

FOOTBALL PLAY VERY RAGGED

Varsity Makes a Wretched Showing in Football Practice—Several Regulars Are Absent.

Hjelland Makes a Splendid Showing at Center—Scrubs Score on First Team.

As usual on Monday afternoon, the football practice at the university yesterday was quite ragged. Strathern Schacht and Hoyt were not out. Davies and Thorpe were out in citizens' clothes, and followed the scrimmage. Harris also was on the side lines. His injured elbow will keep him out of the game for two or three weeks. Ricker started at center on the varsity, with Big Smith and Patee at guards, Burdick and Warren at tackles, Rogers and Marshall, ends; O'Brien, quarter; Bergen and Irfield, halves, and Hjelland at fullback. On the scrubs were Hjelland, center; Russell and Jones, guards; Oech and Brown, tackles; Hunter and Gans, ends; Little Smith, quarter; Nelson and Weissel, halves, and Kremer, fullback.

The surprise of the day was the work of Hjelland, who until last night has been playing on the second team, and has not done particularly brilliant work. Last night, however, Hjelland tore up the varsity line repeatedly, breaking through both Ricker and Big Smith time and again. The scrubs scored a touchdown on the varsity, a fumble by Rogers giving the second team the ball within easy striking distance of the goal line. The varsity linemen, except Big Smith and Patee, played too high. Rogers and Marshall were both inclined to play too high, and played harder than usual. Hunter at left end did splendid work on the defensive, and the varsity backs were unable to gain around him. Russell gave Patee a hard game, and Oech at tackle kept Burdick hustling all the time. Kremer also played harder than usual. Ricker and Hjelland exchanged places toward the end of the practice, and Ricker did better work on the scrubs than on the varsity. O'Brien played well at quarter, and the rest of the backs did well, but the weakness of the line prevented Bergen and Irfield from gaining much ground. Luce did good work on defense.

CHICAGO'S PLAY VERY RAGGED

Work of Stagg's Men Decidedly Off Color

Chicago, Sept. 22.—The hot, thirsty weather prevailed through the middle west yesterday, the various coaches put their candidates through hard practice just the same. The game between the varsity and the reserves would have been a great deal more of the weather man if he would mix a little frost into the air.

At Chicago the men were put through a long practice in running back punts. The work, when the men lined up for scrimmage later was very ragged. In the scrimmage practice, none of the men shone with particular luster. In fact, the work was rather colorless. Neither side could score. The ball changed hands repeatedly in the middle of the field and there was much punting.

The Northwestern team will have a stiff practice this afternoon when the Fort Sheridan team appears on Sheppard Field. The soldiers are heavy and strong, but will probably be no match for the superior condition and methods of McCormack's men.

Work of the Northwestern-Illinois game has not yet been decided on. If neither team, or if one team, is still unbeaten by the date of the game, it will be played in Chicago. If Chicago beats both Northwestern and the Illinois, however, the game will be a much greater event in the campaign than in Chicago, and hence will be played there.

WILL PLAY ECKERSALL

Coach Stagg Ignores Ruling of A. A. U. Officials.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—"I shall most certainly use Eckersall if I choose to do so, regardless of the ultimatum issued by President Liginer of the A. A. U.," said Coach A. A. Stagg of the University of Chicago. In making this statement Coach Stagg leaves no doubt as to the issue between the A. A. U. and the conference colleges and makes it plain that the struggle which has long been pending between the A. A. U. and the colleges is up for a definite settlement.

"The A. A. U. has no business with this affair," continued the coach. "The A. A. U. is not making rules for the conference colleges, and has nothing to do with the control of college athletics. All that we are concerned in knowing is whether Eckersall is eligible under the college rules. So long as he is eligible we shall use him, no matter what President Liginer threatens, and we shall not wait for some board in New York to act before using him, either. I do not want a quarrel with the A. A. U., and I do not want to take a position that appears 'sassy,' but there is no question as to our rights."

IOWA LACKS BIG MEN

Scarcity of Candidates for Tackle and Guard.

Iowa City, Iowa, Sept. 22.—The scarcity of big men to fill the line positions at Iowa is one of the hard problems which are facing Coach A. A. Stagg. The back positions and the ends have a fairly good bunch of candidates, but for the tackle and guard positions there is a scarcity of men. Chalmers is a specialist for big men in his line positions, and the lack of material is disappointing to him.

Bert Watters and the '99 and '00 teams, joined the squad yesterday morning and began his last year of football work at Camp Linder. Allen

BASEBALL LOSE THE LAST GAME

Millers Drop the Final Contest of the Season to the Brewers.

