FUN-MAKING BEAUTIES
 Their Program at the Dewey This Week Includes Some Notable Hits.

Some of the specialties furnished at the Dewey theater this week by the Innocent Beauties, are excellent and most a really amusing. The comedians take well and the chorus, while not distinguished by excess of musical talent, is good looking and has been well drilled.

One of the best numbers in the show is the Hiawatha two-step, set to music and sung by the entire company. The features of the evening are the trained donkey, "Wise Mike." This knowing animal, together with the "Burke brothers, keeps the piece going with considerable snap.

Healey and Meeley, in a funny tumbling turn, perform some feats which are both amusing and clever. The Bastedo sisters dance better than they sing. The McCall trio presents a combination of stunts and vaudeville which fills in fifteen minutes very pleasantly. The Prince sisters have a rather ordinary song and dance turn.

The real hit of the olio is the musical number contributed by Busch and De Vere, who invariably get half a dozen recalls. Mr. Busch's work upon the bagle and his violin rendition of the waltz song from "Faust" are especially noteworthy.

ARRIVE IN CHICAGO 8:30 A. M.
 As Usual the North-Western Line Is First in Improving Chicago Service.

The most luxurious train between twin cities and Chicago—the North-Western Limited—continues to leave Minneapolis, 8:00 p. m., St. Paul, 8:30 p. m., but now arrives Chicago 8:30 a. m. This earlier arrival insures connections for the east and south not made by other trains.

In this connection it is also interesting to recall that between the twin cities and Chicago the North-Western line operated the first train having appointments of the present-day Limited, first Pullman sleepers, first compartment cars, first parlor cars, first dining cars, first observation safe cars and the first reclining chair cars. This clearly shows the progress of spirit of this ever-popular and reliable line.

The line also runs more trains and carries more passengers in and out of Minneapolis. This is not talk, but truth. One pill a dose. See advertisement. Small pill. Small dose. Small price.

WHAT WAS PROMISED

Commercial Club Issues Statement as to Pledge of Support to Augsburg Seminary.

It Is in Answer to the Criticism That Promises Were Not Fulfilled.

In view of published reports regarding the failure to secure from Minneapolis residents $10,000 toward the new building fund of Augsburg seminary, in which the statement has been made that the Commercial Club did not fulfill its promise in the matter of raising the fund, a statement of the promises made by the club and of what has been done to carry them out is made by the club. It follows:

The question first came before the Commercial Club in the form of a statement being made that a new building for the seminary was absolutely necessary and that unless assistance in erecting the building could be procured in this city, the trustees would consider proposals for the removal of the seminary to some place where assistance could be obtained. The matter was referred to the committee on municipal affairs and the financial committee, of which A. C. Paul, now president of the club, was chairman. Mr. Paul, at a meeting of the public affairs committee, June 2, 1901, submitted a lengthy report. He stated that the trustees desired to raise $10,000 in Minneapolis toward the new building, feeling confident that they could raise $15,000 from the grounds of inefficiency.

"There is not a word of truth in the report that the girls were discharged because of their attempts to organize a union. They simply could not hold out the work satisfactorily, and that the girls were not discharged their duties intelligently. It is a fact that in order to insure patronage the very best service, which they simply could not hold out the work satisfactorily, and that the girls were not discharged their duties intelligently. It is a fact that in order to insure patronage the very best service, which they simply could not hold out the work satisfactorily, and that the girls were not discharged their duties intelligently.

"Whereas, the public affairs committee of the Commercial Club have examined the statement submitted to the finance committee by Professor Ordahl and the report to the seminary corporation of the president of the board of trustees; and

"Whereas, it appears that the Augsburg seminary needs $10,000 more than the amount it has on hand to build and equip its proposed building in Minneapolis; and

"Whereas, it has been suggested that $10,000 of this amount should be raised among the business men of Minneapolis; and the balance of $15,000 to be raised by the friends of the institution among the members of the Free church.

"Now, therefore, Be it resolved, by said public affairs committee that it will use its best endeavors to raise said sum of $10,000 to be used in the completion and equipment of said building on condition that the Commercial Club shall contribute to the building in Minneapolis to cost not less than $7,000 be carried out, and that the $3,000 now in the hands of the officers of the seminary, or pledged to them, and an additional sum of $1,000 to be raised by the Free church, be also expended in the construction and equipment of said building.

"A copy of this resolution was forwarded to the conference in session at Willmar, which body passed a resolution thanking the club for its tender of assistance and at the meeting of the public affairs committee of the Commercial Club the following motion was adopted:

"That a committee to consist of seven from the club membership and including the president of the Commercial Club, be appointed to assist Augsburg seminary in raising funds for the erection of their building."

