FOUND DYING ON THE STREET.
Wealthy Helena Man Thought to Have Been Assaulted by Young Bloods.

HELENA, MONT.—Evan J. Harris, a wealthy and well-known pioneer, was found in a precarious condition on Main street at 2 o'clock yesterday morning and died at St. John's hospital without regaining consciousness.

By those who attended themselves for selfish reasons to compass the defeat of both measures.

In the case of the reformatory for women, it may be set forth that it was secured by improvement in the administration of justice, may be first considered in a committee which is not burdened with an apparent necessity of widening the cost of justice before arriving at a conclusion as to the duty of supporting justice. Neglect of justice is the vice of public extravagance which often appears in the mask of economy.

HURON, S. D.—A pretty entertainment was given by Miss Irma Flower and her juvenile dancing class. The little ladies and gentlemen—sixty or more in number—looked like little queens and fairies as they tripped over the floor. It was a unique and successful one, and the patient is improving.

WOLSEY, S. D.—The flurry of excitement occasioned by the discovery of a case of smallpox in a restaurant and the quarantine of a dozen or more persons believed to have been exposed to the disease, has materially subsided. The case is not an aggravated one, and the patient is improving.

MINNESOTA POLITICS.

The promise that Dr. Babcock's following in the legislature would form the nucleus of a political machine was not fulfilled. A beginning has been made of a machine organization, but very few members of the last house lent themselves to it. The session was a distinct disappointment to the Heatwole following. They had planned to discredit the state administration by either wiping out or crippling the board of control. The proposition to abolish the board got such a cold reception from their friends in the legislature that they tried the next best thing, the Peachey and Buck bills. They made a winning combination in the senate, but some of the strongest Babcock supporters in the house kicked over the traces. Burns and W. A. Nolan led the opposition to these bills, and the board of control wrecked the rector, with Bob Heatwole before they got thru. His influence alone cost them votes enough to have passed the Buck bill. All this discord made it impossible to get the crowd together in any close corporation, and the session ended with less organization, as far as the members were concerned, than when it began. The speaker lent them his assistance, but it did not count for much. The legislative hold on the house at any time after naming the committees, and the work of two or three of the most important committees was so crude that it was repudiated by the house. She machined plan were frustrated at almost every turn by men who had supported Babcock for speaker, and it was no more of a "Babcock house" than it was a John Smith house, after the first week of the session.

There is no indication as yet of any Heatwole-Dunn combination. There is evidence, however, that the Heatwole organization has been planning to take Dunn up as its standard bearer, and is already figuring on a slate in which he is to be the central figure. The slate is said to be open, also, for some good German republican as a candidate for state treasurer against Julius Block, who is persona non grata to the state makers. It is also rumored that if Dunn does not show any greater evidence of ability than he did during the session, he may be wiped off the slate and left to his own humble devices.

Frank M. Eddy is being boomed as an anti-machine candidate, and sentiment is being worked up for him in the second, seventh and ninth districts. It is believed that Eddy hopes to be the legatee of the Van Sant administration, but the persistent third term talk by administration papers and leaders does not indicate that this will happen. In fact, many are predicting a field of candidates composed of Van Sant, Dunn, Eddy and perhaps a fourth, with the real fight between Van Sant and Dunn.

The Mankato Free Press says: "With the suggestion that Governor Van Sant be given a third term the Rob Dunn followers are throwing a few fits." "The Blue Earth Post observes in reply: 'Not a word of it.' Dunn, the following Brother Reynolds. It is the same with the Heatwole-Davis element and the Babcock gang. If they continue in the course they have mapped out, the voters of Minnesota will love Van Sant for the one who has made. You can't most always down a good man—with a poor one.

The Albert Lea Standard (pop's) comes manfully to the front with the following liberal acknowledgment: "No one should begrudge President Roosevelt and Governor Van Sant the credit that is due them for the result in the merger case. It is immensely to their honor and the Standard gladly joins in awarding it to them."

