

WILL RISE FROM STORM'S RUINS

Logan's saloon, a few doors from the Ebens place, suffered the same fate, and two persons met their death here. Ed Peters of Dover and the bartender were killed in the collapse. So deep were they buried under the ruins that it was several hours before their bodies were recovered.

W. O. Crittenden, a farmer, was in his wagon, ready to drive home. He had a plow in the wagon. The wind lifted the plow and drove the shaft through his neck, almost severing his head. William Mitchell had his hand on Crittenden's shoulder when the latter was killed, but escaped.

George Jesson, a farmer, was struck with a brick. He was removed to his house, where he died an hour later. His wife and child escaped without injury.

Frightful Injuries.
Jacob Hoem, a farmer living east of the city, was caught by falling logs and so badly injured that he died. All his farm buildings were wrecked.

Neil Pike, reported killed, is alive. He is so badly injured, however, that there is little or no hope for his recovery. P. H. B. is reported to have had some chance for recovery.

S. Merrifield is perhaps fatally injured. He was picked up by the wind and carried 300 feet into the air. He struck the ground with terrific force, and was injured internally.

Judge Ned Gould, at St. Charles, sustained broken legs and is in critical condition. He was caught in the collapse of the Logan building, as was also Charles Crippens, whose legs were amputated.

Mr. and Mrs. Rollins, the latter with a baby in her arms, were blown into a cellar. The mother's shoulder and ankle were dislocated and the baby's face badly bruised.

A conservative estimate of the property damage places the loss at $300,000. As near as could be ascertained, there was not more than $40,000 worth of tornado insurance carried in the village.

Escapes Boding on the Miraculous.
Hendee & Sively's big wagon factory was almost completely destroyed, but the employees sought refuge in the basement and escaped injury. Mr. Sively was working in the upper portion of the building at the time the storm broke, and escape to the basement was cut off. He crowded close to one of the beams, which remained standing. The heavy roofing timbers fell on all sides, but he escaped without a scratch.

The Scott building, occupied by Dr. Scott and the Northwestern Telephone exchange, was almost blown to pieces. Dr. Scott and three telephone girls were in the building at the time, and in a manner almost miraculous they escaped injury, also they were held prisoners in the debris for several hours.

L. Sheridan's jewelry store was practically filled when the storm began. Many who had taken refuge there escaped, but two persons were buried in the ruins. The building was of light construction, and to this fact it is probably due that no person was killed outright.

Brockway's Skull Fractured.
The building occupied by the St. Charles Furniture company went down early and in it several persons had narrow escapes. Manager Brockway was struck on the head by a falling timber and his skull fractured. There is little hope for his recovery.

One of the wings of the high school building was completely demolished and three persons were killed in a manner which even they are unable to explain.

The Great Western station was wrecked and the roof of the steel elevator torn off. The residence of C. Sorenson was completely demolished and the opera-house and other buildings were more or less battered by the fury of the storm.

Blankenburg's elevator suffered damage and the stone Catholic church was almost razed. In all fourteen stores on Main street either went down before the storm or were so damaged that they are unfit for habitation, and fifty-two residences suffered more or less injury. Farrot's wagon works were struck and a part of the building blown away.

In Spencer's saloon, young Spencer jumped under a billiard table and was unhurt, although the building was a total wreck. "Negro Cal" crawled out from under the ruins unhurt.

A Little Insurance.
In the entire city there are but three houses with no signs of the tornado, all others have at least broken windows. Hendee & Sively's loss will amount to $15,000; St. Charles Furniture company $3,000; Williams & Ross, $1,000; Sheridan $10,000; Dr. Scott, $3,000; Chris Sorenson, $5,000.

There was a little cyclone insurance. J. A. Uppel has a $2,000 policy to cover $1,000 loss, and C. Sorenson has a little to cover $1,000 loss. Hendee & Sively had $1,500 insurance. The Catholic church was insured for $50,000, with a loss of $10,000. The fire engine house was also destroyed.

Thieves at Work.
Many thieves were on the ground and many valuables were stolen. Sheridan's jewelry store was the most. Many persons were caught in the act of taking away silverware and articles of value. Guards were stationed to watch the premises and thieves could not be driven away, as there was no place to keep prisoners.