"It is apparent from the foregoing that the Commercial Club has endeavored to raise $10,000 or any other sum, nor has it at any time since made any specific pledge further than a pledge of its best efforts to raise the sum of $10,000.

"The committee appointed in accordance with the motion, personally solicited contributions from a number of our citizens and an appeal to a large number of others, and has secured in all about $2,000, which has been turned over to the trustees.

"Upon being informed that members of the conference of the city were under the impression that the club was in duty bound to raise the balance of this fund, another earnest effort was put forth by the committee to raise the sum of $8,000, which was not successful.

"There has been no single word which the public affairs committee has undertaken to do in the matter of raising this fund as it has in trying to raise this money, but from the start the purpose did not appear to our citizens and our personal representatives, and the general public, our solicitations by mail, did not bring any results.

"The committee, however, feels that it has carried out its obligations and put forth its best endeavors to raise the sum of $10,000, and sincerely regrets that our citizens did not respond more generously to this purpose."

ULTIMATUM IS SENT

Twin City Phone Strikers Receive Final Answer From President. E. H. Moulton.

He Approves General Manager's Action and Declines to Treat Further.

Fourteen Minneapolis young women have ceased to work for the Commercial Club. The striking telephone operators, lately employed by the Twin City Telephone company, are apparently out in the cold. President E. H. Moulton, of the Commercial Club, has received a letter from Alice Dunbar, who waited upon him as a representative of the strikers, his ultimatum, in which he breaks off further treaty with their grievance committee, and refuses to "do back" of General Manager E. E. Webster's action in discharging four operators, the incident that led to the strike.

"I held an ex parte investigation of the cause leading up to the strike," said Mr. Moulton, "with the determination of seeing that the girls got what justice was due them. After going into the matter thoroughly I find that they had no valid excuse for striking, and that the girls originally dismissed from the service of the company were released on good and sufficient cause. Mr. Webster was fully justified in severing their connection with the company on the grounds of inefficiency.

"There is not a word of truth in the report that the girls were discharged because of their attempts to organize a union. They simply could not hold out the work satisfactorily, and that the girls were not discharged their duties intelligently. It is a fact that in order to insure patronage the very best service, which they simply could not hold out the work satisfactorily, and that the girls were not discharged their duties intelligently.

"We have been fair in this matter, and have given the strikers a chance to return if they so desired, which they declined except on their own conditions."

TAKES MUSCLE AND NERVE

John Ruel Says Both Are Requisite for Looping the Loop.

John Ruel, the man of iron nerve, who gave Minneapolis the first successful exhibition of looping the loop at the carnival yesterday afternoon, stood by during the "try-out" at Cony Island last winter. He is now in the city, and is looking for a new location for his act.

"It is all in the strength of the forearm, in keeping your head and in hanging onto the wheel," said Mr. Ruel. "I have done it so often and have become so used to it that I can do it without any effort at all of which goes to show that practice makes perfect."

"Fast riding is of great help in training a man for the loop. If you know how to handle a wheel at the fast clip on the level, then you've learned the first thing about making the loop. I have been riding a motor cycle for the last five years and I can do it without any effort at all and that's the secret. Most riders who attempt this act cannot stick to the wheel."

"Ruel is an old side partner of John S. Johnson of this city, former champion bicyclist of the world.

"I was an intimate friend also," said Mr. Ruel, of poor Harry Elkes, who was killed in the circus. He was with him on a motor cycle when he was smashing records and went abroad with him and Jimmie Michaels under the management of E. J. Egan of Minneapolis, the man who brought out Johnson."

PLEASED WITH RESULTS

Memorial Day Committeemen Meet to Close Up Accounts.

Weeks of work and planning on the part of the members of the general G. A. R. committee have resulted in a successful Memorial Day arrangements culminated Saturday in one of the most complete and successful observations of the day ever known in Minneapolis. The committeemen met last night to close up their accounts. The affair had nothing but praise for the support afforded them by all classes of citizens and Chairman Herman Vogt issued the following letter as an indication of his feelings and those of his co-workers:

"The exercises of Memorial Day being over, the Grand Army Memorial Day committee appreciates the general observations of the citizens of Minneapolis. We appreciate the patriotic spirit of our fellow citizens. M. W. Savage, in giving us the use of the Exposition building, and the Minneapolis Street Railway company for the assistance rendered in transporting the United States troops from Fort Snelling. We are thankful also to the Mayor of the city, and to the general public for accepting our invitation and with his command participating in our parade, and to all military, civic and fraternal organizations which so patriotically turned out, marching under the stars and stripes to make the parade a grand success; to those citizens who furnished the carriages for the veterans unable to march; to the ladies of the Leditzger quarter and to the superintendent, teachers and children of the public schools who furnished the flowers for the decoration of the soldiers' graves—to these and to all patriotic citizens who help to make this a Memorial Day in fact, we extend our heartfelt thanks."

