Sanitary Inspector J. H. Crosby's horse was instantly killed yesterday by stepping on a live wire at Park avenue and Twenty-seventh street. The wire had fallen during the early morning storm.

The postoffice at Richfield, Hennepin county, has been consolidated with the Minneapolis postoffice, but a substitution will be established at Richfield for selling money orders and registered mail.

Flames forced Chris Goehring and family of six women to make a hasty exit from the three-story frame dwelling at Nicollet avenue and First street at an early hour this morning. Mr. Goehring was nearly overcome by the smoke. The building, which was badly damaged, is one of the landmarks of Minneapolis, having been erected more than thirty years ago at Sixth avenue S. and Second street by John I. Black.

Six small boys were arraigned and convicted of burglary in the municipal court yesterday morning. The boys were taken into custody by a police building and recovered a large collection of marbles, which the teachers had confiscated the day before, and 43 cents which the teacher had left in the desk. Light sentences were imposed upon the boys and one was held pending further investigation. The boys are Harry Sorenson, Carson Hendrickson, Turner Tension, Normal Paul, Melvin Merrill and Jesse Hall.

HOSPITAL AT THE 'U'

Prominent Members of Medical Profession in Favor of Such a Plan.

It Would Supply Clinical Facilities for the Students of the Medical Colleges.

Prominent members of the medical profession through the state are agitating the question of establishing a state hospital in connection with the University of Minnesota. This college is coming to be one of the leading medical institutions of the country, and the need of better clinical facilities is strongly felt. Harvard, Pennsylvania, and John Hopkins have large and well-equipped hospitals for their exclusive use and members of the Minnesota faculty see no reason why the students of this state should not have the same opportunities.

It has always been the aim of the college to graduate a few better students and although the keeping of a large hospital would involve considerable expense, it would give the doctors of the state a higher standing in the profession generally.

It is probable, however, that the project will not gain recognition at the hands of the legislature until the year 1905, when the medical school has asked the legislature for a new dispensary with detention beds. This could at least be used as a substitute for the hospital in the way of keeping the rare cases for the clinics, and would be of great benefit to the city's poor.

The state board of health and the medical school have jointly asked the legislature to erect and equip a new building for the advance work in Pathology and Bacteriology. The building is to cost $100,000 and the equipment $25,000. This request they claim is the most important of all as the state board has not only been successful in stamping out many of the most contagious diseases, but has also devoted a large amount of work to investigating contagious diseases among horses and cattle. The building in the last three years, saved the state over a half million dollars by checking the run of one epidemic common among cattle herds of the northwest. The building to be erected will be situated on the university campus. One-third of it will be devoted to the use of the state board and the remainder to laboratories of the medical college.

LOCAL REAL ESTATE MEN

SEE GREAT THINGS AHEAD

Tenth Annual Banquet of Real Estate Board Last Evening Significant for Its Marked Spirit of Optimism—Speakers From Various Departments of Trade With One Voice Declare Minneapolis' Outlook to Be of the Very Best.

Optimism was marked at the tenth annual banquet of the Minneapolis Real Estate Board, held at the Metropolitan Club last evening. The invitations and presentation cards were elaborately engraved. The menu cards and the dinner savored of the prosperity of the city and the optimism of the members of the board. The addresses were full of optimism. The speeches were made entirely by laymen. Not a real estate man made a speech, but the members of the board, who were present with enthusiastic applause the sentiments and telling points made by the speakers.

The optimism manifested was of a serious sort, too, except where the lightness of the badinage between W. H. Eustis and John Lind, table neighbors, for not a speaker told a story or illustrated facetiously at any point until the last of the list. Rev. Dr. L. H. Hallock, was reached. Dr. Hallock relieved the seriousness just at the proper time by a combination of happy and earnest searching remarks on "Good Citizenship," showing that the real basis of preceding addresses had been good citizenship. The other speakers were Congregationalist, Episcopalian, and Presbyterian. Mr. H. V. Jones and J. R. Thorpe of Denver, who closed with an informal talk on the Denver situation.

Cause for Slowness.

Lester B. Elwood, president of the board, introduced William Henry Eustis, who was the very soul of hopefulness, as toastmaster. Mr. Eustis told of land conditions in Honolulu, whence he has just returned, and stated that the cause for any slowness in the Minneapolis market as "low rents." Said he: "Until Minneapolis property can be made to return a greater profit than 10 per cent, capital will not be invested in Minneapolis real estate. You agents are afraid to raise the rents and there you are. The, gentlemen, is the whole trouble."

John Lind spoke on "The Country Makes the City." He impressed seriously upon the members of the board the fact that no other city in the land has better potential possibilities as a gateway was strongly emphasized. He stated that the city's possibilities as the gateway to a great country were forcibly told by the speaker. The competition of Duluth as a dangerous rival was suggested.

A Merchant's View.

W. L. Harris on "The Merchant's View of Real Estate," delivered a carefully prepared address which was greeted with long continued applause. He began by thanking the real estate men who had fifteen years ago induced him to locate in Minneapolis and enter upon a successful business. He then proceeded to acknowledge what was made to Frank C. Nickels, who was present. Mr. Harris had condensed views in such a concise form that the speaker's great acknowledgment was made to Frank C. Nickels, who was present. Mr. Harris had condensed views in such a concise form that the speaker's great acknowledgment was made to Frank C. Nickels, who was present.

FOR A QUIET FOURTH

A St. Paul Movement to Do Away With the Firecracker.