Ninth Inning Rally Comes Too Late to Save the Day—Converse Hit Hard.

Princeton, N. J., Sept. 22.—About thirty-five men reported at the Tiger gridiron yesterday for the first hard practice of the season. After giving the men a short routine in hand plays on the ball and catching punts, Coach Hillebrand lined up the first team against the scrubs. No tackling was allowed, but the practice was rough, for the new material is not expected to come out until next Wednesday. The first practice game with the scrubs will be played on Wednesday. When asked when the training table for the players would be started, Coach Hillebrand said that the table would begin next Wednesday night. The order of lineup of the first team was as follows:

HARVARD LOOKS BETTER

Prospects of the Crimson Eleven Growing Brighter.

Cambridge, Mass., Sept. 22.—Things looked better with the Harvard football squad on Soldiers' field yesterday. There were two seasons again and considerable work was done. The squad of fifty-seven was divided into three divisions in the morning, each division had a turn at tackling the dummy for the first time this year and much time was taken to signal practice in the afternoon. In the afternoon the ends went down under punts for the first time, but did not tackle the catchers. It was expected that a scrimmage would be held between the first and second elevens in the afternoon, but on account of the hot weather it was postponed until today.

There was an important change in the first eleven. Jack Parkinson, center on the varsity, was replaced by a freshman eleven, went in at right tackle. He is a fact, a sturdy, well built close to the ground, and he is excellent material for a squad. He looks like the most likely new man on the varsity squad. Several men returned yesterday who are expected to do things. Clothier, Bowditch's substitute at right end last year, and the other men who did some good work in going down under punts.

HARD WORK AT URBANA

Illinois Squad Does Some Fierce Scrimmage Work.

Urbana, Ill., Sept. 22.—The Illinois squad did another fierce scrimmage last evening on Illinois field. It was the antithesis of football weather, but the candidates for the orange and blue varsity line in hand. Coach Woodruff was applauded by the rooters when he took a place in the back field and mixed up in the game. He is a fact, a sturdy, well built close to the ground, and he is excellent material for a squad. He looks like the most likely new man on the varsity squad. Several men returned yesterday who are expected to do things. Clothier, Bowditch's substitute at right end last year, and the other men who did some good work in going down under punts.

Captain Redden Hopeful

Ladingsburg, S. C., Sept. 22.—I'm not discouraged," is Captain Redden's plucky answer to all questions as to the U. of M. football team. "I believe we will have a better team now than the other teams. We've got Yost, who knows more football than any other man in the country. He has more than half the battle. When we can learn the new rules just as easily as the other teams, we will have an even stronger team than we had last year. When the game is over, as there will be a strong fight up there."

Milwaukee, Sept. 22.—Milwaukee lost the last game of the season to the brewers yesterday. Converse was batted freely, but kept the awails well enough scattered to keep the score close. Utah Lake Project Now Being Carefully Considered by Federal Irrigation Authorities.

From a Staff Correspondent.
Salt Lake City, Utah, Sept. 21.—The Mormons are not progressive agriculturists. Co-operation has blunted their ambition. There is no incentive to individual effort. The average member of the church, which has its strength in the rural communities, has ten or twenty acres of land. He raises enough to support himself and family and that is as far as ambition carries him. If arguments were needed against co-operation and in favor of individual effort, the state would be a good example. The average member of the church has ten or twenty acres of land. Major Dejar reduced the record for trotting geldings to 2:04.

Prince Alfred clipped a quarter of a second from the record of Dan Patch, so that the half-mile track record for pacers is now 2:03.

The Monk and Equity, driven by Mr. Billings, reduced the record for trotters in double harness from 2:12 to 2:04.

Sadie Mc. reduced the record for 3-year-old trotting fillies in a race to 2:14.

Lou Dillon reduced the high wheel sulky record to 2:08.

Creuscutt set the trotting record for a half-mile track at 2:08.

Lou Dillon placed the record for trotting harness in a race at 2:04.

SILVER SPRAY, POACHER

Fishing Craft Is Again Pursued by the Petrel.

Erle, Pa., Sept. 22.—The fishing tug Silver Spray, Captain Schau, which on Aug. 12 had an exciting encounter with the British patrol boat Petrel, had another narrow escape from capture. While cruising about in close proximity to the boundary line, it was overtaken by the Petrel and loomed into view through the fog. The man on the lookout immediately gave the alarm and a full head of steam was crowded onto the Spray. After a short chase she escaped.

"They didn't get us this time. They will have to get a faster boat than they have now to take the Spray into port. If the Petrel attempts to pull out into American waters she finds in Canadian waters it will take her two weeks."