"One of the interesting features of last night's session was a report which showed that all of the flowers building, and the Minneapolis Street Railway company for the assistance rendered in transporting the United States troops from Fort Snelling. We are thankful also to the Mayor of the city, and to the general public for accepting our invitation and with his command participating in our parade, and to all military, civic and fraternal organizations which so patriotically turned out, marching under the stars and stripes to make the parade a grand success; to those citizens who furnished the carriages for the veterans unable to march; to the ladies of the Leditzger quarter and to the superintendent, teachers and children of the public schools who furnished the flowers for the decoration of the soldiers' graves—to these and to all patriotic citizens who help to make this a Memorial Day in fact, we extend our heartfelt thanks."

JUST LIKE JAPAN

That "Night in Japan" as Seen at the Minneapolis June Fair and Carnival.

Brilliant Spectacle in a Magnificent Setting—Some of This Feature's Features.

The scenery, processions and dances to be admired upon the large stage at one side of the June carnival grounds are far more elaborate and more than would be expected at an outdoor fair.

This entertainment is called "A Night in Japan." For a distance of half a mile more has been erected a harmonious background—a vista of blue mountains, a village in the valley, a large temple at the center of the village close to the spectators. The temple with its tiled roof, blue cornice and yellow walls, affords a platform on which the villagers assemble for festivities. Men, women and children gather, all in scintillating silks. The Buddhist priests approach in robes comparatively somber; the haughty headed samurai, each with the two swords of his rank; the women with their tilting, whirling parasols, circular palates of tangled colors, and, nodding everywhere and laughing, the mirthsome gelsa girls, so indiscreetly entertaining, woodland fairies of delicate blossom and swaying stem. Little Miss Cherry and tiny Miss-elle Peas-a-blossom.

Before the temple march the priests halting to pound their brows upon the ground before the feet of Buddha. Soldiers parade behind the palates, palm-leaf standards and glowing banners of silk.

Then comes around another of those delightful weddings in June. Mr. and Mrs. Jap upon an open palanquin are borne into the presence of the Buddha. Much "kwo-towing" ensues in deference to the fate-defying couple. Tea is drunk and rice wine, but never a lovely lip is raised. Miss Cherry remarks, in whispered Tokio-ese, "I can't declare, but her kimono is pinned too tight down the back!" and everybody says aloud that she's the prettiest bride of all the season.

The delightful race of the Buddha's egg blue that Little A'Ri may take their place, stand on his sister's head and explain that he's "All right!" Sister and he tumble, and papa and mama and A'Ri jumps upon both parents. The summit of domestic joy is reached when son and daughter play at merry-go-round with the aid of a long board and father's feet while he sits contentedly upon the back of his own neck.

This topsy-turvy introduction prepares one for a banquet of Japanese—eight maidens in long silk gowns, all solid colors like so many Easter eggs; four young ladies, blushing feebly, in pink and semi-classic costume. They dance as a comic opera chorus with grace and precision, painting a dreamy picture beneath the stars.

And now the band begins to draw its breath in happy apprehension, the particular colored Alices rush to different corners of their Wonderland, and the queen floats in upon a single toe. "Tis a toe as pink and smooth as a peach, it's my foot for her majesty is Mademoiselle Rose-Edythe, the sweet and supple premiere of the company. She twirls and whirls, flies and floats, a delightful reminiscence of grand opera. She is a favorite daughter of the ballet, manifestly, who would not put a heel to earth for all the roses in Bulgaria.

A quartet of "erettes" in the white garb, the tall white hats, the peculiar tribe, change the picture to a serio-comic dance. "Mikado" maidens, just from school, dodge in and out among their twinkling fans; Miss Rose-Edythe transforms herself first to Pierrette and then to red-lipped gelsa; the tumblers jump among the kneeling prides; the graces, crying "Yi-yi" for "goodness gracious!" run in with their half untied, to find her steamer trunk; a golden rocket rises above the mountain's flank to tell that dawn is come, when any respectable Japanese village should drink its cup of tea and go to bed.

An intermission follows, lest we forget the band. Red and green lights now illuminate the deserted village at the foot of the mountain, and the crowd hurries away thru the darkness to the cricket-chirping of a popular toy—the characteristic voice of this year's carnival.

ALUMNI MAKE MERRY

Those of Minnesota Normal School and Business College Hold Annual Banquet.

The alumni of the Minnesota Normal School and Business college held their fourth annual banquet at the Nicollet hotel Saturday evening. The affair was a great success from every point of view.