There were many narrow escapes. One of those most miraculous was that of Mrs. Ed Drew and daughter. The

IT'S A MISTAKE
To Attribute Coffee Ills to Poor Grades of Coffee.

Many people lay all the blame for the diseases caused by coffee upon the poorer grades of coffee, but this is an error as the following proves: "I have used every kind of the best grade of tea and coffee that can be got from a first-class grocer, but never found one that would not upset my nervous system and it was not until I began to drink Postum Food Coffee in place of coffee and tea that I had relief from the terrific attacks of nervous sick headache from which I had suffered for thirty years.

"I had tried all kinds of medicines but none helped me.

"Soon after I stopped drinking coffee and began to drink Postum the headaches grew less and it was not long until I was entirely cured and I have never had a return of this distressing trouble for nowadays I never drink coffee but stick to Postum.

"As soon as my wife saw what Postum had done for me she gave up coffee which she had drunk all her life. This was six weeks ago, and she is a changed woman for her nervousness has all disappeared, her face has become smooth and her cheeks have a good, rosy red color. She sleeps well, too, something she could never do while she drank coffee. We consider Postum a household necessity in my house and have induced many friends to try this wonderful food drink in place of coffee." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

house was blown twenty-five feet and stood on end, but the inmates came out of it unharmed. The force of the storm could be judged yesterday, when it was seen that many large trees had been pulled up by the roots.

Clasping His Dog.
In clearing away the debris of Logan's saloon, where William Vest was killed, the rescuers came across a strange sight. They were attracted to one side of the ruins by the howling of a dog. When they dug down they found Vest dead, with the dog tightly clasped in his arms. Several heavy timbers had fallen across the young man, apparently crushing his life out instantly. The dog escaped serious hurts. Vest was a comparative stranger in St. Charles.

A. Sheridan had a unique experience. She was sitting in one of the living rooms over the jewelry store when the storm broke. The wall she was facing was sucked off the building in an instant, giving her a clear view of what was happening in the street. She hurried downstairs, out of the building, a few seconds before it came to the ground with a crash.

Another Freak of the Storm.
One of the strangest incidents of the storm involves the death of Dr. George Jesson, a dentist. He was working over a man in the dentist's office. The first wind struck one of them, and in an instant the side of the building nearest the chair was torn off. Mr. Jesson was hurled to his death, and the occupant of the chair was carried a distance of nearly three blocks and severely injured, but will recover.

Order From Chaos.
The people of St. Charles are already at work repairing the ruins. Wreckage was being cleared away yesterday, preparatory for building roofs being shingled and other repairs made. So far as can be learned the entire city will be rebuilt. The only doubt is in regard to the St. Charles Furniture company.

So quickly was the work of repair begun that the telephone lines were straightened out by noon and the Chicago Great Western had a temporary station and telegraph office fixed up by 3 o'clock.

Special trains from the surrounding towns brought in over 5,000 visitors to St. Charles yesterday, and more were clamoring to go, but trains could not be provided.

Many farm buildings were badly damaged and all those owned by John Simons at Altura were destroyed.

The Calamity at Independence.
The storm proceeded through Bethan, Altura, Rolling Stone and across the river into Wisconsin. It died out after passing Independence, where the damage is estimated at $100,000. A farm house about half a mile this side of Independence was demolished and an old man was caught in the falling debris and killed.

Another death was that of a boy employed in the elevator, a stick of wood being driven thru his head. Many were injured, two or three of them fatally. The new city hall was demolished, also a large grain elevator and warehouse, a brick creamery and ten houses.

At Eagle Valley the Reformed church was destroyed and houses on the prairie were demolished.

About five miles from St. Charles the house and barn of John Patterson were blown down and his son was seriously injured and his daughter had a leg broken.

THREE DEAD AT PRINCETON
All of Them Members of One Family—Another Injured.

Princeton, Ill., Oct. 5.—A cyclone here passed two miles southeast of this city, killing three persons and destroying a large amount of farm property. The dead: Mrs. F. Sherwin, Mrs. M. J. J. and Miss Emma Welsh of Tikilwa.

