CLAIMS ARE LARGE CLIP CLAIMS OF VICE NEW CONCERT COURSE

A Receiver Is Named for the Minneapolis Cold Storage Company.

Liabilities Will Be About $400,000 With Assets Estimated at $280,000.

Jacob Kunz of the Kunz Oil company, this city, has been appointed receiver of the Minneapolis Cold Storage company, as the result of a petition filed by creditors asking that the storage company be declared bankrupt. The appointment was made by Judge Lochren of the United States district court, who has ordered the company's representatives to appear before him on Oct. 21, and whose cause the petition should not be granted. The signers of the petition are the president of the company, A. L. Flanders of Boston, whose claims are placed at $21,459; the Iowa Dairy Separator company, with claims of $8,000; S. H. Thompson, who demands $854; and the Kunz Oil company, which asks for $321. The petition alleges that the value of the company's stock on hand is $5,000 and that the value of its machinery is $15,000. As ground for this petition, the signers declare that the storage company, being practically bankrupt a month ago, has since that time entered into various transactions that would be prejudicial to the interests of creditors, and especially that the company has mortgaged all its assets, except its merchandise, to Stephen Underhill of New York, to secure a claim of $25,000.

Liabilities About $400,000.

Receiver Kunz said this morning that the liabilities of the Storage company are about $400,000, of which nearly seven-eighths are due to lenders. The principal creditors are Steuben Underhill, a New York commission man; his claims amount to $25,000, and he holds a second mortgage on the property of the company for $110,000. The indebtedness of the company in the west is about $55,000, with bank liabilities of less than $4,000. The company's principal business of the company owes to farmers does not exceed $22,000, yet three months ago the same plant furnished $33,000 for cream supplied in a single month, the principal business of the company being the manufacture of cream into butter. Nothing is due to the butter trade in Minnesota.

The assets are about $280,000. What proportion is made up of accounts receivable cannot now be designated. Of the authorized capital stock of $1,500,000 $71,000 has been issued. It is held exclusively by President Flanders of Boston, former of Boston, and Treasurer S. M. Rich of Minneapolis, and by the families of Messrs. Flanders and Rich. The latter has already been pledged in the east to secure a loan of $50,000.

Did a Large Business.

The company has been doing a creamery business for about three years. It has branches at Ardmore, S. D., at Fargo, N. D., and at Wahpeton, N. D. Its transactions have recently amounted to $250,000 a month. Its method of selling separately to farmers, who sent cream to the several plants for manufacture into butter, has proved so admirable, under the supervision of Vice President McMullen, that no less than eighty-two other plants have been started within three years on the plan first developed by Mr. McMullen.

Inability to collect on farmers' notes, of which about $35,000 are now outstanding, is given by Mr. McMullen as the cause of the company's distress. He declares, however, that in all probability the concern will be able to continue business.

"If it isn't," he adds, "a similar company will at once be started to retain in Minneapolis the industry into which we have put so much money."

LABOR DISPUTE ABBITRATED

Trouble Between Beer Barrel Coopers and Employers Ended.

The long drawn out fight between the beer barrel coopers of Minneapolis and the shop owners has been settled by arbitration, says the vice president of the men accept the schedule of wages in force in 1901, which is something of a reduction, compared with that of 1902. The attempt of some of the men to strike to run a co-operative shop, seems to have been a total failure. They worked up considerable stock and then were unable to sell the pole to their own coopers on their hands. Four of the large shop owners are fitting a plant with machinery, and the men are expected to keenly feel the effect of it. They could not count on the turning out of 200 packages per day. Heretofore the work has all been done by hand, and the shop owners are sure that they could not compete against machine-made packages coming from Peoria and other outside points.

The directors of the Twin City Telephone company have declared a quarterly dividend at the rate of 7 per cent, payable Nov. 1. Stock books will be closed Oct. 26 and open again Nov. 1.

HIS INJURIES FATAL

A Young Minneapolis Man Crushed Beneath Wagon Wheels.

