

WHEAT MAY TURN THE GOVERNMENT REPORT DOWN ALL AROUND

Prices Likely to Be Affected After It Is Received This Afternoon.

Every Expectation That It Will Be Bullish, and Much New Buying.

A Strong and Higher Close in September Wheat—News of the Day.

Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce, July 10.—Wheat was strong, active and rather unsettled this morning, holding above 77c for September and selling to 77½c, yet apparently as much inclined to move one way as the other on any influence. There was no influence here other than that arising from continued unfavorable reports and new buying, this serving to hold the market strong against selling without moving it materially either way. The government report will come along after the close of business to-day. Opinions as to the effect of the report are not worth much. It is a certainty, however, that a bullish report is expected and that much wheat has been bought on this expectation. In last month's report the spring wheat condition was put at 95.3, with an estimated acreage of 17,257,000; winter wheat, 13,000,000; and total, 30,257,000. To what extent this has been lowered, in the opinion of the government, traders will know after 3 p. m. to-day. When the last report came out it was figured to forebode a total wheat yield of 74,000,000 bushels. Later on the Jones estimate was given out, showing 75,000,000 bushels. Some time after this, Jones reduced his estimate of the probable total yield to 72,000,000, this being still tentative, as it was based on the supposition that the northwest would have 200,000,000 bushels, it being then too early for an estimate of northwestern yield. It is now believed that the crop to come down in its figures. Of this there is no doubt. To what extent it will come down is a question, but many look for a government report that will indicate not more than 70,000,000 bushels. That such a report would be very bullish abroad cannot be doubted as many in the foreign trade still have their ideas of supply based on the early reports that the United States was to raise the biggest wheat crop ever, about 82.2, acreage, 30,100,000. ## THE FAMILY HORSE

Its Own View of the Cruelties Which Are Inflicted on It by Man. Martha McCulloch-Williams in June said, "Oh, indeed!" black Molly snuffed, wrinkling her upper lip; "that shows how much you know, or rather, how little, that at that moment, the family horse comes to me. I was only 10 years old last year, but I am stiffer and rustier than my own grandmother. Family horses understand a great deal more than we give them credit for. They are not only intelligent, but they are also very sensitive. They can tell when you are in a bad mood, and they will try to comfort you in their own way. They are also very loyal and devoted to their owners. They will stand by you through thick and thin, and they will never let you down. They are truly the best of friends we can have.

The helmsman is struggling in the cruel waves. Seeing an albatross upon the beach, and knowing that this is a good swimmer, we say to him: "Why do you not plunge in and rescue her?" "Because," he answers, "I am a conventionalist. I must respect the convention of the water and the rescued. Truly, our social fabric needs a change."