Charles F. Sherwin received serious internal injuries.

The storm traveled in an easterly direction to the residence of Mr. Sherwin, where the three women in the house at the time were killed and Mr. Sherwin, who was about to enter the house, was seriously injured.

CLOSE TO GRAND MEADOW
Several Farmers Lost Their Buildings and Stacks.

Grand Meadow, Minn., Oct. 5.—A tornado passed within one and a half miles of Grand Meadow, Saturday afternoon. Farm buildings and several residences were destroyed. Many persons were seriously hurt as far as can be learned.

The storm demolished the new 100-room residence of George Kuhn, three miles southwest of town. The buildings on the farms belonging to Ole Pinhart and John Wagner were also destroyed. Damage was done to buildings belonging to George Berg, Herman Berg, C. F. Greening and others, and to grain in stacks. Groves of trees were laid flat.

TWO WOMEN INJURED
Half a Dozen Buildings Wrecked at Inwood, Iowa.

Special to The Journal.
Canton, S. D., Oct. 5.—The rain and wind storm which passed over this locality carried disaster over a large area of country and rose to a terrific height at Inwood, Iowa, ten miles east of this city.

At that point some half-dozen buildings were wrecked, Gensen's lumber yard was completely demolished, and much other damage done. Many store fronts were blown in and goods destroyed.

Miss Searle Brown, daughter of a local business man, and Miss Harshorn, teacher in the public schools, received serious, but not fatal, injuries from flying timbers.

Fairview and Harrisburg, small towns in this county, were also visited with destructive results. Great damage was also done in the track of the storm to farm property. The loss will reach into the thousands of dollars.

IN NORTHERN WISCONSIN
Deluge of Rain and High Winds Do Much Damage.

Ashland, Wis., Oct. 5.—This section was visited by one of the heaviest storms in years. The rain fell in torrents, deluging the streets and causing much damage.

After the rain storm subsided a fierce wind storm prevailed for several hours. Thousands of feet of lumber were blown into the bay from the docks.

At the little towns of Marengo and Sanborn, south of here, the wind was almost equal to a tornado. Large trees were uprooted and many small buildings were blown from foundations.

FIVE KILLED IN THIS STORM
Tornado Over Sections Adjacent to Waupaca, Wis.

Waupaca, Wis., Oct. 5.—The tornado which struck Blaine and Almond last night killed five persons near Sheridan and blew down twenty buildings. Other persons may have met death.

The dead: M. R. Myhoy, Mark Wood, Mrs. Fisher, Mrs. Cippely, girl, unknown.

The way in which these persons met death is not known, except in the case of Mrs. Cippely, who was in her house, which is reported to have been blown down in its ruins.

A barn on the Appery farm, filled with grain, was blown to atoms, and not a grain of it has been found.

Buildings at Scandinavia were blown down.

In a field in the course of the storm $1,100 in money was picked up, apparently having been blown there by the storm.

Two Drowned in Green Lake.
A speck from Ripon, Wis., says two men, names unknown, were drowned in Green lake by their boat being capsized while fishing during Saturday's storm. Two houses, several barns and several windmills were blown down five miles west of Ripon.

SOME DAMAGE IN ROCK COUNTY
Farm Buildings Destroyed and Stacks of Grain Scattered.

Special to The Journal.
Luverne, Minn., Oct. 5.—In Clinton and Martin townships, southeast of this city, Saturday's storm took the shape of a terrific, wrecking fury, blowing buildings and windmills and leveling unthreshed grain in stacks. Whole settings of grain were literally torn to pieces. On the farm of J. A. Eberlin all the buildings except the house were destroyed. On the farm of J. McFarland a large new barn was moved from its foundation and all the outbuildings were blown down. The storm at this point was about a half a mile wide and three miles long.

Numerous losses from lightning are also reported. One of Holme's barns containing all of his horses and cattle and a large quantity of hay, was struck and burned, together with all its contents.

Threshing, which is now about half completed, will be delayed for some time.

THE MORMON CONFERENCE
It Opened Yesterday at Salt Lake With an Attendance of Fully 15,000.

