He combated the theory of Dr. Koch that tuberculosis could not be communicated to man from cattle.

PHOTOGRAPHING THE WEST
Miss Frances Benjamin Johnston Here for World's Work.

Miss Frances Benjamin Johnston of Washington, D. C., who has achieved quite an enviable reputation as a photographer, is making a tour of the west in the interest of World's Work. She has just completed the work of photographing the steel industry for that magazine, all the way from the steel works at Cleveland to the Minnesota iron mines. She is on her way to the coast and will doubtless find much on which to level her camera. Miss Johnston excels in portraits, a notable instance of her skill being a portrait of a photograph of President McKinley delivered by her last address at Buffalo. The pictures were very successfully reproduced in The Journal. Miss Johnston is accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Anderson D. Johnston.

The statement is made that every billiard ball of ivory has cost a human life. This result comes from elephant hunting, or from the massacre of natives who are in possession of and refuse to give up the precious material, one year's supply of which is said to represent the death of some time or other of 7,500 animals.

TOO MUCH MEDICINE

Miss Hilda Williams Dies, Apparently From an Overdose of Cough Syrup.

Deputy Coroner Irvine Decides that Death Is Due to Narcotic Poisoning.

Miss Hilda Williams, aged 20, was found dead in her bed at 2301 Washington avenue N. early this morning. An empty three-ounce bottle, which had contained cough syrup, was found by her bedside. Death, the coroner says, resulted from narcotic poisoning.

Miss Williams had been suffering from a severe cough and bought a bottle of the medicine did not give her relief when taken by her cousin's wife, with whom she roomed, found the girl dead. Deputy Coroner Irvine after a careful examination decided that death was due to narcotic poisoning, the effect of the cough medicine.

It is thought Miss Williams found that the medicine did not give her relief when taken according to directions and that she slipped it until the bottle was empty. The regular dose for adults is one-half ounce, or one teaspoonful, every three hours. Miss Williams should have taken, according to directions, about three-eighths of an ounce in the time that elapsed before she was found, but instead she took three full ounces.

Dr. Irvine is puzzled to know why the syrup should have caused death. There are only about twelve drops of chloroform in three ounces of the preparation and the other drugs are not thought to have been used in sufficient quantities to cause fatal results. An autopsy will be held.

Miss Williams' parents live at Taylor Falls, but she had been a waitress in Minneapolis two years.

WALTER JONES DAY

It Will Be Celebrated on Thursday by 'The Sleepy King' People.

There will be done Thursday evening in the vicinity of Walter Jones, the popular comedian whose company is now re-creating George V. Hobart's latest musical comedy, "The Sleepy King," in this city.

Sept. 10 is a red letter day in the biography of Mr. Jones. It has only been three years since that particular date had any special significance to this particular comedian. Three years ago Thursday, Walter Jones and his Beatrice Champlin, Chicago, drove to Gethsemane church, this city, with two intimate friends, Theodore Hayes being one of them, and were quietly married.

It was the intention to keep the wedding secret, at least for that day, but some one tipped the story off to "the crowd" and from the time the curtain went up at the Bijou that evening, where Mr. Jones was playing in "The Night of the Fourth," there was trouble.

The newly married comedian waited onto the stage in the first act, pluming himself on his cleverness in fooling his friends, when the orchestra began playing a wedding march. There were chills along his spinal column, his face flushed for momentary glances at a bunch of grinning competitors in the audience, he hesitated, then proceeded with the performance.

There was a gasp from the audience which was "on" by this time, and calls for a speech. Mr. Jones stoutly refused, but after the performance Mr. and Mrs. Jones were congratulated by the congratulations of their friends who crowded about them as they attempted to leave the theater.

The anniversary will be properly celebrated. Just how, no one knows, not even Jones. However, the members of "The Sleepy King" company promise to start things after rehearsal. Mrs. Jones will arrive in the morning from the east.

THIRSTED FOR GORE

John Benadzy Is Fined $5 for Disorderly Conduct.

John Benadzy was in police court this morning, charged with disorderly conduct. He was found guilty and fined $5, with the alternative of five days in the workhouse.