Frank A. Andrews of 527 Fifth street SE, died yesterday at Napoleon, N. D., from accidental injuries received on Tuesday. With James Gillilan of this city, he was driving across country in a heavy wagon when he was jolted from the seat and two wheels passed over his chest. His brother, George C. Andrews, was notified by wire and left at once for Napoleon accompanied by Dr. Wilcox and a trained nurse, but the injured man died a few hours before their arrival.

Mr. Andrews was 26 years of age and the son of Mrs. T. S. Andrews of this city. A year ago he was married to Miss Catherine Gerhard.

THE BLIND NEED ROOM

The Board of Control Appealed To for Another Building.

George P. Flannery of Minneapolis, B. B. Sheffield of Fairbault, and J. J. Dow, superintendent of the school for the blind, waited on the state board of control yesterday in behalf of the board of trustees of the Fairbault schools, urging the imperative need of a new building, for which the legislature appropriated $16,000. The board of control has not favored the erection of the building, believing the present one could be made suitable in need of the room, but the arguments of the delegation will be considered by the board.

RUN OVER BY STEAMER

Charles H. McLean Run Down by Fire Engine—May Die.

Charles H. McLean, a watchmaker living at 201 Twelfth street S, was seriously injured by being run over by a fire engine last night. The engine was responding to an alarm that night and Nicollet avenue and was going down the street at a high rate of speed when McLean attempted to pass in front of the engine. He was struck and his head was fractured. He was taken to the city hospital where it is thought that his injuries will prove fatal.

GOOD LETTER WRITING

Professor Cody Offers Some Good Suggestions on Letter Writing.

The Journal has made arrangements with Mr. Sherwin Cody, the author and expert on English, whose books, "The Art of Writing and Speaking the English Language," have been so well received by the public, to present a series of actual business letters with brief criticisms. It is hoped that this series will prove suggestive and helpful to the business men of Minneapolis, who are invited to send to the Journal their own suggestions and remarks.

Letter Sent Out by Chicago Lumber House.

Dear Sir: (1) Referring to your esteemed (2) favor of November 9th, wherein (3) you state that you have received instructions that a refund on four cars of lumber for Lansing would be made (4) Under date of January (5) 6th, we received $6.00 cash from your Mr. Harper in payment of three (6) cars—Nos. 40555, 28036 (7) and (8) Mr. Wood's order. We are glad to receive the other $2.00 covering the other car (9) at your convenience. Yours truly,

Mr. Cody's Criticism.

1. It has been the custom in the past to capitalize "sir" in "Dear sir" or "very dear sir," and of course no one can say that is incorrect, but the expediency of recent usage is to dispense with capitals as much as possible, and in to-day's business men now employ the usual letter in both "sir" and "dear," following the analogy of "Very truly yours," in which only the first word is capitalized.

2. "Esteemed" is a hackneyed word and means nothing in this case.

3. Why should an antique form like "wherein" be used when the simple and natural "which" serves the purpose just as well? Simplicity is a strong feature in a business letter.

4. Here is a sentence with no subject or predicate. After "referring," what happens? I don't know.

5. Some tell us that abbreviating the months is an insult. That is not true. In the body of a letter like this it is probably best form to spell the months out. In dating a letter most persons abbreviate. We may use "6th" or "simply '6th,'" but assuredly it is awkward to write out "January six," an affectation of some.

6. Except in dates, series of numbers "etc" may be used under ten should always be spelled out, as here. It is better not to write the two ciphers after dollars (as in $6.00), the in advertising the ciphers are used to make the amount look big to the reader. In this letter the ciphers are not only useless, but they may be confusing.

7. In a series of three or more items in the last two are connected by "and," we may place a comma before the "and" as well as between the other items or omit it. Usage is divided. The best where there are three items show that all the items stand in exactly the same relation to what goes before or follows, and that the "and" does not connect merely the two words between which it stands.

8. "Would" should not be used after the first personal pronouns "I" and "we," except to express the idea of willingness, the many persons erroneously employ it on all occasions. "I would be pleased" means "I should be pleased," which is absurd. "Should" is absolutely required to make sense.

9. "Covering the other car," being introduced into the sentence by way of additional explanation should be omitted by commas. Without the commas, "at your convenience" hangs very awkwardly at the end of the sentence.

—Sherwin Cody.
