Pair Fee Under Protest.
 A refusal to pay the jury fee on the part of Freeman P. Lane, attorney for plaintiff in the damage suit of Frederick O. Gross against the Scanlon-Gipson Lumber company, came near causing a deadlock in Judge Simpson's courtroom yesterday. The lawyer claimed that he should not be compelled to pay the fee as the case had been tried once before and dismissed. The clerk refused to swear a witness until the fee was paid, and finally Mr. Lane paid the money under protest.

 The Office Employees association will hold its regular meeting May 22 at 8 p. m. in A. O. U. W. hall. Business of importance will be transacted. All office employees are invited to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Kates, well known spiritualists, are in the city, and will lecture for the Peace society next Sunday at 2:30 p. m. at A. O. U. W. hall, 229 Central avenue.
 The river has fallen eight-tenths of a foot since it reached its last high level Sunday. The dwellers are once more tranquil, altho they sustained some loss from the flooding of outbuildings.

To-night the Journal Newsboys' band will play the third of the New England series of concerts in front of the New England Furniture and Carpet company's Fifth avenue street entrance.
 The baggage agents of the twin cities are said to be about to form a baggage and transfer company like that operated by the Farmine company in Chicago. James A. Ballard, of St. Paul, is slated for head of the company, which will also operate a hack line. Mr. Ballard denies all knowledge of the plan.

The Engineers' club of Minneapolis will commemorate the twentieth anniversary of its organization with a smoke social to be held next Friday evening at 15 Seventh street S. A short talk on "Hawaii and the Deliverer" by William H. Gustafson, Hilliard's colored quartet and orchestra will supply the musical program.

At a meeting last night of the City Salesmen's association at its hall, 320 Nicollet street, the members discussed the program for the annual outing reported that a program is under discussion. The salesmen agreed, on invitation of the June Fair and Carnival company, to take part in the local parade on Friday. Dancing followed the business meeting.

William Cross, residing at 2448 Cedar avenue, and employed as a switchman by the Minneapolis Eastern, was seriously injured at the Milwaukee station yesterday. He alighted from a train and in some way fell beneath the cars. He was dragged several feet and received a painful cut in the head, his shoulder was badly bruised and one hand lacerated. He was taken to the city hospital, but went home later.

Joseph Venna, who was sentenced to five years at Stillwater in 1901 has become repentant and has decided to reform. He wrote Detective Nicolson telling him that he would find a plant of stolen articles. The officer visited the place and found a quantity of silverware and an electric seal jacket. The plant is valued at $100. The whereabouts of the stolen goods of the police department fall to show when or where the property was stolen.

PRETTY SMALL FRY
 Country Shippers Sending Microscopic Fish to Long-Suffering Commission Men.
 Local commission men have been much annoyed recently by country shippers sending fish too small to find a ready sale. The state game and fish law prohibits the sale of fish under six inches in length, but crappies and sunfish must be quite a bit over that limit to be salable.

"We have had no trouble with the game and fish commission," said E. F. Hopkins of Beebe & Hopkins, to-day, "but many of our customers have sent in fish for which we could not find a ready sale. Crappie or sunfish are so small in weight are too small to be worth dressing. Perch, skinned bullheads and some other fish can be used even though they are under that weight."
 "A fish six inches in length, or even a little more, is usually too small to be salable, and it is a waste of money to send these small drappies down here. It is impossible to fix a scale of measurement, but weight, but a fisherman can always tell whether a fish is large enough to scale easily, and he might as well save the trouble of getting such small specimens to market."

1,200 TONS OF MUD
That Amount Is Removed from Basins of the Reservoir.
 The second basin of the reservoir is practically cleaned, and about next Friday will be in use again.
 Supervisor McConnell says that about 800 wagon loads of earth and mud were taken out of the first basin. Much of this was sand, but the greater portion was mud, and river mud is not particularly tempting. Probably an equal amount will be hauled out of the second basin.

In a word, about 1,200 tons of mud or 2,400,000 pounds, the accumulation of only a few months, has been taken away. No words could show more graphically than these figures the value of the reservoir as a settling basin, and if the city never gets a filtration plant the reservoir is still worth all that it cost. But for it the people of Minneapolis would be consuming thousands of pounds of mud annually.

