club which will inaugurate the annual contests of prett and attractive yards this summer. It is expected that the friendly strife in different neighborhoods toward producing the most attractive lawn will be even more general than last year. The success of the prize offers made by the club last year in stimulating improvement along the entire city and in getting the club to renew its offer for the season of 1903, on a little different basis from last year, however.

For the purpose the city is divided into these five districts: First District—First, second and ninth wards. Second District—Third and tenth wards. Third District—Fourth and fifth wards. Fourth District—Sixth, seventh and eighth wards. Fifth District—Seventh, eighth and thirteenth wards.

In each of these districts the club offers the following prizes: For the most attractive yard, $10; for the second most attractive yard, $5. This makes a total of $75 for this class of prizes.

It was recognized last year that giving a prize for the most attractive yard did not encourage the improvement of unattractive yards, and the club was organized at a disadvantage in competing with yards already well improved. In order to encourage the improvement of yards the club offers a first prize of $100 to each district for the premises showing the greatest improvement during the season and a prize of $5 for the premises showing the greatest improvement during the season.

In addition to the above, Northrup, King & Co. offer to supplement the prizes given by the club by each prize of $10 for the premises which the judges may decide are the most attractive in the city and a cash prize of $15 for the premises upon which the judges may decide there has been the greatest improvement during the season.

The Commercial Club also offers a prize in the shape of a picture to the school which the judges may decide to be the most attractive grounds and another picture to the school upon whose grounds the judges may determine there has been the greatest improvement during the season. The prizes to individuals are limited to those whose income does not exceed $1,200 a year.

The Minneapolis Improvement Association will be asked to name the judges for the contest. Persons desiring to compete for the prizes for the most attractive yard must send their name and the location of the premises to the Commercial Club before Aug. 1, and persons desiring to enter in competition for the prize of $100 for the greatest improvement must send their names and the location of the premises to the Commercial Club before April 10. In order that the judges may be able to place the best of the improvements are begun.

The public affairs committee will also act on the report of the improvement committee which has given so much consideration to the disposition of the former city hall property, by suggesting to the city council that the site be retained until the ultimate treatment to be determined later.

FEDERAL COURT CLOSED

Nearly All Defendants in Criminal Cases Expedite Business by Pleading Guilty.

After a brief term in which nearly every prisoner has expedited business by pleading guilty, the United States district court closed to-day at the federal building. The next term will begin in September. A various civil cases and the criminal case against the Devore Diamond company, charged with conducting a lottery, were continued.

Harry Stevens of Zumbro Falls changed his plea to guilty and was sentenced to spend the year at the state reformatory. He had secured a false affidavit in a case where a solder claimed additional home-stead rights. John Swidney, who pleaded guilty yesterday to a similar offense, was committed to the county jail for four months. He has already served 18 months.

The case against the East of Duluth was called. He was indicted with his partner for publishing in the Nye Nordmanden of this city the immoderate "Letter to Esther." The partner was fined $25 last week. Foss connection with the case was technical.

CRUSHED BY TRAIN

Salvatori Vainisi, an Italian, Killed on Great Northern Road.

Salvatori Vainisi, an Italian, supposed to have resided in Duluth, was killed by a Great Northern passenger train at the Lyndale crossing this morning. His body was mangled almost beyond recognition. The body was made by papers found upon his person. Vainisi was walking along the track when the coast train was pulling in. For some reason he stepped onto the tracks and the train struck him. Several wheels passed over his body. Coroner Williams ordered the remains removed to the county morgue.

THE CANNON FALLS IDEA

It Meets With Favor—Meeting Will Be Held in St. Paul March 18.

Co-operation with the plan of the Cannon Falls Commercial Club for the formation of a state organization of municipalities is so extensive that the club has decided to ask the representatives of the municipalities to gather in St. Paul, March 18. The meeting will be held at the merchants' hotel, beginning at 11 a. m. It is expected that a state municipal league will then be formed. Officers of cities, towns and business men's organizations have been asked to attend.

