D. F. MORGAN'S DEAD

The End Came This Afternoon at His Home in Kenwood.

Severe Professional Labors Brought On the Malady Which Proved Fatal.

D. F. Morgan, counsel of the Northwestern Telephone Exchange company, and former state senator, died at his Kenwood home at 2:30 p. m. to-day.

OF REVOLUTIONARY STOCK

His Ancestors Migrated From Wales In Colonial Times.

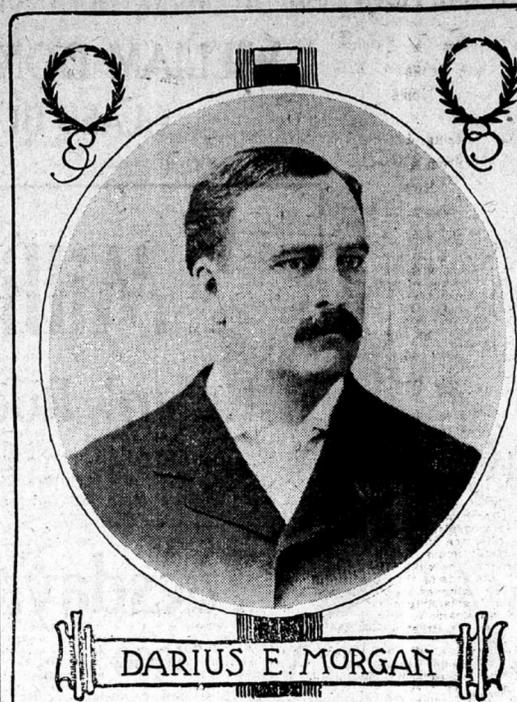

Darius F. Morgan was born in 1854 in Jackson county, Iowa. His paternal ancestors were New England farmers, who, migrating from the Mississippi valley, played a conspicuous part in the revolution.

By 1890 Mr. Morgan removed to Minneapolis, where he formed a partnership in law with W. H. Eustis, which lasted until Mr. Eustis was elected mayor of Minneapolis in November, 1892.

Mr. Morgan was a member of the state senate from 1892 to 1894, and served with distinction as a member of the judicial committee of the senate.

Mr. Morgan early became attached to the republican party. His eloquence made him a power on the stump, and his good judgment and conservatism made him useful in party counsel.

In 1878 Mr. Morgan was married to Miss Elizabeth M. Waukon, Iowa, and a son and two daughters were born of the union.

WILD MAN AT HAHA

Seen Naked in the Woods—Again He Wore Woman's Attire.

Supposed to Be Peter Schotzka Who Disappeared From the Soldiers' Home.

Peaceful Minnehaha park is struggling with a triple mystery. First there is the mysterious disappearance of Peter P. Schotzka, the Soldiers' Home gardener, who is supposed to have committed suicide.

Lastly, there is the mystery of the bearded lady, or, as more likely to be the case, the bearded man in feminine attire, who has been "throwing the scare" into the pupils of the Minnehaha school.

Frightened a Photographer. A. S. Williams, the well known photographer, 21 Central avenue, tells the story of the wild man in feminine attire, who has been "throwing the scare" into the pupils of the Minnehaha school.

The wild man is still at large, but the commandant at the home said this morning that close watch would be kept for him from now on.

School Children Terrorized. The man who is masquerading in an up-to-date version of Minnehaha has been terrorizing the scholars at the Minnehaha school.

Mr. Schotzka may have gone crazy and put on woman's clothes after he lost his own, suggested Mrs. Haas this morning.

Mr. Walker denied the accuracy of statistics presented to demonstrate that capital gets a larger share than labor of the price paid for manufactured articles.
