Against the Porte. Paris, Aug. 28.—The assassination the American vice consul at Beirut attracts much attention here, but no in-formation has been received in official or other quarters concerning the details. The last Beirut report received at the foreign office was dated July 7. As Beriut here-tofore has been considered quite outside the range of Turkish disorders French officials say the gravity of the situation de-pends on whether or not the shooting was done by a Turkish soldier which would case similar to the assassinathat made by Russia.

Powers Won't Object.

It is officially stated that if an American squadron goes to Turkish waters the action of the United States will not be regarded by France or the other European powers as having any political significance connection with the eastern situation. It is pointed out that the United States has always refrained from taking part in Balkan complications, the European powers assuming the burden of that question. leading official likened the presence of an American squadron in Turkish wat ers to the demonstration made by the British and German warships in Venezuelan waters, the purpose in each case being to command respect and enforce the collection of demands, not having any connection with the general political con-

Italy has one warship, Austria has one and France lias one in Turkish waters, but in each case large squadrons are held in reserve for action if the situation becomes seri-

OUTRAGES EXPECTED

Murder of American Vice Consul Part of Regular Plan. Boston, Aug. 28 .- Letters have been received here from persons at Monastir, European Turkey, indicating that the assassination of the American vice consul, William C. Magelssen, at Beirut, on Sunday, Aug. 23, just fifteen days after the assassination of the Russian consul, M. stkovski, did not surprise the English Rostkovski, did not surprise the English-speaking people there, as it was consid-ered a part of a well-laid plan of Turkish land owners to bring about a European occupation of Turkish territory.

For a long time it has been understood that the native proprietors, feeling that their investments were insecure under Turkish rule, have been working to secure foreign intervention and of late rumors of a plot involving the assassination of conils have been frequently heard. In fact, reports had become so well grounded that the consuls had considered the advisability of asking their governments for national guards, but had delayed taking definite action to that end.

Investigation into the assassination of M. Rostkovski at Monastir, Aug. 8, has that the Russian consul made any use of cane or revolver on the Turkish guard.

Magelssen comes from a fine old Norwegian family, and his father, Rev. K. Magelssen, has been pastor of a Lutheran flock at Bratsberg for thirty years.

The murdered man, who was 23 years old, leaves, besides his parents, three brothers and two sisters. He always cherished a love for his alma mater, and when he came back to America a few years ago, presented to the college museum a fine collection of oriental curios which he had brought home with him. He was a man who made many friends who never forgot old friends.

London Hears About It.

London, Aug. 28.-The foreign office has received a dispatch from the British con-sul at Belrout notifying the authorities here of the assassination of William C. Magelssen, the United States vice and deputy consul at that place. No details are given and this, coupled with the fact that there have been no developments since the assassination was reported, leads British officials to conclude that no antiforeign uprising has occurred.

The civil service commission was called upon to furnish the necessary number of men who would accept these positions, and twelve or more men were certified for appointment. They were all members of the Typographical Union, and this proved stumbling block to a career in the Philippine service, as they decided that they ere not to be employed as printers, but as instructors to the Filipinos, who would be put to work in the printing office as Before accepting the positions they con sulted with the officials of the union, and were told by the labor leaders that they could not under any circumstances violate the rules of the union, which provide that there shall be but one apprentice to every ten journeymen in an office. As a matte of fact, the scheme of the organization of the Philippine government printing office contemplated the establishment of a huge industrial school and the use of printers as instructors of natives.

Union Rule an Obstacle

This to the applicants was a violation of the rules of the union, and an effor was made to convince officials of the war department that this rule could not be riolated. Not only did the applicants themselves insist upon their rights as union men, but an officer the union named Dougherty also urged upon the war de-partment that only union principles could prevail where union men were employed. Only the firm stand of Colonel Edwards onvinced the printers that they must go to Manila as any other persons employed by the government and without any vesunionism with them. wanted the places, and after another conference it was agreed among them that they would obtain indefinite leave of abfrom the union while they ored to teach the Filipino how to set type and run the typesetting machines, which it was proposed to introduce.

Private advices have now been received here that one of the men, George Lacey, who was made foreman, has either been discharged, or has resigned because of his connection with the Typographical Union. While none of the officials would say that he had heard of Lacey's trouble, the im pression among some of them is that he may have undertaken to organize a union among the native printers.

One of the most wonderful events in the history of medicine is the multitude of remarkable endorsements which Peruna is receiving as a catarrh cure from men and women of national importance. During the past two years a large number of people well known from ocean to ocean, have in glowing words of unstinted praise made Peruna the most famous and justly celebrated catarrh remedy in the world. Men high in our national councils, statesmen known the world over, distinguished officers in the army and navy, physicians, lawyers, preachers, and last but not least, an innumerable company of people in the common walks of life, have all joined to place Peruna on the highest pedestal of honor that any remedy has ever