HE COULDN'T SPELL IT
A Foreigner Goes on Record With the Name Chevari.
 The orthography of Polish and Russian names is even more difficult than is their pronunciation as can be testified to by Gust Switzer, deputy clerk of the courts. Yesterday afternoon a Polemer called at the clerk's office to secure his first naturalization papers. He could talk fairly good English but could neither read nor write. When the clerk asked him for his name, he pronounced it in the tripping fashion of the Slavonic races. The clerk understood it thoroly but was puzzled how to spell.

"How do you spell your name?" asked Switzer.
 "I don't know," replied the future American citizen. "I can't read or write, and I don't know how to spell any words."
 After puzzling over the orthography of the name for several minutes and not being able to find the proper way of spelling it, the clerk finally read the name as "Chevari." The Polemer pronounced Metro Chevari.

NO STANDARD KEG

Shove Law for 282 Cubic Inch Gallon Measure Will Not Be Enforced.
 There is very little likelihood that any attempt will be made to enforce the shove law providing a standard gallon measure of 282 cubic inches for the sale of beer and milk. Ralph W. Whitney, the dealer of weights and measures, is ready to begin his crusade at any time, but those higher in authority are restraining him.

Any attempt to enforce the law, it is believed, will stir up more trouble than it is worth. The shove law is a relic of legislation ever attempted in this state. When the matter was first called to the attention of the dairymen, they issued the flat that the price of milk would go up and the increase would be more than sufficient to cover all the expense of supplying themselves with a full set of new measures; cans and bottles. The new price would be 7 cents a quart and the people would hence receive less milk for their money even tho the quarts were larger. The people would be up in arms, argued the dairymen and other vendors of milk. Perhaps they would, but this was a small matter compared to the other impediments that were discovered.

The larger dealers protested court proceedings. When the word was passed by the large milk dealers back to their shippers in Wisconsin the latter raised a decided howl and threatened to invoke the power of the interstate commerce commission. They have been shipping in five and ten-gallon cans and declared emphatically that the state of Minnesota could not come in and interfere with the sale of cans. This was a whole lot more than Mr. Whitney had figured upon and he took counsel with his legal adviser and other vendors and there certainly was a chance to run afoul of the interstate commerce commission if the Wisconsin shippers stood by their position.

Next the matter was brought to the attention of the brewers, which does not only concern the milk brewers, but the big concerns of Milwaukee and St. Louis, and they laughed at the proposition. They announced their intention of taking the matter to the federal courts and even to the United States supreme court before they would make special kegs for the Minnesota trade.

Their point was that the United States gallon, on the basis of which they did business with the United States in the payment of revenue charges, contained but 231 cubic inches and if they attempted to comply with the law by making larger kegs, they would immediately come in conflict with the federal authorities and the state courts.

Threatened with the supreme court of the country and interstate commerce commission and the state courts, and by the milk shippers, the brewers, who are the public at large, the municipal authorities concluded that it would be both inadvisable and unprofitable to attempt to enforce a measure which would result in endless trouble, confusion and litigation. For the present at least there will be nothing done.

KEEP THEM OFF NICOLLET

Public Affairs Committee Wants to Divert Heavy Trucks to Some Other Street.
 The question of heavy teaming on Nicollet avenue was discussed yesterday at the noon meeting of the public affairs committee of the Commercial club. It is probable that the committee will make an appeal to the public spirit of the members of the teamsters' union and that they will also enlist the sympathy of the business houses which employ the heavy teams, in diverting unnecessary hauling from this avenue to some other thoroughfare.

The move is made because of the congestion of Nicollet which could be avoided to some extent if teams and stone, lumber, wood and similar loads not destined for points on Nicollet, would use some other street.
 Nicollet avenue as a retail street is unique. It is said by strangers who come to the city that there is nothing like it in the country. A Detroit business man the other day made the statement that in his travels he had seen nothing like Nicollet avenue for the amount of city business. There was no street like it in Detroit and none in other cities he had visited.

This same circumstance is what has made it so difficult to handle so dirt-caked. Delivery wagons, express wagons, sprinkling carts and the conveyances of customers make the street almost impassable. The difficulty becomes serious when heavy teams haul for long hours outside point make their tortuous way up the street.

It is believed that a simple suggestion will obviate the difficulty and that the remedy will be applied at once. The city has made the first move in this matter and it will be noticed that its garbage wagons and other heavy teams go up Hennepin, First avenue or some other way.