Benadzy was arrested by Patrolman Charles T. Frame of the East Side detail who found him in the street in front of Joseph Kitchmar's residence, 2529 Third street. Benadzy was fighting with three men who had ejected him from the Kitchmar home. One of the men received a mad out in the forehead from an ax.

According to the witnesses, Benadzy had trouble with Kitchmar several months ago. Yesterday Benadzy got an ax and entered the Kitchmar residence, threatening to kill Mary Kutchie, Kitchmar's mother-in-law. Just as he entered the door he was caught by three men, one of whom threw him into the street. He struck at one of them with the ax, but inflicted only a slight injury.

Indianapolis, Ind.—President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, in his Labor Day address, delivered here, challenged President M. P. Parry of the National Manufacturers' association, to a debate on the labor question.

EAST SIDERS OUT

They Convince Mayor Haynes That They Want Main Street Cleaned Up.

Mayor Suggests First Step—Tickets for the Banda Rossa Engagement Sold.

Mayor James C. Haynes attended a mass meeting at the East high school last evening and expressed himself as being convinced that the residents of the East Side wished the main street cleaned up. He said that it was impossible to get rid of it entirely, but they could be put where they would not be so prominent. He was unwilling to use his arbitrary power for such a purpose until assured that public sentiment would support him.

Mr. Haynes announced himself as earnestly in favor of the park proposition and suggested that the block between the International Auditorium, the East high school and the Pillsbury library be secured first. The park block had very little money with which to purchase land, but nevertheless the work of improvement must begin at once. He suggested also that a fund be established, secured with M. W. Savage, so that there would be a guaranty that the park proposed by him would be permanent.

Dr. Cyrus Northrop of the state university presided and made a few remarks advocating the measures in which that section of the city is so greatly interested. A stirring speech was made by the Rev. G. L. Morrill. He stated his belief that the proposed improvements would not only be a good advertisement for the city, as it would beautify a prominent section of the city, but would, in addition, but would enhance the value of the surrounding real estate.

The meeting adopted resolutions urging the administration to close the houses of ill fame on Main street and recommending that the block between the Pillsbury library, the high school and the auditorium be secured first. At the close of the evening the Rev. Mr. Morrill sold Banda Rossa tickets by the wholesale, disposing of over 3,000. Up to last evening over 11,500 tickets had been sold.

The meeting was well attended, there being several hundred leading citizens present to testify to their approval of the proposed park and the crusade against the dives.

Work on the athletic field east of the University, discontinued several weeks ago on account of the strike, was given up this morning and it is expected the work will be ready by Oct. 1. The grand stand has been completely dismantled. About 12,000 are being constructed in the north side, and probably a similar stand will be placed upon the west side. Work is still being done on the track, but this will be completed before the first football game.

Work on Athletic Field.
The registration so far has reached 2,175 and still the rush continues. There was a long line in front of the registrar's office at noon.

MONEY FOR PAVING

City Realizes $310,000 From the Sale of Bonds—Cash Is Available.

Work on Pavements and Sewers will Be Pushed as Rapidly as Possible.

Controlled Joshua Rogers appeared at his office this morning, after his trip to New York to hand over the bonds recently purchased by N. W. Halsey & Co. There were no hitches and there is now on deposit in New York $310,000 to the credit of Minneapolis. City Treasurer Hubert will leave the money there until needed, as it draws a nice rate of interest.

It is now fairly up to City Engineer Andrew Rinker to expend the money before the season closes. The $50,000 for bridges will not be touched, but an effort will be made to complete the sewer and paving work laid out for this year. Material was available, that is, brick for sewers, and concrete for paving, the work could be pushed much faster.

As it is, the department is far from idle. There are nine sewer crews at work. Concrete has been laid on Third avenue as far as Grant street on the way to Franklin avenue, but not a block of creosoted woodwork has been laid. It was due in the middle of July, but the sales did not pan out. When the bonds were sold the blocks were promised on the first of September. It is now about a week coming by Sept. 15. Not only is Third avenue waiting for those strong smelling blocks, but Sixth avenue N. from Oak Lake eastward, and other streets.