Next Fourth of July the small boy of St. Paul will pass the day in silent meditation upon the virtues of George Washington. Because Rev. E. C. Mackintosh, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, St. Paul, has called a meeting and circulated a petition. In that petition, to be signed and returned to Mr. Mitchell, he declares that the Fourth of July annually produces an immense amount of human suffering, sorrow and loss; that thousands are maimed or seriously injured, and that, in addition, vast losses are incurred through fire, and the nerves of the community, especially of all invalids, are unhealthily excited by the explosive phenomena of the day. Hence the petition pledges signers "to cultivate in the community a distaste for the present dangerous and noisy method of celebrating the Fourth and a desire for the substitution of more rational methods; to secure legal means of confining the use of dangerous explosives to one day and to limited areas; to prevent the use of dangerous explosives by incompetent, careless and irresponsible persons." Mr. Mitchell and his associates will not seek to smother firecrackers with ordinances, but to persuade children that ten fingers are better than nine.

MR. TILLMAN'S QUALITIES

Some Accusations Brought Against the Senator and the Answers. Made to Them.

A part of the public interest in Senator Benjamin R. Tillman, of South Carolina, who is to deliver an address at the First Baptist church tomorrow night on the negro question, is due to the conflicting characterizations given to him by his friends and enemies, and to the contrast between his own impressions regarding him and the facts.

Tillman is frequently referred to as a type of southern "white trash." As a matter of fact the Tillmans are one of the oldest and best families in South Carolina. The late President John Tyler, friend of the Civil War, was a member of the family. The senator's father was a congressman in Tennessee and still another a United States minister. Tillman's tutor in the old days before the war was a sister of the late President Chester A. Arthur.

Senator Tillman has been represented as a lawless, backbiting, unscrupulous, enemy-making man. But his fellow senators, despite the bitterness of his speeches, are very fond of him. Tillman was a warm personal friend to the late President McKinley, and the president was on very good terms with the senator.

It is true that Senator Tillman is an intense hater of the negro, and he holds what seems to the north to be a most unreasonable view of the negro question. In fact, it is his speech on this subject that has so largely contributed to his reputation as a fiercely intolerant man. However that may be, the Tillman view is the view of about 15,000,000 white people in the south. Congressman John Lind will introduce Senator Tillman tomorrow night.

DEMAND EQUITABLE RATES

Results of Meeting to Organize State Municipalities League.

P. A. Ewart yesterday charged the board of railroad and warehouse commissioners at the meeting for the organization of a municipalities and commercial league of Minnesota and St. Paul, with winking at rank discriminations. If they were afraid to do their duty, he said, it was time for them to cease asking voters to support them.

J. H. Grass of Fergus Falls complained that his action was paying the pioneer rates of twenty-five years ago in being forced to pay from 20 to 25 per cent of the value of freight to have it shipped.

J. Erbyorsen of Litchfield declared that the rates had been raised at the dictation of Chicago interests which wished to have the bulk of the traffic pass through that city via southern Minnesota. The Great Northern road charged him $2.20 to carry coal from the head of the lakes which related at the head of the lakes for $2.40.

J. G. Armon, mayor of Stillwater, was in favor of striking a concerted body blow against railroad discrimination all over the state. Dramatic measures were demanded; it would not be sufficient to simply make a bluff.

Seventy-five delegates from different parts of the state were present. L. A. Rosling, chairman of Cannon Falls, explained that the association aimed to secure changes in the inequitable freight rates now in effect throughout the state and the development of backward districts.

The association unanimously adopted a resolution demanding a general revision of "excessive, exorbitant, inequitable and unjust" freight rates and tendering the co-operation of all municipalities of the state to the end that the public may be given proper and adequate relief.

Armon was elected president and Joseph A. Eckstein vice president of the association.

THE RED CROSS SOCIETY

Important Move is Backed by Many Local Physicians.

The Minneapolis Red Cross Medical association is incorporated under the laws of Minnesota for the purpose of furnishing medical aid and hospital service to its members. Donations and all surplus funds will be used to assist in paying burial expenses, when needed, and in helping the poor.

Any person in good health may become a member by paying small monthly dues, have the privilege of calling any physician in the city and have prescriptions compounded by any first-class druggist. Doctors and druggists will be paid by the association. This is a local institution, managed and controlled by our own people and all benefits are received here among our citizens.

The Red Cross has done great good elsewhere and with the co-operation of all good people, will accomplish much that is highly commendable in Minneapolis.

The officers that have been appointed are: F. C. Cummings, M. D., president; David W. Knowlton, secretary; Leonard H. Wells, treasurer.

TOO MUCH FOR MAGIC

Minneapolis Boy Slays Manalang, a Bullet-Proof Ladron.

One of the two men who recently inflicted a severe blow upon the ladrones of Luzon by slaying their chief, the noted outlaw Manalang, was Charles Provost, Jr., of Minneapolis, son of Mounted Police Officer Charles Provost. Young Charles went to the Philippines as a member of the Thirtieth Minnesota volunteers.

According to the narrative found in Manila newspapers just received here, Charles Provost and Orman K. Osborn, with several native policemen, started out Jan. 12 to "round up" Manalang. They encountered sixty ladrones. Osborn and Provost were the two bravest of the outlaws for personal attention. Both of the robbers fell, the rest of the outlaws fled. One of the dead men, as was soon ascertained, was Manalang, who was believed to have made himself bullet-proof by magical incantations. But a parting shot from the Philippines killed the American Osborn. Provost escaped unhurt.