WHERE THEY'RE AT

The Question That Is Disturbing the Minds of "Chris" Norbeck's Bondsmen.

The Matter of a Compromise Is Heard Before Judge Harrison.

Richard J. Hill and Brande Sodini, who are on Christopher C. Norbeck's $5,000 bond, are still wondering how they are going to get off. A showing by both the state and the bondsmen this morning before Judge Harrison was taken under advisement.

"Chris" Norbeck bond has not been reinstated and it will not be," said Judge Harrison this morning. "It has been forfeited and legally belongs to the state. It is not possible, however, it may be deemed just to allow the bondsmen to effect a compromise, and by paying an amount fixed by the court, to cover certain expenses incurred, to free themselves from further liability."

"The question is not so much what shall be done in this particular case as what shall be the stand taken by this court and the best public policy in regard to defaulted bonds. The idea is becoming too prevalent that to go on a bond is a small matter and that there are many chances of escaping the liability even if the defaulted person take flight and the state is caused endless trouble and expense. The growth of this idea should, in my opinion, be checked. When a man under bond jumps his bond, bondsmen are responsible and they should be made to understand that legally there is no redress. This Norbeck case is a serious one on this account and it will not be decided until the court has decided upon the two bondsmen are allowed to compromise, a sum will be fixed by the court and they will be notified that if said sum is not paid by a certain date their petition for settlement will be denied. If they are held liable for the whole bond, of course, the reward paid by them and their expenses in recapturing the prisoner will be deducted."

The cost of the Norbeck matter as figured by the state is as follows: Sheriff's fees subpoenaing witnesses and jurors $75.40. Jurors' fees $174.00. State's expenses for services of attorney $100.00. Clerk's fees $10.00. Marshal's fees $25.00. Total $384.40.

Henry S. Meade, attorney for Brande Sodini, this morning objected to allowing his bill of expense because it contained the expenditures incurred before Norbeck's capture, but he admitted, however, that his objections were not well taken.

AN AFFLICTED PRISONER

Frank Peterson Released Temporarily Because He Has Appendicitis.

Afflicted with appendicitis in a chronic form and said to be near death's door, Frank Peterson, accused of forgery and for some time an inmate of the county jail, was released by Judge Harrison this morning. Peterson's attorney asked that his client be released, enabling him to return to his home, but the court would not consent to release him on his own recognizance. Dr. Kistler says Peterson's condition is grave and that he should submit to an operation at once.

MONAHAN IS ACQUITTED

Jurors Think Another Might Have Taken Michael J. Monahan's Place.

Michael J. Monahan, accused of embezzling $1,200 from the Northern Pacific Express company, has been acquitted. The case was given to the jury yesterday afternoon and last evening. The verdict of not guilty was returned. The principal line of defense was that the system of the express office was imperfect and that Monahan was misled by the clerks. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty to the defendant.

Criminal Calendar Finished

Owing to the fact that in the past week of four the calendar of the district court judges have been trying criminal cases, the calendar in this department is now cleaned up. Yesterday the last case to be tried this term was the case of John J. Miller, charged with selling counterfeit money. The trial will be attended to until April 1.

He Stole from Coopers.

Marshall Olson, charged with grand larceny from the Coopers' Machine Operators' union, and on trial for several days before Judge Simpson, was found guilty by the jury last night.

THE BRIQUETTE WORKS

Machinery for the Washburn among at Bismarck Is Being Purchased.

Berlin, March 10.—William de La Barre, director of the Washburn-Pillsbury mills, Minneapolis, is in Magdeburg buying machinery for the new briquette works at Washburn, intended to build at Bismarck, N. D.

Briquettes, which are fuel made from lignite, are widely used in Germany. It is estimated that 50,000 square miles of lignite underlie the Dakotas and Montana, while another wide belt extends through the Gulf states, from Florida to Texas. The geological conditions are such that the American cities would solve the smokeless fuel question by the use of briquettes. President Francis of the St. Louis exposition took with him several sample briquettes from Dakota lignite sent to the German works by Senator Washburn.