The work of laying concrete foundation for the paving of Vine place from Grant to Nineteenth street has been begun and is being vigorously pushed.

Asphalt operations began this morning on the concrete being prepared. It has been narrowed by moving the curbs ten feet over on each side, and the pavers now have the right of way.

COURT NEWS

MIND MILL MOVES

University Work for the Fall Begun in Earnest This Morning.

President Northrop Gives Wholesome Advice to Students New and Old.

This was opening day at the university, and the campus presented an animated scene. The new students, who had just arrived, went to and from their classes. The work was principally confined to registration and assignment of work, no recitations being held.

The chief event was President Northrop's address in chapel, in which he welcomed all and gave the new and old students wholesome words of advice. Chapel was crowded with the new students anxious for the first glimpse of their president, who chose for his subject, "Life for us all is what we make it." He spoke of the environments of the university, which were so conducive to the formation of character and which lay such a prominent part in the students' everyday life. He admonished the freshmen to start right by attending strictly to their duties as students, not allowing any outside pleasures to interfere with such work. The usual admonition to refrain from class or other work was given to the freshmen, and they were cautioned against using the university buildings for class rushes and contests.

President Northrop deplored the lack of suitable accommodations around the university for the young ladies, and hoped that before another year a dormitory of some kind might be given to the freshmen, and they were cautioned against using the university buildings for class rushes and contests.

The registration so far has reached 2,175 and still the rush continues. There was a long line in front of the registrar's office at noon.

VERY RARE STAMPS

Exhibit Here Attracts Much Attention Among Philatelists of the City.

Half Tones Showing a Few of the Rarer Specimens That Are Shown.

The accompanying cuts illustrate some of the gems of a valuable collection of the rare stamps of the United States which have recently arrived in this city. They were sent by A. W. Bacheider of the New England Stamp company of Boston for the inspection of the members of the local branch of the American Philatelic association, and will be shown to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock at the club house.

The stamp showing a rough likeness of George Washington in Millbury, which is worth about $1,000. It was issued by the postmaster of Millbury, Mass., who could not wait until the government got around to issuing postage stamps, which was not until 1847. The specimen owned by the New England Stamp company is a "reconstructed sheet" of St. Louis provisionals, which are in the same class as the Millbury. Among the other United States provisionals in the collection, but which could not be satisfactorily reproduced, are a rare New York carrier stamp, a British one-cent stamp, a Louisiana pelure paper. The latter is held at about $1,500. Rarer even than this, however, is a Livingston, provisional, the scarcest of its kind in existence. Two others, issued during the civil war by the postmasters of many southern cities. This is held at $2,000. It is shown on the original envelope, which, with many collectors, increases its value.

Of the regular issues of the United States, there are three of the 1889 date, with inverted centers. The 15c, 24 and 30-cent denominations of this issue were printed like the late Pan-American stamps, in two colors, the center being inverted, illustrating some historical scene. In running the sheets thru the press the second time, some were turned wrong end foremost, causing the center to be inverted and giving the stamp a topsy-turvy appearance. The 30-cent now in the city is unused, and there is only one other of its kind in existence. Two other rare stamps are the 5 and 30-cent denominations of the 1888 issue, "grilled" all over.

No stamps of equal value have ever been shown in this city before, and the stamp collectors, who, by the way, are much more numerous than people are aware of, are much interested. The sixteen stamps in the exhibit are insured at $5,000 and are worth $10,000.

RAISE LAKE LEVELS

How Minneapolis Can Keep Harriet and Calhoun at Any Height Desired.

City Can Also Double Volume of Water at 'Haha Falls—Expense Slight.

At an expense of a few thousand dollars Hennepin county can drain 1,000 acres of swamp land, regulate the water level of Cedar Lake, Lake of the Isles, Lakos Calhoun and Harriet to any height desired, double the amount of water passing over Minnehaha Falls and do away with expense and the drainage of Bassett's creek thru North Minneapolis.

F. M. Henry, a local civil engineer, has discovered a scheme possible which makes the suggestion amply backed by topographical data to show that it is practicable, the no survey for the express purpose has been made.