ORATORY AT HAMLIN
The Philomathean Speaker Wins the Inter-Society Contest.
 Irwin B. Wood of the Philomathean society won first prize at the twenty-fourth annual oratorical contest of the literary societies of Hamline university at the university chapel last evening. Second honors went to Howard Mitchell of the Ampholythian society, and William Gillis of the Phi Alpha got third place.

The presiding officials of the contest were: Judges of delivery and thought, Dr. Marlon D. Shutter of the Church of the Redeemer, Minneapolis; Dr. Matt S. Hughes, formerly pastor of Wesley M. E. church, Minneapolis, now of Kansas City, and Principal W. F. Webster of the East Side high school, Minneapolis. Judges on delivery, Wallace G. Nye, Minneapolis; Principal S. A. Farnsworth of the Cleveland high school, St. Paul, and Professor E. E. McDermott of the state university.

The orators and their subjects were: Philomathean society, Irwin B. Wood, Hamline, "A Constitutional Patriot"; Arthur P. Andrews, Bloomer, Wis., "The Genius of America's Critical Period"; Phi Alpha society, William Gillis, Fairmount, "A Nation's Wrong"; Ampholythian society, Robert Crawford, Hamline, "A Nation's Menace"; M. G. Randolph, Valley City, N. D., "The Great Pacification"; Howard Mitchell, Washburn, "The Genius of Reconstruction."
 Music was furnished by the St. Anthony hall orchestra and Miss M. Charlotte Stockhill, vocalist.

NO MONEY TO BURN.
 Ramsey County's Treasurer Firmly Declines to Discharge Bills by County Treasurer Mayor of Ramsey county said yesterday in reply to Health Commissioner Ohage's suggestion that all paper money be disinfected by the heating process that he would take no chances of burning from $200 to $30,000 of the county's money by putting it in an oven. In ordinary flush times it might do, but the county needs the money too badly now to take any chances of its going up in smoke as another means of combating smallpox.

RATES TO THE CARNIVAL

Railroad Men Have a Conference With Managers of the June Event.
 As a result of a conference held yesterday afternoon at the Commercial club, Assistant General Passenger Agent G. H. MacRae of the Omaha will call a meeting of the railroads entering the twin cities in St. Paul Friday morning to consider a reduction of rates for the two-week street carnival to be held in Minneapolis.

It is evident that until yesterday the passenger men did not appreciate the magnitude of the carnival. They were so much impressed by statements made by W. L. Harris, P. D. Booth, M. Rothschild, W. G. Nye, Varney Russell and E. F. Towle that they concluded that the Western Passenger Association rate of a fare and a third within a radius of seventy-five miles granted in March, was not low enough. They were willing to consider the matter. A. B. Cutts, general passenger agent of the St. Louis, asked the association representative to select two days in each week for which they would like low rates. He stated that the roads would not make a continuous low rate, but it was possible that a special low rate might be made for four days during the fair. W. B. Dixon stated the same for the Milwaukee.

W. L. Harris, president of the Retailers' Association, made a strong statement as to what expenses the merchants had agreed to incur and stated frankly that they wanted a one-fare rate within a radius of at least 200 miles. Mr. Rothschild detailed the classes of events which had been arranged for the occasion and he and P. D. Boutell stated that the merchants would not ask the roads to advertise the rates as they would attend to that themselves, and in fact had already given publicity to the carnival in all their advertisements.

IN THE QUEEN'S HONOR
A New March Dedicated to the Fair Unknown.
 An additional honor is offered the queen of the carnival for the June fair and carnival. A march quickstep, composed by John E. Marshall, treasurer of the Northwestern Implement and Wagon company, is to be dedicated to her.

 Mr. Marshall is a brilliant pianist and his composition has a very catchy air with a true military swing.
 A portrait of the queen of the carnival is to adorn the frontispiece, which is to be gotten up in very artistic style. The march will be arranged for bands as well as for a piano and will be played on the night of the coronation and by the bands entering the prize contest, Monday, June 8, as well as upon many other occasions during the carnival.

The count of the votes in the contest at 10 o'clock this morning showed no change of the relative standing of the first three candidates. Miss Michaelson

FRIEND OF LORENZO

John Pray of This City Well Acquainted With Rebel Leader Executed at Panama.
 Helped the Guerrillas to Escape From the Bogota—Presented With His Sword.