WHERE'S THE COD?

An Important and Terrifying Question to Starving Norwegian Fishermen.

The Seals Seem to Have Driven the Food Fish Away—Government Takes Action.

Correspondence of The Journal. Christiania, Norway, Feb. 25.—The news that America is so willing to aid the famine-stricken people of northern Sweden and Finland, and also the needy ones among the fishermen of northern Norway, the Lofoten islands and Finnmark, has been commended upon local papers of late. The special endeavors of Minnesota seem to get due credit. That the existing conditions, both in the northern part of Sweden and in Finland, are such that fair average for a needed badly, too, beyond doubt. As to the northern part of Norway, no definite report or appeal has been made so far. Last year's crop was a failure in these regions, and so for this year, the well-known annual codfisheries, which generally commence a little after New Year and last till the middle of April, have brought nothing. There is no doubt whatever that if for the next month and a half this, the main resource for the people of those districts, should prove a failure, actual suffering for the necessities of life will prevail. The codfisheries of the Lofoten islands are world-known, and the catch in good seasons is as high as 30,000,000 cod, and 20,000,000 is considered a fair average for a needed badly, too, so far, the catch has been nothing. The reason for the absence of the fish this year has as yet not been officially agreed upon.

Enemies of the Cod.

There are two animals of the sea that play a most important part in the fisherman's life. The whale is his friend, as that big fellow chases the fish toward land, while the seal is his foe, and known as the "whale's enemy." The seal is a native of the Northland and has long been working for the passage of a bill protecting the whale, while the owners of whaling vessels are fighting against the seal. Such a bill, who will be the winner remains to be seen.

Usually every year in May, when the great armies of seals, of seal come down from the Arctic ocean towards the northern coast of Norway. This year, however, things seem to be reversed. The seal has put in an appearance early in January and is making the fishermen of the coast of Norway, known in Norwegian as "Russekobben," is in reality what is otherwise known as the Greenland seal. Greenland seal is about 4 1/2 feet long. This creature has this year come to the coast of Nordland in extraordinarily large numbers. The government has taken the matter in hand by appropriating prize money for their destruction, and an official fighting fund. Loans have also been made to the fishermen by the state, enabling them to buy nets for catching the seal, and every seal caught brings 10 kroner ($270).

Another reason for the disappearance of the cod put forth is the remedy of the "fish" in the Gulf Stream, so that the cold currents of the Arctic come too far south, and thereby make the Lofoten banks too chilly for spawning grounds for the fish.

Bugge on Scandinavian Unity.

Of other late happenings in Norway, one that has stirred up a great deal of talk as well as discussion in the press of Scandinavia, is the matter of the speech delivered by Professor Sophus Bugge, on Feb. 7 in Studentersamfund (The Students' Club). Professor Bugge is now 70 years old, and has devoted most of his time to the study of the Scandinavian languages and the ancient history of these countries, and he is considered the highest authority on these subjects. He is an unassuming gentleman of the highest character, and his speech was full of interest and value.

In his speech Professor Bugge said in part: "Dear Norway, as I therefore ask you to unite with us, and to create unity. Has not now the hour arrived when the name 'Norden' is able to warm and fill young hearts in the three Scandinavian countries? It should be no political work, and I wish we could gather men from the different political parties to form a union but to create unity. This speech has laid down a program for a work so great, that only a faint guess can at present be made at its importance."

On the 23d inst. a notable Norwegian learning was called away when Professor Gustav Strom died at the age of 57. Strom was a native of the city of Trondheim, and the average man his "Snorre Stralinson Sagas of the Kings" is well known. He was also an authority on Lef Erickson's and Columbus' discoveries in America. He also made the North American Indians a subject for his researches and delivered a series of interesting lectures on their ethnology. The Norwegian people, and the Norwegian university, especially, sustained a great loss by his death.