Mr. Henry would accomplish the results stated by means of a drainage ditch diverting Bassett's creek at Golden Valley and carrying it, as shown in the accompanying map, a distance of three and a half miles to Cedar lake. According to the United States topographical survey, which is recent and the most accurate information possible to obtain, Bassett's creek at the point indicated is about thirty-six feet higher than the level of Cedar lake. This would give a fall of ten feet to the mile, which would carry the water of the creek easily and without the necessity of a very large ditch. The total cost of this ditch, Mr. Henry estimates, would not be more than $5,000 or $7,000.

A short ditch would connect Cedar lake with Lake of the Isles, and by its means the height of Cedar lake could be absolutely regulated, the surplus going into Lake of the Isles. In like manner, after bringing Lake of the Isles up to the proper level, it could be drained by the aid of a short ditch into Lake Calhoun. By raising the level of Calhoun, it would be made to discharge into Lake Harriet again by the surface channel, and this could be dammed so as to regulate the height of Calhoun.

Good Thing for 'Haha.
Eventually the surplus water would find of these benefits to the city as a whole died at the city hospital Monday. Funeral command at least a respectful and careful treatment of Mr. Henry's suggestion. It has already been broached to some members of the city council and the park board, and has been received by them with enthusiasm. Those who have looked into the idea are confident that it will be endorsed by the general public as soon as it is explained and understood. The benefits to be derived are big with importance to the future of Minneapolis.

REASONS WHY MY MOTHER SHOULD USE A BUCK'S STEEL RANGE:
I. It is the most durable.
Heavy one-piece bodies protected where heat is most intense with asbestos board, and extra heavy ovens in all grades insure every Buck's Range being thoroughly durable.

II. It is the most economical in operation.
Heavy asbestos board prevents outward radiation where heat is not needed, and in consequence no heat is wasted.

III. Its superior ovens.
One weight, and that the heaviest, is used in all grades. The buckle-proof bottom does away with the necessity for using bolts and rivets in oven bottoms, always insuring a smooth bottom.

IV. The quickest bakers.
The ovens are sufficiently heavy that asbestos protection is not necessary on top, which prevents quick results in ovens in general. White enamel, the best known non-conductor of heat used for this purpose, is used for lining oven doors, retaining much heat in the oven that is usually absorbed by the door and radiated outward.

V. The moderate price.
Their being but one grade, so far as weight and quality of ovens and bodies is concerned, a medium or low priced Buck's is always the equal of the highest grade of any other line made.

CAPT. E. P. PERKINS DEAD
Honored Veteran of the Old First Minnesota Regiment Passes Away.

Captain Elliot Parker Perkins of the old First Minnesota died at 2019 Oakland avenue yesterday. Captain Perkins was born at Stowe, Vt., July 24, 1838. He came to Minnesota in 1855 and settled at Clearwater, from which place he enlisted as a private in Company D of the old First on Lincoln's first call for troops. He was mustered into the company for three years or during the war as corporal. He served in the First regiment throughout all the campaigns of the Army of the Potomac up to December, 1864, when he was mustered out as captain on account of disability from wounds.

He was colonel sergeant at Antietam, Fredericksburg and Chancellorville. At Gettysburg—in the immortal charge of the Old First, on July 2, where the regiment charged the First of Longstreet's division and held that entire division for thirty minutes—Perkins carried the colors and was severely wounded. The Old First went into that charge with 265 officers and men; all but 47 were killed or wounded. Not a man surrendered. General Hancock gave the First the credit of saving Little Round Top—and the fate of that hard-fought day.

As soon as Captain Perkins' wound permitted him to report for duty he was promoted to second lieutenant, and a few months afterwards to captain. He was a brave soldier and a model man, and was loved by all of the "old boys" of the First.

Captain Perkins has been a resident of Minneapolis since 1878 and was for years in the United States mail service, and recently in charge of registered mail at the Minneapolis postoffice. Several years ago he was stricken with almost total blindness. He had but recently recovered the sight of one of his eyes. He was stricken with paralysis a few days ago and died last evening.

The funeral will be held at 2019 Oakland avenue, Thursday at 2 p. m. All surviving members of the "Old First" are earnestly invited to attend.