Salt Lake, Utah, Oct. 5.—The seventy-fourth semi-annual conference of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, now being held in this city, is attended by a greater number of Mormons than any similar gathering in the history of the church. Fully 15,000 followers of Joseph Smith attended the opening exercises yesterday. They filled the immense tabernacle and crowded the capacious assembly hall while open air exercises were held for those unable to enter either of these buildings.

The principal speakers were President Joseph Smith, head of the Mormon church, and Apostle Heber J. Grant, who recently returned from a mission to Japan. A general plan to all saints to get out of debt and a glowing description of the flourishing condition of the church were the themes of the address by Mr. Smith. The progress of the church in Japan and the advances of the inhabitants of that country are making constituted the cardinal features of the address of Apostle Grant. He said he suspected that the attendance which the missionaries have upon their meetings in Japan is due not so much to the natives of that country desiring to embrace the Mormon faith as to their wish to obtain their selves with the English language.

THROW STOCK OVER
Employees of United States Steel Co. Have Been Unloading.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 5.—Many of the employees of the Carnegie Steel company, who took the bulk of the 60,000 shares of stock sold by the United States Steel corporation to its employees, have been unloading in their purchases since the trust stocks went down, and using their savings to speculate on margins in steel preferred.

Since the preferred stock fell below $22.50, from fifteen to twenty applications have been filed daily at the office of the Carnegie Steel company, by employees who wished to sell their holdings and be relieved of further payments.

Those placing applications with the company to sell their stock were in such case given back the money they had subscribed to date, plus the earnings, so that none of the holders has lost a dollar, but are ahead of the deal.

HERE'S A NEW ONE
Self Ventilating Hats Proposed as Cure for Baldness.

New York Sun Special Service.
Toledo, Oct. 5.—The chamber of commerce is interested in the proposed company for the manufacture of hats and caps so ventilated that they will prevent baldness. Luther Sturwatt, a local man, is the inventor, and for years has made a study of the cause of baldness, which he claims is unventilated hats. The hats are so constructed that the wind can whistle thru, or by means of a roller slide those who wish to have a cooler ventilator at will. The chamber and the inventor have taken up the scheme in good faith and are organizing a company to manufacture the hats.

ELECTION IS CLOSE
Premier McBride Much Encouraged by the Late Returns.

Vancouver, B. C., Oct. 5.—Late returns in the provincial election Saturday somewhat alter the relative position of the two parties in the legislature, as indicated at midnight. Many of the late returns indicate the election of twenty-two conservatives, eighteen liberals and two socialists.

The government, which at first conceded defeat, is now in hope that the complete returns, which are slowly received, will leave the conservatives in control. The Premier, Mr. McBride, is encouraged to continue in office.

Light Fall of Snow.
Special to The Journal.
Fergus Falls, Minn., Oct. 5.—The first snow storm of the season occurred Sunday, falling steadily for three hours. Farm work has received another serious setback.

Morris, Minn., Oct. 5.—The first snow storm of the season visited this vicinity yesterday morning.

Losses About Spring Valley.
Special to The Journal.
Spring Valley, Minn., Oct. 5.—A tornado passed west of here Saturday afternoon. Kneal Moulster's farmhouse and cream-house were completely demolished and the tenants, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Evers and two children, were more or less hurt. Mr. Evers receiving a broken leg. William Alberts lost his grain and outbuildings. Henry Schroeder lost his house and all outbuildings and is reported to have received serious injuries. The stone schoolhouse in Sumner township was laid low. Seibert Leonard, a farmer, lost all of his possessions.

BEAR IS WATCHING OUT MANIAC ON SHIPBOARD
So Far, However, Japan's Movement of Troops Does Not Constitute an Unfriendly Act.

Paris, Oct. 5.—The Russian government has made it known that Japan's mobilization of troops for transportation to Korea does not up to today constitute an unfriendly act against Russia. At the same time the Russian government is being kept fully advised as to the extent and nature of Japan's military and naval mobilization. It appears from these official sources that Japan thus far has embarked three divisions of troops. The Japanese fleet is now between Chemulpo and Pusan.