SLEPT FIFTY-SEVEN DAYS
Bessie Knecht's Trouble Due to Abscess on the Brain.
Salt Lake City, Utah, April 27.—Bessie Knecht woke from her sleep of fifty-seven days yesterday. A part of her treatment has been a cold bath every morning. Yesterday, when about to be immersed, she broke away from her nurse and ran unassisted to her cot. A short time afterward, when her medicine was about to be administered, she spoke for the second time since the beginning of her sleep. She exclaimed: "Don't leave me alone." Then she opened her eyes. "The doctors attribute her trouble to an abscess on the brain. When she went to sleep she weighed 127 pounds. Now she weighs only 76."

DIES TO SAVE HER NAME

Woman Kills Herself to Bring About a Reconciliation Between Husband and Wife.
Bridgeport, Conn., April 27.—Convinced that her death was the only means of reconciling an estranged husband and wife, Miss Jane E. Hawkins killed herself by drinking laudanum. Neighbors found her body in the old homestead at Taston, ten miles from this city, where she lived alone. Beside the body, near her bed, was a vial which had contained the laudanum. She had written a letter explaining that, although innocent of any intended wrong-doing she had been responsible for separating the husband and wife and had decided that in order to prove her innocence she had better kill herself, and to her death bring together her friends. She had not the money, she wrote, to go far away where she would cease to be a barrier to the reunion.

SHE KEPT HER CLOTHES

The Fickle Swain Wanted His Sweetheart to Return the Presents He Gave Her.
New York Sun Special Service.
Chicago, April 27.—Miss Annie Cameron of 4088 Emerald avenue appeared Saturday before Justice Dooley as a defendant in a suit brought against her by a young man to recover a woolen shirt, two collarettes, four ostrich tips and a few other articles which she claims he gave her.

Some weeks ago Miss Cameron answered a matrimonial advertisement in the paper. The meeting between the two was arranged, and the suit is the result. Miller failed to appear in court to-day, so the girl retains the goods in question.

FESTIVAL FOR KING

Paris to Give British Ruler a Characteristic Reception.
Paris, April 27.—Elaborate arrangements are being carried out for the welcome King Edward will receive at the time of the visit of the czar of Russia, and will include a number of events affording opportunity for brilliant spectacular effects. Government architects have a plan for the decoration by day and the illumination of the streets by night. When King Edward arrives at 3 o'clock next Friday, President Loubet, the members of the ministry and the staff of the British embassy will proceed to the Bois de Boulogne to meet him. The station will be hung with red velvet and Gobelin tapestries. The meeting between the president and the king will occur under a silken canopy.

MRS. ANDREWS DEAD

Pioneer of Wells and Mother of C. N. Andrews of Mankato.
Special to The Journal.
Wells, Minn., April 27.—Mrs. Robert Andrews, mother of Mrs. John Burke of this city, C. N. Andrews of Mankato, state democratic candidate for congress, and F. B. Andrews of Waseca, died of heart failure Sunday morning. She was 71 years old and a pioneer. Her funeral will be held on Tuesday. Raymond Parley, 17 months old, fell into a cellar and was drowned.

THE POPE IS WORSE

His Holiness' Condition Alarming in Spite of Favorable Reports.
Rome, April 27.—That the pope's condition is causing great uneasiness; those around him there is no longer doubt, despite the ostentatious vatican reports of his good health. Though no appreciable change had taken place in the pope's condition in ten years, a sudden and alarming alteration has crept over him in the last two months. Leo himself appears wholly and serenely unconscious of his condition. To the prelates of his household he frequently mentions his plans for the future. He is looking forward with perfect confidence to his one hundredth birthday seven years hence.

WOLSEY, S. D.—The flurry of excitement occasioned by the discovery of a case of smallpox in a restaurant and the quarantine of a dozen or more persons believed to have been exposed to the disease, has materially subsided. The case is not an aggravated one, and the patient is improving.