Victoriano Lorenzo, the Indian chief, guerrilla and former leader of revolutionary forces in the United States of Colombia, who was executed Friday at Panama, for political offenses, was a warm personal friend of John Pray, of 45 Fourth street S., a member of the crew of the cutter Bogota, manned by Americans, which did valuable service for the Colombian government in 1900.

Mr. Pray was with the Bogota when, in the summer of that year, she landed mines at San Carlos on the Colombian coast and captured Lorenzo and 1,500 of his followers. The capture of the rebel chief broke the backbone of the revolution and the Bogota was credited with having done more to quell the disturbance than any other naval or land force operating against the insurgents.

"During the several weeks that Lorenzo was our prisoner," said Mr. Pray, "I became well acquainted with him, and whatever his faults may have been, I want to bear full witness to his manhood. He was as brave as they make them, and at the same time apparently as considerate of the interests of his subordinates as one could wish. He was in no sense the cruel despot that has been pictured. I would not be surprised to learn that he was the victim of political intrigue and that his death was brought about by men who would have been safer with him out of the way."

"It is a somewhat remarkable fact that General Brieno, commander of the 15th military forces, would not delay the execution until the officials at Bogota could be asked to commute the sentence to life imprisonment."

"The dispatches say that Lorenzo died a brave man. I can well believe that from what I know of the splendid fellow, but I take little stock in his reported explanation that he was an unwilling accomplice to the commission of crimes in the field for which he was ostensibly dispatched."

Mr. Pray is the proud possessor of a valuable set of diamond studs presented him by Lorenzo in token of the friendship which the latter bore him. Lorenzo also presented Mr. Pray with his sword. But this presentation was made under quite different circumstances. Mr. Pray modestly refused to accept it as he who planned the escape of Lorenzo from the Bogota, due to which circumstances the American was also forced to take French leave the day after.

Lorenzo was such a favorite on board ship that Pray had no difficulty in persuading the sentinels not to see anything. When Pray got shore leave for a day, he engaged a native to row a boat to the ship and take the rebel leader aboard. Owing to "the darkness of the night," the prisoner managed to slip away unseen.

The next day Pray was informed that he would have been forfeit had the trick been discovered, walked across the Isthmus to Colon, where, disguised as John Smith, he took the steamer City of Washington to New York.

"I had an affecting leave-taking with Lorenzo," he said. "He told me that he knew where there was plenty of gold in the mountains and that I ever came back he would take me where I could get all I could carry away on a ship."

"Lorenzo was fighting for a principle. It was the old story of unjust taxation with him and his people. His death will cause more trouble down there, for his people will never forgive the men who killed him. I want to see vengeance overtake every one of them."

HIS CASE HELD OVER

Joseph Cohen Will Not Be Tried Until the September Term of Court.
Grand Jury Returns Nine True Bills—Will Finish Work Within a Week.

Joseph Cohen, charged with being one of the graft collectors under the Ames' regime and already credited with two jury discharges, will not be tried this term of court. On the motion of County Attorney F. H. Boardman this morning the Cohen case has been continued over the term and Joe will have no cause for worry until the new ones set up. The continuance is said to be for the purpose of awaiting the supreme court ruling in the Fred Ames case which involves practically the same facts and the same principles of law.

The cases against Irwin A. Gardner are the only ones now on the criminal calendar and these likewise, it is understood, will be continued to the September term. The court calendar is well up and will probably be finished by the first of the coming month.

A. F. KELLEY ACQUITTED
The Jury Agreed After One Hour of Deliberation.
 Austin F. Kelley was yesterday afternoon pronounced not guilty of the crime of embezzlement. The case went to the jury about 4 o'clock and after being out just about one hour, the judges of fact brought in the verdict. There are still two indictments against the defendant and what disposition will be made of them is not yet decided by the county attorney. The indictment on which Kelley was tried and acquitted accused him of appropriating to his own use the sum of $927, which amount came into his possession as agent for N. D. Jensen and through the satisfaction of a mortgage on some Graceville property.

VACCINATION WAIVED
 Anti-Vaccination Agitators Consider They Have Gained a Point in St. Paul.
 St. Paul anti-vaccinationists are congratulating each other on what they believe is a great victory. Superintendent A. J. Smith has sanctioned the admission of a child of 10 to the public schools without a certificate of vaccination. The admission was based on the opinion of Corporation Counsel Michael that under the new law vaccination was not compulsory unless there was an epidemic of smallpox.
 There are about thirty-five cases of smallpox in St. Paul, but no one will admit that there is an epidemic.