WHAT OTHER PEOPLE THINK

Educational Value of Neglect.
To the Editor of The Journal.

An editorial in the Times of this morning, entitled "Postponed But Not Lost," discusses the failure of the legislature to favorably consider either of the bills which sought to secure the establishment of a reformatory for women, and a separate training school for girls, and correctly sets forth the fact that in the case of the first measure the favorable action of the senate was secured in response to a personal appeal for support by the author of the measure, and without the favor of the senate finance committee to which the bill had been referred. In the house the bill to establish a separate training school for girls, which was passed at the last session of the legislature, and defeated because of legal defects, was killed in the committee room, and was denied a hearing in committee of the whole.

can be reported as a result of the discussion. That the girls' training school will be established in a separate institution of its own, and entirely dissociated from the boys' training school, is as reasonably certain, as that Minnesota will not be content to continue the policy of a joint school for delinquent juveniles of both sexes, against the judgment of every competent authority in the country which condemns the practice.

The task of securing favorable consideration for a reformatory for women is more difficult, and is beset by a jealous sentiment on the part of some communities, that as the larger cities would be the chief beneficiaries in the establishment of such an institution, it should be established in each, if needed, at local expense. There is as yet no evidence that the large cities have any interest in the subject so far as may be discovered from the conduct of their representatives in the legislature, aside from those who acted under a common rule of courtesy to constituents. But if there were such an interest, it does not argue that it is not wise and proper for the state to take into its own hands, and away from local control, the proper effort to reform women, as well as men. Women may not enter a state reformatory, because they rarely commit the felonies which render them eligible to admission, but they are none the less dangerous to the peace of society because of the class of offenses which they do commit, and the attempt to deal properly with them thru the conveniences of jails and workhouses, results in costly and humiliating failure, which is a discredit to any state that permits it. We shall have the reformatory for women because the women of the state will so desire, and when all who favor such an advance in methods as will insure a correct classification of the offending classes, and the best plans of reformatory effort in their behalf, shall unite in harmonious endeavor, the result may not be doubted.

Let the friends of a separate training school for girls, and a state reformatory for women, renew effort to influence public sentiment in such a manner that the next legislature will be more attentive to their appeals. Possibly the legislature itself may consider the propriety of so amending its rules of procedure that the questions of public policy in the administration of justice, may be first considered in a committee which is not burdened with an apparent necessity of widening the cost of justice before arriving at a conclusion as to the duty of supporting justice. Neglect of justice is the vice of public extravagance which often appears in the mask of economy.

DEADWOOD, S. D.—An order has been received for the muster out of Troop A at Deadwood. "For the good of the service." It is understood the troop is abandoned for the reason that it would not pass inspection under the Dick militia law.

150 Heart Beats Per Minute. Weak Heart Complicated With Kidney Trouble.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure Cured Me Permanently.

"Your medicine is worth its weight in gold, and I cannot recommend it too highly for the good it has done me. I was troubled with heart disease complicated with a weak back and kidney complaint for a number of years. Although five of our best doctors waited on me I grew worse instead of better, until at last nothing seemed to do me any good. I had a rapid pulse varying from 100 to 150 beats per minute, a choking and burning sensation in the wind-pipe, and pain in the heart. At the time I began taking Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure I weighed but 130 pounds. After using the remedies six months I weighed 180 pounds and felt well, and strong and hearty. My nerve, heart and kidney troubles are all gone now, and as this cure was performed nearly seven years ago I know that it is permanent."—Edward Knapp, Wilkesville, Ohio.

"For many years I have been a great sufferer from heart disease. I was subject to faint and sinking spells, with a clutching, oppressive or full feeling at the heart, that is difficult to describe. I was unable to attend to my household duties and was thoroughly wretched and miserable. I doctored with some of our best physicians but got no relief until I tried Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Nervine. I experienced benefit from the first few doses and finally was completely cured."—Mrs. J. M. Holloway, Geneva, Ind.
